Outside doors should be kept closed as much as possible. Elementary pupils, particularly, like to hold outside doors open.

In rooms or areas of buildings that are overheating due to thermostat not working or out of calibration, the teacher should notify the principal and head custodian and a work order should be turned in for adjustment. Work orders will be processed as rapidly as possible.

VANDALISM of thermostats is common in the secondary schools. Everyone's help is needed with this problem. It results in wasted fuel, discomfort for all, costly hours for repair and an expense to the system for new thermostats.

Avoid setting thermostats higher than the desired room temperature. A room will not heat faster, it will only overheat.

The State Board of Education has recommended the following temperature guidelines: Classrooms, 68 degrees; Auditorium, 68 degrees; Cafeteria, 68 degrees; Cafeteria kitchen, 65 degrees; Gym, 60 degrees; Locker and shower rooms, 68 degrees; Shops, 68 degrees or lower; Lavatories, halls and corridors, 60 degrees; Unoccupied areas, 55 degrees.

Have a chart on the school bulletin board or in each classroom which compares monthly gas and electric consumption with previous years. The information needed by each school will be provided.

Heating plants should be lowered to night-time settings at the close of the normal school day. Additional heat should not be furnished for after-school activities except where absolutely essential. The normal retention of heat should be adequate for most after school and evening activities including basketball games.

CONSERVATION OF ELECTRICITY

Specific suggestions for the conserving of electricity offered are:

Turn off incandescent lights as soon as they are not in use.

TURN OFF fluorescent lamps rather than allowing them to burn continuously.

School custodians must turn off lights room by room as they complete their cleaning assignments.

Turn off the bank of lights nearest the window when outside light is adequate.

Reduce the number of lights used for lighting hallways and other large areas to the degree practical. In many cases the fluorescent bulbs can be removed from half the fixtures.

Christmas displays should not include electric lights.

EXISTING AIR conditioning units should be operated only when room temperatures are extreme and only when the room will be used for an extended period of time by the same people.

The consumption of electricity can be more easily regulated than the consumption of heat. At least modest savings can be achieved in all facilities by careful attention to the above suggestions.

CONSERVATION OF GASOLINE

Reports are to the effect that the shortage of crude oil will directly affect the availability and price of gasoline. Potential savings may be obtained by more efficient operations in the transportation of school children. To accomplish this goal consideration should be given to:

Tune and maintain engines, plugs and points.

Clean pollution control devices.

Reduce warm-up time for buses to three minutes prior to starting routes. Drivers should dress warmly rather than running engines at full idle to heat their buses.

The engine should be shut off during the loading or unloading of pupils at schools.

Vehicles should not be

Students Unhappy With Split Sessions

By Elsie V. Weaver

Groveport-The Madison Local School Board, in regular session Monday night, heard student reports on four extra-curricular activities in Madison-Groveport High School, passed a resolution that final action be taken to place a seven million dollar bond issue on the ballot March 19, 1974, reviewed school bus safety on the road since the September opening date and touched briefly on the present energy situation in the school district.

High school principal Charles Bishop introduced the following organization advisors: Barbara Starrett for Future Teachers of America (FTA); National Honor Society, William Alspaugh and Larry Gillam; Student Council, Arthur Siroca and Future Homemakers of America, (FHA) Mrs. Grace Locke. They in turn presented student representatives to the board:

Senior Nancy Pierce, president of FTA, told of the goals of the organization, to develop character and leadership qualities, learning the qualifications for certification to teach, learning what being a teacher actually entails. The later goal was aptly illustrated when the members participated in two days of field experience recently, actually teaching in the schools of the district, and finding out "if you have what it takes to be a teacher."

Joanna Pallos, detailed the aims of FHA, particularly the enrichment of members through many social activities, small but important philanthropies (making tray favors for Children's Hospital, for instance), and the new Big Sister-Little sister set-up of freshman-senior partnership to help alleviate problems due to split sessions. She explained the local and state degree system.

Cindy Craft, Student Council president, emphasized that the Student Council is out to win the approval of those students who say the council does no work. The council is working on issues brought to them by students; for instance, an "open lunches" suggestion is now before the principal. They also hope to get more representatives, in order to give more students the experience of learning rules of government. Open meetings for demonstration purposes are also a possibility. The council president told of being a representative on the Freedoms Pilgrimage at Valley Forge, Penn. in October, citing one of the main purposes as that of arrousing interest in the forthcoming national bicentennial celebration.

The president of the National Honor Society chapter at Madison-Groveport High School, Greg Melick, wants the society to be more active and develop more service projects, especially those which would increase interest in scholarship among the high school students who are not making sufficient effort to be honored scholars. Current activities of the club are acting as tutors for students having trouble with a subject, running the school supply store and the pen, paper, and pencil vending machines.

A discussion ensued among some of the board members and Melick about some ways to encourage higher scholarship, possibly by recognizing good students by awards banquets, or letter G's with the honor society's symbol on them. One of the problems which came out in the discussion was that split sessions interfere with FHA, FFA and honor society's activities. Melick pointed out that, "With split sessions there are no study halls, so we cannot tutor in study halls as we used to do, and the only time left is lunch hour, and people hate to give that up for tutoring."

From the audience, John P. Kiger brought up an incident which he witnessed as he rode on a school bus with a group of first and second graders and their two teachers on a field trip recently. He said that at a railroad crossing, the red warning lights were flashing, a train was in view about a quarter of a mile away, and although there was some question as to whether it was standing on the track or coming toward the crossing, the bus driver proceeded to cross the tracks. Later, Kiger said, the same driver made a U turn across a number of lanes after he missed an intersection at which he should have turned.

Leroy Sexton, the district's supervisor of transportation, said that after he received a letter from Kiger about the event, he discussed it with the bus driver and the two teachers. All agreed that the driver had opened the door and window to observe the train; they also thought the train was not moving. They said a driver in an automobile going across the tracks motioned them across. When Sexton consulted the highway patrol about such a situation, they said if a train is not immediately approaching, it is alright to proceed across the tracks even if the lights are flashing.

In regard to the U turn, even though it operated in excess of 50 miles per hour.

Maintenance and repair jobs should be geographically grouped so as to reduce required driving.

Implement driver education procedures as follows: Reduce the number of miles for each behind-the-wheel lesson. Limit the amount of freeway and open highway driving and reduce the driving speed. Encourage automobile manufacturers to adjust their free loan program to permit greater use of intermediate and smaller size cars. Schools should use intermediate and smaller cars when they are available. Conduct each behind-the-wheel lesson at the vehicle's full capacity of four students and the instructor. Use driving simulation and multiple car off-street driving ranges whenever feasible to reduce on-street behind-the-wheel driving time.

A committee should be formed to develop comprehensive curricular programs and materials related to the conservation of energy.

Discussions should be initiated with the employee organizations related to the possibility of providing an alternative calendar for the remainder of the present school year.

The developing energy crisis should be carefully monitored with the possibility that all after-school activities which require heat should be discontinued.

IN THE EVENT schools must be closed as a result of the energy crisis, all possible advance publicity should be provided through the public media as well as through internal communications. Careful liaison should be maintained with employee organizations, utility companies and the State Department of Education.

Groveport--Two members of the Madison Township Police Department, Lt. Walter Jacklin and Ptl. Andrew Robinson, are attending Advanced Police Investigation School in Cambridge, O.

The two-week school, sponsored by the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification (a bureau of the Attorney General), is intended as advance training for experienced police officers already schooled in basic police functions.

The instructors, experts in their fields, cover such subjects as latent print detection (lifting finger prints) auto theft investigation techniques, crime scene preservation and search, evidence recovery and preservation, firearm ballistic indentification, pry marks (an aid to burglary investigation), and other advanced subjects pertaining to crime investigation and detection.

Among the instructors are selected F.B.I. agents, BCI&I agents and technicians, the Hamilton County coroner (one of the leading experts in the United States on homicide investigation), prosecuting attorneys, treasury agents, and others.

Advanced police training is a continuing policy of the Madison Township Police Department. It is necessary to enlarge the department's technical capability in order to better serve the people of Madison Township.

Last year three Madison Township Police Department members graduated from the BCI&I school. Tentative arrangements have been made to train five other members of the department in BCI&I schools in 1974.

In 1974 five members of the department are scheduled to attend a newly organized BCI&I school for advanced training in the field of drug misuse and abuse.

Training costs for the schools are funded by matching local and federal crime-fighting funds. It is anticipated that training projects for Madison Township Policemen subsequently will be funded on the basis of joint funds. Usually these costs are divided 25 percent local funds and 75 percent federal funds.

now paying the new government maximum rate of

Dollar Savings can now offer you these highly attractive savings certificates which, when interest is left on deposit, will yield almost 8% a year. That's a handsome return at a time when interest rates are generally going down.

(Banks, incidentally, are not permitted to pay as high a rate on 4-year $1,000 certificates.)

Because of the new low minimum $1,000 deposit, the door is now open for many more savers to invest in Dollar's 7½% certificates. Consequently, we may be required to withdraw this offer at any time.

Do Dollar's 7½% certificates fit into your saving program? Yes, they do if you are fairly certain you will not have to withdraw your deposit prior to maturity. In this event, Federal law would require forfeiture of 90 days interest, as well as reducing the amount withdrawn to the passbook rate.

But please come in and discuss this and other matters bearing on your savings objectives with one of our experienced financial counselors. You will be courteously and confidentially advised in your best interests. And of course, there is no obligation.

Ohio National Bank Expands 24-Hour Service

Ohio National Bank has placed an "Anytime Bank" automated banking machine into operation at its Sharon Woods office, 1850 E. Dublin-Granville Road, to increase the availability of 24-hour banking service to residents of Columbus' far north side, according to an announcement by Walter C. Mercer, president and chief executive officer.

Installation of the additional automated facility in this area was prompted in part by rapidly growing customer use of the Anytime Bank at Ohio National's Morse-Maize office, 1200 Morse Road, Mercer said.

"Many customers who have been meeting their around-the-clock banking needs at the Morse-Maize unit since its installation in 1972 will now find the Sharon Woods facility even more convenient," he noted.

"We also have found that the demand for automated banking is increasing as customers discover that the Anytime Bank is a simple, reliable way to do most of their banking."

The automated facilities provide 24-hour availability of the most frequently used banking services, including withdrawals of cash from checking or savings accounts or by Master Charge cash advance, as well as making of deposits, payments for loans and utilities, and transfer of funds between accounts.

It's really very easy. Just, dial your call direct, without operator assistance, between 5 and 11 P.M., Sunday through Friday. (Rates are even lower after 11 P.M. and on weekends.)

By doing that, you'll be able to relax and enjoy your call. Instead of worrying about the cost.

Because when you follow those guidelines, a 10-minute call to California won't cost more than $2.60 plus tax.

So dial your long distance calls the less expensive way and relax. Even if you talk for 10 minutes.

Ohio Bell

Dial-it-yourself rates apply on out-of-state dialed calls (without operator assistance) from residence and business phones anywhere in the U.S. (except Alaska and Hawaii) and on calls placed with an operator where direct dialing facilities are not available. Eco-Holiday Will Ring Out In Many Households

LIKE THE SPELL of an old Currier & Ives print, remembrances of past Christmases glow in the memories of modern Americans. If twentieth century man views the coming holiday season with mixed emotions and longs for the simpler traditions of his forefathers, he forgets that the industrial and economic prosperity he enjoys is unique.

Given material wealth and expanded leisure time, he now has the opportunity to combine the best of the old and new holiday traditions.

MORE AND MORE families are rediscovering the meaning of the holidays by working together to create their gifts, indoor and outdoor decorations, and gift wrapping.

And, in addition to bringing families closer together through hours of shared effort, the partial return to old holiday traditions has economic and environmental benefits.

EACH YEAR the Christmas holidays generate mountains of trash. Wrapping paper, Christmas cards, shopping bags, packing materials, gag gifts, and poor quality presents usually wind up in the trash after an incredibly short life span. Even the Christmas tree becomes a bulky waste problem in the New Year.

For the second straight year, the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency (Ohio EPA) and concerned citizen action groups across the state are promoting the adoption of an "Eco-Holiday," in which the special message of love, giving, and brotherhood is not buried beneath a pile of trash. Eco-Holiday tips are a mixture of traditional customs resurrected to meet modern needs and wholey new ideas. Best of all, they're easy on the family budget.

RATHER than outline your home with strings of lights, which use up valuable electricity, the Ohio EPA Eco-Holiday program suggests you try decorating trees and shrubbery with natural materials that also serve as food for birds. Popcorn, raisins, cranberries, and other stringable fruits make bright and attractive chains. Pieces of apple, orange, cookies, donuts, ears of corn, and suet can be cleverly used to decorate outdoor greenery.

Stale bread, cut with cookie cutters, and suet, a hard fat found in the meat sections of supermarkets, can be tied to branches with bits of colored yarn.

Melt suet in a double boiler and mix it with birdseed. Pour the mixture in a mold of coconut, walnut, orange, or grapefruit shells. Fill pinecones with suet or peanut butter and hang them on shrubbery. You will be pleased and amazed at the number of birds that pay you a visit.

EVEN Christmas wreaths can be made from natural materials like pine cones, fruit grains, pine boughs, milkweed pods, holly, cranberries, and ears of corn. Decorating the yard can become a fun family outing, rather than a tedious, lightstringing experience for Dad.

Decorating the house with greenery is a custom that can be traced to the earliest civilizations. Deck your halls with boughs of evergreen or holly. Some outdoor decorations work equally well indoors.

Gather the family in the kitchen and create your decorations out of cranberries, popcorn, cookies, candies, whole fruits and nuts.

Exercise your artistic talent during those long winter nights by cutting brightly-colored paper chains out of scrap paper, bells and baskets from egg cartons, and painting tin cans that have been shaped to resemble bells.

FABRIC SCRAPS can be transformed into snowflakes, stars, and bells, and hung on the tree with string or yarn. If your tree is not already fully decorated and you decide to add a few strings of lights, conserve energy by using them after dark and before 10 p.m.

ONE OF THE greatest wastes of the holiday season is wrapping paper. You can save a lot of money and add a personal touch to presents by creating gift wrappings.

Hint at the gift or the personality and tastes of the recipient by wrapping your packages with pages from magazines, comic books, newspapers, old road maps, and scraps of cloth.

Plain white tissue paper decorated with old holiday greeting cards, colored twine and yarn, old tree decorations, or other, smaller gift items, can create a striking, attractive package.

If you're feeling particularly artistic, draw a design of your own choosing on a plain white box with crayon or magic marker. The wrapping will attract as much admiration on Christmas Day as the gift inside.

SOME OF THE BEST presents are those you make yourself, and they are particularly appealing if you're on a tight budget. Make-it-yourself suggestions that are sure to be enjoyed are home-made bread, cookies, candies, jelly, and jams.

You can give potted plants, a terrarium, herb garden, bulbs, and seeds for Spring planting.

Memberships in environmental organizations, subscriptions to conservation magazines, and recreational and hobby equipment make unique presents. Gifts like these are suitable for everyone on your shopping list, even the man who has everything.

A MAJOR concern of this year's Eco-Holiday program is the Christmas tree. Stripped of its holiday trappings, the tree becomes a trash problem that often confounds the best efforts of community collection and disposal systems. One common disposal method of burying trees in a sanitary landfill can use up huge amounts of valuable space.

The Ohio EPA suggests that cut Christmas trees could be chipped by municipalities for use as mulch. The pine chips, which sell in garden centers for 75 percent per cubic foot, retain ground moisture, control weeds, and can be used in parks or distributed to homeowners. Last year, at the suggestion of the Ohio EPA, more than 50 communities undertook a tree chipping program.

A SECOND Eco-Holiday suggestion is to purchase a live tree that can be planted in the yard when the holidays are past. To give your tree a good start, keep it well watered, prepare the planting site, and keep it indoors no more than five days.

After the tree is planted, assemble the family and take a group picture. It's a tradition that can continue for years to come, as you gauge tree and family growth.

After the holidays, save non-perishable decorations and wrapping for next year. Keep this year's card collection for next year's decorating needs. If you find yourself with a surplus of non-returnable gifts, donate them to a local charity, children's home, or veteran's group.

Fill this holiday season with memories your family will cherish for years to come.

A PACKET of information filled with Eco-Holiday ideas and with detailed instructions for making 18 gift and decorating items, all made out of scrap materials, is available free of charge from the Ohio EPA Public Interest Center, Box 1049, Columbus, Ohio, 43216.

Winter Weather Hazardous

Winter weather may soon turn Ohio roads into danger zones, State Highway Safety Director Pete O'Grady has warned and drivers will need to adjust speed accordingly.

"The first and best defense against snowy, icy and slushy roads is to slow down," O'Grady said. "Lower speed will help the driver keep control of the car and prevent dangerous skids."

The highway safety director said drivers should be most cautious while driving on bridges and under passes, since these areas frequently harbor patches of ice not found on the rest of the road.

O'Grady offered the following tips for safer winter driving:

Keep car in top mechanical condition. Brakes should work well; windshield wiper blades should be replaced if necessary; exhaust system must be free from defects.

Snow tires and chains offer better traction in deep snow or ice. Studded tires are legal in Ohio from November 15 to March 15.

Avoid sudden changes of speed that could cause a skid on ice or snow. If a skid develops, turn the front wheels in the direction of the skid. Break gently or not at all until the car is under control.

Wear safety belts and harnesses on all trips. They're a motorist's best means of keeping a minor accident from becoming a major one.

"A properly-equipped car and careful, slow driving can lessen the dangers of Ohio's winter weather and the road conditions it produces," O'Grady remarked.

SBA Approvals Hit High Mark

Frank D. Ray, Director of theColumbus District Office of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA), has announced approval of 46 loans for a total of $3,827,432 in the 65 northwest, central and soutehrn Columbus District counties during the month of November.

Ray said that 32 of the approvals were regular business loans for a total of $3,571,582. Franklin County led the list with 29 loans, including 12 business loans for $1,195,600. Disaster loans to home and business owners in four counties totaled $225,850.

Ray noted that most of the 191 SBA business loans included in the five month total have been made under the bank guarantee program in which private financial institutions provide the funds, with SBA guaranteeing repayment.

"Our financial assistance capability, making more money available to more small businesses, is multiplied by the enthusiastic participation of the banking community in Ohio."

SACRIFICE A LITTLE FUN NOW, OR...

TIME TO SLOW DOWN

The energy crisis has begun to add real meaning to an old word in our vocabulary which, even though it may be understood, has not been experienced by a majority of Americans. The word is sacrifice.

We have demanded (and gotten) immediacy both in our work and play. If we don't have the cash, we demand instant credit. If we can't get the color or style of a particular item in one place, we move on to another to shop.

While we have been busily shopping for today, the public till at the federal, state, and local levels has been over-extended as if there wasn't any tomorrow.

Let's include the word sacrifice in our public and private vocabularies for 1974. Rather than insisting on instant solutions by putting future generations even more into hock than we have been, let's slow down a bit and be prepared to sacrifice here and there.

Urge the legislators at federal, state, and local levels, to establish priorities on projects requiring your tax money, and eliminate those which can be effectively accomplished by private initiative.

You know, we might enjoy the change and future generations will appreciate it too!

God With Us Means Christmas

By Lois L. Shererd

THE SPIRIT of Christmas is in the air and it's very contagious, the first symptom of being infected is that, 'good-will among men' feeling.

What the heavenly angels sang about we can also sing, for in three short words the angelic messenger described the miracle of the manger, as "God with us," for "In Him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily" Col. 2:9.

OUT WONDER grows as we stand amazed before the manger, this small, new born Infant doesn't look like the Omnipresent, Omniscient, Omnipotent God but that's what the Holy Writ says He is. "A V"A virgin...shall bring forth a son and they sahll call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, "God with us" Mat. 1:23.

God with us, turned the world upsidedown for He brought a new redemptive revelation of God, and opened the doors and rent the veil to make an access to God by a new and living Way for all the sons and daughters of Adam. For the birth of Jesus Christ is the greatest event ever known and all the facts of history cannot compare in importance with the Advent of our Lord and Saviour, who made our earth His visited planet.

The one unchanging doctrine of the Bible is that Jesus in His incarnate appearance among men was, "God's only begotten Son" which was revealed at Bethlehem, for without a doubt God became Man at Bethlehem.

WE TOUCHED Him, we looked upon Him, our brother full of grace and truth. He bridged the gulf for us, He stepped down to our level. He didn't reach down from a majestic throne in pious condescention to our humble needs but He did this; "He emptied Himself," He gave up His heavenly glory and came down and moved in among us.

He understands our feelings, He shares our sorrows and cares, He knows what it is to be tempted, He knows what it is to be hated and misunderstood. He like us suffered physical pain and more than all else, we didn't think much of Him-for "We esteemed Him not" Isa. 53:3.

THE WORD made flesh was GOD reaching down to lift our burdens, forgive our sins and walk beside us as friend and Saviour.

The mystery of the incarnation remains and it's the greatest paradox imaginable. It makes a servant of men out of the Ruler of the universe. It places the Creator in a crib. It puts a here not there in te experience of the Omnipresent. The mighty Creator of the universe became subject to all things He created. The One who stored earth's granary became hungry and He who built homes for birds and beasts, found for Himself no resting place!

"He died upon a cross of wood, Yet made the hill on which it stood." He was born in a manger, is a fact, but has He been born in you? "It is Christ in you, that is your hope of glory" Col. 1:37. Has "God with us" become "Christ in you"?

Human Goals Training Planned By U.S. Navy

The Navy Human Goals Training Plan has been signed, tasking the Chief of Naval Education and Training (CNET) with implementation of a human goals training curriculum.

This plan outlines the basic training criteria for all personnel who volunteer for consultant and instructor billets in the human goal program areas, which include race relations, equal opportunity, organizational development and management, intercultural relations, and drug and alcohol education and control.

Current training has been expanded at Recruit Training Commands, Officer Candidate School and other officer source schools. This training will provide personnel entering the naval service with the basic knowledge of the Navy Human Goals programs and policies.

To further enable middle grade enlisted personnel of the Navy to understand the programs and policies set by the Navy Human Goals Plan, a leadership and management course will be offered, commencing April 15, 1974. Emphasis in this program of instruction will be on problem identification and solving as it relates to efficiency of command operations.

To ensure that all Human Goals program areas are staffed with quality personnel, a curriculum has been developed to provide common core training to both male and female, officers and senior enlisteds. This course is built around those management skills that will enable graduates to assist the chain of command in implementing the Navy Human Goals Plan.

OSU Alumni Affairs Director Selected

Dan L. Heinlen, 1686 Norma Rd., Columbus, has been named director of Alumni Affairs at Ohio State University, officials of the alumni association have announced.

Heinlen also becomes executive director of the Ohio State University Development Fund.

Announcement of the selection was made by Dale B. Baker of Columbus, national president of The Ohio State University Association.

HEINLEN was the unanimous choice of the organization's board of directors and the recommendation of a specially appointed search committee, Baker said.

The search committee had conducted a three-month nationwide search for a replacement to fill the post vacated by the death of Dr. Richard M. Mall last August.

The five-member search committee was headed by Walter S. Klevay, Cleveland, first vice president of the alumni association.

BAKER SAID, "The qualifications of over 40 individuals, recommended or likely candidates for the position, were screened by the search committee. There was an overwhelming consensus that Dan Heinlen has the personal and professional qualities necessary to fill successfully the position of Director. In retrospect, Dr. Mall is to be credited for the selection of his successor, because it was under Dr. Mall's tutelage for six years that Dan developed the outstanding qualities and gained valuable experiences so necessary to job understanding and know-how.

"I AM very pleased with the selection of Dan as director and am sure he will not only carry on the great traditions developed and fostered by the association and its former directors, Lou Morrill, Jack Fullen, and Dick Mall, but, also, that he will help guide and direct the association to meet the challenges of our changing times and lead the association to newer, distinguished levels of service to higher education and alumni."

Heinlen, who joined the alumni organization in 1965, was associate director responsible for general internal administration and supervising alumni field activities.

He was named acting director after the death of Dr. Mall as the directors began their search for a permanent successor.

A 1960 graduate of Ohio State, Heinlen majored in the field of social work. He was associated five years with the YMCA of Pittsburg before joining the Ohio State alumni organization, which has nearly 60,000 dues-paying members.

HE SERVED in the United States Army Reserves for six years as a medical corpsman.

He is a vice president of the Franklin County Forum, a director of the Kidney Foundation, an honorary member of Romophos, a member of the Rotary Club of Columbus, St. John's Episcopal Chruch, Ohio Staters, Inc., Sphinx, the Ohio Society of New York, and the Faculty Club.

He and his wife, Bobbie have a three-year old daughter, Stephanie Sue.

Birthright Recognizes Residents For Activity

Mrs. John Hoelker and Mrs. Bruce Whitacre recently received certificates of recognition for the Respect Life Observance.

They were honored because of their dedication and belief in the dignity of life and the contribution they make to the community through Birthright of Columbus.

In early 1972 Mrs. Hoelker and a few volunteers began the groundwork for the founding of Birthright of Columbus.

In April 1972 the volunteers began their workhelping girls and women with problem pregnancies. Birthright offers all alternatives to abortion.

Because of the dedication and enthusiasm of Mrs. Hoelker, President, and Mrs. Whitacre, Vice-President, and other volunteers, Birthright is successful. It is an everyday operation and the volunteers need the guidance of the two officers in getting medical, psychiatric, or legal aid for the clients. In some cases, material help is needed, or perhaps a temporary home.

Enlisting volunteers and conducting training sessions are other important duties of the two women. Their home phones ring constantly as their advice is needed in many situations.

Because Birthright is a phone-in service, it is necessary to have a volunteer's phone number on the phone tape every day of the year.

Mrs. Hoelker's and Mrs. Whitacre's names are frequently on the tape and they are busy at all times with clients.

Anyone interested in knowing about Birthright may call the Birthright number, 221-0844. Speakers are available, and new volunteers are welcome.

Velveteen Stars At Holiday Parties!

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

YOUR CHILD can go seafaring in style this holiday season in this charming sailor pant outfit of cotton velveteen, with nautical collar, tie and sailor pant buttons. By Seibel and Stern. (Above left)

THIS CHARMING miss goes to a party in cotton velveteen with embroidered bodice and contrasted banding, by Youngland. Sizes 4-6X, red only. (Extreme right)

LITTLE CHILDREN are making the biggest hit at holiday parties this year...all dressed up in their best cotton velveteens. Their velveteens, as those of their parents, have taken on the dual role of both an elegant and a sportive look. The classic lace and ruffle trimmed velveteen dresses are still very much in the fashion picture...however joining these favorites this season are the bright new stars...Tyrolean embroidered lederhosen and jumpers, sailor suits and smock dresses with brilliant floral insets.

Once again, velveteen meets any occasion with a beautiful array of colors and styles just right for little girls and boys.

Crompton-Richmond Company, manufacturers of fine velveteens, velvet, and corduroy, have made these fabrics so irresistible yet effortless to care for...added a plus to make them soil and spot resistant. Isn't that nice for a mother to know?

Kiva reaffirms our faith in the basic shirtdress. This button-front polyester-wool knit in beige has tucked front and intertwining belt. Sizes 8 to 16. $72. Wedgwood Room D356 Eastland Mall Level.

SERIOUS DRIVING

Motorists who take driving seriously have the best chance of arriving safely, says Pete O'Grady, Ohio Highway Safety Director. For many motorists driving becomes second nature and they take it for granted. Starting, steering and stopping becomes automatic. Lack of concentration such as steady talking, mulling over personal matters, eating or drinking while behind the wheel, sets us up for a smash up. Concentrate on your driving and take it seriously.

Announces Bexley Survey Results

Bexley--Nearly 200 Bexleyites responded to a Vital Issues Survey distributed by John Milton, unsuccessful candidate for councilman Nov. 6, to 4,000 Bexley homes and apartments between October 28 and November 5. This represents roughly a five percent return. Milton says, "The survey was intended to go to every Bexley residence, but some apparently did not receive it for one reason or another." Compilations are based on 185 questionnaires returned by Nov. 9.

While 61 percent favored adoption of a Building Maintenance Code, 71 percent replied "No" to the question, "Do you believe the city should have the right to inspect both the exterior and the interior of your home to determine that it is in a'in a clean and sanitary condition' and in 'good repair'?"

Those replying were split evenly over the question "Are you in favor of Bexley's establishing its own fire department?" Twenty-two percent were undecided, many indicating they needed more information.

Fifty-one percent said they felt Bexley needs new street lights, while 43 percent disagreed. But financing them with higher taxes "if necessary" was unpopular with 52 percent. Forty percent said they would be willing to pay higher taxes, if necessary, for new lights.

Those replying were asked to rank, from first to eighth, suggested Jeffrey Park projects. Expanded swimming pool facilities and more hiking and biking trails were at the top on the largest number of questionnaires, while expanded parking was rated last more times than any other project.

However, by assigning a number ranging from eight for each first-place vote to one for each last-place vote, the favorite project is more hiking and biking trails, with 582 points, followed by more wooded areas, nature trails, 552; expanded swimming pool facilities, 442; more tennis, handball or paddleball courts, 435; more parking, 379; more picnic facilities, 353; more open fields for general recreation, 351; and more playground equipment, 341.

Seventy-three percent of the survey forms returned contained written comments.

Huntington National Bank Name Change Due In 1974

The Huntington National Bank of Columbus will change its name early in 1974 to the Huntington Midland National Bank of Columbus, according to an announcement made by Arthur D. Herrmann, president of the $788 million-asset bank operating 29 offices in Franklin County.

The move is part of a statewide name change to Midland Banks for the 12-member banks of Huntington Bancshares, an Ohio based registered bank holding company in which Huntington National is the lead bank.

The Corporation also announced its proposed name change to the Huntington Midland Corporation.

HUNTINGTON Bancshares with $1.3 billion-assets is the sixth largest bank holding company in Ohio and the first to adopt a unified name for its member banks. Huntington operates 75 offices throughout the state and an off-shore office in the Bahamas.

The announcement of the unified corporate identification program was made at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the affiliated banks. The name change will be proposed to shareholders for ratification the first quarter of 1974.

"Complete corporate unification is essential to our organizations's furture growth, development and profitability," said Bancshares president Clair E. Fultz.

TOTAL support for the name change of the 107-year old Huntington National Bank of Columbus was expressed by Herrmann.

"We are in enthusiastic areement with the proposed name change to Midland Bank, as it relates to our own bank and to our customers, and also to the goals of the Corporation," said Herrmann.

"The easily identifiable Midland Bank name will extend the marketing impact of the Corporation across the state, help us to achieve system-wide efficiencies and enable us to retain our leadership among the Ohio banking community," said Herrmann.

HUNTINGTON office signs, marketing programs and other identification will begin to reflect the change to Midland Bank early in 1974 in conjunction with the statewide implementation of the unified identification program.

Affiliated with Huntington Bancshares and affected by the change in addition to the Columbus bank are The Washington Savings Bank, Washington Court House; The Savings Bank Company, Chillicothe; The Farmers Bank and Trust Company, Ashland; The Bank of Wood County Company, Bowling Green; Lagonda National The Lucas County State Bank, Toledo; First National Bank and Trust Company, Lima; The Woodville State Bank, Woodville; The Portage National Bank, Kent; The First National Bank, Wadsworth; and the First National Bank; Kenton.

Firewood Is Now Important

With less evergy available this winter, more families may rely on firewood as a supplemantal heating source.

Among the better fireplace woods are hickory, oak, ash, and hard maple. Hickory and oak are the best heat producers. A cord of hickory or oak produces mre heat than a ton of coal.

If you want action in the fireplace, osageroange and mulberry make things happen. Both burn well but spark, pop, and crack. A fine mesh screen is needed if either isused.

Families who use the fireplace each day may want to purchase a cord of wood to begin the season. If the fire place is used only weekends, a smaller amount will be sufficient. An accurate measurement of a cord of wood is stacked wood 4 feet high, 4 feet wide, and 8 feet long. Since the length of a piece of wood may vary from 18 to 24 inches, depending on what the user wants, you may or may not get a full measurement.

For the most part, a fireplace isn't a very efficient home heating system. An ordinary fireplace will deliver only a 10th of the heating value of the wood to a room, with the rest going up the chimney. Too, when the fireplace is not being used, the damper should be closed (after all coals are dead) to prevent loss of hat eat from your regular heating system.

No doubt about it, a freezer can save you time and money when you take advantage of in-season products and special sales. But good planning is needed to gainall the benefits and avoid some of the problems you could have with freezing food.

For example, foods vary in the degree of temperature and moisture needed to retain their fresh quality. So, keep a thermometer handy to check your refrigerator and freezer for proper temperatures. Refrigerators should be below 40 degrees F., and freezer cabinets should be maintained at zero degrees.

According to the Food & Drug Administration and Agriculture Department, food begins to thaw and cannot be safely held for any length of time over 10 degrees above zero. In the regular part of the refrigerator, meat should not be held over five days. However, in the freezer at zero degrees meat can be held for several months or longer depending on type and cut.

In case of electrical power failure, do not open the freezer unless absolutely necessary. If it has been properly operated, food should keep for about 24 hours if freezer is not opened. You may safely refreeze most thawed foods if they still contain ice crystals or if they are still about 40 degrees and have been held at this temperature no longer than one or two days after thawing.

If you are going to buy large portions of meat such as a quarter or half of beef, keep in mind that there is a substantial loss in trimming. For instance, a quarter of beef weighing 125 pounds could trim out to about 87 pounds, so figure cost per pound on the trimmed meat.

Next, be sure to wrap meat properly for freezing. Wrappings should be sealed carefully to keep natural moisture in and air out.

MAVERICK WITH MUDDY SHOES

By Richard L. Pough

RATHER than make you sit through hours of slide-viewing, I'll tell you of my vacation. Having fished and hunted from Manitoba to the Amazon, I have started to try to fill in the states, provinces and countries unknown to me.

It's like trying to collect a complete set of stamps or coins, the farther you go, the tougher the collecting gets.

Through the 1960's, I fished up and down the east and west coasts of Florida. Earlier in life, I had tramped the beaches of Nag's Head and the rest of North Carolina.

In between lay the mysteries of South Carolina and Georgia. 1973 was the year to see the "Low Country" of South Carolina. While in the hospital for a short stay this spring, I was roomate with a man who had found an island off the coast of Carolina to his liking.

It was called Hilton Head Island.

Just a few miles north of Savannah, Georgia, Hilton Head boasted every possible type of fresh and salt water fishing found the Atlantic coastland.

Jamming my family in the station wagon, I drove down to Hilton Head where I had Joe Holley of the Hilton Head Company waiting to prove his brag of good fishing. Having had my fill of dredged and canaled developments in Florida (knowing now that they are ruining the water table of the Everglades).

I SWORE I would not stay at the Head if I found the same condition, I was not to be disappointed. Less than ten per cent of the beautiful island had been changed by dozers.

The original live oaks, strung with great grey fronds of spanish moss, were evidence that nothing had changed for many years, Great piles of shells were in evidence that had been placed there by the original inhabitants - the indians.

THE ISLAND was a veritable paradise of wildlife.

Alligators swirled in the ponds and bass and trout took many styles of artificials and live baits. For the golfers there are nine courses to choose and championship tennis was viewed by tv watchers from the Head in September.

For the less than athletic types, there are many fine restaurants serving every delight in seafood, with the shrimpboats just thirty feet outside the restaurant window.

History is easy to study in that low country. Forts and ports still stand as a reminder of our colorful past.

Not too far away is Boone Plantation where a large part of the movie Gone With the Wind was filmed. Although many of the properties on Hilton Head are built for private occupancy, rental rates are available.

Each May, a billfishing tournament is held and in 1973, 17 record marlin were brought into the quiet of Harbor Town, Hilton Head, South Carolina.

Music Keyed At Holiday

THE NEW Holiday Inn-OSU, is currently a two ring circus. No matter what your musical tastes may be, you'll find them one of the two lounges at the Holiday Inn - OSU. In the first floor Heritage Lounge, Rick Walker is presenting some pretty, pretty music with his organ and vocal moods.

Playing for your dining pleasure as well as for casual conversation over cocktails, Rick is one of the best I've heard in these parts.

His total approach, be it singing or keyboard offerings, is to provide beautiful music in such a manner that is entertaining, yet not over powering. It's there if you want it, or you can tune him out if you prefer to talk.

However, not many people can tune him out. Not because of volume, but Rick is super as a musician and singer. The tones and sounds he produces while playing on the revolving stage is simply amazing. A stylist is every sense if the word, you just won't believe the beautiful music Rick creates with his complicated electronic equipment.

Even without the addition of electronic drums, harmonica and such, Rick makes the electric organ sould like an entire orchestra. The music you hear is well worth the trip to the Heritage Lounge of the Holiday Inn-OSU. But wait until you hear him sing. Again, it is beauty in rare form. Rick has a nice easy-going, smooth style with a great sound. His phrasing and approach is first rate professionalism.

Coming to the Holiday Inn form his home in Knoxville, Rick has turned out to be a worthy import from south of the Mason Dixon Line. I could listen to him all night, relaxed and in a happy frame of mind. For you lovers of good music, and I do mean music, make sure you catch Rick Walker in the Heritage Lounge between now and Dec. 22. Rick performs between 6 p.m. and 11 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Paper Highway Sophisticated

After listening to Rick, then head to the eleventh floor University Lounge and catch the sophisticated music of Paper Highway. This is a quartet that has a blend of othe old, new and contemporary, ending up with a classic approach to all of the music.

With John Dihenes on drums, Bobby Stevens on bass, trumpet and violin, John Miller at the organ and also sax and flute, and Bob Jeffrey playing guitar, you have four talented men who are outstanding msuicals and vocalists.

Yet none of them tries to overshadow the other, and show off their talents. Paper Highway is a group, and these four fellows play as one. It is a strong, tightly knit unit.

With amplified bass, guitar and organ, you might expect them to be loud, as is true with so many outfits.

Not true. Paper Highway has created a perfect combination vocal and instrumental volume and harmonies. These four fellows sure know the meaning of entertainment, that's for sure.

Their vocal harmony is closer than a four bladed shave. Presenting a good variety of music along with pacing that keeps things moving all the time, Paper Highway's music is excellent for dancing or enjoyable listening.

If you are wondering how they got the name, "Paper Highway, it's from the movie, "Cabin in the Sky," and means the long troublesome road that men must travel to achieve their goals in life. I can assure you Paper Highway has achieved their goal, that of being top notch professional entertainers.

Paul Click At Howard Johnson

Stopped in at the new Howard Johnson's the other evening and spent an enjoyable hour or so listening to Paul Click entertain. Paul plays piano and sings. Both are done by Paul with gusto and a flair for showmanship.

His vocal stylings, alone, makes him an outstanding performer. He sings with so much dynamics, that you just sit there waiting to hear more and more. Owning a big, full sound, Paul incorporates a strong individual attack. Not only is his voice big and full, it is also very pleasing to the ear.

Add his voice to his musical library and you end up with a high class country and western entertainer. His voice, tonal quality and musical approach reminds me of Jerry Lee Lewis.

JUST REMEMBER one thing, there is as much difference as night and day between country and western and plain out and out hillbilly msuic. Paul does the best material of the C&W idiom. Be it a ballad or a up tune, he handles them all with charm, the end result being vocals that satisfy. I'm not a great lover of much of the C&W music or performers, but there are some greats in each catagory. Paul is one example, and the music he plays and sings is the best in the field.

Accompanying himself on piano that is played with a style that is similar to the old fashioned gritty bar room keyboard, Paul makes plenty of good music. His black and white solos keeps things stired up in the lounge at the New Howard Johnson's on Stringtown Road.

His keyboard approach is a good mixture of bar room and country and western sounds. His music as well as his singing is lively, fun and entertaining. Even the slow numbers are pure toe tappers.

Paul is versatile, while his main music is C&W, he throws in old standards, like "I Left My Heart in San Francisco," for nice change of pace.

New to the Columbus area, Paul is not new to entertainment. He has worked with the Grand Ole Opry and was the personal accompanist for Jean Sheppard. He also has a record which has met with some success, "He'll Have To Go."

To sum it all up, Paul Click is a must for your entertainment schedule. His voice, his piano stylings and his songs are a sure fire delectable smorgasbord of entertainment

Skipping Around Town

Remember Joe Bechara, who use to own and operate the Moulin La Rogue? Ran into him the other evening at the Charleston Club. Joe tells me that he was in town to put together another night club. The only thing he would tell me is that it will open around March on East Broad St., near his old place. Will try to pry more from him the next time I talk with him...Another new spot that's about to open is Sirocco, a new supper club on the east side, on Hamilton Rd., across from Eastland Shopping Center. The place was designed to Earl Stewart & Associates. That right there tells me that the place has to be beautiful. This firm specializes in restaurants, lounges and supper clubs. Sirocco means the wind that blowsfrom the Mediterranean across the boot of Itlay. Earl Stewart & Associates has captured this Italian theme and it is refelected throughout the interior of the restaurant. The theme is highlighted by the front walls resembling the Roman Colisum with its arches and stone. Opalescent glass fills the arches lending beautiful warm colorts to the area. The back dining room overlooks a relaxing mall area which is dramatically lighted and the front dining room can be easily converted into private party rooms. The hex shaped sunken bar with raised lounge gives you an excellent view of the stage and dance floor. Sirocco will serve steaks, chops and Italian specialities. Knowing the owners, I can assure you, the food will be fantastic. Mre about Sirocco later... The New Scioto Inn is doing a good business. The people love the place, including the group Easy Feelings, featuring John Pond. The food is yummy. Plan on stopping in during these busy holidays. I promise you, that you'll have a barell fo fun ... Something new in music stores has jsut opened at Eastland Shopping Center. Called Eastland Keyboard Center, the stores sells keyboard instruments only. Owned and managed by Steve Dyer, a graduate in musical education at OSU, Steve has a full line of all types of keyboard instruments with complete teaching facilities. Steve and all of his staff are experts in their field. This week at Lincoln Lodge you'll find two boys who are knocking them dead. Overly & O'Connor is the name of the duo. They sing well, have excellent instrumental numbers and do lots of comedy. Take my advice and head out to Lincoln Lodge this week. It's a fun twosome.

Kings Island Will Open Lion Country

Ed McHale, General Manager of Kings Island Amusement Park has announced the opening of the New Lion Country Safari at Kings Island in April of 1974.

McHale said park guests will board an on-the-ground monorail system on the northern edge of the park to tour the 110 acre animal preserve.

He said the air conditioned monorail system was chosen to provide both maximum safety and maximum viewing capabilities for the patrons.

Unlike the four other Lion Country preserves, there will be no auto traffic here, McHale said.

The specially constructed monorail system will travel over a two-mile track that has been designed to give the viewer the best "animal show" possible. The ride, during the park's season, is expected to take about 30 minutes.

The monorail trains will stop frequently so passengers may take photographs of the animals in their near-natural habitat.

In all, about 800 wild African animals will be contained in the area next spring. The preserve will be operated as another attraction of Kings Island during the park's season and as a separate attraction during the off-season. Located along I-71 north of Cincinnati, the Kings Island complex consists of the theme park, motor inn, campground and two 18-hole golf courses.

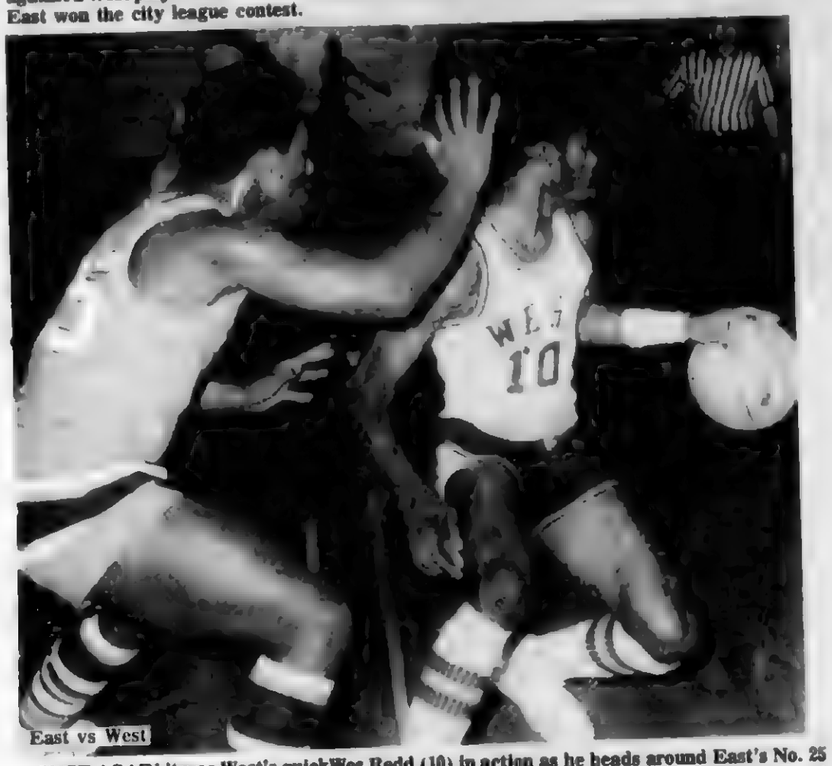
East vs West

"NOW I'VE GOT THE BALL and I'm going to keep it" says this East player as he defends it against a West player in white while another East player starts to shove the West player away. East won the city league contest.

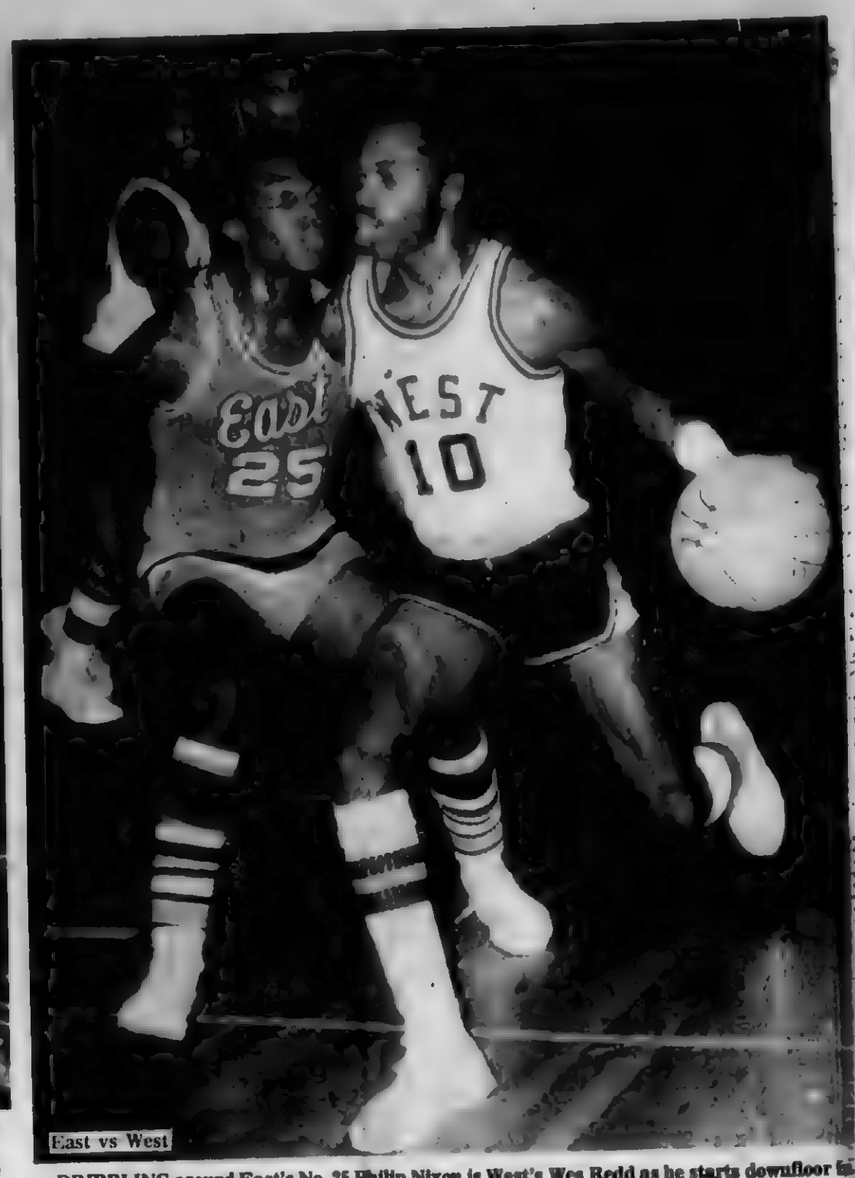


East vs West

ONCE AGAIN it was West's quickWes Redd (10) in action as he heads around East's No. 25 Philip Nixon. Redd played his usual outstanding floor game but East's height and all-around marksmanship was West's downfall. (East-West photos by Craig Weaver.)

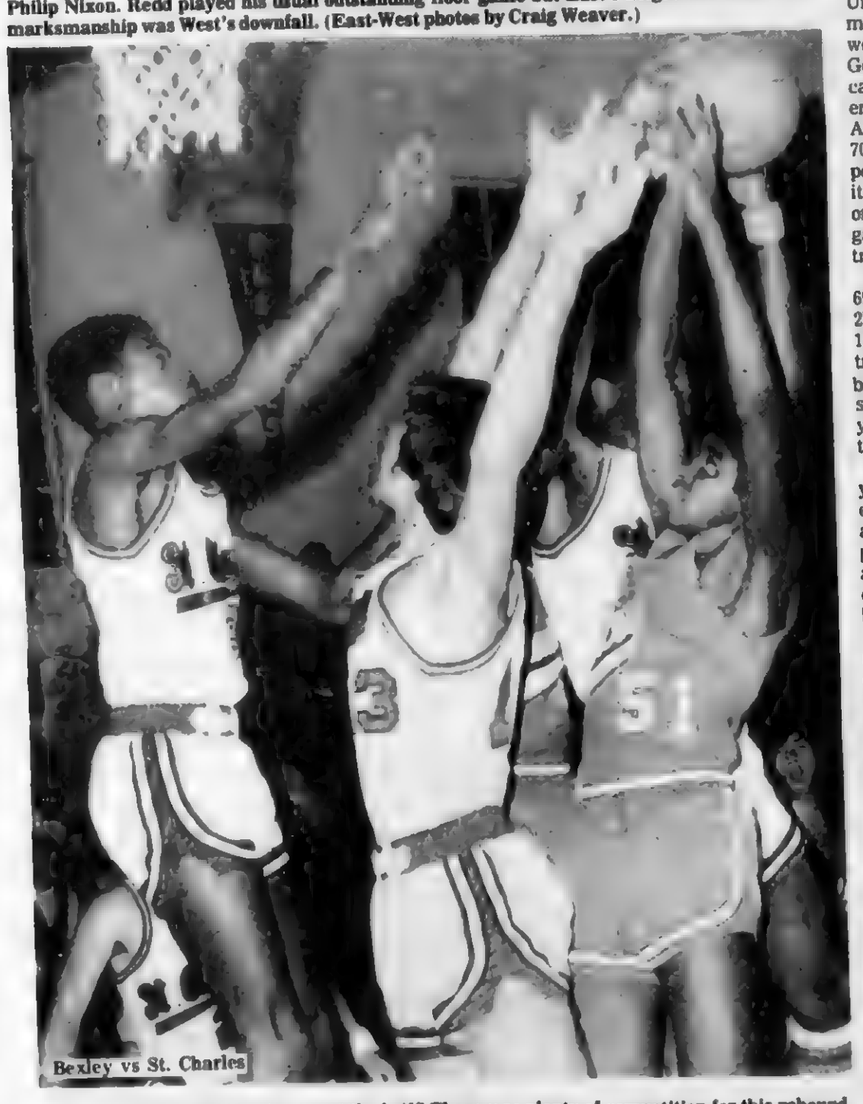
East vs West

ALL WRAPPED up in the ball are hands from East and West players in this city league clash won by East. That's West's Wes Redd (10) in the forefront and he finally got the ball. (East-West photos by Craig Weaver.)



East vs West

DRIBBLING around East's No. 25 Philip Nixon is West's Wes Redd as he starts downfloor in the game won by East.



Bexley vs St. Charles

BALL, BALL, WHO'S going to get the ball? There was plenty of competition for this rebound with three St. Charles cagers (in white) and two Bexley Lions battling for it. No. 51 for Bexley is Larry Wilson. (Bexley-St. Charles photos by Dan Unkefer.)

Get On Your Bicycle! It's Fun!

BY DICK PAUGH

WITH ONLY 6 percent of the total population, these United States account for more than one-third of the world energy consumption. Get out your handy pocket calculator (run on electrical energy) and figure this out. Annual national energy use is 70 gradrillion btu's. If all that power was generated by coal, it would take 2.8 billion tons, or if from oil, 616 billion gallons, or if natural gas, 70 trillion cubic feet.

In 1971, we used a total of 69,000 trillion btu's but in just 27 years, the usage will be 191,000 trillion btu's, almost tripling. We are estimated to be 12,000 trillion btu's short of sources right now but by the year 2,000, we will be 51,000 trillion btu's shy.

These figures all come to you courtesy of the federal environmental protection agency, who seem eager to point out why we must scrap all previous committments to clean air and go ahead and breath dirt.

WHILE EPA frets over reasons not to do the biding of congress, the rest of Washington drives us farther away from any solution to the problem. Nowhere in federal government is there any sign of using small, economy cars, either foreign or American.

The Detroit-Wall Street hold on Washington is too great. The only three cars that meet air quality standards for July, 1975 are made overseas by foreign corporations. They are all three very economical to run, using very little fuel.

Very, very little has been done to try to mend fences with the Arab countries after 25 years of funding and arming their antagonist, Israel. It was fitting and proper that our great Nation give a helping hand to the formation of a homeland for the Jews, long persecuted and picked on yet, we have not solved a war, only made ourselves some new enemies.

Whatever happened to diplomacy? The very Arab countries we have teased are the proud possessors of one-third of the world's known oil reserves.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Walk or bike around town, it's fun.

Season A Long One

Upsets Mark Weekend Of Odd Cage Bounces

By Sandy Schwartz
Spectator Sports Writer

SO YOU SAY that you are going to play it safe this year and just lay the dough on the favorites of these area schoolboy roundball races. The advice is "Don't post up!"

After just finishing the third week of high action things look tangled and twisted and most of those favorites are saying, "What happened?"

Take the City League as a supreme example where Walnut Ridge was the clear choice. The Scots dropped a 67-57 decision to unheralded Whetstone last week prompting Ridge coach Jack Moore to say, "We just couldn't find the basket."

Northland a solid contender dropped its initial outing to defending South and West a team mentioned quite often in champ talk took it on the chin to East 66-59.

Eastmoor, 95-57 victor over North, now looks to be for real in that confused City Circuit.

"Red" Courtney's Warriors placed six men in double figures in that North route. Pete Liptrap led the parade with 18 followed by Dave Potter (14), Bob Pounds (11), Steve Manning (11), Brian Stertzer (10), and Tim Kauffman (10).

Mini Kauffman, not so mini anymore at 5-9 155, is the cool cookie at the helm of this Warrior offense not to mention his hounding works on defense.

THIS full-court pressuring defense of Eastmoor has just become a recent trademark of the Courtney quintet. Front line subs continuing the pace are Rob Hunter and Jody Hurt in the backcourt and Farris Gaston in the front line.

Kauffman's ball wizardry usually finds classy Stertzer in the corner or Potter, a jumping jack who could some day jump out of the gym, under the hoop.

That Ohio Capital Conference race has Whitehall, coming fresh from its 49-43 slapping of league favorite Mt. Vernon, sitting alone atop the loop while Worthington overcame its bout with turnoveritis to nip Westerville 53-52 and Westland outshot Gahanna 45-41 to remain a game behind the Rams.

THE CENTRAL Catholic League race began as anticipated last week with Ready bombing DeSales but the Silver Knights dropped a Saturday date with Cincinnati Elder to drop their record to 2-3. The big challenge comes Friday night as Hartley invites Ready to a shoot-out.

Other key action, and sharpshooters last week saw Reynoldsburg drop an OCC'er to Delaware 70-55. Ed Williams canned 23 in the losing effort. Jim Cuthbert, Mike Riggs and Greg Spellman popped double figures in that Westland win.

Terry Burris was again the big star in the Whitehall win which saw the Rams outscore Mt. Vernon 22-9 in the final stanza. Burris outdueled all-state candidate Ted Williams dropping in 23 points and grabbing 11 rebounds. Bill Besalski helped with 16.

HARTLEY outpointed St. Charles 56-53 in the CCL as Mark McNally, Ron White and Mike Gilliland all hit twin digits for the Hawks. Eric Stinson (18), and Mike Hausfield (20) paced St. Charles.

Franklin Heights popped Olentangy in the Metro League while a last second layup by Mark Liefeld gave Bexley a one point win over Groveport in a Mid-Eight opener.

NEXT WEEK'S slate finds a full set of games as City League action has West at Eastmoor and South at Walnut Ridge in the double Friday feature. Other Friday action sees East hosting upset minded Whetstone.

In Ohio Capital Conference action Whitehall entertains eager Westerville in the biggy while Gahanna travels to Worthington, Mt. Vernon to Reynoldsburg and Westland to Delaware.

Central Catholic League warfare has St. Charles visiting Watterson to compliment that Ready Hartley scrap.

Bexley and Urbana tangle in Bexley in the Mid-Eight while Franklin Heights trucks to West Jefferson in the Metro League.

Saturday night shooting sees Eastmoor at Whetstone, Walnut Ridge at Linden and East at South in City League games. In Non-League action Ready will jaunt to Middletown to face Monroe while St. Charles hustles to Zanesville to keep an engagement with Rosecrans.

AREA ACTION finds Worthington at Grove City and Bexley at Grandview.

Wildlife Conservation Stamp

Ohio's non-hunters and non-fisherman, along with sportsman, can contribute to the preservation of the state's natural heritage by buying an Ohio Wildlife Conservation Stamp, and Natural Resources Director William B. Nye suggests the stamp makes an interesting holiday gift.

"The Wildlife Conservation Stamp makes a unique Christmas gift," said Nye, "and it gives Ohioans an opportunity to help us in our efforts to protect non-game species and to improve the land and its resources."

THE STAMP, which costs $5, portrays a pair of Cardinals on a snow covered pine tree branch against a sky-blue background. It was designed from an origanal painting. When the original plates were ceremoniously broken, Ohio's first Wildlife stamp became a collector's item. For holiday giving, the stamp is mounted on the inside of an attractive greeting card. There also is a message about the purpose of the stamp.

"Sportsman finance most of our conservation activities through their purchase of hunting and fishing licenses," said Nye. Those interested in nature studies, hiking and photography should also have an opportunity to contribute to the effort.

That's why the wildlife stamp was created." "By purchasing the stamp for themselves, or as a gift for someone, Ohioans can show their personal commitment to our conservation efforts," Nye said.

The stamps with the special Christmas card is now available. They can be purchased by sending a $5 check to any one of the five Wildlife District offices. Checks should be made payable to the Division of Wildlife. Phone orders will not be accepted. The stamps also can be ordered from the Publication Center, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus, Ohio 43224.

Winter Fishing Derby

Late fall fishing for Northern Pike and Yellow perch is expected to be good for Central Ohio anglers at Indian Lake. The shallow marsh areas located on the North side of the lake should produce some fine catches of Northern Pike. Sand bars and other sandy bottomed areas should prove productive for both Northern and yellow perch.

As a bonus to anglers, the Indian Lake Fish and Game Club is sponsoring their third annual Winter Fishing Derby. A total of $60 in prizes will be awarded for fish caught between December 1, 1973 and March 1, 1974. Ten dollar prizes will be awarded for the heaviest fish caught in each of the following categories: Largemouth Bass, Bluegill, Crappie, Walleye, Northern Pike and the largest fish of any specie not listed previously. Official weighing stations are located at the Indian Lake State Park Office, Flemings Landing and Stephenson's Bait and Takle..

Capital Looms Strong With Balanced Effort

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Spectator Sports Writer

THAT'S SOME Chick they've got over at Capital University.

That Chick, we're referring to is slimmed down cage coach Vince Chckerella, Chick has just welcomed in a new basketball season, his sixth as roundball boss at the Bexley campus, and he collected this 100th coaching victory Saturday night with a 69-53 win over Point Park College.

Entering the season with an amazing 98-26 won lost state Chickerella, ranks third among the nation's small college coaches.

AND IT should be a whole new story this season the way Chickerella describes it. Losing Scott Weakly and small college All-American Mike Stumpf due to graduation, Chick is stressing patience with this edition of Crusader basketball.

"We expect to improve as the campaign goes along," he answered when questioned about this team's chances. "I think we can be in the thick of things by tournament time."

HEADING the elite group of Cap bouncers will be the only holdover from last year, Co-Captain Gene Caslin, better known around the Crusader barracks as "Go Go Geno".

Eastmoor High grad Caslin is a slick ball-handling sharp eyed 6-2 shooter who averaged just a notch under 10 points a game last year (9.9) for Cap co-championship team. "He's had a very fine preseason and he should be one of the best guards in the conference," Chickerella confidently says.

"Red" Kalk looks to be the starter along side Calsin in the backcourt. Kalk is a bit of a surprise to the Cap onlookers and with his speed personable Chick says, "We will be quicker than last year and that should help us."

A PAIR of area quickies will be adding depth to the backcourt. Six-four Walnut Ridge graudate Brett Little and 6-0 Whitehall product Dave Steele will be ready for action. Chickerella clues, "Stelle has good speed and moves," while he labels Little as a man of "Hustle and determintion."

Co-CaptainVic Wolfe, a 6-6 Gahanna Lincoln grad, looks to have the lock on one of the forward slots while senior Denny Dickensheets junior letterman Mark Shaw and soph John Drews battle it out for the other forward slot.

FINDING a sturdy steady for that center spot that Stumpf vacated seems to be the main worry around the Cap gym right now. Freshman Pat Moeller from Grove City is making a run for much playing time but 6-6 Linden McKinely product Tommy James will probably get first crack.

A couple of area grads who've made impressions on Chickerella are Eastmoor's Gary Powell and Bexley's Knell Costello, Both are transfer students and Costello will become eligible in January while Powell will have to sit it out until next year.

AREA FROSH raising eyebrows are 6-4 forward Carl Kraft from Bexley; Dave Cecutti, a Watterson grad and Terry Grady, a Hartley finisher.

Its tough to figure when Chick says, "on paper we don't match up as a contender, probably not even a fist division finisher." (You are not decoying us are you Chick?)

"But we plan to improve, and like I say, we hope to be ready about tournament time," he concluded.

Chickerella labeled about five or six as contenders to take the Ohio Conference marbles. Other sources also agree saying that the loop would be real balanced from top to bottom.

SCHEDULE WISE, the next home assignment won't be until the Decemer 21-22, Capital City Classic being played in Capital's Alumni Gymnasium. Capital clashes with Grove City of Pennsylvania after Depauw and West Virginia State tussle in the tourney opener.

And that little holiday tournament over there in that quaint east side gym might just be the right time to find out if that Capital basketball dynasty wich Mr. Chickerella, better known as "Mr. Basketball" around Capital, will continue.

BETCHA IT WILL...

Brough Caught In Rough

TWO CATS managed to keep this ball from the reach of Worthington's Don Brough, right, but that's about the only one Brough didn't get as he played the boards to perfection for the winning Cards, 53-52. Cats from left are Bryant Myers, Richard Lakeman and Jay Kegley.

Driving Hints From Auto Club

..Studies show that the peak accident periods are the morning and evening rush hours, according to the Columbus Auto Club-AAA. Your familiarity with the route to and from work can lull you into a false sense of security setting you up for an accident when the unexpected happens, cautions the Automobile Club.

..There is no time for day dreaming while driving a car, says the Columbus Automobile Club-AAA. Failure to pay complete attention to the job of driving is a serious mistake and an underlying cause of many traffic accidents.

..All drivers may not agree with every traffic law, says the Columbus Auto Club-AAA, but all drivers are expected to obey these laws. It's a good idea to remind yourself that the basic purpose of traffic laws is to prevent accidents and save lives.

Veterans, Families Questions Answered By VA Officials

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q – Can I pay more than market value for a home I'd like bo buy with a GI loan from the Veterans Administration?

A – Yes, provided you pay the difference in cash between the VA appraisal and the price of the home. The agency cannot approve a loan which exceeds the reasonable value of the home.

Q – Can I use tutorial assistance provided by the Veterans Administration after my GI Bill entitlement expires?

A – No. Unused tutorial assistance expires with GI Bill entitlement.

Q – I draw compensation from the Veterans Administration for a 30 percent disability. Since I will soon be 65 and retired, can I waive compensation and switch to pension?

A – Yes, if you apply to VA and it is to your advantage. VA will make determination based on information you provide, and pay you the higher benefit.

Q – I am a recently discharged veteran with a service connected disability, who'd like to attend college under the Veterans Administration's vocational rehabilitation program. What benefits would I receive? (P.S. I have a wife and child).

A – If you attend full time, you will receive your tuition, fees, books and supplies, plus $248 monthly.

Q – Is there a limit on how much I can pay for a home purchased with a loan guaranteed by the Veterans Administration?

A – No, but there is a limit on the amount of guaranty the agency can issue–60 percent, up to a maximum $12,500. Also, the loan cannot exceed VA's appraised value of the property.

Q – Do Veterans Administration hospitals and clinics take care of reservists injured reporting to, or returning form military training?

A – Yes. VA provides medical care for injuries and illnesses which occur during travel time as specified in the reservist's military orders. Both active duty training and inactive duty training are considered active duty for this purpose.

Q – An explosion killed my son during military service in Vietnam, and his body was never recovered. Will the Veterans Administration provide a memorial marker?

A – Yes. The memorial may be erected in private cemetery in a plot provided by the applicant, or in the memorial section of a national cemetery. Apply to the nearest VA office.

Ohio has four state-owned areas for trail bike riding. They are at Pike State Forest in Pike County, Richland Furnace State Forest in Jackson County, Maumee State Forest Fulton County and Perry Reclamation Area in Perry County.

was made into a gas station driveway, it was illegal and the driver was reprimanded, and the reprimand recorded in his personnel file.

Sexton pointed out the driver in question is a substitute driver but is employed regularly as a truck driver, received a AAA safe driving certificate last year, completed a 36-hour pre-employment training course and has had 18 hours of training since employment by the district.

In talking about a recent bus accident involving one of their women bus drivers, Sexton said, "When you have 32 drivers traveling over 14,000 miles each, the law of averages says you are going to have an accident occasionally. Since September, he said, there have been 170,692 miles driven with only four accidents, with only the one mentioned above involving personal injury and a citation. The driver was also suspended for five days.

Board members agreed that they would not want the life or safety of one child on a bus jeopardized by any carelessness. Some speeding of buses had been reported recently, Supt. Williams said, and he suggested to Leroy Sexton that he remind the driver of the rules on speeding and the hazards at railroad crossings, and that "the public is watching." He added, "If one of us would make a mistake in driving, noone would notice much, but if a big yellow bus does something wrong, everyone sees that."

Williams reported, on the subject of the bond issue for next March, that the millage will be the same as of this year, even though they are asking $300,000 more, because the number of taxable properties has increased and there is one more year in which to pay the bonds off.

Fred Cover reported that the district had been down to one day's supply of gasoline as of Monday and on Monday, the day of the meeting, they had received 7200 gallons, making it possible for them to run the buses to the end of the year.

The superintendent explained that beginning in January, they would be on month-to-month allocations based on 90 per cent of last January's use, but James Fenstermaker said, "New guidelines will be coming out around January 8. The governor will be getting new energy powers, possibly through the state government, passed on from the federal government."

Further decisions on energy-saving policies await the study of the report, just released, on energy-saving compiled by the Metropolitan Educational Commission (MEC).

In further action, the board members received for study a preliminary draft of a code of ethics and changes in policies for the instrumental music program of the district, along with suggestions for its expansion, especially in a possible strings instruction program reaching downward into the elementary schools.

Due to the problem with crowd control at the fall Groveport-Urbana football game, the following changes have been made in the basketball schedule with Urbana High School: The high school administrators of the two high schools involved have made arrangements to play the first game at Lockbourne Air Force Base on Saturday morning, Jan. 12, 1974. The following conditions will be in effect for this date: The varsity game only, will be played, as our useof the gym is limited to the period of 10 a.m. to 12 noon; Only those persons riding a school bus will be admitted at the gate to the base. This includes players, coaches, administrators and board members.

The teams will eat lunch together following the game.

The scheduling for the second game will be completed at a later date. The air base gym will not be available for that game.

A number of non-certified and certificated personnel were hired, including Alfred Mullen as intramural director at Dunloe Elementary School for the balance of the school year. Mullen is a resident of the school district and is employed as a Columbus policeman. He has experience in this type of program, and he becomes the first intramural director the district has hired from outside their staff.

Board Disapproves Of Criminal Code Revision

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Special Staff Writer

Columbus--The Columbus School Board voted to have included in the minutes of the Dec. 4 regular meeting, a resolution saying that the Board of Education is opposed to a City Council approved criminal code revision dealing in part with the sexual orientation of prospective employees.

The code revision would prohibit any type of discrimination against homosexuals concerning employment practices . Columbus Mayor Tom Moody vetoed the City Council approved code last week.

Board Member Paul Langdon introduced the resolution which was accepted by the board saying, "Great care and vigilance must be exercised in the screening, selection, appointment and assignment of all employees of the Board of Education."

The resolution also said, "The Board recognizes that parents expect the Board and School Administration to place in direct contact with children or in positions of influence only those persons whose personal characteristics and training, experience and performance are of the highest order."

WE CAN'T GIVE these people a chance to promote their views to the students of our schools," Langdon said.

Langdon also said that the council legislation would give homosexuals an opportunity to promote their views to students because children learn indirectly as well as directly from their teachers."

Vote on the Langdon introduced resolution was 4-1. Dr. David Hamlar cast the only disagreeing vote saying he was against such discrimination. Board member Mrs. Marie Castleman was not present for the meeting while Dr.Watson Walker exited before the vote.

The school board also approved hospital and medical insurance rate changes for all school employees. The new rates are a reduction for Blue Cross and a 4.9 per cent increase for Travelers Insurance. The rates which are guaranteed for one year will go into effect Jan. 1, 1974. Officials say this change will cost the school system an additional $400 in 1974.

THE BOARD ALSO voted to raise the maximum limit of the replacement fund to $2,000,000. It was pointed out that this amount is less than one per cent of the present value of buildings and content.

Also agreed to was, "The replacement fund will be used only to repair buildings and or equipment damaged or destroyed by sudden and unexpected incidents producing losses of a catastrophic nature." No claim will be considered from the replacement fund unless it exceeds $15,000."

140,000 Accident Reports On File

Contain 140,000 reports. This is an estimate of the number of reported traffic accidents in Columbus since 1969. (The files kept in the Traffic Engineering Division of the Department of Safety.) Even if a person is not recorded there (and they won't be unless they have had an accident since 1969) these files do have some effect on everyone's daily life.

Request for surveys based on passed accidents come for many reasons: increased accidents, citizens complains, inter-office request and others. These surveys could determine the need for a traffic light, a regulatory sign or the removal of such items at an intersection near you. Of course this is only part of the survey but an accident report reveals many things.

A collision diagram, a drawing showing all accidents at a given spot for a selected period of time, will show at a glance how many accidents there have been and how they occured. From this alone it is often possible to see if changes need to be made or how the area needs to be controlled. However, such a diagram is usually coupled with a field inspection, sometimes a traffic and predstrian count is necessary also.

A fatality calls for emergency handling and a diagram is completed at once, generally a field inspection is also made. This is followed by written recommendations for changes or impovement if they are needed. If the accident was not caused by traffic conditions, then the diagram will confirm this and no action is necessary.

Eastland Elves 'Vocationalize' Santa Claus

SANTA CLAUS added an entire new workshop of elves last week as he stopped at Eastland Joint Vocational Center for a last-minute checkup and tuneup before starting his rounds. He made quickie stops at the cosmetology, dental assistant, welding and steno departments. It was a fun day for the jolly gent and he made no promises he won't keep. From left on his rounds: That's Karen O'Connor, Whitehall, giving Santa a teased hairdo for that modern look. Dental assistants Bonnie Melvin, Bexley and Mary Thompson, Whitehall, checked out Santa's teeth to be sure they were in perfect shape for all that cookie-eating and hot chocolate drinking he faces Christmas eve. Loose runners on that magic sleigh could mean trouble so Bob Straight, Whitehall and Ed Farlow, Groveport, did an excellent weld check to be sure the runners would be in order. Letters, he gets, letters-and what better way to answer them than to have some of the stenographers help. From left are Tina Sallaz, Groveport; Terri Hennen, Groveport and Linda Sutherland, Whitehall. With elves like these Eastland students it is bound to be a Merry Christmas for Santa. Capital Regents Hold Elections, Report 1973 Ending In The Black

Bexley-Four local men have been elected to serve on the executive committee of Capital University's Board of Regents, following elections held during the board's two-day meeting on campus Dec. 10 and 11.

The members are: Walter Tarpley of 2737 Castlewood Rd., elected as vice chairman of the committee; Lester Huber of 4371 Kitzmiller Rd., committee secretary; the Rev. Paul Meuser of 483 Mid Drive, representative from the Ohio District of the American LutheranChurch; and representative-at-large Robert Lazarus, Jr. of 2094 Park Hill Dr.

Other members of the seven-man committee are the Rev. Reginald Holle, Parma, chairman; the Rev. Donald Niehaus of Warren, Mich., who is the Michigan District representative; and the Rev. Albert Gibson of Freehold, N.J., who is the Eastern District representative.

In other action, the regents gave final approval to the university's revised 1973-74 budget, based on official enrollment statistics. In addition, the board received an audited financial report for the 1972-73 fiscal year, ending Aug. 31, which showed that Capital finished the year with a balanced budget.

The board also granted academic leaves during the coming year to nine faculty members, including: Harold Brockman, mathematics; James Burke, history; Louis DeWein, biology; George Eckert, chemistry; Joyce Hathaway, English; Robert Hatton, modern lauguages; June O'Connell, nursing; Carl Skrade, religion; and Daniel Tyack, law.

On Yorktown Job, Union And Non-Union

Board Hears Explanation Of Bidding, Contract Awarding

Columbus-The Assembly Room at the Columbus Education Center resembled a classroom for 45 minutes Dec. 11 as the Board of Education "went to school" on procedures governing bidding and the awarding of contracts on construction projects.

"Teachers" included Superintendent Dr. John Ellis; Dr. Howard O. Merriman, executive director of development; Wade Franklin, contract compliance officer; William Brooks, assistant city attorney; David E. Jones, school architect, and William McDonald, project architect for the remodeling and expansion of Yorktown Junior High School, 5600 E. Livingston Ave.

THE YORKTOWN PROJECT served as a case study for the Board as it heard a step-by-step explanation of how bids are secured and contracts awarded in the school system's $89.5 million building program. Observers noted that the lesson was timely in view of the criticism levelled by trades unions at the Board for awarding some contracts to non-union contractors.

Dr. Ellis explained that bidding and contract-awarding procedures are governed by "very strict legal requirements" and cited provisions of the Board's official policy manual.

He emphasized that under Ohio law, the Board must award contracts to the "lowest responsible bidder," irrespective of whether such a bidder is a union or non-union contractor.

McDONALD DESCRIBED how the architectural firm of McDonald-Cassell and Bassett, 4707 N. High St., determined who the low bidders were on the Yorktown project.

After analyzing all possible combinations of bids, he said it was established that Lincoln Construction, Inc., 1515 Bethel Rd., had submitted the lowest bid for general and electrical work, and that R. M. Giehl, Inc., 975 Safin Rd., the lowest bid for plumbing, heating, ventilating and air conditioning. Lincoln's bid was $194,100 and Giehl's $73,000.

At this point the architect "had an obligation to check to establish that these were responsible firms," McDonald said.

HE REPORTED that his firm secured a list of all work performed by Lincoln during the past five years, then checked with architects associated with this work. "They gave us good - in fact, slightly flattering - reports on Lincoln's work," McDonald said, "and we reported this to school officials."

McDonald added that the financial responsibility of Lincoln was established through the firm's bonding company.

McDonald said his architectural firm was acquainted with the performance record of the Giehl company and was able to "recommend them directly" to the Board as a responsible bidder.

DR. ELLIS reported to the Board that one of the low bidders on the Yorktown project was a union firm, while the other was non-union. He did not identify which was which, and Mrs. Virginia Prentice, vice president of the Board, said she didn't believe the Board should know in making its award to the lowest responsible bidder.

Dr. Ellis turned to Brooks for a legal interpretation of the significance of whether a low bidder was a union or non-union contractor.

Brooks replied, "Legally, there is no significance." He added that his research into the law had turned up a case in 1888 involving the Columbus Board of Education. In that case, the court ruled that "the lowest responsible bidder has an absolute right to have the contract awarded to him," Brooks said.

BROOKS emphasized that "it's a matter of law that none but the lowest responsible bid shall be accepted."

A resolution was to have been presented to the Board at its Dec. 18 meeting calling for the awarding of contracts on the Yorktown project to the Lincoln and Giehl firms.

Poinsettias Say Christmas Is Near

EAST COLUMBUS-Everywhere, everywhere, in Bishop Hartley High School's plastic greenhouse, there are over 1000 poinsettias plants, mostly brilliant red and some in pink, some in white, waiting to be sold in the school's sixth annual Christmas plant sale. Holding one of the unusual white poinsettias is Michael Federico, right, while in the middle is Jane Rybinski, holding a pink one, and at left, is Mary Ryan, with one of the red traditional Christmas blooms. All are students in horticulture classes. Mary Ann Rees, chairman of the school's biology department is in charge of the horticulture classes and says that Hartley was the first school in Columbus to have a green house, six years ago. Their first one, a glass house, is attached to the school and was built by the students themselves, as was the newer plastic-covered house shown in the picture. The program has always been self-supporting, depending on monies earned from the Christmas, Easter and spring flower sales. The classes have also been caring for the trees and shrubs around the school and recently planted 600 red and dark blue tulips around the school sign and trees for spring bloom in the school colors. In addition to the poinsettias, there will be table decorations fashioned of natural materials for sale in Room 324, Thursday, Dec. 20 and Friday, Dec. 21, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. (Photo by Elsie V. VA Answers Questions

Q – My husband was killed in action during World War II, and I never remarried. Am I eligible for a Verterans Administration GI home loan?

A – Yes. The Veterans Housing Act of 1970 restored unused, expired loan benefits to veterans of World War II and later periods, including their unremarried widows.

Q – I draw compensation from the Veterans Administration for a service connected disability suffered in Vietnam. Am I entitled to a $150 annual clothing allowance?

A– That depends upon the nature of your disability. If you wear one or more prosthetic or orthopedic appliances (including a wheelchair) which tend to wear out or tear your clothing, you are eligible. But you must apply to VA to get it.

School For Detectives Opens Jan. 14

Columbus–Effective Jan. 14, 1974, the Columbus Division of Police will operate a second in-depth training school for dectectives.

Chief Earl Burden stated that this program was initiated in July of 1973, and was a great aid in the detective Bureau Training Program. This program follows the departmental policy of constantly upgrading the training and knowledge of Columbus Police Officers. This particular school is designed to provide instruction in the basic skills a police officer needs if he is to become a well-rounded and effectively trained detective.

Classroom training will include three weeks of instruction in such subjects as the collection and preservation of evidence, crime scene photography, search and seizure, surveillance, latent fingerprints, interviews and interrrogations and other investigative techniques. The instructors of these subjects will include experienced detective supervisors, as weell as special agents of the F.B.I., Secret Service, Alcohol, Tax and Firearms Division, and the Internal Revenue Service.

After completion of the classroom training, the trainees will be rotated among the various detective squads, such as homicide, burglary and checks for a period of five months. Whil attached to these squads, the trainee will work with a veteran detective coach who will provide individual instruction and actually allow the trainee to conduct detailed criminal investigations.

A written examination will be given each student after the classroom sessions. In addition,each trainee will also be graded on his job performance by his detective coach.

Those officers who successfully complete the entire six-month course will be awarded an official graduation certificate by Chief Burden, and then be considered for permanent assignment as detectives.

In keeping with the spirit of cooperation which exists between the Columbus Police and other law enforcement agencies, Chief Burden has invited local, suburban and county chiefs to send selected officers from their departments to receive this specialized training.

Golden Agers Have All Decked The Halls With Holly

"CELEBRATE a 'Castle Christmas', join the medieval merriment at McDowell Manor" reads the spicy invitation from McDowell Senior Citizens Recreation Center, 275 McDowell St.

"McDowell Manor" is just one of the first of these happy beehives of Senior activity to get its Holiday news in the mail.

Among the others are the Senior Citizens Center at Second and Summit, Sawyer Towers, 975 Caldwell Place, and Linton Gardens, 2385 Mock Road.

McDowell Center, with its 3,099 members, began the Season the first of the month with a decorating party at which they "decked the halls with Holly and Ivy" for the Twelve Days of Christmas.

The Christmas Party itself is set for December 21, and will get under way at two o'clock in the afternoon. "Why go home for dinner that day?" they ask and go on to suggest "join us for Christmas pot-luck bring your special holiday salad, vegetable or dessert.

Meat will be provided at a nominal cost. The final attraction is evening dancing to the tunes of the "golden-airs".

SECOND and Summit started off its Christmas celebration witha special holiday shopping trip to Eastland Mall. Lunch was optional.

Throughout the month the Center will have its own creative exhibit, The Holiday Everyman Art Show.

The actual Christmas Party will expand this theme of originally with a Christmas pageant written by the Creative Writing class and featuring the Center Singing and Speaking Chorus.

They have chosen December 19, as their date.

SAWYER Towers Senior Center has put its emphasis a little differently. Their Christmas project is the collecting of soap to sent to pateients at the State Hospital. Triple Treat is how they bill their Christmas Party which they have scheduled for December 20.

They will celebrate birthdays, anniversaries, and have a special program all in one night beneath their shining Christmas Tree.

"HOLLY HOP" is what they call the Christmas Party at Linton Gardens and they are having it December 20 too. They promise a "skit", caroling and fun, fun, fun.

In a more serious vein, they go on "We are asking everyone to bring a piece of fruit when they come to the party, thus can we share the spirit of Christmas and bring joy to those folks who are sick and shut-in during the Holiday Season."

We could go on and on with the other Senior Centers who will be just as busy celebrating the season of goodwill, giving and sharing of their cheer.

Who says Christms is just for children and Santa Claus?

SPEAKING of Christmas, the place in town with the most original gifts, gift wrappings, decorating materials, tree ornaments and ideas, ideas, ideas, is the Golden Hobby Shop at 906 E. Broad St. The Shop is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Parking is free - front and back.

There are tree decorations of stained glass, wood, felt, fabric and paper; beautiful wooden tops, toys and games; story dolls, Raggedy Anns and Andys, and hand made puppets; painted china, wood carvings, and work in silver; and the original knitt.. work is gorgeous.

SENIOR Citizens throughout the community, serving others and being served, take this opportunity through their Council on Aging to wish the warmest of Holiday Greetings to everyone.

12 Days Of Christmas Can Be A Happy Time

THE "12 DAYS of Christmas" are normally a joyous time of year. But not for the millions of Americans who suffer from lung disease.

Harold Throop, executive director of the Central Ohio Lung Association (formerly the Tuberculosis Society), revealed some sobering statistics covering the traditional 12 days of Christmas, which are the design theme of this year's Christmas Seals.

Scaling down the figures from yearly estimates, Throop predicted there will be 19,300 new cases of chronic bronchitis and emphysema in this country from December 25 to Epiphany, January 6, which commemorates the arrival of the Magi into Jerusalem. These diseases will cause 900 deaths during the same holiday season.

DESPITE a steady decline over the years, there will be 1,080 new cases of tuberculosis and about 150 deaths during the 12 day period.

A lot of the holidays will go up in smoke, as 19,726,027,000 cigarettes are smoked. That averages 12 cigarettes a day for each person in the U.S. over 18 years, according to Throop. As many as 9,880 persons may die prematurely from diseases related to smoking during the 12 days. Happily, some 65,750 Americans will kick the habit during this period, and reduce their risk of emphysema and chronic bronchitis, Throop added.

SANTA WON'T be the only thing in the sky this Christmas. According to the Environmental Protection Agency, cars, incinerators, factories and other sources will spew about 9,238 tons of waste into the air while we're celebrating the Christmas Season.

Exposure to air pollution can make individuals more susceptible to colds, flu and pneumonia, and can aggravate more serious disorders such as asthma and emphysema.

"Forgetting about lung disease during the holidays would be nice, but these cripplers and killers don't take holidays," Throop stressed.

NEITHER DOES the Central Ohio Lung Association. Christmas Seal contributions are used 365 days a year in Franklin Delaware and Union counties by the Central Ohio Lung Association. 81 per cent of the locally collected funds stays in the central Ohio area to support the following programs: an Industry based emphysema screening program, designed to help prevent a certain type of emphysema which is inherited; monies for lung disease research locally; anti-smoking programs for childrenand educational help for the teacher to teach comprehensively about the respiratory system; general and professional education; fellowships for students in the pulmonary disease areas, a home care program for patients with breathing difficulties; comprehensive hospital surveys on respiratory disease facilities and counciling services for hospitals to help upgrade their facilities; air pollution activities; smoking clinics; tine TB tests provided to schools, an x-ray unit serving the inner city area where TB incidence is the highest; and an air pollution multiple image slide presentation available to groups of 100 or more.

THROOP explained that this year's goal of 275,000 dollars may not be met if the campaign remains 21 per cent behind last year's totals at this time in the campaign. The Christmas Seal organization believes that part of the dramatic drop in contributions stems from the fact people are still confused by the name change.

Many notes and phone calls have come in this campaign wondering why the Central Ohio Lung Association is sending the Tuberculosis Society's Christmas Seals.

THE PROBLEM is that in a direct mail campaign such as the Christmas Seal effort, many individuals either don't open the envelope containing the seals or take the time to read the accompaning letter of explanation.

Throop stressed that the reason for the change in name was to better reflect what has been the purpose of the TB Society and now the Central Ohio Lung Association for 6 years...to prevent and control all lung diseases. Christmas Seals are an important cause. It is a matter of life and breath...support Christmas Seals.

Careers Conference Will Benefit Graduate Students

COLLEGE STUDENTS and servicemen from the Franklin County Area may sign up for as many job interviews as they wish at the 1973 Columbus Careers Conference set for Dec. 26-27-28 at Scot's Inn on Sinclair Road.

That's the word from William Christensen, chairman of the event which is open to college juniors and seniors who expect to get their degrees by Jan. 31, 1975, and to college graduates who expect to get discharged from military service by the same date.

THERE'S NO FEE or obligation of any kind for participation in the Columbus Careers Conference which is sponsored as a public service by the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce.

Christensen pointed out that "an excellent variety of potential career opportunities with local business and industrial firms, and with social and governmental agencies, will be showcased" at the three-day conference.

"THE CAREERS Conference," he said, "is convenient because college-trained people can explore many career opportunities in their hometown with a number of leading employers in a relatively short time, and in one location

Christensen said that "in these uncertain times, students would be prudent to explore career prospects early, and whenever there's an opportunity. They can do this at the Columbus Careers Conference."

PERSONAL interviews will be given by 39 leading employers based in Metropolitan Franklin County, or with major facilities in the community.

Registration for interviews will be conducted from noon until 5 p.m. on Dec. 26 by the Eastern Kiwanis Club which will also handle other functions during the three-day affair. Private interviews will be given all day Dec. 27, and from 9 to noon on Dec. 28.

INTERVIEWS were given to 600 registrants from 77 colleges and universities at the 1972 Conference. Ohio State University had the largest turnout with 226 students. Franklin University was second with 49, Ohio University third with 30, followed by Miami University with 20, and Otterbein and Ohio Dominican with 14 each.

Christensen said the Conference would be beneficial to students from a variety of academic backgrounds. He said they can sift through a wide range of job prospects in finance, research, data processing, communications, business administration, marketing, engineering, and others.

There were 74 different majors represented at last year's Conference. The five largest groupings, in order, were business administration, marketing, accounting, psychology, and economics.

Energy Crisis May Lower Accidents

The energy crisis may result in fewer traffic fatalities during the Christmas holiday, Ohio Highway Safety Director Eugene P. O'Grady has predicted.

"Department statisticians project 25 persons will die on the state's highways during the 4½ day holiday this Christmas," O'Grady said. "This figure may reflect the lower fatalities we have been redording the past few weekends since travel has been discouraged and gasoline stations have been closed Saturday nights and Sundays. Last year, 30 persons were traffic victims during the 3¼ day period."

The reporting period begins at 6 p.m. Friday, Dec. 21 and ends at midnight Christmas day.

Highest toll recorded in Ohio for a 4¾ day Christmas holiday since 1951 was 49, recorded in 1956. Lowest toll occured in 1951 when 20 were killed.

"The number 25 is projection, not a quota, O'Grady commented. "We hope the holiday can be death-free so families will not have their happy time saddened by unnecessary tragedy. If each driver does his part to drive defensively, to keep speed well suited to raod and traffic conditions, and to make sure all car occupants buckle safety belts and harnesses, the actual toll can be far less than the predicted 25."

The highway safety director offered these suggestions for a safer trip:

Allow plenty of time to reach your destinatio. Remeber that the trip will takelonger at 55 miles per hour, and plan accordingly. Don't try to make up time on the road.

Make sure car is in good mechanical condition, and equipped with snow tires, new windshield wiper blades, and emergency equipment.

Don't drive after drinking Let a non-drinker do the driving.

Fasten safety belts and harnesses. They're your best protection in case of a crash.

Energy Savers At All Post Offices

Ralph E. Haffenden, Officer-In-Charge, has advised that all 110 post offices and 30 stations, in the Columbus Postal District, have taken steps to reduce energy consumption in the face of the national energy crisis.

Building temperatures have been reduced to 68 degrees on workdays and several degrees lower on weekends. Approximately 20,000 light tubes, at the Main Post Office representing a 50 percent reduction in administrative offices and 30 percent in fringe areas of the mail processing plant, have been removed.

Vehicle speeds have been reduced to a maximum of 50 miles per hour. Cleaning operations have been rescheduled to daylight hours and a criteria for immediate shut-down of mail processing support equipment, when not in full use, has been established.

"We are constantly reviewing energy consumption in the face of the national crisis," Haffenden said.

Christmas Pets Can Be A Real Joy

IF YOU are planning to give your children a pet for Christmas, the American Veterinary Medical Association (AVMA) has a few suggestions which can make the gift a joy for the entire family.

Decide what size pet you can accommodate in your house or apartment, allowing enough room for the animal to sleep, eat, play and exercise.

Be sure to select a pet that will fit into your family's style of living.

EXOTIC animals such as monkeys, skunks, jungle cats and certain reptiles rarely make good pets.

They are usually expensive and difficult to care for.

Pets cost money. Be prepared for the day-to-day expenses of food, health care and other essentials.

"Free" pets from animal shelters also involve some expense. Any animal you bring into your home should be thoroughly examined by a veterinarian and vaccinated against infectious diseases.

Depending upon local laws, your pet may also require a license.

LIKE ANY member of the family, a pet needs medical attention.

Regular visits to the veterinarian will help keep your pet happy and healthy.

It is a good idea to have your pet spayed or neutered as soon as your veterinarian says the animal is ready. Spaying will free you from the burden to trying to find homes for kittens and puppies-an increasingly difficult problem.

You probably will find that the operation also makes your pet healthier and a better companion. Neutered animals are less likely to roam or "spot" furniture and carpets.

YOUR NEW pet will be with you for a long time. Careful selection, proper planning and responsible care can make pet ownership a wonderful experience for the whole family.

Display Is At Library

A SINGER sewing machine constructed about 1923 and a china tea set made about 1880 are among the toys included in a colorful antique toy collection on display in the Columbus Public Library, 96 S. Grant Ave.

This is the fifth year the toy display has been shown in the library. The private collections of several persons, the exhibit contains many items dating back to the 1880's.

Also exhibited is a toy stove used as a sales promotion by the Newark Stove Company and presented as a gift to children when their parents bought a kitchen stove. The toy exhibit will continue through Dec. 27 in the library's glass showcase on the ground floor.

Also displayed at the library is a representative display of puppets and photographs of famous puppeteers. This display will continue in the library's second floor lobby through Dec. 28.

State Memorials Closed For Holidays

All state memorials administered by The Ohio Historical Society, including the Ohio Historical Center, Interstate 71 and 17th Ave., Columbus, will be closed Tuesday, Dec. 25, and Tuesday, Jan. 1.

The holiday closures will not affect free film offerings the Dec. 22 and 23 and Dec. 29 and 30 weekends preceding the two holidays. Playing the former dates is "The New Deal," Franklin Roosevelt and the depression years; and the latter dates, "The Legend of Valentino," more on filmdom's romantic here of the silent era.

The Ohio Historical Society presents "The New Deal" as the free weekend movie shown at the Ohio Historical Center, I-71 and 17th Ave. to be shown at 2 and 3 p.m. in the Center's auditorium on Saturday and Sunday, December 22 and 23. Admission is free.

Capital Receives Funds For Faculty Seminars

Bexley-Capital University has recieved a $13,292 grant under the franternal benevolence program of Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) in Appleton, Wis.

In announcing receipt of the grant, Capital president Thomads H. Langevin said funds will be used to sponsor faculty seminars on teaching. The program will be offered at Capital for personnel from other Lutheran ccolleges and universities.

UNDER THE PLAN, two representatives from each of 12 schools would be sleected to attend the seminars, which will be taught by members of theCapital University faculty.

Twenty-two sponsoring organizations will dedicate plaques to the athletes under 11 trees planted last year.

The sponsoring organizations are: The Jewish Center, Tennage Board, National Council JewishWomen, Mizrachi, O.R.T., Hadassah, Temple Israel Sisterhood, Beth Tikvah, A.A. Brotherhood and Sisterhood, B'nai B'rith Zion Lodge, B'nai B'rith Macabees, Hebrew School, Torah Academy, T.I. Brotherhood and Sisterhood, Z.O.A., Congregation Ahavas Sholom, B'nai B'rith Women's Council, Hillel, Heritage House Auxiliary and Beth Jacob Youth.

A special two-staff flagpole will be presented to the community by the Jewish War Veterans, in memory of the athletes and the deadof the Yom Kippur War. Taps will be blown.

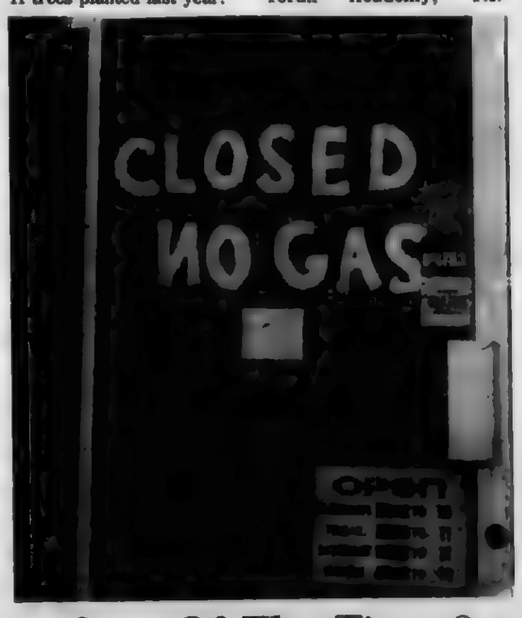
The fifth candle will be kindled on the giant Menorah in front of the Center.

The program will take place at the Jewish Center Ampitheater, 1125 College Ave., at 4:15 p.m.

In case of inclement weather, the program will be held in the Center Auditorium.

The giant Menorah in frontof the JewishCenter, that is fueled by kerosene and lit each day of Chanukah, will burn for 40 minutes after sun down and will then be extinguished.

This action recommended by the Public Affairs committee of the Center is to give a sense of urgency and concern for the energy crisis.



Sign Of The Times?

EAST COLUMBUS-This East area gas station had on its front door the words noone wants to see, especially on his way to work, or on his regular Saturday rush to "fill 'er up" to prepare for gasless Sunday.

Residents Serve In Blood Program

East Columbus-Each day, Red Cross Blood Program volunteers meet the blood donors who freely give "the gift of life." For each currently active Red Cross Blood Program volunteer, three more are needed now, particularly during the holiday season, when blood needs are most critical.

The following East area residents are members of the Red Cross Blood Program team that takes on the immense task of collecting, processing and distributing the 70,000 pints of blood needed each year in Central Ohio. The volunteers are: Mrs. Katie Banks, 1500 Harvard Ave.; Mrs. Vinella Clark, 200 Miami Ave.; Mrs. Charlotte Rossbach, 152 North Hawthorne; Mrs. Bessie Banks, 1100 East Broad St.; Mrs. Carrie Billingsley, 617 Seymour Ave.; Mrs. Birdie Hairston, 1217½ Franklin Ave.; Mrs. Ellie Pommer, 1445 East Broad St.; Mrs. Florentine Walker, 1217 Franklin Ave.; Miss Georgianna Barr, 1365 South Ohio; Mrs. Wilma Daniels, 510 Markison Ave.; Mrs. Elizabeth Conroy, 1749 Westrun St.; Mrs. Mary Micacchion, 2450 Stelzer Rd.; Mrs. Jo Billet, 4447 Errington Rd.; Mrs. Carl Kunzi, 3192 Eastwick Rd.; Miss Rosalie Tieman, 1337 Barnett Rd.; Mrs. Elizabeth Tyde, 3513 Roswell Dr.

With Seal Sale 48 Years

Bexley-Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thomas, 2760 Columbus Ave., look on as Bexley's Mayor McClure signs a Christmas Seal Week proclamation for the Central Ohio Lung Association (formerly the Tuberculosis Society), which declares the week of Dec. 17 as the week to answer their Christmas Seal letter and use the seals on all their holiday mail. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas have been serving as both paid and volunteer helpers for 48 years in the Central Ohio Lung Association's annual Christmas Seal campaign. Locally, the Tuberculosis Society which recently changed its name to the Central Ohio Lung Association, has been serving the Central Ohio area for 67 years. Their programs are supported by Christmas Seal dollars alone. Through the years the organization has been instrumental in controlling and preventing TB. Now, the organization is hard at work with all types of lung diseases; this is the sixth year that they have been working in the areas of emphysema, bronchitis, anti-smoking, air pollution and other lung disease related areas. The Central Ohio Lung Association spends 81 percent of locally collected Christmas Seal dollars on local programs. The Christmas Seal campaign is their only fund-raising support.

'Out Came The Sun' At Temple Preschool

EAST COLUMBUS-"Out came the sun and dried up the rain," go the words to the song about the "Eensy Weensy Spider," and the three and four-year-olds at Temple Israel Preschool delight in singing the song and making the motions that go with it. Above, they sing and make big suns as their teacher, Mrs. Nancy Schubert sings and accompanies them on her guitar. This was one of 15 songs and dances, including two in Hebrew, which they presented in a musical Dec. 10 for their friends and families. The youngsters attend the school for two and one-half hours during the mornings of Mondays, Wednesdays and Friday. Children two and one-half years old attend on Tuesday and Thursday mornings. There are a limited number of openings at this time. (Photo by Elsie V. Weaver)

Enjoying Pioneers' Ways In Blacklick Lodge

STEAMING HOT mulled cider was enjoyed by the many people who crowded into the lodge at Blacklick Woods for the exhibit of pioneer life. Ladies in long dresses, shawls and sun bonnets did the ladling out of the liquid for the visitors. (Photos by Elsie V. Weaver)

EAST COLUMBUS-Hundreds of Eastside residents were treated to the sights, smells and tastes of Ohio pioneer holiday traditions recently as the staff of Blacklick Woods presented a Sunday afternoon show of those traditions for the public. Above, a little miss garbed in the dress, apron and cap of the early 1800s cracks hickory nuts for a holiday cake or nutbread, by pressing two nuts together in her hands.

Natural Resources Director William B. Nye reports that the 96-room vacation lodge at Mohican State Park in Richland County is 85 per cent complete and will be open in the summer of 1974.

As a friend, you should make it easy for those who will be driving to remain sober: "First A Friend .. Then a Host!"

Pyjamas Not For Sleeping

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

LEO NARDUCCI'S most important fashion is the Big Top in brilliantly colored sequined chiffon over a pair of white jersey evening pyjamas.

KASPER for Joan Leslie emphasizes the roomy shirt and easy pants in clear sequined snake charmer print crepe.

GLORIA SACHS shows a crisp cotton chintz of strawberry print on black for this pants costume...complete with soft silk jersey halter in matching pink.

GEOFFREY BEENE'S softly draped crepe pyjamas are amusingly printed with stylized faces and etched with bands of black satin.

PANTS ARE still a very important part of American fashion according to the Designer Spring Showings I viewed recently in New York...however, the designers have shifted their pants devotion from daytime to evening. Yes, the evening pyjama promises to be the most exciting new look in the spring collections!

Along with evening gowns, each designer showed a few glamorous evening pyjamas...feminine, comfortable, casual and romantic...reflecting the mood of today's life styles.

GEOFFREY BEENE created his evening pyjamas from a group of the most luxurious fabrics...designed in the unfussy manner with great wit, that is his signature. He uses lots of crepe de chine and satin crepe, printed from his own designs, for intimate relaxed evenings. And because Beene's attitude is, "that fashion must never cease to amuse", he added glittering black evening pyjamas embroidered with trompe-l'oeil bows and faces.

LEO NARDUCCI brought his eveningwear collection to a spectacular finale with his unmatched sequined chiffons in a profusion of color. Completely feminine, totally dramatic are double layers of violet, electric blue, orange and kelly green all-over sequin Big Tops, floating over white jersey evening trousers.

KASPER for Joan Leslie focused on liquid, luxe shapings for his evening pyjamas. Fabrics that are extravagently soft yet richly textured to accomodate basic body line, were used for easy, roomy shirt tops over flowing pants...crepe de chine, georgette and chiffon in Chinese lacquer colors and prints.

GLORIA SACHS sparks a modern Romantic theme in her evening collection. To Gloria, "Modern means multiple uses for every fashion, fabrics that can be worn in any climate, anywhere, anytime." With the added plus of her artist's background, she originates her own dyed-to-match colorings.

Bright pink strawberries glow against a dark chintz background in a pants outfit. Turquoise and pink Honan silk creates an evening pyjama. Her romantic theme appears again in a pure silk pongee for pants and a long fisherman's shirt.

Speaking of Beauty

USUALLY THE SIMPLEST IS THE BEST

We talk about the looks we are able to help our partons to achieve, and of our skills and techniques in helping them, but I don't mean to make this sound like some highly contrived thing. As a matter of fact, almost always the simplest is the best. Hair should be cared for naturally, taking into consideration that there are certain physiological laws to follow. Beautiful skin is kept beautiful by following and assisting nature to succeed. Our patrons lovely nails are the result of care, not magic.

BEXLEY-After storytime comes building time at Bexley Preschool, Jeffrey Mansion, 165 N. Parkview Ave. Whether hearing about Pilgrims or Indians, Winnie the Pooh or Christmas tales, creative modeling and scene-building in sand pile or big shallow boxes is likely to follow. On walks on the park grounds, natural materials such as evergreen branches are gathered, then twigs become trees. Modeling clay becomes animals on the ground and ducks on painted streams. Clothespins, dressed in cloth and leather become people. After it has all been created and carefully placed, each child likes to point out his work as the boy in the picture shows us. Sometimes even Pooh Bear comes along to observe the scenes, as his owner holds him up so he can see.

Seals From Lung Association Now

Mrs. Pat Davis, 1683 Cindy Ct., points out the new name of the Christmas Seal organization. Mrs.Davis is the Fund Raising Director of the campaign an is quite concerned that many contributors do not seem to be aware tht the Tuberculosis Society changed its nme in April to the Central Ohio Lung Association. The reason for the change was to better reflect what the organization has been doing for the last 6 years. The purpose of the Lung Association is to prevent and control all lung diseases including TB. Presently the campaign is not doing well.Christmas Seal contributions are 21 per cent behind last year's totals at this date in 1972. Part of the reason may be the name change confusion. The Association hopes, Mrs. Davis says, that you will use your seals and mail your contribution for them, to the associations headquarters, 185 S. Fifth St. Columbus, 43215.

The drawing power of the Christmas Story takes us to the Churches to participate in this great event of God's sharing love. It becomes a natural part of us to bow the knee before a very unnatural happening. Christmas is never fulfilled until we gather in the Lord's House before a lowly manger and sing the carols and catch the joy of the first Christmas morning when angels sang "Glory to God in the Highest" and "Peace on Earth to Men of Good Will." Volunteers Needed At Eastmoor Jr.

East Columbus--If Eastmoor Jr. High School area residents would like to volunteer one hour or more a week to help instruction at Eastmoor, the staff would appreciate any help that they would receive, according to school officials.

The following are a few examples of places volunteers could be helpful:

The new English program at the school could be aided by classroom assistance on some projects; the math department needs volunteers to assist students with baskic math such as learning multiplication tables; and the library could also ususe some help in filing and returning materials.

Chanuhah Celebration Starts Tonight

EAST COLUMBUS-Demonstrating one of the traditions of Judaism the world over are Stephanie Schwartz, and Steven Golberg, sixth graders at the Columbus Torah Academy. Stephanie watches as Steven uses the green "servant" candle to light the first candle in the holder called a Menorah, used to celebrate the Festival Of Lights, Chanukah. Chanukah means 25 in Hebrew. The Jews in ancient times rested on the 25th day, to celebrate the fact the lamp oil was supposed to last only one more day but by a miracle it lasted eight days, enabling the Macabees to defeat the Syrians. Each day, starting today at night fall, one candle is lit with the shamus, the green candle, until all eight candles are lit.

Bexley Magician To Perform At COSI

Bexley--One of Columbus' young magicians, Jeff Gould of 949 Grandon Ave., known on the stage as "The Amazing Keplar," will perform for audiences at the Center of Science and Industry on Sunday, Dec. 23 at 2 and 4 p.m. This is one of the Center's special holiday events for families.

Gould, a graduate of Bexley High School and currently an employee of Nationwide Insurance, became interested in magic 10 years ago as a result of watching Mack Wilson's "Magic Circus" TV show. He received his first exposure to the world of magic when he visited Nelson's Magic Shop.

Comments Jeff, "I have found that doing magic creates more friends because they see a trick performed and then want to see more. Some people say magic is dying out, but I personally believe that it is experiencing a rebirth through the television medium."

Seats for the performances will be on a first come, first serve basis. While at the Center visitors can see the International Christmas Tree exhibit, visit the Street of Yesteryear and see candle-making, spinning and weaving demonstrations; see a performance of "Star of Bethlehem" in the planetarium, take a trip through the Center's new simulated coal mine exhibit, plus many other features.

COSI visiting hours are Monday thru Saturday from 10 p.m. to 5 p.m., Sundays and holidays from 1 to 5:30 p.m.

The Center will be closed December 24 and 25 and on New Year's Day.

Veterans' Administration Answers

Q -- The Veterans Administration is giving my daughter dependents' educational assistance based on the service connected death of my husband. Since she plans to marry soon, I wonder if this will affect her assistance?

A -- Your daughter's marriage would have no effect on her education benefits. A widow's remarriage under the same program, however, would result in termination of benefits, unless the remarriage was terminated by death or divorce.

AROUND TOWN

Merry Christmas To All

Before I get into what's going on Around Town this week, let me take this time to wish each and everyone of you, the most happy and joyous Christmas ever. To all my friends, associates at the Spectator, the entertainers and owners and operators who help make this column possible and most of all, you, my readers, may you and all of your loved ones share a Mery Christmas and a beautiful New Year.

Hinton A Hit At Ramada Inn

He's faster than Lightning, he shakes, shimmys, oscilates, with an obstruive on-slaught of show business verve that litteraly knocks you off your chair. His name is Don Hinton, fronting a quartet of msuicians at the Ramada Inn-South. Don Hinton is one of the most electrifying singers to hit the Columbus area in many a moon.

Don is a showman's showman. Take away his fluid gyrations, and Don Hinton is still a fascinating performer, because he is also a singer's singer. Singing with a voice that is as big and deep as the Grand Canyon with an attack more devastating than a herd of stampeding elephants, Don Hinton keeps your eyes and ears glued to everything he does on stage. It's not surprising that Don can take rock and contemporary songs and splatter them all over the lounge with his sensational stylizings. But, just wait until he sings some beautiful old ballads. His vocal reditions on these, even songs like, "White Christmas," are simply beautiful. He sings with so much feeling, that he creates an emotional aura throughout the lounge at Ramada Inn-South.

Backing up Don is a group called the Originals, comprised of L.D. Stamp on electric guitar, Clyde L. Farrow at the drums, Allen J. Ballweg with fender bass and Randy Moroz playing organ and electric piano. All four are excellent musicians. L.D. Stamp and Clyde Farrow are also fine vocalists in their own right. They, along with the other members of the quartet, add some nice vocal harmonies behind Don. When Don is not on stage, The Originals provide plenty of good entertainment. But, let there be no doubt about it, Don Hinton is the main attraction.

Some people in the business have said that if you like Elvis, you'll love Don Hinton. I feel that Don is more of a classic and sophisticated performer than Elvis was at the height of his career. Sitting in the audience reminds me of an old Sinatra performance when the girls swoon at everything he did.

Hinton will be at the Ramada Inn-South this week and next. Take my advice, it is a must on your entertainment schedule. Don't miss Don Hinton and The Originals while they are Around Town.

Scioto Inn Is Exciting

Dined at the New Scioto Inn the other evening. What a fine meal. Not only was the food fit for the proverbial king, but the intimacy and decor created a pleasant atmosphere for dining.

While many of you may think of the New Scioto Inn as a swinging night spot offering top notch entertainment, don't forget the food. The dining room and lounge are completely seperated.

I began my meal with a carafe of wine. Next came the salad. This was a very fresh, tossed salad with their own homemade roquefort dressing. Now, here was a treat that made the trip to the Scioto Inn worth it all. I have never tasted such a delicious roquefort dressing as was served to me here. It did not have a strong roquefort taste, but had just a tinge of sweetness to it. I think I could have made a meal just on the salad dressing.

Then came the entree, which was prime rib of roast beef us jus. I have dined on prome rib many times in my travels Aournd Town, but this was, without a doubt, one of the very best I have experienced. And, that's just it was, a truely wonderful dining experience. Not only was it extremely tender, but it was exceptionaly flavorable. When you think of a seculent, tender piece of beef, witha taste oout of this world, the prime rib of beef au jus prepared by the New Scioto Inn meets every requirement.

The amazing aspect of it all, was the price. Considering the quality and quantity it was very inexpensive. There are many other fine entrees on the menu. So, all in all, the New Scioto Inn is a dining place I have to recommend. The same is true for the other half of the operation. Their lounge is also lovely and features first rate entertainment. The Chuck Dailey Trio, featuring sexy Betty Helsel is the current offering. More on them later.

For dining, dancing, top entertainment and an all around good time, make the New Scioto Inn one of your night spots.

Take Two Are Unusual

Currently tearing things up at the King's Inn at the Imperial House Arlington, is Take Two. This is a duo made up of two well known entertainers Around Town, Bill Star and Scott Steelman.

Both are excellent musicians as well as being first rate vocalists. Bill, as always, plays a tasty set of drums. His work on the skins and cymbals shows me a lot of creativity along with a set of speedy hands. In the vocal departmeent, Bill can and does sing up a storm. Possessing a pleasing tonal quality, Bill has the ability to handle his voice well.

Partner Scott Steelman is no slouch either. His is absolute boss of the black and whites showing off a fine style and technique.

Playing all types of music which presented with first rate arrangements, Take Two ends up being a fun type, exciting duo. They keeps things moving at a fast ckip, never leaving a dull moment. The duo plays music that is excellent for dancing Or, you can sit back and enjoy some way out sounds.

Take two will be at King's Inn of the Imperial House - Arlington Motel the rest of this week. So why don't you take two, or three or four and spend some time with Take Two. It's a swinging duo that will take your mind of the problems of the day.

Skipping Around Town

The new group at Lincoln Lodge is a foursome that's loaded with talented. All I'll tell you now about Sterling Silver is that they are fantastic. Make sure you see them...Colours have been held over at the swinging Marco Polo's Lounge. This is an explosive, highly unusual group. For you who love top flight contemporary music, then you must catch Colours at Marco Polo's Lounge, on W. 5th Ave...Hey Kids, get your Mom or Dad to take you to the Holiday Inn-North this Saturday morning and breakfast with Santa. That's right, ole Santa is making a special trip to Columbus, so that he may have breakfast with some of the boys and girls in our area. He will be at the Holiday Inn-North from 8 a.m. until noon. Then he has to head back to the North Pole and get ready for his big trip. Look for me, I'll be there...Be sure to read next week's column. As for the past many years, we will give you a complete listing of what's going on Around Town, New Years Eve. You read all about the various packages deals offered by various establishments, their costs, and what all you get, I'll tell you who is playing where, and if there is a special cover charge. This is where you'll find out where to go New Years Eve.

Don Hinton and The Originals, a dynamic group of performers, perform nightly at the Ramada Inn - South. Don, a vibrant singer, presents three shows nightly, this week and next.

Hartley vs Ready

Many Surprises

Whitehall Stands Tallest Among All Cage Leagues

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Spectator Sports Writer

Whitehall, East and Hartley came through with the big ones last week, but don't thing you're over the hump-Russ Gregg, Paul Pennel and Dick Geyer. Like they say "The farther you go the rougher they get!"

Hartley was the stunner of all last week red-facing defending state AA champs Ready 67-50 behind the neat shooting of Mike Gilliland (20) and the overall performance of the Hawks which roundball boss Dick Geyer termed as "Super defense, just super."

NOT FIGURED too strong as the outset of this young season Geyer's hounding Hawkeyes have played with what Geyer describes as, "Emotion...these kids really play from the heart."

This emotion must have a great deal to do with the Hawks present first place status. What do you think Dick?

"We don't really have a superstar, but we're real balanced and we are really improving," he addsof the quintet composed of Gilliland, Dave Profera, Doug Jones, Ron White and Mark McNally.

Six-five Rick Boone six-mans this group which Geyer says, "Can still get a lot better," And a good time to find out might just be next Friday in a trip to Wehrle and the following night in a ride to Groveport.

East, meanwhile, with a weekend pair of bippings over Whetstone and South, sits atop the City League loop with a perfect 3-0 tab. Marion Franklin is a half game back at 2-0.

THESE talented Paul Pennell coached Tigers looked awesome with Terry Jameson, Mike Hall and Hilton Hale combining for 69 of East's 84 against Whetstone.

And bigger than last week's dual win copping will be a rivalry matchup in the East High Gymn this Friday night when Linden McKinley, a weekend victor over highly touted Walnut Ridge, invades.

Whitehall continued its domination of the Ohio Capital Conference with a 73-54 belting over a determined Westerville crew. A significant win it must be for the Russ Greggers as smooth as silk Terry Burris was aided nicely in the scoring department by Benton Tedlie and Bill [illegible].

ELSEWHERE around the OCC Worthington and Mt. Vernonlay a game back of the Rams as Worthington outgunned Gahanna and Mt. Vernon handled Reynoldsburg.

Doug Burkhart and Don Brough double figured it for Worthington against Gahanna but couldn't come up with the spice on Saturday in a one point loss to Grove City.

In other OCC action Delaware tapped Westland

In CCL happenings St. Charles dropped a six-pointer to Watterson before coming back to whip Zanesville Rosecrans Saturday night behind the firing of Eric Stinson and Mike Hausfeld.

THE CITY League remains as ever as Eastmoor looked wonderful in rocking West Friday night 73-66 and then turning around and turnovering its way to defeat on the following night at Whetstone. The second place Warriors at 2-1 benefited from 51 Brian Stertzer weekend points.

Walnut Ridge dropped to 1-2 inside the circuit looking extremely balanced in a whompingof South on Friday and then tilting Saturday in a one-point loss to Linden.

OTHER weekend highlights saw Marc Abramson score big, 30, in a win over Urbana before the Lions were tamed at Grandview the following night and Franklin Heights put on a good showing witha 56-40 clobbering of West Jefferson.

Ready encored its loss to Hartley with another, this time a 49-46 to Middletown Lemon-Monroe.

Complimenting the aforementioned card for next week is South at Eastmoor, Central at Walnut Ridge and Mifflin at West in the City.

OCC rumbling has Westland accomodating Worthington, Reynoldsburg hiking to Westeville and Whitehall trying to stay clean at Gahannna.

Friday CCL dates are Ready at St. Charles and DeSales at Watterson.

Hamilton Township invides Franklin Heights in the Metro while Bexley travels to Hilliard in the Mid-Eight.

AREA-NON league action takes hold Saturday night as East takes off to Toledo for a match-up with Scott and Hartley hitches to Groveport.

Ready Smoker December 27

An "athletic smoker" will be held at Bishop Ready High School, 3161 W. Mound St. at Brinker, Thursday, Dec. 27 with buffet starting at 7 p.m. Doors open at 6:45 p.m.

The guest speaker will be Cincinnati Bengals president and owner John Sawyer.

Tickets are $5 per person or $8 per couple.

Boy's First Gun

Many young hunters will be anticipating receiving their first gun on or about December 25. The happiness and job of owning his first gun will largely depend on the proper instruction and training he is given in the ways of handling a firearm.

Boy's and guns go together as naturally as boys and dogs. But when a boy becomes a shooter he must put childish horseplay behind him. When the young shooter is intrusted with a gun, it means that someone believes he is old enough to use it safely. His gun is a man-sized responsibility. He should use it as often as possible, for shooting skill is honed with practice, but always remember that a gun is a man's tool and not a boy's toy.

A good gun, used with proper ammunition, is no more dangerous than an ax or saw. It is the person handling the gun who makes it dangerous or safe.

Ohio law specifies that hunters under 16 years of age must be accompanied by an adult.

One of the first "musts" for the new gun owner is to enroll in a Hunter Safety Courseof instruction. Ohio has over 600 certified Hunter Safety Instructors who have trained several thousand students in hunter safety during the year. Hunter Safety courses are available in all counties of Ohio; contact the game protector in your area of the nearest Division of Wildlife office for information on future classes.

A safe hunter gives much to those who hunt with him, to others who are influenced by him, and to the sport of hunting itself.

Ownership of a firearm is an American heritage which must be protected by all gun owners. It is up to you as a hunter to respect the ethics of hunting, respect your companions, respect the land and the wildlife you hunt.

WASHINGTON, D.C.-In passing its energy-conservation bill last week, the Senate included a section which will permit a taxpayer to deduct up to $1,000 to repay himself for using "energy-conserving" measures in his residence. Included in the deductible items are such things as installation of insulation, storm windows, caulking, humidifiers, and "other efforts designed for energy conservation." If the bill is subsequently approved by the House or reconciled with a somewhat-similar House bill, the deduction could be taken by taxpayers on their 1974 returns. The Senate bill (S. 2589) was passed by an overwhelming 78-to-6 vote

Into The Symphony Swing Of It

PAUL HENDERSON, chairman of the Symphony Grand Ball stops to visit with a group of volunteers who had been addressing invitations at the home of Mrs. Dean Jeffers, seated, 2800 Clairmont Ct. The gala event given for the benefit of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra will be held January 12 at the Sheraton. Theme for the ball is "Una Noche en Venezuela" and the Ambassador of Venezuela to the United States Government, Dr. Andres Aguilar and his wife will be guests of honor. Standing, from left, are Mrs. Roy Wentz Jr., 2237 Bryden Rd; Mrs. Roger Berlin, 700 Marburn Drive and Mrs. Frederick Laird, 280 S. Parkview Ave. (Symphony photo.)

Insurance Leaders Meet

AMONG the over 100 leaders of the Ohio Association of Insurance Agents who attended Committee Organizational meetings recently in Columbus were: (Seated) Frank Loehnert, Jr., treasurer and Edwin L. Overmeyer. Standing are: Jack W. Hoffman, R. Lee Ayotte, Milton J. Outcalt, Robert Klie, Jr., Donald L. Geary, and Charles Brubaker, all of Columbus. Robert K. Woods, Warren, president of the Association, stated that the meetings were held to formulate plans and action for the 6,000 member association of independent insurance agents (whose symbol is the "Big I") for the group's 77th year. Other officers for 1974 are: Howard B. Somers, vice president; Douglas N. Avery, Columbus, executive vice president and secretary; and Robert M. Bell, Springfield, state national director.

Recreational Vehicle Show At Fairgrounds In January

THE MANY facets of owning and operating recreational vehicles will be widely demonstrated and discussed at the All America Camping and Recreational Vehicle Show January 2-6 at the Ohio Expositions Center.

More than 300 of the latest models of camping and recreational vehicles, including motor homes, travel trailers and truck campers, will be displayed. Thehuge showing of campers and related accessories is being sponsored by member-dealers of the Central Ohio Cahpter of Ohio Recreational Vehicle Dealers.

ITS QUITE likely, however, the big interest of the show will be the word from camprground operators and association experts who will be on hand to discuss with owners and prospective buyers how to get the most from their recreational vehicles during the uncertainties of the energy situation.

"Our dealers and exhibitors will have the answers and many helpful tips," said Gene Keener, executive director of the Ohio Recreational Vehicle Association, producer of the show.

"WE KNOW for sure," continued Keener, "that in spite of the energy problems, people will continue to seek and enjoy outdoor recreation." Keener points out there are some 350 privately-owned and 43 state operated campgrounds in Ohio available for the enjoyment of outdoor recreation-minded Ohioans.

Many of these are situated near sports and recreation agreas having numerous winter and summer activities, and most are within a "thankful of gas" range from the Central Ohio area.

KEENER'S association is strongly suggesting that vehicle owners place their campers and motor homes permanently, or at least for the duration of the energy shorage, at a favorite campground, and use the vehicle as a meeting place for family and friends.

"The recreational vehcile can be the family's headquarters for recreation during the evergy shortage," Keener added.

THE ALL America Camping and Recreational Vehicle Show, largest of its kind in the area, opens at noon on Wednesday, January 2 and closes at 10 p.m., Sunday, January 6. The entire show will be under roof at the Expositions Center's Multi-purpose building.

VA Benefits To Increase For 2.7 Million Veterans

INCREASED benefits will be reflected in February Veterans Administration pension checks for nearly 2.7 million disabled veterans and survivors of deceased veterans, L. M. Merritt, director of the VA Regional Office in Cleveland, has announced.

A cost-of-living increase in these VA benefits is authorized by a law signed by the President and becomes effective January 1.

Merritt said the increase will average 10 per cent for 915,000 wartime veterans and 859,000 widows on VA pension rolls and 69,000 parents drawing Dependency and Indemnity Compensation.

Increased pension payments will also go to 842,000 children of veterans.

PENSIONS are paid by the VA on the basis of need to veterans permanently and totally disabled from nonservice causes and to widows and children of veterans who died of nonservice-connected disabilities.

Dependency and Indemnity Compensation payments are made to widows, unmarried children under 18, and certain parents of veterans and servicemen who died of service-connected disabilities. The new law increased DIC rates only for parents, Merritt said.

Silver Center Display Is At Ohio National Bank

A "Silver Center" displaying rare and unusual coins, commemorative medals and other collectors' items made of silver has been installed at Ohio National Bank's Great Western office, 3500 West Broad Street in the Great Western shopping center.

The six-sided display features newly-created products struck by the Franklin Mint, Franklin Center, Pennsylvania. The world's largest private mint, it is known for its Proof-quality coins, medals, ingots and sterling silver collector plates and is the only private mint in the Unites States that produces official coin of the realm for the monetary authorities of other governments.

The Great Western office Silver Center is one of three such exhibits now placed in Ohio National offices; others are located at the bank's Main office, 51 North High Street, and Grandview office, 1530 West First Avenue.

All items on display are available to collectors for purchase on a postage-paid direct mail basis. Exhibits will be changed approximately once a month.

Collectors' items currently being shown at the three new Silver Centers include the famous Pistrucci Waterloo Medal; the Franklin Mint Presidential Ingot Collection; the First Official Coinage of the British Virgin Islands; and the American Heritage Medallic Treasury of American History.

Ohio National is the only authorized exhibitor of Franklin Mint medallic art in the Columbus area.

Employers Seminar Scheduled

John F. Marshall, president of Snelling & Snelling Employment agencies of Columbus and ParTime temporary help service, has announced an all-day employers seminar has been set for December 19 at the Marriott Inn on South Hamilton Road.

The seminar, "Management By Objectives," features Louis A. Seiberlich, Jr., senior partner of Omnisystems, Brookfield, Wisconsin. Seiverlich received his B.S. and M.B.A. degrees from Marquette University.

He formerly served as chairman of the National Conference Steering Committee for the American Society for Training and Development and was one of four individuals to be nationally recognized for his contributions to the training profession.

The all-day seminar is free to employers, Marshall said, and is designed as a community service to improve managerial competence and awareness of practical techniques for motivation.

Accept Honor For Daughter In Spain

GROVEPORT Mr. and Mrs. Earl Watkins, Groveport, are shown receiving a plaque from Kenneth Gilliian, Sedalia Elementary School PTA president, on behalf of their daughter, Carole, presently a student in Spain, who saved a boy from drowning last August at the Groveport-Madison Pool. (Carole is shown in the insert.) Gilligan said that Carole, who was a life guard and swimming instructor at the pool, acted without hesitation to save the life of Philip Hill, 14, and that her act should be publicized. The PTA recently made a resolution to establish an annual program of awarding recognition to outstanding Groveport citizens and Carole becomes the first to be so honored. Philip had dived into the pool, but hit the water wrong and knocked himself unconcious. He gulped water and sank to the bottom of the pool.Carole dived in, brought him up to poolside and gave him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, working with him until the Groveport-Madison emergency squad came. He had regained consciousness by this time. Under her name on the plaque, it reads: In recognition of her courageous action in the saving of a life, during the summer of 1973. May this unselfish act be an example to the community. The Sedalia PTA." Carole, majoring in Spanish, at Muskingum College, is attending the college's Junior Year Abroad, studying Spanish at Schiller College, Madrid.

Fields, Johnson Park English teacher; Dr. Jack T. Landes, Linden-McKinley science teacher; William Lude, Fairfax physical education teacher; David L. Samuel, Central High history teacher; and Donald W. Taylor, Barrett Junior High English and socfal studies teacher.

These seven were chosen from a field of 15 applicants by a committee of school personnel. They will begin a training program in January to prepare them for future assignments as principals and assistant principals in junior and senior high schools.

IN BUILDING ACTION taken by the Board preliminary drawings for an addition and related improvements to Avondale Elementary School were approved. The drawings were assessed by the Avondale Advisory Committee on Educational Program and Facilities.

The 4,500-square foot addition of Avondale will provide a new multi-purpose room which will accomodate the now deficient physical education program. The existing kitchen will be converted into a library work room.

A $175,000 budget has been allotted for the entire project.

In building action taken by the Board preliminary drawings for an addition and related improvements to Woodcrest Elementary School were approved. The drawings were assessed by the Woodcrest Advisory Committee on Educational Program and Facilities.

A new library-learning center, teacher work room, reading room, two classrooms, three small counseling areas, expanded restroom facilities and outdoor storage space for equipment and tools are included in the 4,900-square foot addition.

REMODELING AT Woodcrest will provide space for equipment for a future hot lunch program. Budget for the Woodcrest project is $245,000.

Awarded by the Board were contracts for improved facilities for Yorktown Junior High. Lincoln Construction was awarded the contract for general construction and electrical work, worth $170,384 while the R.M. Giehl, Inc. Company will handle the plumbing priced at $69,000.

Total contract costs are $239,384. The two companies were awarded the contracts since they were the lowest bidders.

The Board voted to reject bids for remodeling and addition work to Oakmont Elementary School. The lowest bids were 22 per cent over the proposed budget. The drawings and specifications will now be revised and the project will be rebid.

Many routine year end finance closings were passed by the Board along with routine personnel changes and appointments.

MEMBERS OF THE Central High School Choir were on hand for the meeting and sang Christmas Carols before the meeting and North High Choir director James McDonald presented each Board member with a copy of the new Christmas album that the North Choir has just put out.

In the last official act passed by the Board in 1973 it was decided that the first Board meeting of 1974 will be held Jan. 8 at 4 p.m.

Two Retiring Bexley Councilmen Honored At Last Meeting

Bexley-Mayor Kenneth McClure presented retiring Bexley City Council president, Mrs. Sheldon Mann, with a bouquet of 20 red roses, representing her years of service with the Board of Education and City Council, at the Dec. 17 meeting. Members of her family were present as she accepted the thanks and tributes of her fellow Councilmen. Mrs. Mann ended her term on the Council and service as president.

Doyt Bell, who has served twenty years on the Council, was also honored for his service and was presented with a gift by the mayor. Mrs. Bell was present at this last meeting of his term.

Two ordinances were passed with the rule of three readings at three meetings suspended, so they would become effective sooner.

ONE ORDINANCE authorized the purchase of a packer-type refuse truck. With rules suspended, the ordinance is effective immediately.

Another ordiannce to enact a Criminal Offense Code for the city was passed, effective Jan. 1, 1974, so that the city's laws would conform to the New State Code to become effective on the same date.

The City Solicitor, acting upon a request of the Parks and Forestry Committee for an ordinance to set up a Capital Improvement Fund for parks and parking, reported that upon advice of the State Auditor's Office, the fund could not be set up exactly as the Committee had suggested. If such a fund is started, the monies could be added at any time, but could only be used for the express purpose stated in the ordinance establishing the fund. John Offenberg explained further the wishes of the Board of Recreation and the Committee, and reported that he would take this information back for further study.

MRS. EILEEN ZELL spoke to Council expressing her view concerning more parking and more tennis courts at Jeffrey Park, and asked for a poll of citizens before anything is done.

Mrs. Zell also asked that Council reopen the question of Cable TV for Bexley. She was told if there was genuine interest by enough citizens, this could be done.

Offenberg stated that he believes a new Supervisor of Recreation has been selected and a recommendation should be made soon.

He also asked what plans were being made about sidewalks along Clifton Ave. The Mayor replied that intentions are to have sidewalks, but they must wait for the street improvement to be finished.

Offenberg also mentioned the safety factor at Maryland and Cassady, as this seems to be an intersection where many accidents occur.

SINCE LAW requires that the Council hold two meetings per month and since the second meeting date would fall on Christmas Eve, the meeting was adjourned and another immediately convened.

Rules were once again set aside by unanimous vote, so that monies from the General Fund could be reappropriated to various funds, a normal yearly cleanup of funds and merely a bookkeeping procedure. The ordinance passed.

Mrs. Mann suggested that Council seriously consider the rotation in the office of president in the future. She asserted that the year she has just spent in that office has been more helpful to her in the capacity of Councilman than many years otherwise. She strongly urged that each member be given a chance to reap these rewards.

Mayor Urges, 'Be First A Friend—Then A Host'

WHITEHALL-Mayor John A. Bishop issued a proclamation Dec. 18, designating the holiday period of that day through Jan. 1, 1974 as a period of rational moderation in drinking.

The proclamation called attention to the fact that half of all fatal automobile accidents involve drinking and driving during the holiday period.

It pointed out, also, that the Columbus Automobile Club and affiliated American Aucomobile Association (AAA) Clubs are conducting a realistic safety campaign encouraging party hosts to make it easy for drivers to refuse a drink.

The campaign slogan is "First A Friend–Then A Host," meaning hosts should not send friends home with driving abilities impaired by too much alcohol.

Bishop stated that the City of Whitehall desires to reduce traffic accidents resulting from drinking and driving during the holidays and urges all citizens to observe this period of moderation in drinking, to protect the lives of all persons on the highways and streets.

Columbus Schools Remain On Same Schedule

Columbus–There will be no change in the holiday vacation schedule nor in the daily hours of operation of the Columbus Public Schools, Superintendent Dr. John Ellis said Thursday.

Ellis' announcement came after extensive staff study of the energy crisis and the impending switch to Daylight Savings Time. The announcement was a confirmation of repeated indications that no changes would be made in the duration of the holiday vacation and the daily schedule.

Ellis said any change in the daily schedule "would have resulted in confusion, inconvenience to many families and disruption to many aspects of community life."

Ellis noted that daylight hours will begin to increase gradually after the holidays. He said, "No sooner would we become accustomed to new daily schedules than we would have to begin to prepare for a return to the regular schedule."

Columbus schools will resume operations on Wednesday, January 2.

PLANNING A series of meetings in January for parents of the Madison School District are, left to right, Mrs. Katharine Handel, seventh grade guidance counselor and Robert Scott, eighth grade counselor, Madison-Groveport Middle School; Mrs. Aileen Applebaum, Franklin County Board of Education psychologist assigned to the Madison District Schools, and Mrs. Mary Tedrow, Groveport, Elementary School PTA president and a PTA-PTO representative on the committee. The counselors in charge of the meetings will use some of the techniques of many different authors, a few of whose books are shown in the picture, "Parent Effectiveness Training," "I'm OK-You're OK," "Between Parent and Child," and "Born To Win."

Parents To Share Problems, Solutions

by ELSIE V. WEAVER

GROVEPORT - The School counselors of the Madison Local Schools have received, lately, so many requests from parents who want advice and reassurance on how to handle problems concerning their children, that one group of them decided to do something to help. The counselors from Groveport-Madison Middle School and school psychologists from the County Superintendent's Office have set up a series of meetings for parents of the district. The following programs have been scheduled for 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the Madison-Groveport High School library:

Jan. 7- Win As Much As You Can Game, with Barbara Keneipp in charge of the presentation. An introduction to the concept of Win-Lose situation and its manifestation in the family group.

Jan. 21- Stop, Look and Listen..with Katharine Handel and Robert Scott in charge. Introduction to the concept of active listening and response.

Feb. 4-Setting Limits, with John Mercovich.

Feb. 18-Coffee, Tea, or Milk?, with Bill Hillebrand. Concept of freedom of choice and how it can be implemented.

Mar. 4-Grandmas's Rule, with Nancy Tully. Introduction to the concept of providing reinforcement for desired behavior.

Mar. 18-How To Be A Parent And Not Feel Guilty, with Aileen Applebaum. Counselor Roberta Mullins will also participate in the program scenes.

Time limits (7:30 to 9 p.m.) will be strictly adhered to.

The Counselors emphasize that the series is not based on lectures. There will be a brief presentation on each topic, followed by small group discussions, with the audience broken up according to the ages of the parents' children.

Parents of any school child are welcome, not just those having children in the Middle School.

"How do you get them to do school work?" parents ask the counselors. "How do you get them to practice an instrument?" "How much time should they spend watching TV?" "How old should they be before dating?" "What about grades?" "Picking friends?" These are a few of the questions the counselors have heard. They say they are just the everyday variety of problems parents have.

The counselors are not going to attempt to provide answers. They are going to give parents the chance to think through problems and talk with each other: "I tried this and it worked," or "I tried this and it didn't work."

Just knowing that some other parent has the same problem and that your ?s are shared by others will help or reassure others.

The committee of all the district counselors and five from the Franklin County Psychological Services brainstormed the provocative titles and topics.

They hope for a large turnout at each of the six meetings.

4-year Savings Certificates with $1,000 minimum deposit

now paying the new government maximum rate of

Dollar Savings can now offer you these highly attractive savings certificates which when interest is left on deposit will yield almost 8% a year. That's a handsome return at a time when interest rates are generally going down.

(Banks incidentally are not permitted to pay as high a rate on 4-year $1,000 certificates.)

Because of the new low minimum $1,000 deposit, the door is now open for many more savers to invest in Dollar's 7½% certificates. Consequently we may be required to withdraw this offer at any time.

Do Dollar's 7½% certificates fit into your saving program? Yes, they do if you are fairly certain you will not have to withdraw your deposit prior to maturity. In this event Federal law would require forfeiture of 90 days interest, as well as reducing the amount withdrawn to the passbook rate.

But please come in and discuss this and other matters bearing on your savings objectives with one of our experienced financial counselors. You will be courteously and confidentially advised in your best interests. And of course there is no obligation.

Golden Age News And Notes

"TALK ABOUT potential energy resources," said David C. Crowley, enthusiastic first Executive Director of the new Ohio Commission on Aging, "One of our greatest reservoirs lies in the 1,400,000 Senior Citizens of Ohio. Think of what they can give to us and what they can give to each other.

Under the Older Americans Act, we have all these fine programs in nutrition, volunteerism, educational re-entry, and re-employment in the labor market. They are all set up and on-going in Ohio. We are here to provide them with a hopeful new visibility."

THE OHIO Commission on Aging came of age November 23, 1973. It was born out of the former Division on Aging which was one of the six sections of the Department of Mental Health and Retardation. The Commission was promulgated by act of the Legislature July 27, 1973 and signed into existence August 24, by Governor John J. Gilligan.

Appointed by Governor Gilligan and accountable solely to him, Director Crowley will serve as special advisor to the Governor for the needs, problems, and services required by the elderly of Ohio.

From his office at 34 N. High Street, Crowley and his associate Ken Mahan, the experienced assistant coordinator of the former Division on Aging, sketched an outline of what they hope to do for the Aging in Ohio.

As they see their task, it is first of all one of coordination insuring that all the programs in one category are unified and are more effective. Then comes the promotion and it must be state wide. It must enable everyone not only to know what is available but also what he can give as well as receive.

"I AM mindful of one of my friends who graduated with me in Social Work," continued Mr. Crowley. "He was 58 years old and had retired from an executive position in industry three years previously. Now he is in his first year of function as a social worker and boy is he good.

What a waste there would have been if this man hadn't gone on to a second career. Around us in Ohio are thousands of senior citizens just like him. We have to find them and then re-involve them in productive work for our society. We need their experience, their wisdom, and their insight."

To "advise and consent" with them in their work, Director Crowley and Mahan will have a twelve member commission appointed by the Governor to: "represent all areas of Ohio; at least a majority shall have attained the age of sixty and have a knowledge and continuing interest in the affairs and welfare of the elderly in Ohio; the fields of business, labor, health, law, and social service shall be represented."

"The Commission," continues the Bill, "shall provide consultants to agencies providing services for the elderly, recommend methods of improving their effectiveness, advise the Governor on problems of the aging and acquaint him with changes in national policy, administer state funds for the aging and administer Federal programs within the State.

IT SHALL not supplant or take over for the counties or municipal corporations from other state agencies or facilities any of the specific responsiblities already borne by them. It shall cooperate with them in the furtherance of their purpose....."

"As soon as we are notified of the appointment of the Commission members," said Mr. Crowley, "we will get them together and make them into a team with our fine staff here.

We are allowed six meetings a year. With a good strong bunch we can forge ahead with our Outreach program. Some of the things I want to stress are pilot projects for retired teachers, a coordination of all the volunteers, particularly so that they are going out of as well as into the Senior Centers, and a revival in the whole field of education.

Our colleges are crying that they over expanded in the sixties and now their stretched facilities are lacking students. Elderly students returning, either to brush up on their fields of specialization or to undertake whole new careers, can take up all the slack.

WHAT A potential for benefit to the whole society! Finally, I want to start some research projects with the other departments of government. For example, what happens to elderly prison parolees when they are finally discharged? Who helps them? We are open for suggestions from any member of the community. Our address is 34 N. High St. and our telephone number is 466-5500. Get in touch.

Snowmobile Sites Are Increased

Ohio Natural Resources Director William B. Nye has announced the opening of two new state snowmobile areas in Sandusky and Lucas counties, raising to 10 the number of state-operated areas open to snowmobile enthusiasts.

Gibsonburg Snowmobile Area in Sandusky County and Maumee All Purpose (APV) Area in Lucas County are the new areas open to snowmobiling.

The 160-acre Gibsonburg area is off State Route 300, a mile south of Gibsonburg.

Maumee APV Area in Maumee State Forest has four miles of trails. The 550-acre area is off Lucas County roads 2 and C, south of State Route 2A.

The new snowmobile areas are in addition to areas designated by the Ohio Department of Natural Resources last winter in eight Ohio state parks. Those parks are: Buckeye Lake, Fairfield County; Grand Lake St. Marys, Mercer County; West Branch, Portage County; Portage Lakes, Summit County; East Harbor, Ottawa County; Lake Lormie, Auglize County; Indian Lake, Logan County and Punderson, Geauga County.

There is no charge to use any state-operated snowmobile areas, but Nye pointed out that snowmobiling on state parks and forest land is permitted only in the designated snowmobile areas.

Big Brothers Need You All-Year Round Now

BIG BROTHER Week will be observed throughout the United States January 6 - 12, 1974. The Big Brother Association of Columbus, Inc., 2104 Tuller St., is joining with Big Brothers of America, the National Organization, in observing the week as a means of interesting more men in the work of Big Brothers.

The Association is a United Way Agency whose general purpose is to provide Big Brothers to boys in need of the influence of a man.

The National Agency enables local Big Brother Associations to cooperate more effectively for the general growth and advancement of Big Brother work.

THE COLUMBUS .Association has just completed 40 years of Big Brother service to our Community. The organization was started in 1933 by a concerned group of citizens wanting to provide a program to combat the rising delinquent problem among youth in this area.

During the past year 969 men have been active Big Brothers and served 1,220 boys from broken homes. 1,200 Associate Members are needed each year to lend their financial support and strength to back up the work of the professional staff and the volunteer Big Brothers.

The Association operates a summer camp in the Hocking Hills attended last s ummer by 1,311 campers from Columbus and Franklin County.

A BIG BROTHER is a volunteer who under the guidance of a trained Social Worker accepts the responsibility of looking after a boy who lacks a father image and is without adult male companionship and guidance.

During the past several years the need for Big Brothers in Columbus has constantly increased due to an increasein the number of boys being referred to our agency from churches, schools, the courts, mothers, and friends.

Men of good moral character are needed now to serve as volunteers . There is an urgent need for men in the South, East, West, Southeast, and Southwest sections of our city and County. Boys need your help. Be a Saturday Hero every day of the week. Be a Big Brother.

FOR INFORMATION CONTACT THE Big Brother Association of Columbus, Inc., 2104 Tuller Street, or call 294-4423.

United Way Agencies Receive Share Allotments

UNITED WAY'S 62 health, family, neighborhood and character-building agencies received their share of the $6,365,000 raised in the '73 campaign at the United Way of Franklin County, Inc. Board of Trustees meeting last week.

George W. Waylonis, Jr., chairman of the Budget and Finance Executive Committee, told the UW Board that agency requests for 1974, including special funds, totaled $7,360,215. Total funds available for allocation after allowing for 7 percent anticipated collection losses, amounted to $5,919,500. The approved allocation total exceeds the amount available for allocation in 1973 by $146,700 but falls short of the agencies' needs by more than $1,082,583.

OF THE 62 member agencies, 47 recieved increases over last year, seven the same amount and eight decreases. Friends in Action and Salesian Boys Club both are budgeted in 1974 as agencies since they will achieve full agency status in January bringing the total of UW agencies to 64. The amount allocated to member agencies, including United Way, totals $5,630,145.

The balance of $289,355 was appropriated to special funds. The $67,355 earmarked for the development and demonstration fund will provide a fund for the future support of new United Way programs.

So far, Hilltop Civic Council has been budgeted for $23,000 and InterfaithCounseling Service for $9,000 in this program.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS of the Budget and Finance Committee, which went to the UW Board for their approval, was based primarily on the recommendations of the eight budget panels. The panels, totally composed of over 100 volunteers, have been meeting with the agencies since October 10.

Waylonis estimates, "Over 2,000 man-hours went into the deliberation of the 1974 UW agency allocations. Allocation recommendations were notmade capriciously. Agency requests were reviewed by the panels for relevance, quality, comprehensiveness and non-duplication in the community, and for other possible sources of funding."

Clyde R.Tipton, Jr., '73 campaign chairman, reported to the board that the '73 campaign had raised $6,365,000 representing 93.6 percent of the $6.8 million goal.

TIPTON NOTED, "This is a new level of fund raising in our community. As compared to the $6,165,000 raised last year the giving in Frankin County increased by 3.1 percent. This represents $200,000 in new money."

Tipton continued, "Even withthe impact of the generally unpredictable economic and business situation we faced, a number of companies posted significant gains in both corporate and employee giving."

He pointed out that in Industrial A. which consists of industrial companies with 500 or more employees, employee giving increased over last year 50 percent in three firms.

In Commercial A, which is composed of commercial companies with 500 or more employees, giving over last year was up 43 percent in one company. Six other companies in Commercial A increased 25 per cent, 24 percent, 13 percent, two 11 percent, and one 8 percent. "These certainly are not just gains, but significant gains," Tipton emphaiszed.

OF THE $6,365,000 total, 28 percent represents corporate giving and 72 percent employee and individual giving.

A breakdown of the $200,000 in new money shows that: 40 percent came from Corporate and Commercial A divisions; 10 percent from Public Services; 10 percent from Government; 10 percent from Professional; 10 percent from Industrial B and Commercial B; and the remaining 20 percent was absorbed by the eight other campaign division.

Tipton outlined many of the highlights of the 1973 United Way Campaign. He pointed out that the Franklin County Loaned Executive program, since its inception three years ago, has developed into an invauable part of the campaign effort. The number of loaned executives has increased from 15 in 1971 to 35 this campaign. These men and women were "loaned" to the United Way by 30 local companies for a period of five weeks.

SIGNIFICANT increases ingiving are represented by the 11 percent increase over last year in pacesetter gifts and corporate giving ran over 5 percent ahead of last year.

Among other highlights Tipton cited were the support of the Labor Participation Committee, the excellent Speakers and Tours Bureau, the overwhelming number of requests for the '73 campaign film "Turning Point," the back-up of the 62 UW agencies, and the success of the Firm Chairman's Training Seminar including the "Parade of Services" which took the agencies to the solicitors.

Tipton summed up his feelings about the campaign' "I think the $6,365,000 reaffirms the community does believe in the concept of United Way. The community did a good job, but we still have a long way to go.

"We won't be out of business, but we're still not meeting the needs of the community. What we did here in Franklin County this year is important, but we still have a gap. We will be looking hard at where we stumbled and be making plans for the '74 United Way campaign in the days ahead."

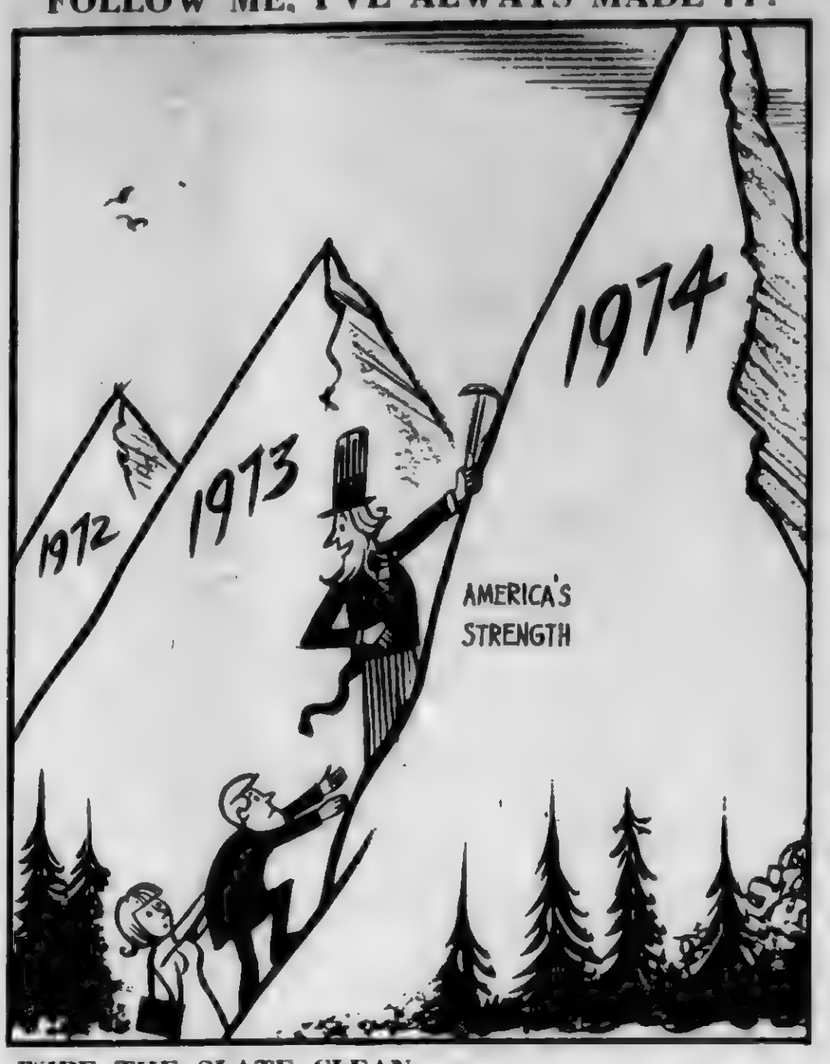
FOLLOW ME, I'VE ALWAYS MADE IT!



WIPE THE SLATE CLEAN

When the chips are down, the American family works just a bit harder, and maybe a bit longer, to attain its objectives.

We have just completed a year of crises in many areas. There are many challenges still facing us, but they can be solved through the application of one simple concept: work with confidence.

It is this ability to work which has helped us to be the breadbasket of the world. It has been the ability to discover and invent that has made the moon our newest frontier. It has been the ability to achieve, through mass production, the comforts and conveniences of a modern society which has drastically reduced the number of our poor people.

It has been the desire to provide for our families to the best of our abilities that has triggered more inventions in this generation than the total of those developed since the world began.

As we look into 1974, let's be objective so that we may record new accomplishments together.

Water Film Available To Groups

Rural water and sewer facilities still lag far behind urbanones, that's the message of a new slide film, "Rural Water - The Time is Now," just released for general distribution by the Commission on Rural Water.

The 17-minute presentation documents the need for improved facilities... discusses the serious health effects under existing conditions...shows why current government programs are inadequate...describes efforts of the Commission and National Demonstration Water Project (NDWP) in helping to alleviate them...and offers suggestions for short and long-term programs that could bring rural facilities up to par with urban ones in a reasonable period of time.

The film is suitable for viewing by both local and national groups who have a stake in improving rural sanitation conditions. It was designed for ease of presentation. The slides are sent in a standard Kodak Carousel -- and the narration is on a cassette cartridge, with audible "beeps" to signal slide advance. There is no rental charge for a one-time showing.

For more information about the film and an order form, please write the Commmission on Rural Water, Box SF, 221 N. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill., 60601.

Make A Dog Happy; Get A Dog Licence

The 1974 dog licenses will go on sale at the Humane Society Animal Shelter, 2770 Groveport Pike, and at Sears Northland, 1811 Morse Road, Sears Eastland, 2765 Eastland Mall and Sears Westland, 4411 West Broad Street Saturday, December 1, and will be sold at those addresses seven days a week during normal working hours.

The regular sale period, for which licenses can be purchased without penalty, terminates Monday, January 21.

Licenses will also go on sale at the Franklin County Court House, the Hilliard Municipal Building, 372 Waterworks Drive, Hilliard, and the Grandview Heights Public Library, 1685 West 1st Ave., Monday, December 3, and will be sold at those establishments Mondays through Fridays during normal working hours.

Those not having an application form can still obtain a license easily by mail. All they need do is submit a description of the dog (sex, age, color, breed and whether it is long or sh..rt-haired), together with the owner's name and address to the Franklin County Auditor's Office, License Division, Court House, Columbus, Ohio 43215, together with a self-addressed, stamped envelope and the appropriate fee.

All dogs three months or older on January 1, 1974 must be licensed.

Kennel licenses are $10 each through the January 21 deadline, after which there is an additional $5 penalty assessment.

Those purchasing by mail are urged to send no cash; rather, they should remit by money order or check.

There will be a thirty-five cents ($.35) service charge, over and above the regular $3 fee, for licenses purchased at the Animal Shelter, the Sears stores or at the Grandview or Hilliard locations.

The offices of County Auditor Arch J. Warren are open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, and there is no service charge for licenses handled through his office.

Check Presented To State Patrol Retirement Board

Colonel Robert M. Chiaramonte, Superintendent of the Ohio State Highway Patrol, presented a check in the amount of $23,227 to the State Highway Patrol Retirement Board at a meeting of the Retirement Board in Columbus last week.

The check represented funds over and above expenses incurred in putting on a 40th Anniversary party in Columbus for members of the Patrol, retired officers, widows and friends on November 16.

The event attracted nearly 1100 persons for a dinner-dance which had as its theme, "40 Years of Service." Among the notables present were past and present governors, legislators, judges and other public officials who contributed to the State Highway Patrol's growth and recognition as oneof the outstanding police agencies in the country.

Superintendent Chairamonte explained that the planned surplus of $23,227 represents the difference between costs and receipts from individual registration and purchase of tables by those in attendance.

The State Auditor's office, at Colonel Chiaramonte's request, audited the financial records of the affair before the balance of funds was presented to the Retirement Board. The Highway Patrol Retirement System statutes permit the acceptance of rewards, bequests and gifts.

The 40th Anniversary was successful from every standpoint with a great many people giving freely of their time and talents to assure that success, the Colonel added.

They're The Coloring Champions

THE SPECTATOR NEWSPAPERS "Santa Claus Coloring Contest" was again a huge success as hundreds of entries were received making the job of picking the winners the most difficult ever. Who Wouldn't Be Happy?

WHITEHALL- The big reason for a broad smile on the face of John LaCorte, director of the Whitehall Recreation Department, and members of his staff, these days, is shown above. The 66-passenger 1964 International bus, with its new coat of shiny black and white paint, has just been purchased by the department from the Whitehall City Schools. Formerly a school bus, which has passed every state safety inspection for ten years, it is in fine mechanical shape, LaCorte says, and the heater he labels "fantastic." Already initiated when Whitehall Senior Citizens used it last week for caroling around the city, it will be used "to extend the radius of the Whitehall Recreation Department to a circle 100 miles from the city," claims LaCorte. He visualizes trips with oldsters and young people alike to places like Old Man's Cave, Burr Oak Park Lake for fishing and sightseeing, and taking Little League teams and other competitors to game and competition sites. The bus was paid for from city capital improvements funds. (Photo by Elsie V. Weaver)

Boxing Ring Acquired

JOHN LACORTE, director of Whitehall's Recreation Department, is mighty proud, these days, of one of their newest pieces of equipment, a 15-foot-square boxing ring. He is shown near one of the corners of the ring, which is set up in the building behind the Municipal Building, next to the Fire Department garage. The Rec department is awaiting the delivery of a regulation mat. Registration for boxing lessons for boys six through eighteen years is now under way and will continue through Jan. 3 Classes will be held 6 to 9:30 p.m. on Wednesdays and Fridays. Available for workouts are two heavy-duty suspended punching bags; two speed-bags, the fast-return punching bags, have been ordered. Eight-and ten-ounce gloves, skip ropes, all other equipment is furnished and the entire program is free of charge. All participants have a physical exam before starting training. The experienced instruction staff members are Head Coach Jim Devany and Tony Pacciorette. La Corte hopes, in the future, to have the training room open for conditioning seven days a week.

'Common Cause' Offers Speakers

Columbus–The Common Cause unit for Congressional Districts 12 and 15 has established a Speakers' Bureau to disseminate information on Common Cause goals and activities to community organizations.

Local members will speak to interested groups on the history and organization of Common Cause or on one of several specific topics which represent the current focus of Common Cause activities.

At this time, speakers will discuss campaign reform, passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, or the organization of Common Cause.

Organizations desiring speakers on any of these three topics may contact Evelyn Gauthier, Coordinator of the Speakers' Bureau, at 422-5766 or 457-3767.

Two Officers Receive Chief's Commendation

Columbus-Commendations were presented to two police officers by Chief of Police, Earl Burden on Dec. 24.

Sergeant Lawrence Bigler and Patrolman Paul Phalen are being given commendations for the apprehension of an armed subject at the Owens Illinois Plant on Jenkins Ave.

On Oct. 29, this subject entered the plant and was holding several hostages in the personnel office. A third officer entered and while engaging the subject in conversation the hostages were able to slip out of the room. As the subject relaxed, during the conversation, Sergeant Bigler and Patrolman Phalen were able to get close enough to disarm him.

The commendations by the Chief cite the above officers "for their calm, cool and professional manner displayed in a situation that could have resulted in injury or loss of life."

Pool Patter

by Peg Pierce

PRESCHOOL Swimming – The Columbus Jewish Center Preschool swimming program has completed the fall season at the indoor pool. The results are even better than I had hoped for. As a matter of fact, I feel safe in saying that our goal of mental and physical adjustment to the water has been attained.

This goal of ours took a team effort. First the parents talked about swimming at home and, without being "pushy", encouraged their boys and girls to take part in the program. Second, the Preschool teachers have a very positive attitude toward the swimming lessons. Even while upstairs in the classroom, you can hear the teachers connecting motions to swimming skills. Third, pool water temperatures have been controlled for comfortable zones to promote the feeling of being relaxed. Fourth, the emphasis has been on the individual and not the class.

Now we have a record of each child and his level of performance. Mrs. Ray Bumgarner (Shan), Assistant Physical Education Director, and I are beginning to sort the classes into stations. Not every child is a fast starter and we find things like fear, noise, dressing, showers, and just "bad" days cause some to progress at a slower rate. Just because Mrs. So and So's child is jumping off the diving board does not necessarily mean that all children can or want to.

So my dear parents, try and keep in mind that swimming is very personal and a person needs time to grow and develop physically. Next, swimming is a science and requires a desire to learn. Here at your Jewish Center we have lots of time and all we ask is that you the Mommies and Daddies take your child for a family swim and not push them too hard but have fun. There is nothing worse than to see a burned-out swimmer who no longer enjoys the sheer delight of water weightlessness.

SPLASHES–Torah Academy swimmer Heidi Waynryb has now joined Steven Schutz as a pround wearer of a Polliwog patch, after a hard-fought battle.

Planning a holiday party? Triple–A urges you to "First a Friend-Then a Host" to your driving guests. By keeping the gathering active, guests involved in party games, dancing and other festivities don't have as much time for alcohol consumption and are better able to drive home.

On The Formal Scene

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

SEPARATES in formal wear are news...like this rich floral-patterned jacquard dinner jacket with lapels and collar in velvet...a perfect partner to classic black worsted trousers.

TRADITIONALISM updated is this free and easy tuxedo in polyester knit with notched lapels, collar, pocket flaps and trouser stripes in velvet...lavishly ruffle-bosomed shirt in polyester and cotton. "PRINCE REGENT" is for the daring young man who likes richly colored floral-patterned jacquard with velvet collar and braid trimmed lapels...black worsted trousers, pleated front shirt and velvet bow tie.

THE CLOVER LEAF tuxedo is a new look for evening...single-breasted with easy fit and cut-away front...in royal blue worsted with clover leaf lapels and collar in deeper tone.

WITH THE MANY SOCIAL EVENTS scheduled in the next few weeks, formal clothes should get a real workout!

Today's life style is easier, freer, less studied than in the past...and in the clothes-conscious seventies, this mood is reflected in men's clothes as well as women's.

MEN'S FORMAL WEAR by Delton is right on this fashion wave-length...polished, sophisticated and pulled together...but always comfortable and never gimmicky. The traditional classic tuxedo has never been so exciting...interpreted in lightweight wool, mohair or textured polyester knit...with an easy semi-fit to its single-breasted jacket. However the excitement appears in the details...the use of velvet for collar and lapels and for the stripe on the leg of the trousers.

FOR THE sportswear-oriented man...and this includes the jeans-generation...Delton has come up with the ideal answer for evening with tuxedo put-togethers...separate jackets to contrast with classic black formal trousers. There are floral jacquards, collared and lapeled in velvet, geometric motifs with satin lapels or rich crushed velvet...in a wide color range. Most unusual and outstanding is Delton's "Prince Regent"...a 3 button jacket, longer and with a slightly suppressed waistline for a more fitted look. Comes in both patterned and solid fabrics with braid-trimmed lapels and pocket flaps.

THE VEST is back...as an alternate to the cummerbund...and what an exciting selection Delton has to offer! A fashion-conscious man can choose formal vests in solid velvets, wools and patterned jacquard...and there are coordinated bow ties in teardrop or butterfly shapes...along with pleated and ruffled bosom shirts.

With the increase in the many occasions demanding formal dressing, any man can add variety to his formal wardrobe by taking advantage of the tremendous growth of formal wear rental facilities, which provide all the basics as well as such very special occasion needs as an opera cape, a morning suit or tails. Isn't that nice to know?

Bob Conners

Conners Will Be At Holiday

Bob Conners, popular WBNS radio personality, will appear New Year's Eve at Holiday Inn O.S.U., 328 West Lance Avenue across from St. John Arena.

Conners is well known for his off air apperances as they revolve around the popular them of "golden oldie" entertainment. As interst i nostalgia has grown, so has the production. Conners shares his unique collection of 45 rpm records and specially produced tapes through a sophisticated sound system.

The Conners memory provoking atmosphere at the Holiday will be further enhanced by a live band playing good old rock and roll.

A special feature of the evening will be a saddle shoe dance contest. Winnersin each category will be awarded real honest t goodness saddle shoes.

Why does Conners get so involved with his presentations ... he sayd, "The 50's were fun. It's that simple!".

During Winter Months the Columbus Auto Club-AAA says that motorists should exercise special care even if the road ahead appears clear.

Since traffic moves at a normal rate of speed under this condition, braking to avoid an unexpected icy area can be extremely hazardous. Drivers should be especially on guard for icy patches at intersections, hills and curves.

During the holiday season there are a lot of "good cheer" parties. The Columbus Auto Club-AAA advises that all motorists look out for other motorists who might have had too much "cheer".

Hunting Opportunity For Avid Sportsman

Many hunters hang up their guns when the Holidays arrive and for most the hunting is over until next season. Although the pressure drops off about fifty per cent, there is still time for the avid sportsman to run his dog and get some shooting in.

The split pheasant season re-opened December 24 running through January 1 on privateland and through January 26 onpublic hunting areas. January 26 marks the end of rabbit and quail season on private and public land and February 23 ends the grouse season on public land but runs through December 22 on public hunting areas. Raccoon hunting ends January 31. Deer bow season ends January 5.

With the crops in, the rabbits, pheasants and quail willbe concentrating in the remaining cover.

Remember to show respect and consideration for the land owners by asking permission before you hunt.

Nuisance Animals

There are times when the compatibility of man and animal becomes a little strained and until one has had a raccoon in the basement, a squirrel nest in roof or wall insuation, birds in the chimney or chimunks undermining a prized tulip garden, it may be hard to appreciate the problems animals can cause. In most instances an ounce of prevention keeping animals out is much more desirable than a pound of cure trying to remove one that becomes established.

An inspection of the outside of the house for holes, no matter how small, is the first order of business. Look for holes around the foundation, under the porch ventialtion openings in roof peaks and under and around eves. All holes, regardless of size, should be covered with one quarter inch hardware cloth, available at hardware stores. Raccoons, squirrels and mice can squeeze through extremely small openings for their size, and in time chew them into larger passageways.

Last but not least, cover the chimney with hardware cloth and secure it firmly in place. Not only birds use chimneys but squirrels and raccoons find them handy entrance ways and will remove a loosly placed cover.

OHIOANS must reconsider their driving habits during the present fuel shortage, says Natural Resources Director William B. Nye. "Many of us have become so used to our cars, that we've forgotten our legs, perhaps a walk to the grocery or a bicycle ride there, would be worth the few minutes more it might take to get there and back."

Cage Stars Continue To Glitter

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Spectator Sports Writer

THOSE AREA stars are shining brighter than ever. Not the stars in the sky, but the stars that are leading those area roundball quintets. And now, while things lighten up for the Christmas break, it's time to check them out.

It's a star studded cast this talent laden central basketball district and perhaps, shining brightest of all, is Whitehall's super-Ram Terry Burris.

Burris tossed in 21 points in vain last weekend as the Ram's Ohio Capital Conference win skein was ended by Gahanna 78-71. Tall-Terry, 6-6, has been firing at a 25 plus points per game clip so far, in this not so young season leading the Rams to their first place OCC tie-up.

CONSIDERED a major college prospect, Burris has basketball as well as track coaches drooling for his post-high services. Burris cleared the seven foot mark in the high jump last year earning him national prominence.

Reynoldsburg sports a standout of its own in stringy Ed Williams. Long Ed was instrumental in the Raiders' one point win over Westerville, scoring as usual while also clearing the boards 18 times.

And smoothest of all the smoothies may just be Eastmoor's soft-touch high-arching jump-shot specialist Brian Stertzer.Big Brian popped for 34 in theWarriors' impressive 82-58 embarrassing of South.

OTHER shining floor leaders last week had Ron Williams leading the West charge over Mifflin, while scrappy Mike Gilliland sparked Hartley's conquest of Wehrle.

Mark Abramson poured in 21 in a Bexley victory over Hilliard and Larry Ferst was sterling (34 points) despite a Franklin Heights loss to Hamilton Township.

OTHER AREA action found Ready slimming St. Charles, Westland trimming Worthington and Central dimming Walnut Ridge.

So Santa's Christmas break shows Mohawk leading the City, Bexley a surprise first-place in the Mid-Eight, Hartley and Watterson in a share in theCentral Catholic League and Whitehall and Mt. Vernon co-top the OCC.

And while no one knows for sure how their tangled schoolboy roundball races will finish, one thing is for sure-the stars, will shine for ever.

It's Really Spectacular

Salt Fork State Park Has Everything

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ohio has 62 state parks, but most Ohioans are familiar with only a few of the parks and the opportunities for outdoor recreation that they offer. This is one of a series of stories designed to make Ohioans more aware of what their state parks have to offer.

SALT FORK State Park in Guernsey County is one of the premier recreation areas in America.

Salt Fork, largest of Ohio's highly regarded system of state parks, was expected to be popular when it was officially opened in May, 1970.

And it was.

Then, in May, 1972, Governor John J. Gilligan opened the park's 148-room lodge and 54 deluxe housekeeping cabins, and the park's popularity skyrocketed.

In 1972, some 900,000 people visited the park. This year, the figure stands at nearly 1.6 million.

"Salt Fork State Park truly is one of the finest facilities in the nation," said Natural Resources Director William B. Nye. "It took nearly 17 years and almost $20 million to develop, but Salt Fork can be pointed to with pride by all Ohio citizens."

THE PARK, not far from the world's largest highway interchange, the junction of I-70 and I-77, is easily accessible from nearly anywhere in Ohio.

The main entrance is on U.S. Route 22, seven miles from Cambridge, 88 miles from Columbus, 66 miles from Akron, 55 miles from Wheeling, W. Va., and 69 miles from Marietta.

Natural Resources Department officials expect Salt Fork to become even more popular in the near future as Ohioans take a closer look at how far they want to travel for a vacation in light of the shortage of gasoline.

OHIOANS as well as travelers from other parts of the country delight in the recreational opportunities offered at Salt Fork.

Last May, park visitor response cards were placed in Ohio's state parks. The visitors were requested to comment about the parks on a detachable postcard addressed to Governor Gilligan at the Statehouse in Columbus.

Some of the most glowing reports were from visitors at Salt Fork:

"We have traveled to parks all over the United States and Canada and this area is one of the most beautiful we've ever seen," said a visitor from San Marcos, Calif.

"WE WISH Pennsylvania had such excellent facilities," noted a Pittsburg visitor.

The response that pleased park manager Robert McAndrews the most was one that read: "This is the best kept park we've ever stayed in."

McAndrews, who oversees a full-time staff of 50 employees, is enthusiastic about Salt Fork.

"OUR MAIN beach is the largest inland beach in Ohio," he said. "We had 8,000 swimmers last July 4." The beach measures 2,500 feet in length, nearly a half-mile.

The beach, though, is just a dot along the 74 miles of shoreline of 2,952-acre Salt Fork Lake. There are four boat ramp sites plus a marina, which includes 350 boat slips, two four-lane launching ramps and fuel facilities.

In all, Salt Fork State Park and the adjacent Salt Fork Wildlife Area encompass 23,143 acres.

"It takes a lot of work to maintain the park, but the staff here is tremendous," said McAndrews. "The employees take pride in their park."

McAndrews is proud of Salt Fork's mounted ranger staff of three full-time rangers, Willard McCauley, David Secrest and Donald Vincent, plus Karen Kline, who spends part of her time as a secretary and dispatcher in the park office.

"We are able to cover a lot of ground using horses, including some areas that can't be reached by trucks or boats," McAndrews said.

"WE USED the mounted patrols through the month of November this year because of the fuel shortage."

The mounted rangers are popular with park visitors and are finding their services in demand for parades and other events in and around Guernsey County.

Other features of the park pointed to with pride by McAndrews are the facilities for the handicapped. These facilities include special campsites, special-made picnic tables, restroom facilities and a hard-surface nature trail. Designed for wheel chairs, the half-mile trail has interpretive signs posted along the route.

A SPECIAL trail for the blind will be opened at Salt Fork next Spring. It will be a gravel walkway, marked with numbered signs that will correspond with information recorded on tape. Several tapes and tape recorders will be available at the park office.

In addition to Salt Fork State Park Lodge and the 54 cabins, Salt Fork has a 212-unit Class A camping area. All are open year-round.

The lodge has a dining room, coffee shop, snack bar, gift shop, lounge and lobby areas, indoor games area, arts and craft area and meeting rooms accommodating 25 to 300 people.

THE CABINS are near the lodge and each has four rooms, a bath, a screened-in porch and an all-electric kitchen equipped with cooking and eating utensils. Four twin beds, a hide-a-bed and all the necessary linen and bedding provide comfortable sleeping for six people.

For the enjoyment of lodge and cabin guests, there are indoor and outdoor swimming pools, tennis, volleyball and shuffleboard courts, a 400-foot swimming beach, and boat launching and docking facilities.

Boaters flock to Salt Fork Lake during the summer months. Boats with unlimited horsepower are permitted. Combined speed-ski zones are marked by buoys.

FISHING is excellent on the lake, which is well stocked with largemouth bass, crappie, bluegill, walleye, muskellunge, catfish, sucker and carp.

Game and non-game species of wildlife flourish on the wildlife area. Deer are plentiful, as are other game species, including rabbit, squirrel, grouse, quail, woodchuck, raccoon, muskrat, mink, beaver and waterfowl.

SALT FORK has several miles of well-marked hiking trails and scenic bridle trails. A park naturalist is on duty during the summer to conduct programs of nature study. The programs include slide talks, motion pictures, campfire programs, hikes, and a junior naturalist program for youths 9 to 14 years of age.

Salt Fork is said to have gotten its name from a salt well used by Indians who roamed the area before white settlers arrived in the early 1800s. The well was near the southeastern corner of what is now Salt Fork State Park.

Modern development at Salt Fork began in 1955 when the Ohio Legislature provided $250,000 to the division of water of the Department of Natural Resources for "Guernsey-Salt Fork Watershed Development." A STUDY completed in 1957 determined that construction of Salt Fork Reservoir was feasible. Purchases of farmland and woodland that would be inundated by the reservoir began in April, 1960.

The reservoir was constructed in two phases, and was completed in September, 1968.

When the park opened, facilities included entrance and interior roads, parking lots, beach and bathhouse complex, camping areas and a marina.

TO INSURE adequate service facilities for future development, a water treatment plant, water storage tank and three sewage treatment plants were constructed.

The park's development came to fruition in May, 1972, with the opening of the vacation lodge and cabin complex, including roads, parking lots, boat launching ramp, and 18-hole golf course and pro shop and water and sanitary facilities.

The lodge and cabin complex and the related facilities cost $10,230,766 to build, for a total Salt Fork development cost of $19,323,005.

As the park becomes more popular, additional development has been planned. A new service building is near completion, and McAndrews said three new picnic areas will be ready next summer.

"WE THINK Salt Fork is the showcase of the state parks system," said McAndrews. Not many would dispute that claim.

HANDICAPPED HAVE RIGHT-OF- WAY AT SALT FORK – Facilities such as this specially-marked readway crossing are provided for handicapped people visiting Salt Fork State Park. Other facilities for the handicapped at the park include special campsites, special-made picnic tables, restroom facilities and a hard-surface nature trail. Designed for wheel chairs, the half-mile trail has interpretive signs posted along the route. A special trail for the blind will be opened at Salt Fork next spring. OSU Research Shows Need For Master Truck Terminal

THE NUMBER of trucks making small freight deliveries in large cities could be cut by approximately 90 percent through a method studied by Ohio State University researchers.

The result would be less congestion, fuel savings, and slightly cleaner air.

THE METHOD proposes a consolidated freight terminal to receive, sort, and send shipments in fewer trucks than currently in use.

Shipments of a thousand pounds and less represent most of the deliveries and pick-ups in a city, the researchers said.

THEIR STUDY showed that if Columbus, a typical large city, had a consolidated freight terminal in addition to its 76 private terminals, the number of trucks downtown could be reduced from 660 to some 70 or 80, said Dr. James F. Robeson, chief investigator and professor and chairman of marketing.

Cooperating in the study are Dr. Bernard J. LaLonde, who is the James A. Riley Professor of Transportation and Business Logistics; Dr. Dennis R. McDermott, assistant professor of MOF MARKETING AT Syracuse University, and two doctoral candidates.

WHILE THEY know of no consolidated general freight terminals currently in existence, there are one-product terminals. Also, England, France, and Holland are studying consolidated terminals for urban areas, they added.

"Because of the energy crisis, air pollution, and traffic congestion," said Dr. LaLonde, "we need to find a better way to deliver goods in urban areas. Consumers and users end up paying for inefficient delivery. That's a major reason it costs more to live in New York City."

The $60,000 study, still continuing, is funded by the Urban Mass Transportation Administration of the U.S. Department of Transportation.

FOR PART OF the study, university students conducted a cordon-crossing survey in which general freight trucks were counted and classified as they entered Columbus' central business district, Dr. Robeson said.

They interviewed drivers of about half the general freight trucks and distributed forms to others, 20 percent of whom completed them. The study excluded trucks delivering foods as well as postal and parcel service trucks that specialize in small deliveries, he said.

THIS PART of the study showed that 660 vehicles carried general freight shipments of a thousand pounds and less into Columbus every day. About half the trucks were 28-foot delivery trucks while one-fourth were pick-up or panel trucks, and one-fourth were semi-trailer combinations.

THE RESEARCHERS found the trucks were usually only one-third full, traveled at an average speed of 5.2 miles per hour in the city, and emitted 460 pounds of carbon monoxide, 108 pounds of hydrocarbons, and 36 pounds of nitrogen oxide. However, these emissions were equal to only about five percent of the total emissions from vehicles, Dr. Robeson said.

Of the total time the vehicle was in use, 25 percent of the time was spent in transit, 40 percent was unloading time, eight percent was loading time, and 25 percent was spent lining up at the dock. These figures are in line with other studies in this field, he said.

"WE THEN utilized computer to determine whether a consolidated terminal might be feasible," Dr. Robeson said. "The simulation model we developed indicates that substantial economic benefits might be realized through implementing the consolidated terminal concept.

But, the terminal construction and operating costs also must be taken into consideration as soon as they are determined."

SUCH A terminal, handling only goods that can be mingled and excluding perishable items, would lead to the easing of congestion in traffic and at loading docks, and improve the efficiency of small freight shipping, the researchers said.

Other phases of the study to be completed by July 1, 1974, are design of a consolidated terminal and consideration of where it might be best located in Columbus. Research methods in the study could be adapted for other studies, they said.

"THE MAJOR problem concerning freight consolidation involves implementation," Dr. Robeson said. "A number of Interstate Commerce Commission rulings would have to be changed and there would be major problems in coordinating paperwork and shipment flows. In addition, there are attitude problems–anything this mnovative is highly questioned."

To present their preliminary findings and gather reactions, particularly from trucking company officials, the researchers held a seminar at Ohio State in August. The officials of about 20 trucking companies as well as state and federal transportation specialists and others said they agreed that the concept of a consolidated terminal was interesting and might prove feasible, but much additional reserach was still required, Dr. LaLonde said.

"THE TRUCKING companies have large investments in their trucks and terminals," he said. "While they don't want to lose these investments, they realize they must look into such future alternatives as consolidated terminals. They are now beginning to face problems of restrictions on the hours that deliveries can be made in some cities."

Supplemental Security Income Reports Filed

Two-hundred and thirty-four people in the Franklin County have applied for supplemental security income payments, the Federal program stariting in January that will establish a nationally uniform income floor for people with little or no income who are 65 or over, or blind, or disabled.

Social Security offices are taking applications now from people who aren't getting State or local public assistance payments but who think they may be eligible for supplemental security income, according to James B. Illencik, social security district manager in Columbus.

"People who aren't getting State or local assistance payments should apply now for supplemental security income so their applications can be processed before the program begins in January," Illencik said.

People don't need to apply for supplemental security income payments if they get State or local assistance payments because they're 65 or over, or blind, or disabled, according to Illencik.

"Eligible people getting State or local payments for December will continue to get payments in January when the Federal program starts," he said.

The amount of the monthly check people will get will depend on how much other income they might have.

"People with no other income at all will have a basic cash income of at least $130 a month for one person and $195 for a couple," Illencik siad.

"People with other income may get reduced supplemental security income checks."

Federal supplemental security income payments will be made by the Social Security Administration, but the program will be financed by Federal general tax revenues--not by social security contributions. The Columbus social security office is at 170 North High St. The phone number is 469-6850.

Water Pollution Control Operator Training Offered

Columbus Technical Institute is again offering a 24-week program in Water Pollution Control Operator Training. The program's technical content provides the trainee with basic knowledge and know-how in the proper treatment of wastewater.

During the first phase, a firm foundation will be gained in bio-bacteriology, physics, math and basic hydraulics. The second phase builds upon this background and introduces other subject areas such as sanitary chemistry and biology, wastewater collection and treatment, and water pollution control. The course includes in-plant training.

The program is VA approved and eligible individuals may apply for an additional MDTA Stipend which provides living and travel allowances. Columbus Tech assists graduates in job placement throughout the State of Ohio. Total course cost is $491.00.

Classes start January 2. Early registration is recommended. Send a registration fee of $35 with your name, address, and telephone number to: Columbus Tech, in care of Rudolph A. Vojsak, Program Supervisor, 550 East Spring Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215. Phone: 221-6743.

LABOR FACTS

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration conducted a record number of over 47,000 workplace inspections in the 1973 fiscal year an increase of almost 50 percent over the 32,701 inspections in 1972.

Prophecies Are Topic

"How Should We Interpret Biblical Prophecies in Today's World?" will be the topic on Columbus Town Meeting Sunday, January 6, from Noon to 1 p.m. over WBNS-TV.

An audio of the program will be rebroadcast Sunday evening from 10 to 11 p.m. over WBNS-AM Radio.

Guest speakers will be: Dr. Walter R. Bowman, Professor of Systematic Theology, Lutheran Theological Seminary; Pastor Jim Custer, Grace Brethren Church of Columbus; Rabbi David Stavsky, Spiritual Leader of Beth Jacob Congregation and Dr. Robert Tannehill, Professor of the New Testament, Methodist Theological School on Ohio.

Representative Asks Measures Opinions

The General Assembly reconvenes the first week of January to take up a number of vital concerns left over from this year's session, and to address solutions for problems that have arisen since. How do you feel about these issues?

DO YOU FAVOR OR OPPOSE MEASURES THAT WOULD:

1. Reduce Ohio's speed limit to 55 mph for the duration of the energy crisis.
2. Permit trucks to travel 5 mph faster than autos during the energy crisis, if it is determined that they consume less fuel at higher speeds.
3. Return to taxpayers in the form of property tax reductions any surplus in the state's treasury.
4. Return to taxpayers in the form of an income tax rebate any surplus in the state's treasury.
5. Appropriate for public schools any surplus in the state's treasury.
6. Put a ceiling on the percentage of a person's income that could be taxed by state and local governments.
7. Permit strikes by teachers.
8. Permit striked by non-teaching public employees.
9. Place a freeze on the number of state employees.
10. Permit outdoor recreation facilities to be taxed at their current use value, rather than at their "highest and best use".

OSU Program Hits The Spot

Child's Deficits Get Turned Into Assets

A PRE-SCHOOL program for mentally retarded children at Ohio State University combines several features that make it an excellent learning opportunity for the children, for university students, and for in-service training of teachers in the field.

THE PROGRAM'S emphasis is on assessing the development of the children, forming rules in dealing with them to bring about changes, and collecting data frequently on their progress.

"A mentally retarded child usually has a list of deficits including areas such as language development or ability to walk," says Dr. Lee Parks, director of the pre-school located at the university's Nisonger Center for Mental Retardation and Development Disabilities.

NISONGER Center brings together students and faculty from various disciplines to help the mentally retarded, he said.

In particular, the pre-school program gives university students in pyschology, physical education, education, and other disciplines an opportunity to undertake special projects. In one project, psychology graduate students are developing and will implement a behavior change program, he said.

"AFTER evaluating a child's development in various areas, we form rules so that everyone who works with a certain child knows what to emphasize with him," Dr. Parks said.

The child's progress is frequently evaluated because "if something we're doing is ineffective, we want to know as soon as possible.

"It is especially important to take frequent measurements of delayed children so that we don't waste a lot of time using a technique that doesn't work."

HE ADDED: "The two teachers are always striving to find ways to learn that are attractive to the children, that are fun."

Through the teachers, volunteers, and university students, a great deal of individual attention is given to each child, said Jean Berkwitt, coordinator of the program. "We've had a number of successes," she said.

"An autistic four-year-old in the program last year did not walk and reacted to almost everything with screams and cries.

We helped him to walk and changed his behavior to a point where he was more acceptable to his family."

IN ITS SECOND year, the program has 18 children, ages 3 to 7, who are at different levels of development, ranging from mildly to severely retarded and including one normal child, Dr. Parks said.

"We selected children to form a heterogeneous group because the more delayed children usually benefit from exposure to children more advanced than they are, particularly in self-help skills such as fastening their own jackets," he said.

MINGLING normal and delayed children is a trend in education, he said. Research in the field indicates there is no adverse effect on normal children.

Children attend either a morning or afternoon session, which features a play period, adaptive physical education, creative arts, games and toys to develop fine motor abilities, language skills, and routine activities such as toilet training, Mrs. Berkwitt said.

DR. PARKS nad other staff members are conductung research to determine whether the curriculum fits the needs of children at different levels of development.

Pre-school teachers employed by the Franklin County Mental Health and Retardation Board take part in training at the pre-school. Dr. Parks said: "Some teachers are especially interested in our teaching methods and data-based evaluation of progress."

FLINGING a rope in a physical education session is Jon, who attends a pre-school for mentally retarded children at Ohio State University. William Bone, a graduate student, teaches adaptive physical education in the program, which also involves faculty and students from a variety of fields. (Photo by Jeff Bates.)

Chamber Ensemble To Perform At Capital Concert Jan. 9

The Contemporary Chamber Ensemble will perform at Capital University on Wednesday, Jan. 9 at 8:15 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium as part of the university's special events calendar.

Begun in 1960 by New York musician and conductor Arthur Weisberg, the chamber ensemble performs works written for less than full-symphony-sized orchestras.

The group is recognized throughout the nation as the leader in its field, and includes among its players musicians from some of America's most prestigious chamber organizations. Their repertoire includes Travinsky, Hindemith, Schonberg, Ives, Milhaud, Varese and Webern, as well as many new works by younger American composers.

For three years, the ensemble was in residence at Rutgers University, during which time the repertory was enlarged and the group performed extensively in live and televised and concerts.

Their concert at Capital will include works by Castiglioni, Davidovsky, Scherchen, Wuorinen and Schwantner.

Tickets for the January 9 performance are $1.50 for general admission and will be available at the door. Advance tickets can be reserved by calling Capital University box office at 236-6802.

Worried About '75 Budget

Ellis Presents '74 Appropriation Measure

Columbus–Superintendent Dr. John Ellis submitted the school adminstrations's proposed 1974 Appropriation Measure to the Columbus Board of Education, meeting as a Committee of the Whole, Thursday, Dec. 27.

The Measure totals $101,761,280 and represents an increase of 7.1 per cent over 1973 expenditures, according to Ellis.

Ellis said, "1974 should be a good fiscal year for the Columbus Public Schools. We have sufficient money to operate with a prudent budget."

He added, "We must watch expenditures carefully. The needs far exceed dollars available, so our 1974 appropriations reflect throughfully planned expenditures and operating within monies available."

"STUDENT enrollments are declining and some staff reductions are possible, but we will maintain present staffing ratios, rather than increase class sizes. Program improvements will continue in 1974. Many highly desirable requests have been refused, however, because funds are not available."

Ellis said the Appropriation Measure was designed to achieve three major objectives: to maintain sound instructional programs and services at all grade levels, to staff and supply new facilities as they are completed during 1974, and to keep faith with agreements made between the Board and employee organizations.

While pronouncing the schools in sound financial health for 1974, Ellis repeated his warning that he outlook for 1975 is uncertain.

Ellis said, "Additional income should be acquired. The most logical and desirable source of additional funding is from the state.

"A new state biennium, or financial cycle, will begin July, 1975. The state income tax was widely promoted as a major source of support for education, and I believe state appropriations for education should be substantially increased.

"The question of a local tax levy is always raised when budget discussions occur. We have not had an additional local school operating levy approved in Columbus since 1968. Very few school districts in Ohio go six years without an additional levy as we are doing."

ELLIS SAID, "The legislature has been very helpful during the past two years, and there's no reason to believe our senators and representatives won't be attentive to our emerging situation."

Rapid increase in prices were cited by Ellis as a source of future concern. He said, "An American history textbook, for example, will increase from $6.75 to $8.00 or 18.5 per cent. A math textbook will increase from $4.65 to $6.30, or 37 per cent. Some basic items will increase even more. Fortunately not everything will increase at such rates, but the general problem of price increases is severe."

Ellis cited other uncertainties in the future and referred specifically to salary schedules. He said:

"The Board agreement with the Columbus Education Association (CEA states that salary negotiations will begin in November, 1974, for salaries that are to become effective Jan. 1, 1975. This process must be given careful attention so that we are fair to the teachers and remain fiscally solvent.

"Salaries for classified personnel were negotiated under a two-year contract which calls for a 4 per cent increase July 6, 1974. This agreement expires July 1, 1975."

Ellis said, "I'd like to be able to say that the 1974 Appropriation Measure will provide the substantial program expansions and improvements required by young people growing up in this major urban center. But it doesn't. Program recommendations of Cabinet members have been trimmed to fit the financial resources available."

"WE HAVE ACCEPTED the challenge to improve the quality of our schools," Ellis said. "But I want it clearly understood that these improvements must be made primarily by people now on the job. Fortunately the dedication of Columbus personnel is outstanding and I have every confidence they will continue their splendid performance.

Ellis said increased State support and prudent fiscal management were responsible for the carry-over balance that will enable the schools to operate in 1974.

He cited financial projections compiled by Clerk-Treasurer William Guy to illustrate the significance of the 1973 year–end balance in funding the schools during 1974. Ellis said:

"When the books are closed Dec. 31, 1973, we estimate that our balance will be $7,770,000. We estimate that revenue from all other sources in 1974 will amount to $97,896,000 making total estimated 1974 funds available $105,666,000.

"Since proposed appropriations for 1974 amount to $101,761,000, our year-end balance for 1974 will be down to $3,905,000. Thus, we'll be using nearly $4-million of our 1973 balance to fund 1974 operations."

Ellis continued, "It is obvious that the Columbus Public Schools simply do not have enough recurring income, in a time of spiraling prices, to maintain existing programs and services through 1975."

ELLIS SAID THE school district has been tightening its belt throughout 1973. "The result has been a saving of $1,130,000 to contribute to the year-end balance," he reported.

"We'll continue to scrutinize expenditures carefully in 1974 in the hope that we can accumulate a larger balance to carry into 1975," he added.

Budget Director Myron Kirkpatrick provided the following highlights from the 1974 Appropriation Measure:

–Proposed expenditures for instruction – which includes such items as the salaries of instructional personnel, textbooks, library materials and teaching aids – represent an increase of $3,048,000 over 1973 expenditures. Salaries are expected to rise by four per cent, and "staffing levels will continue to be adjusted in response to actual and anticipated enrollment declines."

–Proposed expenditures for fixed charges – which includes such items as retirement contributions, workmen's compensation and insurance – represent an increase of $621,000 over 1973 expenditures.

Students brought in clothes, food, and toys, in accordance with the Gospel message of sharing our blessings with those who are not as fortunate as we. This project was conducted through the organization JOIN, and was headed by Sister Ruth of the Hartley faculty. All this was done to help these families enjoy a merrier Christmas.

Warrior Wrap-up
By Mike Brennan

ELEVEN EASTMOOR girls took part in the sixteenth annual Starlight Cotillion Ball last month. The ball is a yearly "coming out" of thirty outstanding young ladies from the Black community.

The eleven Eastmoor girls are Rowena Bower, Patricia Carter, Donnita Carroll, Tonia Kee, Tracy Mackey, Corliss Marbury, Carol Peery, Danita Rayfield, Stephanie Stewart, Denise Taylor and Wanda Taylor.

The Cotillion is a fund raising project sponsored by the Victory Matrons Club. Proceeds from the event will go to the Chillocothe Veterans Hospital and various community organizations.

THE UNTESTED Eastmoor In the Know team will face South High School in a battle of the brains on Thursday, Jan. 17 at 8 p.m. The contest will be taped at the WBNS television studios at 770 Twin Rivers Dr. for future airing.

Team members are David Adlerstein, Lee Fenner, Ken Supowit and Howard Wallack. The team's advisor is Craig Toth.

THE INTENSIVE Office Education (IOE) class at Eastmoor last month held an open house to acquaint businessmen with the advanced office skills being taught here. The businessmen were particularly impressed with the quality of the word processing system. Eastmoor is the only high school in the state to have such a system.

Mrs. Lucile Knupke, the IOE teacher thought the open house was a great success, and hopes "to make it a yearly affair."

The IOE class has also sponsored two fundraisers earlier this year. In November they had a key chain sale, and they just completed a vase sale. Money from both sales will help pay for IOE activities planned later this year.

The Bureau of Motor Vehicles (BMV) has implemented a total switch to photo driver licenses as of January 2 according to Frederick A. Vierow, Deputy Director of the Ohio Department of Highway Safety.

"Issuance of all Ohio driver licenses will be conducted by 205 specially-equipped deputy registrar agencies strategically located to serve every part of the state," Vierow said.

"Since each of these agencies will be furnished with an 'instant process' camera unit, designated deputies will be able to produce finished photolicenses in minutes and issue them directly over the counter," he commented.

Renewal licenses will be issued over the counter as of now, First licenses and duplicates will continue to be verified in Columbus and then mailed out until July, 1974, when each field agency will be linked to the state's central driver license record bank via a special computer terminal. Once the terminals are operational, deputies will be able to verify applications on the spot andissue first licenses over the counter.

BMV officials emphasize that all currently valid paper and plastic licenses will remain valid until their scheduled expiration dates. Over the next four years, as these "old" licenses expire and motorists apply for renewals, they will recieve photo licenses. All driverlicense fees will remain the same.

"Besides helping law enforcement officers nab unsafe and unlicensed drivers before they add to the highway death toll, Ohio's new color photo driver license will make check-cashing and credit purchases easier for the citizen and safer for the businessman," Vierow said. "The photo license should put a serious crimp in the plans of credit card thieves, bad-check artists and habitual traffic violators who have been successfully practicing their illegal activities by using forged or stolen driver licenses."

Postage Increase Held Off 'Till Mar. 2

Columbus Postmaster Ralph E. Haffenden has announced that the proposed postage rate increase for Jan. 5, has been postponed until March 2.

Current domestic and international postage rates now in effect will remain in effect until March 2.

VA Questionnaires Should Be Promptly Filled Out

The Veterans Administration has a suggestion for the 1.1 million veterans, widows and parents who recieved income questionnaires with their November 1st pension checks.

Complete and return the questionnaires promptly, the agency advises. To date, only 600,000 have been returned.

S.W. Melidosian, director of the VA Center in Philadelphia where all the returns are coded, explained the reasonf or this suggestion is theat past experience shows many questionnaires are lost, misplaced, forgotten or otherwise delayed if they are not returned promptly.

When this happens, VA's determination of amounts due pensioners during the upcoming year is hampered, since the questionnaires provide information essential for this computation. If the questionnaires are not returned by the January 15 deadline, or not at all, some pensioners may receive later checks, smaller checks, or no checks at all, Melidosian stressed. 7

The Va questionnaires were mailed to veterans and widows drawing pension under the "old" and "new" pension laws, as well as to parents on dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC). DIC payments are based on service-connected deaths of veterans on or after Jan. 1, 1957.

The annual questionnaires also went to veterans drawing disability compensation for service-connected injuries rated 50 per cent or more disabling, who claim parents as dependents. In addition, parents who receive death compensation benefits as a result of service-connected deaths of veterans before Jan. 1, 1957, received questionnairs, Melidosian pointed out.

Eastmoor Grad Is Card Cager

Eastmoor High School graduate Kim McCualsky is a member of the 1973-74 Otterbein College Basketball team.

During his freshman season, McCualsky helped Coach Jack Mehl's "junior Otters" to a 16-2 mark. While attending Eastmoor High, McCualsky played basketball and baseball, leading the Warrior baseballers to the state sectional championship.

According to Head Coach Dick Reynolds, the 6-2 McCualsky is a "good shooter" and should see some action this season as a backup guard. The Fighting Cardinals return four starters and six lettermen from last year's squad that finished with a 19-6 mark and shared the Ohio Conference basketball corwn.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald McCualsky, Kim's parents, reside at 542 Eastmoor Blvd., Columbus.

Nationwide Adds $50,000 To Children's

THE NATIONWIDE Insurance Companies recently presented a check for $50,000 to the Children's Hospital Building Fund as part of the Companies' $250,000 pledge to help finance construction of the Hosptial's new main-building.

Dean W. Jeffers, general chairman and chief executive officer of Nationwide Insurance Organizations, and John E. Fisher, president and general manager of Nationwide Insurance Companies, presented the check.

Dr. Fawcett is president of Battelle Memorial Institute and McIntosh serves as presidentof the Midland Mutual Life Insurance Company.

IN MAKING the presentation, Jeffers stressed the importance of the Hospital's building project to the community. "We have one of the best and largest children's hospital's in the country here in Columbus," he said.

"In a typical year the Hospital will serve more than 170,000 children, the great majority of them from the Columbus area. Nationwide's world headquarters is located here. We actively support this community and we feel helping Children's Hospital with its expansionprogram is an excellent way of doing this."

THE HOSPITAL'S six-story addition, which will eventually become the facility's new main building, will provide much-needed space for both patient care facilities and important supportive services.

Included among the areas on the first two floors of this structure will be a new emergency room entrance and facilities; main entrance and lobby; larger laboratory, cardiology and radiology department; two operating room theaters; 60 beds for infant care and a 12-bed intensive care unit for older patients.

The upper floors will provide space for patient units of 40 beds each.

CONSTRUCTION of the new building is now underway withthe estimated completion date set for January, 1976. The Building Fund was established to help finance this construction, which is expected to cost about $9.7 million for the first phase of the project. This phase will include completion of much of the first four floors of the building nad shelling-in of the remainder, following priorities that were established by the Hospital's administrative and medical staffs.

The rest of the building will be completed as additional funding permits at an estimated cost of about $5.0 million.

WITHTHE Nationwide gift, the Building Fund has $1.4 million in cash and pledges toward its $2.4 million goal. Other funding for the first phase of this project is coming from a $3.5 million mortgageloan and about $3.8 million of Hospital resources, including income from the sale of property and from unrestricted gifts and bequests.

"We certainly appreciate the confidence Nationwide is showing in our Hosptial and the community we serve through this generous contribution," Dr. Fawcett said. "Contributions such as this are extremely important because they will enable us to complete more of our new building as soon as possible, thus giving us more finished space to meet the constantly increasing needs for childhealth care services."

Dr. Fawcett said that information regarding gifts to the Hospital's Building Fund could be obtained by calling or writing the Children's Hospital Development Department, 561 South 17th Street, Columbus 43205.

Woody Booker Motivates Himself And Many Others

THERE IS always someone who needs help more than you, no matter how bad off you thing you are.

This is the attitude which motivates a great many people to help their fellow man, inone way or another, whether by financial support or by volunteering one's time and energy, even when there may be very little available.

IT'S THE attitude of Harold "Woody" Booker, paralyzed from the waist down, that there are many people who Are in worse trouble than he. Almost 2,000 people in Ohio alone, for instance, who became blind in 1973--because of disease, neglect, accident or ignorance.

Woody Booker is a paraplegic as the result of an accident in June of 1972. At 32, he can only move from bed to wheelchair. Woody has been living at Scioto Crest for almost a year now, but he hasn't been idle.

EVEN WITH his own struggle constantly at hand, Woody has been helping to fight needless blindness by working, voluntarily, with the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness. He has already done a great deal of time-consuming, tedious work – zip coding thousands of envelopes, sorting materials, alphabetizing hundreds of names—work that has helped spread the word of the Society so that others may not have to struggle for a new life.

THROUGH THE efforts of Mrs. Donna R. Yaklevich, a rehabilitation counselor with the Ohio Rehabilitation Service Commission, Woody will be undertaking, within the next few months, two to three years of vocational rehabilitation, a project he has already begun on his own through his work with the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness. In three years, with training and guidance, he will be semi-independant and living a life he can call his own again.

The Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness has shown its gratitude by presenting Woody with a Certificate of Appreication for his help.

Because of dedicated individuals and groups like him throughout the sstate, the Ohio Society was able to reach more than 300,000 residents of Ohio in 1973, with preschool vision and glaucoma screening programs, films and educational programs, speakers and industrial eye safety programs.

Woody feels pretty lucky himself. He may not be able to use his legs, but he can see. That's why he knows that no matter how bad off you think you might be, there is always someone who needshelp more than you.

Columbus Tech Saving Energy

Columbus Technical Institute, a state-assisted technical college, 550 East-Spring St., has made the following adjustments inorder to reduce energy consuption on campus:

(1) Florescent lighting has been reduced from 232,960 watts to 194,000 watts - or 20 percent.

(2) Incandescent bulbs have been reduced 66 percent from 9200 watts to 2300 watts;

(3) Outside lighting has been reduced 34 percent - from 24,560 watts to 16,160 watts;

(4) The former total wattage in lighting on campus was 266,720.This has been cut to 216,060 watts - a total reduction inlighting of 18 percent

(5) The outside air-intake for the Administration Building has been reduced from 20 percent to 5 percent or 75 percent.

(6) The outside air-intake for theEducational Resources Center has also been reduced 75 percent.

(7) Thermostats have been reset as follows - classrooms and offices are set at 68 degrees, hallways andlobbies are set at 65 degrees; the hangar is set at 60 degrees; switching the thermostat from day to night in Rhodes and Aquinas Halls has reduced the temperature in these buildings to 58 degrees;

(8) School vehicle speed is posted not to exceed 50 m.p.h.

Dr. Harold M. Nestor, Interim President of Columbus Tech, says that even further areas of energy reduction on campus are being investigated. Dr. Nestor is interested in letting the general public know that big companies, educational systems, etc., can achieve more than favorable results in cooperating the energy shortages.

The objectives are to follow the government's request and to reduce the overall energy consumption onColumbus Tech's campus by 25 percent.

It is also being pointed out that 50 percent of Columbus Tech's administrative staff are now participating in car pools.

Birds Add Landscape Color; Feeding Keeps Them There

BIRDS CAN add color, sound and life to an otherwise bleak winter landscape, says Ohio Natural Resources Director William B. Nye, and with just a minimum of effort you can brighten up your backyard and help the birds find hard-to-get winter food.

Birds can be of great value and provide hours of enjoyment to residents in the city or the country. But, to fully enjoy their benefits, a little time must be taken to care for these colorful creatures.

AN EASY WAY to feed birds is to place the food on the ground. This will attract ground feeding birds such as doves, juncos and towhees.

But, to attract a mixture of birds, a simple above-the-ground feeding station can be used. Platform feeders bring the birds up to an eye level where they are easier to see, a window-shelf feeder allows close-up observation of birds from your side of the window and hopper feeders offer the advantage of holding several day's supply of food.

ALL THESE above-the-ground feeders and more are available commercially and many feeders can be constructed from discarded household goods. Used bleach jugs, glass jars or metal cans make excellent bird feeders with just a little modification.

Chickadees, wrens, nuthatches and woodpeckers find suet in feeders tacked to the side of a tree practically irresistable. An easy way to feed suet is to place large chunks in a mesh bag (the kind that vegetables come in), and attach it to a tree trunk out of the reach of neighborhood dogs.

"MANY BIRDS have specialized food habits and unless these are met, the birds won't be present at the feeder," said Nye.

Nutmeats are preferred foods for cardinals, catbirds, chickadees, crossbills, goldfinches and titmice. Dry seeds such as corn, weeds and grasses are eaten by bobwhites, grackles, jays, pheasants, redpolls, siskins, sparrows of all kinds and thrashers. Berries and fruit are important food to bluebirds, flickers, mockingbirds, robins and thrushes.

"BIRDS ALSO eat many of the foods we eat," he said. "Apples, American cheese, cornbread, dried currents and raisins and peanuts and peanut butter are widely eaten and provide birds with an excellent source of energy."

By varying the kinds of food, it is possible to attract preferred species of birds. Also, it is possible to control the types of birds visiting the feeder by the kind of feeder used and the manner in which the feeder is erected.

A swinging feeder, suspended from a tree limb or a clothes line, will discourage house sparrows and bluejays, both of which dominate the feeding stations if permitted.

"If you decide to feed birds this winter," said Nye, "don't interrupt or stop the feeding because the birds will depend on you for much of their winter food."

ONCE WINTER feeding is started, it should be continued until late spring, Nye said.

He pointed out that feeding birds doesn't have to cost any more than you want it to. Just a few seeds and a small home-made feeder will repay you many times in the pleasure and interest it brings.

A bird feeder will attract a large number and variety of birds if properly maintained. This offers an excellent opportunity for close-up observation and photography by amateur or experienced bird watchers.

A DEPARTMENT of Natural Resources publication, "Attracting Birds in Ohio," describes their aesthetic and biological value, habits of species found in Ohio and winter feeding methods. It also has diagrams to help in construction of bird feeders and bird houses. The booklet is available from the Publications Center, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Fountain Square, Columbus, Ohio 43224.

THIS IS AN architect's rendering of the new six-story addition to Children's Hospital that will eventually serve as the hospital's new main building.The building will be connected to the southwest corner of the south wing of the existing Hospital, which is pictured at the right of the rendering. The new main entrance for the Hospital is shown on the left side of the new facility, while the new emergency room entrance is pictured in approximately the same position on the right side of the building. Construction is now underway, with the estimated completion date set for January, 1976.

Ohio National Bank Will Distribute Parks Medallion

Ohio National Bank, in cooperation with the Ohio Department of Natural Resources and the National Conference on State Parks, has begun distribution of the official limited issue of National Conference on State Parks commemorative medallions, according to an announcement by Walter C. Mercer, president and chief executive officer.

The medallions, which are authorized by the Conference to commemorate that organization's 50th anniversary, are available at all 36 Ohio National offices throughout Columbus and Franklin County, Mercer said.

The dollar-size medallions have been struck in two metals, .999 fine silver and bronze. Each silver medallion is serially numbered on the edge up to 15,000, the limit of the issue. They will sell for $12.50 each.The bronze medallions are priced at $1.50 each.

Proceeds from the sales of the medallions will be used to support the National Conference on State Parks' continuing efforts in the area of ecology. Participating banks and savings and loan associations are donating their time and facilities as a public service in support of Conference activities.

Both bronze and silver medallions, because of their limited issue, are expected to become collector's items. They are of the same size and design. The face of the medal depicts Stephen T. Mather, Founder of the National Conference on State Parks and first director of the National Park Service. The reverse side features a campfire with the numeral 50 over the flame.

Patrol Assists Motorists

Ohio State Highway Patrol officers assisted over 5,300 disabled motorists over the Christmas holiday weekend, Colonel Robert M. Chiaramonte, Patrol superintendent, has announced.

"Our assistance rendered total was more than double the number of arrests made," the Colonel said. "Final statistics show a 28 percent increase in the number of disabled motorists helped in 1973 over the 1972 Christmas weekend figures."

Colonel Chiaramonte went on to say that providing service to the motorists traveling our highways is a priority objective of the Patrol.

"Despite the cold, rainy, and icy weather conditions, decreased speed appears to have had a reducing effect on the number of fatal accidents which helped to make the holiday safer than expected," Colonel Chiaramonte said.

GAS-SAVING TIP

Turn off electrical accessories in your car before starting the engine, says the Ohio Department of Highway Safety. Make sure lights, radio, heater and defroster are off before you start your car. The engine will start quicker and use less fuel.

Senators, Congressmen Have Local Addresses

Spectator area residents who wish to contact their representatives and congressmen don't have to write to Washington for that purpose.

The four have local offices and mail sent to them locally will let them know it is from this area.

Their addresses are:

U.S. Senator William B. Saxbe, 85 Marconi Blvd., Columbus, Ohio 43215.

U.S. Senator Robert Taft Jr., 121 E. State St., Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Congressman Samuel . Devine, 85 Marconi Blvd., Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Congressman Chalmers P. Wylie, 85 Marconi Blvd., Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Fasten Your Seat Belts

When you wear a seat belt, the odds are with you, says the Ohio Department of Highway Safety. Safety belts prevent little accidents from becoming big ones. By wearing a safety belt you can double – or better – your chance of survival if you are involved in a collision.

Symphony Grand Ball Plans Are Set

THE SYMPHONY GRAND BALL plans are being finalized and many area residents are taking part in this affair. Paul A. Henderson, seated left Harbor Hills, Ohio, chairman of the Sumphony Grand Ball, checks out final plans with his committee chairmen at a luncheon meeting for the gala event to be held January 12 at the Sheraton. Given annually for the benefit of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra, the ball, always eagerly anticipated by hundreds as the social event of the year, promises, according to Henderson, to be most festive in the eleven years history of Symphony Balls. All of the color and flavor of Venezuela will be reflected in the decor appropriate to the theme "Una Noche en Venezuela". A cocktail reception, gourmet dinner, concert of popular music by the Symphony Orchestra, dancing to Bill Harrington and his New York orchestra are included in the evening's events. Marriott Inn Is The Best

Well, I started off the New Year right, by stopping in at the Marriott Inn Motel for dinner the other evening.

The Marriott Inn has always been one of my very favorite dining spas Around Town. Now, in my opinion, it is even better. You see, they have an all new menu, with many items reduced in prices, believe it or not. There are no price increases at all on thenew menu.

After a couple of cocktails, I began my meal with their famous Escargots. Now, here is a flavorable dish that you'll remember for a long time, It's taste is almost heavenly.

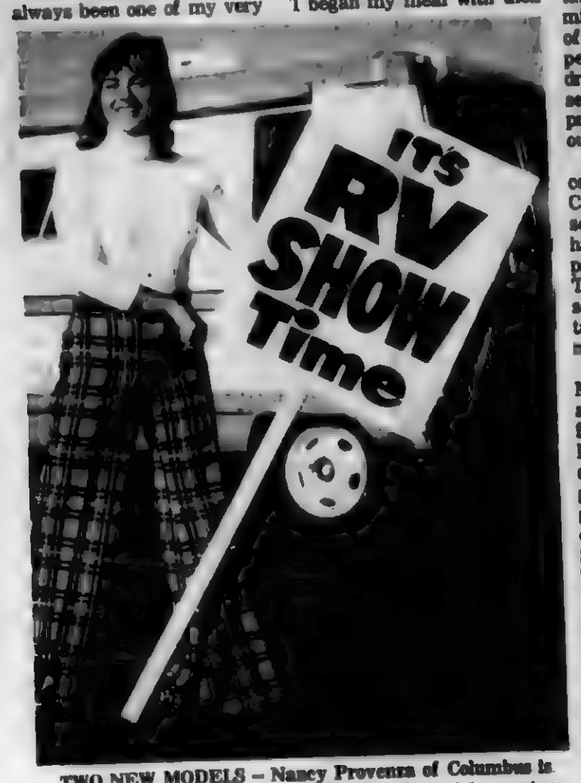
From here I went on to one of the best Ceasar Salads I have eaten in Columbus. Kevin, a personable young fellow, prepared it at my table. He did a splendid job, mixing just the right touches of garlic, fresh ground pepper, a special salad dressing, cheese lemon and secret herbs and spices to produce a taste treat that was out of this world.

Then came the entree, consisting of Chicken Breast Cacciatore. Talk about something delicious. You haven't lived until you've passed this between your lips. The special sauce was something I'll remember and talk about for a long time to come.

As I said earlier, The Marriott Inn Motel has always been one of my favorites spots for dining. But, this new menu is terrific, especially if you enjoy gourmet food. There is a gourmet section on the menu containing Chateaubriand, Steak Diane, Sliced Beef Tenderloin, veal variously and the Ceasar Salad. All of these items areprepared at your table. Of course, the menu is full of delicious steaks and seafood dishes, along with one of my favorites, Roast Prime Rib of Beef.

I finished my meal with Irish Coffee, also prepared at the table. This was simply yummy. Just wait until you see the large dessert selections, with such things as chocolate Mousse, cheese cake and many more.

So, take my advice, and be sure to put the Marriott Inn Motel on your dining menu. I know that you will thank me for a dining experience you'll savor for days afterwards.



TWO NEW MODELS – Nancy Provenza of Columbus is one new model standing before another new model, a motor home, typical of some of the nearly 300 campers and recreational vehicles to be exhibited at the All America Camping and Recreational Vehicle Show, January 2-6 at the Ohio Expositions Center.

Billy Brown At Lodge

Billy Brown, one of the greatest one man shows to come down the pike is currently entertaining the people during cocktail hour at Lincoln Lodge. Beginning next week, Billy Brown, along with vivicious Samantha Lee on vocals, open in the Lounge with a dynamite show that promises to be one of the best to hit the stage at Lincoln Lodge.

Brown's performance is sprinkled with earthly jokes and humorous banter with the audience, plus an assortmentof Country and Blues songs that goes all the way from today way back to thirty years ago.

In 1959, Billy Brown did the orginal recording of, "He'll Have To Go," on Columbia Recrods. The disk rose to the top spots on the charts in many cities. However, Jim Reves also waxed the same tune, and stole the thunder from Brown.

Besides being a first rate singer, Brown also accompanies himself on guitar and dishes out impersonations of Johnny Cash, Elvis Presles, Eddie Arnold, Gene Autry and Charlie Rich.

Take his versatility, personality and adlib humor, add a fine voice, mix in the sexy singing of Samantha Lee, and you have a duo that's hard to beat, It all happens at Lincoln Lodge, beginning next week. Plan on stopping in. I'll be there, that's for sure.

OPENING NEXT WEEK AT Lincoln Lodge is singer and humorist Billy Brown, along with attractive vocalist Samantha Lee. This explosive duo will be at Lincoln Lodge for at extended engagement.

Vehicle Show At Center

Here is a little different type of entertainment to begin 1974. It sounds like fun and should be interesting.

The first exclusively camping and recreational vehicle show in Central Ohio is now going on at the Ohio Expositions Center, Columbus. The huge public showing of all types of campers, travel trailers, motor homes and related camping accessories is being held in the fairgrounds' multi-purpose building.

Theme of the five-day show is "Go camping, save energy". Highlighted among the show's exhibits and displays are features on how to get the most use and enjoyment with recreational vehicles in these times of uncertainties caused by the energy shortages.

The 25 Central Ohio dealer-members of the Ohio Recreational Vehicle Association are sponsors of the show and are exhibiting the latest in camping equipment. Other exhibitors include representation of many privately-owned Ohio campgrounds and Ohio state parks.

According to Gene Keener, executive director of the sponsoring organization, the show is presented to introduce new models of recreational vehicles and equipment and to provide information of the latest innovations in operational economies.

Says Keener, "those who presently own such vehicles and prospective buyers will gain much valuable information about camping and recreational vehicle use by attending this show". The show closes at 10 p.m. Sunday, January 6.

Variations on the theme are to describe the many uses owners may make of their recreational vehicles in spite of fuel and travel limitations. National and factory experts will be on hand to advise visitors as to the most economical use of their particular outfits.

Show hours are from noon to 10 p.m., Saturday and Sunday, and 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. Thursday and Friday. Admission prices are $1.75 for adults and $.75 for children.

LABOR FACTS

The first eight-hour day law was passed by Congress in 1868 but applied only to laborers, workmen and mechanics employed by or on behalf of the United States Government, according to "Important Events in American Labor History, 1778-1971," published by the U.S. Labor Department.

USE CAR EFFICIENCY

Motorists should get the most efficient use from their car, says the Ohio Department of Highway Safety. Plan your driving so one trip takes the place of two by planning car pools to take children to school or driving to and from work.

Students Complete Training For Workers With Alcoholics

Thirty-four "students" successfully completed the first semester of the Ohio Dominican College "Training Program for Workers with Alcholics" and received certificates for their study from Wade Franklin, president of the Columbus Area Council on Alcoholism.

The on-going program is the first of its kind in Ohio and possibly in the country. It is designed to improve treatment practice, to better coordinate efforts and agencies and to increase the knowledge of present and future personnel working with alcoholics. The aim of the program is to lower the present patient-client dropout rate and ultimately reduce the community-wide problems which are related to alcoholism.

The "in-service" training is funded under a grant from Title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965, and by the Alcoholism Unit of the Ohio Department of Health. Some 15 other public and private agencies dealing with the problems of alcoholism provide in-kind contributions to assist in the program, Tom Kirkpatrick, M.A., director of the Ohio Dominican special program, explained.

The "graduates," twenty of whom will continue in the second semester of the program while another group of approximately 25 are engaged in the first 15-week sessions, include present and future employees of such agencies as: police and probation departments, alcoholism programs, suicide prevention agencies, the Salvation Army, and mental health and family service organizations. BILLY BROWN
featuring SAMANTHA LEE
APPEARING NIGHTLY - WESTERN MOTELS
LINCOLN LODGE 4950 W BROAD

Billy Brown who has been performing at the Lincoln Lodge 4950 W. Broad. For a one man act Billy Brown has to be about the best in Columbus.

His performance sprinkled with earthly jokes and banter with the audience, and his recollection of many Country and Blue Songs written in the last 30 years.

In 1959 Billy Brown did the original recording of "He'll Have To Go" for Columbia Records. It rose to No. 1 in many cities but according to Brown at this time Jim Reeves also recorded it in the same Style and Reeves recording became one of the biggest Country Hits ever.

Billy Brown a Country Western Singer and Guitarist from Florida has been engaged for a six week contract at Lincoln Lodge.

He is drawing the largest crowds to the Lounge since it started with the Billy Brown Show entertaining with the up-town Country - Western Sound.

Brown's newest record has just been released on Big M Records-"Thank You Darling" and "Country Boy" Brown performance features versitility, personality and ad-lib humor in addition to a repertoire which includes yodelling, impersonations of Johnny Cash, Elvis Presley, Gene Autry, Eddie Arnold, Charlie Rich and Walter Brennan. He sings "Cool Clear Water" in the styles of various singers.

For an enjoyable and relaxing evening filled with pleasant fun, the Lounge at Lincoln Lodge is recommended.

Action On The Runway

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

ALBERT NIPON'S signature shows in this youthful, feminine dress with ease and movement in the circle skirt and balloon sleeves...checked cotton voil with a touch of delicate lace.

MORTY SUSSMAN chose yards of vaporous platinum chiffon to make a woman more alluring and feminine...the bare top discreetly covered with short fly-away top.

ADELE SIMPSON designed this smashing short white jersey glamour dress with white silk hula fringe set on at the hips...to swing and sway.

SWINGING, SOFT AND SEXY is the Spring fashion message. During the American Designers' Showings in New York, the models were having the time of their lives as they pranced on stage, turned and spun in a big circle of pleats. Everywhere you looked there was a pretty dress abloom with soft colors and fabrics...brimmed hats, shorter hair, sandals and lighter platform shoes. From all indications it's going to be a great Spring!

THE RETURN of the pretty dress is the big Spring story...super soft and on the move. What seems like a suit is more often a dress and jacket...wrapped-and-tied or diagonal cut. The straight shirt dress and the dress with the stitched hipline are giving way to the more voluminous skirt...cut on the bias with flaring hem or entirely pleated.

WATCH FOR the comeback of the glamour dress...soft, bare and short. The dress springs up again and again in soft knits, gauze, voile, crepe de chine, shantung, sensuous jersey and silk. Fly-away abbreviated tops above flared skirts; the big blouson; the short slipdress for evening...often with its own coverup...newest in black chiffon topped by a sheer jacket, are some of the favorites. The layered chiffons in rainbow colors brought standing ovations from the audience.

FOR LONG EVENINGS the emphasis is on femininity. Romantic chiffons...printed, ruffled or wrapped...inspired by nightgowns, bed jackets and pyjamas...look like sleepwear but they're meant to go out. Sequins used as a solid surface over chiffon or net are other subtleties.

AS TO hemlines, designers give women a free choice...from mid-knee to ankle...the choice is entirely yours!

Winter Driving Hints Given

Winter weather may soon turn Ohio roads into danger zones, warns the Ohio Department of Highway Safety. The first and best defense against snowy, icy and slushy roads is to slow down. Keep your car in top mechanical condition. Brakes should work well; windshield wiper blades should be replaced if necessary. Snow tires and chains offer better traction in deep snow or ice. Studded tires are legal in Ohio from Nov. 15 to March 15. Avoid sudden changes of speed that could cause a skid. If a skid develops, turn the front wheels in the direction of the skid; brake gently, or not at all, until the car is under control. A properly equipped car and careful, slow driving can lessen the dangers of cold weather driving and the road conditions winter produces.

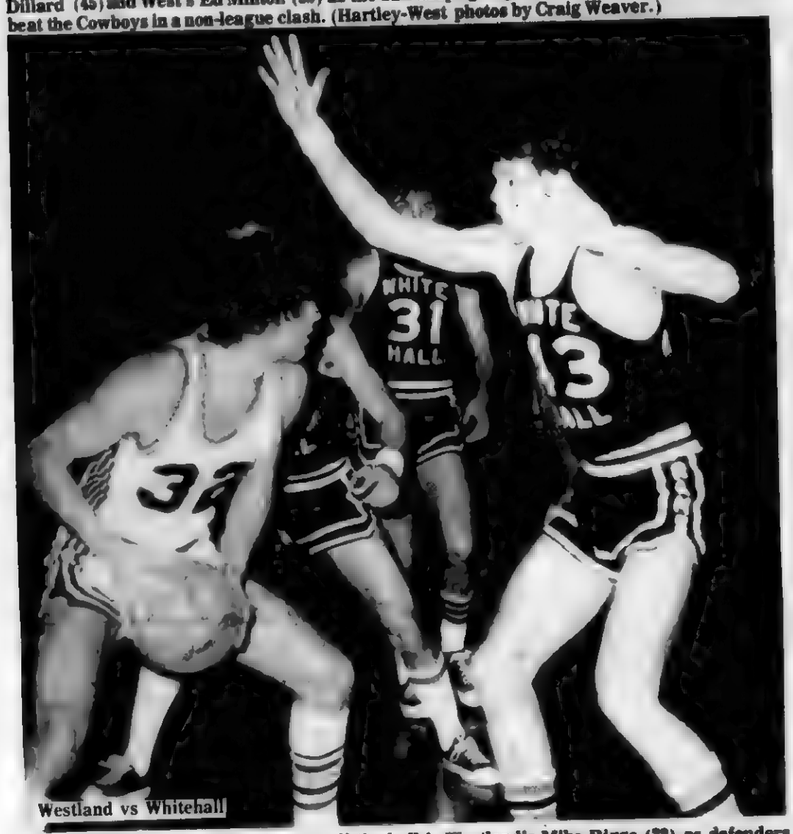
Basketball Bounces Catch Many Off-Guard

West vs Hartley

FOLLOW THE bouncing ball and you might end up with it declares Hartley's Calvin Dillard (45) and West's Ed Minton (32) as the ball keeps going toward the sideline. The Hawks beat the Cowboys in a non-league clash. (Hartley-West photos by Craig Weaver.)



Westland vs Whitehall

Reynoldsburg vs Worthington

A NEW STYLE of dribbling was exhibited by Reynoldsburg's Tony Myers (13) as he attempted to get by Worthington's Mark Kline (40) in a drive toward the basket. Myers was fouled on the play as the Raiders went on to beat the Cards, 45-36. Others in thephoto are the Cards Don Brough (50) and Reynoldsburg's Ed Williams (33).

All League Races Still In Doubt

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Spectator Sports Writer

THE basketballs were taking some awfully weird bounces last week, benefiting some area teams and damaging others, not to mention the much questioned whistles whose sounds have been echoing the air.

Free throws dominated the final statistics in more than a few games over the holiday break as St. Charles found out Saturday night at Wehrle canning seven more baskets than the home team but losing by three, the evident edge coming from the charity stripe.

But Wehrle was the victim on the night before as the Wolves were on even terms from the field at New Albany only to find themselves 19 points down on the scoreboard at the game's end.

EASTMOOR fans were yelling "homer," referring to the men in the striped shirts at Newark Saturday as the Warriors fought back from a 13 point deficit to tie the game, fall back behind, and then pull within two at :52 on a Steve Manning three point play.

Tim Kauffman then grabbed a loose ball rebound at :22 near the out of bounds line, one official calling Kauffman out of bounds and the other saying Kauttman was fouled by a Newark defender.

When order was finally restored Newark was awarded the ball ending Eastmoor's comeback hopes.

LEAGUE-WISE over the break Mt. Vernon slipped into the Ohio Capital Conference lead compliments of a Worthington wupping of Whitehall. Whitehall is now one game back of the Yellow Jackets heading into the second OCC round.

Well, those holiday tune-ups, or whatever you want to call them are over now and its back to the real thing. (It counts now fellows.)

AND THERE'S no telling who'll be on top when its all over, only one way to find out, lets tip off the second half of the season men.

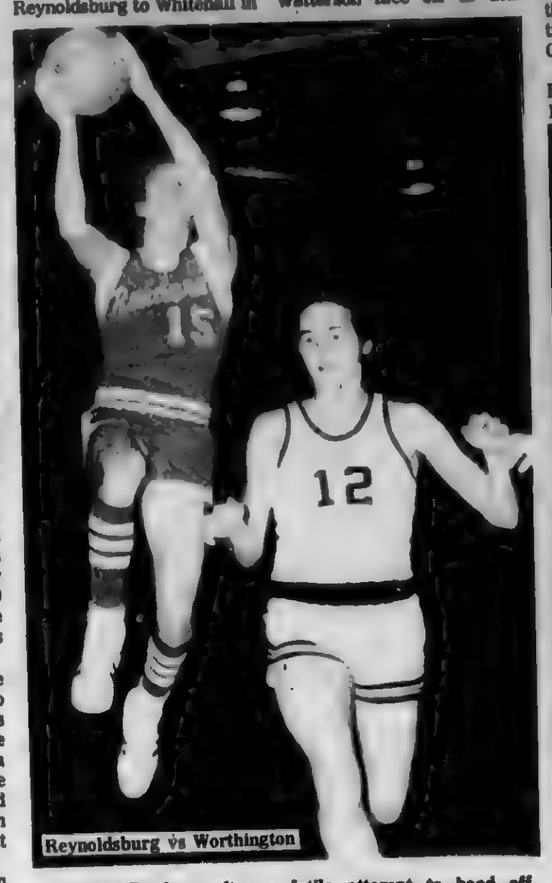
Don't think next week's action won't be keen as Eastmoor visits Linden, West goes to Whetstone, Walnut Ridge travels to Marion Franklin and Central hosts East; all in Friday night City League action.

Worthington will host Delaware while Westland rides to Westerville and Reynoldsburg to Whitehall in Friday's OCC action.

ELSEWHERE Hartley and Watterson face off in that first place battle of the undefeated in the Central Catholic League while Wehrle thumbs to Ready and DeSales trucks to St. Charles in other CCL action.

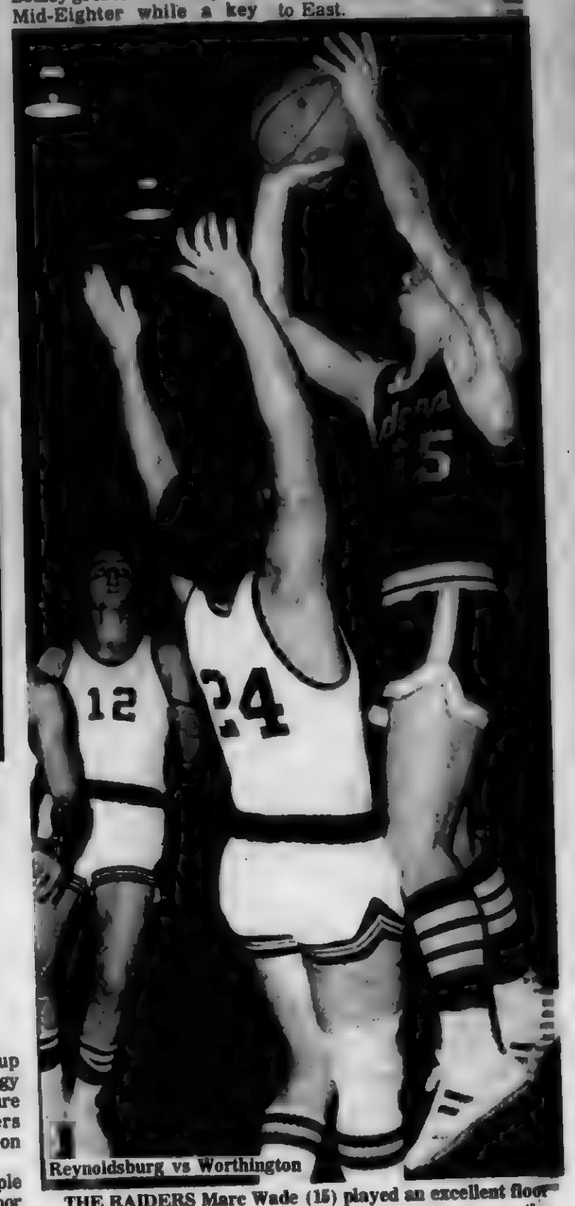
Elsewhere first place Bexley goes to Grove City in a Mid-Eighter while a key Metro League tilt finds Teays Valley at Franklin Heights.

SATURDAY'S action is full in the CL where Eastmoor welcomes Central, West invites South, Brookhaven travels east to Walnut Ridge and Marion Franklin hitches to East.



Reynoldsburg vs Worthington

RUNNING along after a futile attempt to head off Reynoldsburg's Marc Wade (15) is Worthington's Jay Crabtree (12) as Wade scored a two-pointer here in the third period to put the Raiders ahead for keeps in the game won by Reynoldsburg. 45-36.



Reynoldsburg vs Worthington

THE RAIDERS Marc Wade (15) played an excellent floor game in the win over Worthington and here goes on the offense for a two-pointer jumper over the Cards' Tim Crandall (24) while Worthington's Jay Crabtree (12) looks on. (Reynoldsburg-Worthington photos by Ray Adams.)

Westland Winner Of Eastmoor Meet

By Sandy Schwartz
Apectator Sports Writer

Sporting but one first place finisher, Westland made good ues of consolation rounds to amass 86 points in capturing the Eastmoor Invitational Wrestling Tournament last weekend.

Cougar matman Roger Escolas was the lone Westland grappler to earn top honors, man-handling Olentangy's Ed Frapasso 14-2 in the 98 pound championship round.

Northland, Olentangy and Brookhaven followed Westland, and host Eastmoor placed fifth with 60½ points as three Warriors advanced to the championship round.

Two of these Warriors, Todd Cohen and Sam Pepers, were tourney champs, Cohen in the 119 pound class, Pepers in the 112. Cohen decisioned returning state runner-up Brian Meade from Olentangy 12-8 in the tourney's feature match while Peppers outpointed Mt. Vernon toughie Lee Simon 6-4.

REYNOLDSBURG, a couple notches back of Eastmoor with 60 points, had Bill Wilcoxon and Paul Wade advanced to the finals before facing defeat. Franklin Heights ended 10th with 44 points as Randy Gingess of Franklin Heights championed the 132 pound weight class.

Although Bexley could only muster 38½ points it boasted one of the meet's outstanding wrestlers in 105 pound mighty mite Rocky Wing. Wing romped to the finals, all wins via pins, and then helped highlight the final round by pinning Wilcoxon in 1:08 of the first period.

Ice Fishing Season Not Far Away

MANY ice fisherman are all set for the '74 ice fishing season. The following cold facts are provided in hopes that a safe ice cover is soon formed on our lakes and streams.

Two inches of ice will support one man on foot; three inches will support a group of people in single file; and seven and one-half inches will support a car or truck (two gross tonw).

New ice is stronger than old ice, an d ice formed by direct freezing of lake water is stronger than ice formed from melting snow.

Riber and stream ice is about 15 per cent weaker than lake or pond ice.

Slush ice is about one-half as strong as clear blue ice.

Removal of snow from the ice surface will increase its thickness during subsequent freezes.

Ice thickness is not always an accurate measure as to strength or safeness.

ANGLERS are urged to observe these guidelines to safety on the ice, especially during this late season when safety could be outweighed by long awaited good ice fishing.

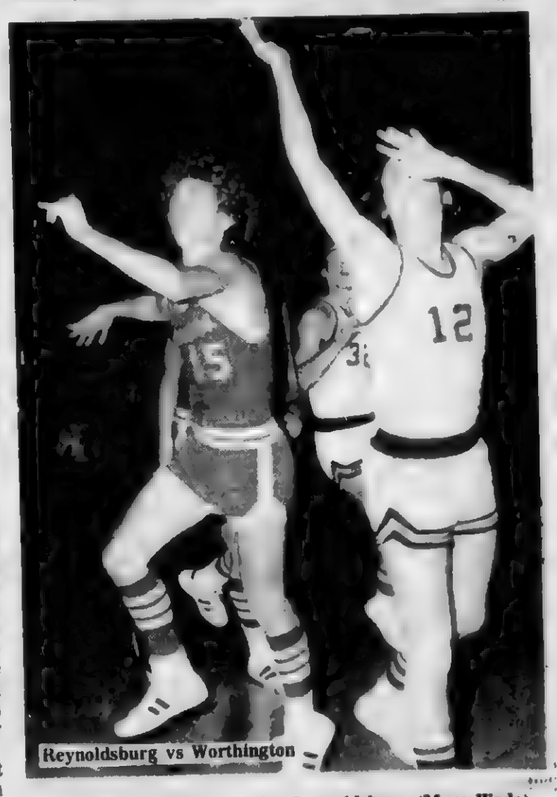
Ice Fishing Regulations

Throughout the stte, it shall be unlawful for any person to use an ice fishing shelter which does not have exhibited on the outsideof the structure the name and address of the owner or user in legible letters in the English language. An ice fishing shelter is something taken to or used upon a frozen body of water as protectionor cover throm the weather.

In the inland fishing district it shall be unlawful for a person to cut or fish through a hole in the ice which has a diameter that exceeds twelve inches.

Throughout the state, it shall be unlawful for any person to use more than six tip-ups while fishing through the ice. A "tip-up" is a device consisting of a hook and line attached to a spring or other device which is capable of raising a small flag or other signalling device when a fish is biting or is hooked. "Tip-ups" must display the name and address of the owner oruser.

THE LAST thing to remember befor leaving the ice is to dispose of empty bait containers, sandwich wrappers or coffee cups. Take this trash to the nearest container furnished for this purpose or take it back home.



Reynoldsburg vs Worthington

IT LOOKS LIKE No. 15 for Reynoldsburg (Marc Wade) and No. 12 for Worthington (Jay Crabtree) had the photographers zeroed in last Saturday at Worthington as they seemed to assume different poses. They were waiting for a rebound after a shot by Wade came off the rim.

BRIDGING THE GENERATION GAP – Visitors can drive through this full-scale replica of a covered bridge at Mohican State Park. The bridge is reminiscent of horse-and-buggy days when the bridges covered the countryside. Mohican, 20 miles east of Mansfield, has a full range of recreational activities including camping, cabins, picnicking, horseback riding and hiking. The park will be further enhanced in early 1974 when the 96-room Mohican State Park Lodge will open. (Ohio Department of Natural Resources Photo)

Park Of The Month

Mohican State Park Has A Vestige Of Wilderness

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ohio has 62 state parks, but most Ohioans are familiar with only a few of the parks and the opportunities for outdoor recreation that they offer. This is one of a series of stories designed to make Ohioans more aware of what their state parks have to offer.

Mohican State Park is a little vestige of wilderness right on the edge of the Northeastern Ohio megalopolis and its six million people.

Located among the cool, forested hills of the Appalachian Plateau 20 miles south-east of Mansfield, 45 miles southwest of Akron, 65 miles south of Cleveland and 70 miles northeast of Columbus, the park is a quiet oasis for campers, hikers, historians and natural history buffs.

"MOHICAN is surrounded with people. But despite its proximity to almost two-thirds of Ohio's population, the park has remained remarkably wild," said Natural Resources Director William B. Nye.

"Visitors can walk along secluded forest paths, picnic in quiet groves of towering pines or delve into Ohio's rich folklore in one of the most beautiful parks in the state," he said. "And it's all not much more than an hour's drive away from five of the state's major metropolitan areas."

"Author Louis Bromfield lives nearby at Malabar Farm and he called the Mohican area the 'Edge of Paradise,'" Nye said.

Mohican State Park is on State Routes 3 and 97 in Ashland County southwest of the picturesque village of Loudonville, known as one of the 10 prettiest towns in Ohio.

THE 1,294-ACRE park has just about everything--camping, cabins, picnicking, horseback riding, hiking, fishing and even a full-scale replica of a covered bridge. Visitors can climb to the top of a forest fire tower in the park and be treated to a spectacular view of the countryside.

The park's attraction as a vacation spot will be further enhanced in early 1974 when the 96-room Mohican State Park Lodge will open. It will provide year-round accommodations not only for park visitors but also for skiing enthusiasts using privately owned slopes nearby.

SURROUNDING the park are 4,000 acres of forest comprising Mohican and Memorial state forests. Bridle and hiking trails wind through Mohican State Forest. The Ohio Federation of Womens Clubs maintins a shrine dedicated to Ohio's war dead in Memorial state forest off State Route 97.

Mohican State Park borders 850-acre Pleasant Hill Lake, a favorite spot for power boaters, waterskiers and fishermen.

THE CLEAR FORK of the Mohican River, the most popular river in Ohio with amateur canoeists, flows through the park. The river is known for its excellent bass fishing.

Visitors to Mohican also can visit Malabar Farm, the home of author Louis Bromfield, northwest of the park. The farm is now run by the Ohio departments of Natural Resources and Agriculture as a model of good conservation and farming practies. Visitors can tour Bromfield's 32-room home and enjoy a delicious home cooked meal at the nearby Malabar Inn.

Joe Dobbins, Mohican State Park manager, said the swimming pool is the main attraction of the park's 153-site Class A campground. The campground has complete shower and laundry facilities and each campsite has electricity.

THE PARK'S 25 housekeeping cabins are in a beautiful, cool glade near the Clear Fork River and are available all year. The cabins are rented for $25 for one day, $21 per day for two or more days, or $110 per week.

They are fully furnished and complete with bedding, linen, dishes and cooking utensils. Reservations by the week are given preference from Memorial Day to Labor Day.

Dobbins said the park and the associated forest are well-liked by naturalists.

"Both Canadian and southern Ohio plants grow in the area in one of the most unusual and varied collections of flora found anywhere in the state," he said.

OHIO'S largest native stand of white pine grows in Mohican and Canadian hemlock trees cover the cool hillsides sloping to the Clear Fork. Mountain maple, Canada yew, club moss, British soldier lichen and reindeer moss are among the many extraordinary plants found in the park.

In 1967, the Clear Fork Gorge was named a National Natural Landmark by the U.S. Interior Department.

Dobbins said park visitors can take the self-guided Mohican Nature Trail and see hooded and Kentucky warblers, various club mosses and lichens, pileated woodpeckers, catbirds and many other plants and animals.

The Mohican area has a rich history of folklore, Dobbins said.

THE REGION was a favorite hunting ground for the Delaware Indians and legend has it that the James gang hid among the hills to escape the law.

A stagecoach trail in the early 1800s wound along the Clear Fork. Park visitors can still find the ruins of an old stagecoach inn in the park.

John Chapman, alias Johnny Appleseed, tended his orchards near Mohican and it is said he carved his initials in the wall of Lyons Falls in the northwest corner of the park.

The falls figures prominently in Mohican folklore.

Navy Launches New Assault Ship

The first of the Navy's new LHA amphibious assault ships, was launched December in Pascagoula, Mississippi.

The ship, named USS TARAWA (LHA1), is designed to carry a complete Marine Corps battalion landing team, withall their landing craft,helicopters, trucks, tanks, supplies and ammunition, and land them ashore. It will have the communications and control facilities to direct allsea, land and air aspects of an amphibious operation. The 820 foot LHA's will have a full load displacement of approximately 39,300 tons, making trhem the second largest U.S. combatant ships aflotat.

TARAWA's flight deck is large enough to handle nine helicopters simultaneously, and she can ballast down to discharge landing craft fromher well deck. Powered by two boilers, the largest ever manufactured in the United States, the ship will be capable of sppeds over 20 knots.

Five ships will make up the LHA class of amphibious warfare ships.

Your Ohio Laws by Attorney General Bill Brown

What are your rights as an employee if you are injured or disabled as the result of an occupational accident or disease? Before 1911 you had none. When an employee was injured on the job, it was just too bad. He was either at the mercy of his employer or dependent upon charity.

Fortunately, this practice changed with the adoption of the Ohio Workmen's Compensation Act in 1911. The purpose of this law is to provide payment and compensation to injured employees. Every employer who has three or more workers regularly engaged in the same business is required by law to provide disability protection for his employees.

On July 1, 1974, every employer who has one or more employees will be required to provide disability protection. This is an important provision of the new law that will affect most of us. It means that babysitters, cooks, maids, gardeners, handymen — all those defined as "casual workers" — must be covered by Workmen's Compensation. To qualify for coverage you only have to make $50 in a three month period of any year.

It is the responsibility of the Attorney General of Ohio to enforce workmen's compensation laws so that if you are injured and file a complaint, either the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation or the employer compensates you for your injury.

An employer can provide protection in two ways. He can pay directly into the state Workmen's Compensation Fund, and all compensation to his employees is paid by the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation. Or he may choose the self-insurer method and pay compensation to the injured worker.

Workmen's Compensation covers any worker injured in the course of his work because of an event or accident arising out of his work; any worker disabled by an occupational disease in the course of his employment; the dependents of workmen killed in the course of employment where death resulted from an injury or disability received on the job.

A worker is entitled to workmen's compensation even if the accident that disabled him was caused by his own fault as long as the injury was not purposely self-inflicted or the result of "horseplay" with fellow workers.

If you are injured on the job keep the following tips in mind:

1) Make sure you take the names of all witnesses and get signed statements from them. This is especially important in cases where your claim may be contested.
2) Note any unusual conditions or circumstances, such as oil on the floor, loose wiring, faulty machinery and so on, which may have contributed to the accident.
3) Always report any injury immediately to your employer and to the first aid station or company physician if one is available.
4) Never sign any papers or release which you do not fully understand. A worker cannot waive or sign away his right to compensation and any agreement to surrender workmen's compensation benefits will not be recognized. However, a signed release could cause unnecessary delay or trouble in processing your claim.

If you are injured while working for an employer who fails to comply with the law by not subscribing to the state fund or self-insuring his workers, then you should file a claim with the Bureau of Workmen's Compensation for referral to the Attorney General's Office.

The Workmen's Compensation Act and recent amendments represent one more step in the right direction towards improving social justice and legal responsibility in commerce and industry.

GI Bill Eligibility Has Time Limits

POST-KOREAN veterans are down to about their last semester of eligibility under the GI Bill, but an extra year remains for those interested in farm cooperative training, apprenticeship or on-the-job training, and those qualified for advanced flight training.

L.M. Merritt, director of the VA Regional Office in Cleveland says that the standard eligibility period for GI Bill training for all veterans is eight years after separation from military service. However, post-Korean veterans–those with service from Feb. 1, 1955 through May 31, 1966–were not eligible until the current GI Bill became effective June 1, 1966.

As a result, the eight-year period for this group of veterans expires May 31, 1974, for all but several forms of GI Bill education training.

ADDITIONAL educational benefits were added to the GI Bill in 1967, thus the extension of the expiration date to 1975 for these benefits.

MERRITT explained that eligible veterans may qualify for flight training only when it is generally accepted as necessary to attain a recognized vocational objective. This can be in the field of aviation or where it is recognized as ancillary to the pursuit of another vocation.

Applicants for flight training must possess a valid private pilot's license and meet medical requirements for a commercial pilot's license, the director added.

The delay in providing post-Korean veterans entitlement for GI Bill training is seen as the primary reason why only 34 per cent of this group has taken advantage of its education benefits.

COMPARATIVELY, 47 per cent of servicemen separated after enactment of the current GI Bill have enrolled in educational training under provisions of the bill.

"Some of the post-Korean veterans had been out of the service for as long as 11 years before the GI Bill gave them their entitlement," Merritt added. "By that time many found it impossible to take advantage of the GI Bill because of family or other responsibilities."

AGE ALSO deterred many post-Korean veterans from pursuing school enrollment. The average post-Korean veteran is 15 years older than his Vietnam-era counterpart.

CARBON-MONOXIDE

When driving in a closed car, be alert for drowsiness, light-headedness or headache. Those are the first symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning, says the Ohio Department of Highway Safety. Stop immediately, get some fresh air, then drive with windows open to the nearest garage.

The Spectator Newspapers welcome letters from readers, expressing their views on subjects of interest to them – whether initiated by news stories or editorial expression in this newspaper or not. Because of space limitations, we prefer letters which do not exceed 300 words. All letters submitted for publication must be signed with the writer's name and address, although – upon request – the name of the writer can be withheld. LABOR FACTS

The U.S. Department of Labor's Employment Standards Administration has issued regulations requiring farm employers, as well as labor contractors, to assure that farm laborers are paid the minimum wage.

DRIVING SPEED

Driving speed affects mileage, says the Ohio Department of Highway Safety. If you reduce speed from 60 mph to 50 mph, you can save 10 per cent or more in fuel consumption.

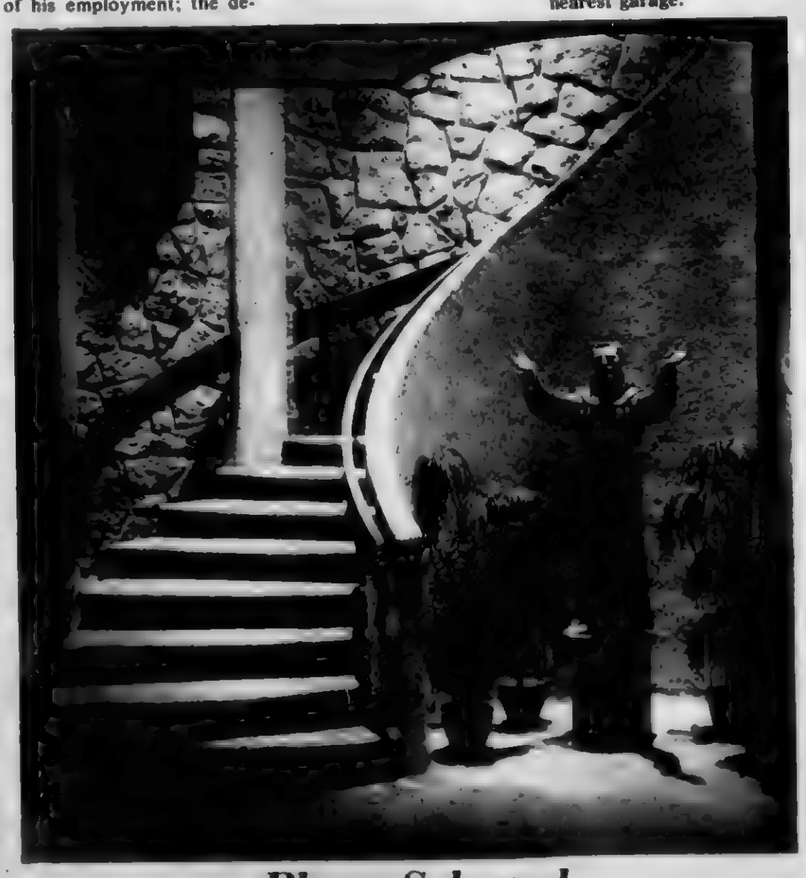

Photo Selected

Warren E. Motts of Motts Photographic Center, Inc. has had one of his award-winning photographs selected for publication in the December 1973 issue of The Professional Photographer, official journal of the Professional Photographers of America, Inc.

The photograph entitled "Serenity" was originally selected by the Professional Photographers of America, Inc. for display in the 82nd International Exhibition of Professional Photography in Denver last August.

Over 400 winning photographs were on exhibit at the exhibition, but only 11 of these have been selected for publication in the magazine.

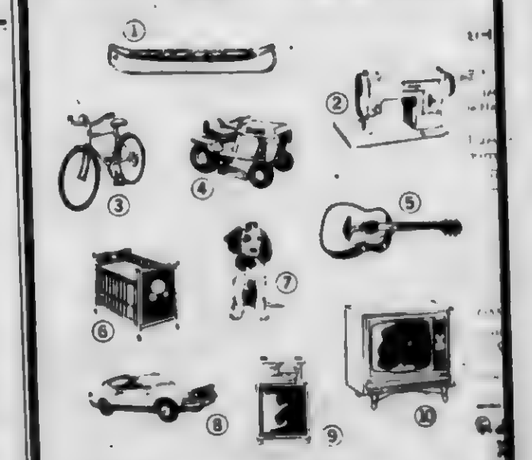
TEN BEST SELLERS



Best seller lists change from time to time, but some things never seem to lose their appeal to the buying public. The ten best sellers shown here are typical of such items . . . and when they're advertised for sale in Classified . . . they sell fast!

If you have any of these items which you'd like to exchange for cash, dial 274-1155 to place a result-getting ad.

And if the item you'd like to sell isn't in the top ten, offer it for sale anyway. Classified has a way of turning most items into best sellers!

CLOSE-UP VIEWS OF COMMUNITY NEWS

Serving Bexley, East Columbus and Whitehall

Vol. VXII No. 6 Total 947 — Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, January 9, 1974 — 15 Cents

MRS. JANICE BEATY, counselor with the Family Counseling Center East, 3901 E. Livingston Ave., talks with client family in her office. The center, a branch of the Family Counseling Center, 248 S. High St., specializes "in strengthening family life." It is accredited by the Family Service Association of America and the Child Welfare League of America, and also is an affiliate of the United Way of Franklin County. It opened in October.

Closer To You, To Make Families Closer

by ELSIE V. WEAVER

East Columbus-An East area couple, whom we will call Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, have college graduate degrees, but don't know how to bring up their pre-school children. They need to find out what kind of discipline to use and what the limits are before they should apply disciplinary methods....A working wife feels her husband should help around the house, but feels too guilty to ask him to help...A divorce has been filed, but the Wrights (another fictitious name) really would like to get back together but don't know how to resolve their disagreements...These are a few of the people Mrs. Janice Beaty has been helping at the new Family Counseling Center East, 3901 E. Livingston Ave. at the corner of Villardo Lane.

Mrs. Beaty is one of two family counselors at the center. She has been helping people with their problems for 10 years. Her associate, Mary Weibling, has been with the organization for 30 years, most of them while it was known as Child and Family Bureau. Both counselors have their master's degree in social work.

SUPPORTED by United Way and fees from clients on a flexible sliding scale of from $1. to $20. per consultation, clients are referred to the center by family doctors, pediatricians, the Franklin County Mental Health Center and the Red Cross, usually for help in their speciality, the whole family.

Individuals, too, seek their help, especially in refashioning their lives again after a divorce or a death in the family. The older adolescent unhappy in his home situation seeks ways to "untie the apron strings" which threaten to "strangle" his individuality and independence.

Sometimes the struggle of the older adolescent to escape the stifling love and concern of well-meaning parents goes past the mere answer-seeking stage. One girl who consulted with Mrs. Beaty recently had unsuccessfully attempted suicide just the day before.

She was in her early 20s, unhappy with living at home and with her job, which held no intellectual challenge for her. She had wanted to go into a particular field but could not fulfill the entrance requirements to the school which would have prepared her. She was too dependant on her parents. She had had no dates.

HER PARENTS were unaware of her unhappiness and not even too upset over her attempted suicide.

She came to talk with Mrs. Beaty because she had to talk to someone about her problems, someone outside the family, not emotionally involved. Mrs. Beaty helped her gain confidence in herself and decide to move out and make her own life. She is now checking into the possibilities of getting a job in the area she was originally interested in, but which does not require as much training, using the abilities she already has.

The Barretts, whom we mentioned did not know how to handle their preschoolers, have a child about ready for kindergarten who still has not been toilet-trained. Mrs. Beaty says that bed-wetting by children past three and a half years, when a physician says there is no physical reason for it, is not uncommon. It indicates a lack of knowledge of how to handle children which can be acquired with expert help.

A COMMON PROBLEM of parents, Mrs. Beaty says, is where to set limits. The child thinks the world must revolve around his wishes; the parents think the same of their wishes. "Too many parents are putting children ahead of the marriage partner. They must see that the children should be first sometimes, and last other times." Most parents think their children do not take enough responsibility around the house. The parents and teenagers, especially, have different opinions about the hours they should keep, or things their children do which they themselves were not allowed to do, but which are now generally acceptable. Little misunderstandings flare quickly into angry argument.

"Parents and adolescents have forgotten how to talk to each other. They've stopped talking, and understanding. They must learn to communicate with each other. It is not easy to see how someone else feels. Such problems can be worked out by talking with the whole family. The counselor can help them get a whole new slant."

SOMETIMES a counselor-family discussion is the only concerted effort of the whole family to talk a problem out and improve a situation; in the home, discussion never comes about as people tend to go their own ways and Madison presented a slate of committee chairmen for the council's approval. Committee chairmen approved are: Parks and Forests, Carolyn Woods; Engineering and Plats, John Offenberg; Finance, Richard Addison; Safety, Tom Elaass; Service, Norman Divine; Water and Sewers, Geoffrey Stern.

The organizational meeting was adjourned and the first regular meeting of the year opened immediately.

Second reading was made of an ordinance providing for the addition of sidewalk repair bills to the tax bills of residents who have not paid for repairs recently made by the city.

An audit shows that a 2.9 operating expense millage is due to expire at the end of the year. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee, and will probably be put on the May ballot, a spokesman said.

The council approved the mayor's appointment of H.E. (Ted) Schmidt III, 2425 Brentwood Rd., to the Bexley City Board of Zoning Appeals. He will finish out the term of Norman Divine, who was elected to city council membership in November.

Volunteers Always Needed

Columbus—If you are still looking for a New Year's resolution, maybe you can resolve to become a Columbus Public School volunteer. Now that the holidays are over and school is back in full swing, there are many children who need that little extra help that a volunteer brings.

Mrs. Frances White, who heads the program, said that new volunteers are always needed and that each year the need for volunteers seems to become even greater. Teachers, students and administrators alike agree that the school volunteer has indeed become a priceless asset.

Mrs. White explained that there are opportunities for volunteers to serve during the school day in the pre-kindergarten, library, tutoring, community resources and mini-humanities in inner-city elementary schools. Volunteers are asked to give just one-half day a week and in return gain a meaningful experience that will give lasting pleasure.

Persons who are interested should contact the Volunteer Office at 464-4300.

Walking In Winter's Wonderland

WINTER CAME to the Eastern area last week and one of the most pleasant ways that some families spent it was at Blacklick Woods - just walking in nature's Winter wonderland. The trails were beautiful and Mother Nature's scenery was never more attractive. One of the family groups out for the Saturday stroll, plus a few neighbors, was spotted by the Spectator cameras doing what comes naturally to those who adore winter - just walking and enjoying it all. That's Leonard Sigall, 927 Cummington, a Reynoldsburg attorney, with his three daughters, a friend and their dog, Kiya. The children are Debbie, Rosalie and Stephanie shown with Gina Beck.

Vol. VXI No. 6 Total 947 — Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, January 9, 1974 — 15 Cents

MRS. JANICE BEATY, counselor with the Family Counseling Center East, 3901 E. Livingston Ave., talks with client family in her office. The center, a branch of the Family Counseling Center, 248 S. High St., specializes "in strengthening family life." It is accredited by the Family Service Association of America and the Child Welfare League of America, and also is an affiliate of the United Way of Franklin County. It opened in October.

Closer To You, To Make Families Closer

by ELSIE V. WEAVER

East Columbus-An East area couple, whom we will call Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, have college graduate degrees, but don't know how to bring up their pre-school children. They need to find out what kind of discipline to use and what the limits are before they should apply disciplinary methods....A working wife feels her husband should help around the house, but feels too guilty to ask him to help...A divorce has been filed, but the Wrights (another fictitious name) really would like to get back together but don't know how to resolve their disagreements...These are a few of the people Mrs. Janice Beaty has been helping at the new Family Counseling Center East, 3901 E. Livingston Ave. at the corner of Villardo Lane.

Mrs. Beaty is one of two family counselors at the center. She has been helping people with their problems for 10 years. Her associate, Mary Weibling, has been with the organization for 30 years, most of them while it was known as Child and Family Bureau. Both counselors have their master's degree in social work.

SUPPORTED by United Way and fees from clients on a flexible sliding scale of from $1. to $20. per consultation, clients are referred to the center by family doctors, pediatricians, the Franklin County Mental Health Center and the Red Cross, usually for help in their speciality, the whole family.

Individuals, too, seek their help, especially in refashioning their lives again after a divorce or a death in the family. The older adolescent unhappy in his home situation seeks ways to "untie the apron strings" which threaten to "strangle" his individuality and independence.

Sometimes the struggle of the older adolescent to escape the stifling love and concern of well-meaning parents goes past the mere answer-seeking stage. One girl who consulted with Mrs. Beaty recently had unsuccessfully attempted suicide just the day before.

She was in her early 20s, unhappy with living at home and with her job, which held no intellectual challenge for her. She had wanted to go into a particular field but could not fulfill the entrance requirements to the school which would have prepared her. She was too dependant on her parents. She had had no dates.

HER PARENTS were unaware of her unhappiness and not even too upset over her attempted suicide.

She came to talk with Mrs. Beaty because she had to talk to someone about her problems, someone outside the family, not emotionally involved. Mrs. Beaty helped her gain confidence in herself and decide to move out and make her own life. She is now checking into the possibilities of getting a job in the area she was originally interested in, but which does not require as much training, using the abilities she already has.

The Barretts, whom we mentioned did not know how to handle their preschoolers, have a child about ready for kindergarten who still has not been toilet-trained. Mrs. Beaty says that bed-wetting by children past three and a half years, when a physician says there is no physical reason for it, is not uncommon. It indicates a lack of knowledge of how to handle children which can be acquired with expert help.

A COMMON PROBLEM of parents, Mrs. Beaty says, is where to set limits. The child thinks the world must revolve around his wishes; the parents think the same of their wishes. "Too many parents are putting children ahead of the marriage partner. They must see that the children should be first sometimes, and last other times." Most parents think their children do not take enough responsibility around the house. The parents and teenagers, especially, have different opinions about the hours they should keep, or things their children do which they themselves were not allowed to do, but which are now generally acceptable. Little misunderstandings flare quickly into angry argument.

"Parents and adolescents have forgotten how to talk to each other. They've stopped talking, and understanding. They must learn to communicate with each other. It is not easy to see how someone else feels. Such problems can be worked out by talking with the whole family. The counselor can help them get a whole new slant."

SOMETIMES a counselor-family discussion is the only concerted effort of the whole family to talk a problem out and improve a situation; in the home, discussion never comes about as people tend to go their own ways and

Volunteers Always Needed

Columbus—If you are still looking for a New Year's resolution, maybe you can resolve to become a Columbus Public School volunteer. Now that the holidays are over and school is back in full swing, there are many children who need that little extra help that a volunteer brings.

Mrs. Frances White, who heads the program, said that new volunteers are always needed and that each year the need for volunteers seems to become even greater. Teachers, students and administrators alike agree that the school volunteer has indeed become a priceless asset.

Mrs. White explained that there are opportunities for volunteers to serve during the school day in the pre-kindergarten, library, tutoring, community resources and mini-humanities in inner-city elementary schools. Volunteers are asked to give just one-half day a week and in return gain a meaningful experience that will give lasting pleasure.

Persons who are interested should contact the Volunteer Office at 464-4300.

Walking In Winter's Wonderland

WINTER CAME to the Eastern area last week and one of the most pleasant ways that some families spent it was at Blacklick Woods - just walking in nature's Winter wonderland. The trails were beautiful and Mother Nature's scenery was never more attractive. One of the family groups out for the Saturday stroll, plus a few neighbors, was spotted by the Spectator cameras doing what comes naturally to those who adore winter - just walking and enjoying it all. That's Leonard Sigall, 327 Cummington, a Reynoldsburg attorney, with his three daughters, a friend and their dog, Kiya. The children are Debbie, Rosalie and Stephanie shown with Gina Beck.

St. Ann's Hospital Guilds To Celebrate Start Of 66th Year

ONE WOMAN alone usually will not admit her age but as a group, the Guilds of St. Ann's Hospital are more than willing not only to admit it, but brag about it.

To celebrate the end of their 65th and embark on the 66th year of fund-raising activities for St. Ann's (General) Hospital, the Guilds will sponsor a Benefit Buffet and program for Guild members, their spouses and guests at the hospital, 1555 Bryden Rd., Saturday Jan. 12.

THE GUILDS were formed in 1908, the same year as the founding of the hospital. Originally an Infant Asylum, the hospital was conceived and dedicated by the late Bishop James J. The Guild celebration will spotlight changes in the hospital and its guilds through the years and will replace the annual Guilds Banquet.

PLANNING the affair are present and former officers of the Guilds: Mrs. Mary Seipel, 3345 Parkside, Guild Vice President and General Chairmanof the event; Mrs. Hazel Thomson, 2960 Bromfield Court, President of the Guilds, and Mrs. Pat Winstead, 984 Euclaire Ave., Guild 36, ticket co-chairmen; Mrs. Marty Kasson, Pickerington, Ohio, Guild Recording Secretary, Guild 60; Miss Mary Shover, 2843 Norwood St., Guild 22; Mrs. Ermida Corce, 1861 Milford Ave., Guild 30; Mrs. Helen Snider, 3607 Astor Ave., Guild 3, and Mrs. Rita McCann, 1200 TaylorStation Rd., Gahanna.

Warrior Wrap-up

by Chosan Howard

EASTMOOR IS doing its part to help the nation cut down on energy consumption. A committee of teachers and students met last month to recommend steps to be taken at Eastmoor concerning the energy crisis.

Recommendations include: lowering the temperature to 68 degrees, turning off unnecessary lights, and reducing after-school activities when possible. Because of the already lowered temperatures in the building, students are wearing warmer clothing.

CURRICULUM AND teaching methods will be evaluated by the North Central Accrediting Association (NCAA) during the 1974-75 school year. High schools are evaluated by the NCAA every seven years for the purpose of improving programs and facilities. The evaluation will begin in January or Februrary of '74 with self-evaluation of the total school by the staff and students.

A team of educators will come to the school and talk with students, staff and administration officials. They will then report to the Board of Education on the results and make recommendations based on the evaluation.

A TOTAL of 207 Eastmoor students made honor roll this last six weeks. There were 48 sophomores, 66 juniors, and 93 seniors. Thirty-nine students made the "All A's" List.

REPRESENTATIVES from different colleges will visit Eastmoor to talk to seniors. A visit was planned for Jan. 8 by Antioch College, Drake University on the 9th, and Butler University on the 11th.

THE WARRIOR basketball team will travel to Marion-Franklin on Friday, Jan. 11 for an important conference game.

Over the weekend the Eastmoor grapplers will host Reynoldsburg in a dual match.

And on Wednesday, Jan. 16, the Athletic Boosters will sponsor a Donkey Basketball Game at 7:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium. Tickets went on sale Monday for $1, and are $1.50 at the door.

State Patrol Toughest On Highway Drunks

"An intoxicated driver was arrested and removed from Ohio's highway every 30 minutes by Patrol officers during 1973," Col. Robert M. Chiaramonte, Superintendent, State Highway Patrol has repoted.

"Since driving while under the influence is one of the major causes of fatal accidents, our 'Troopers' are especially alert in their efforts to remove this type of driver off the highways," the Colonel said.

"During the last few months the voluntary speed reduction has had a definite effect on the reduction of fatalities.

It would certainly be great if a similar effect could be initiated by those who insist upon drinking and driving. In half of the fatal accidents we investigate, statistics indicate one or more drivers had been drinking," Col. Chiaramonte said.

The nearly 19,000 intoxicated drivers arrested pose a great threat of death or injury to other users of the highways. Col. Chiaramonte said that the "Troopers" will continue their efforts to detect and remove this type of driver from the highways in 1974 in our overall effort to reduce the number of fatalities on Ohio highways.

Conservation Efforts Will Help Ease Fuel Shortages

By Arch Booth

As executive vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Arch Booth serves as a spokesman for American business. The National Chamber federation represents an underlying membership of more than 5,000,000 business firms, organizations and individuals.

EARLY indications show that our voluntary conservation efforts are helping to ease the fuel shortage. We've gotten some breaks, too: The fall weather was milder than usual in many parts of the country. And there seems to be some oil "leaking" through the Arab blockade.

All of this taken together means we may be able to squeak by without resorting to gasoline rationing, though not-repeat, not - without inconvenience.

HOW MUCH inconvenience? That's an important question. Americans are great at pitching in and sacrificing during a crisis. I suspect the instinct goes all the way back to hard times on the frontier and in the early colonies, when neighbors helped each other. But, we also have a strong aversion to be "taken" – we don't like to be tricked into doing more than our fair share.

The "fair share" guideline for home heating is setting the thermostat at 68 degrees (even lower in the evenings and for office buildings and businesses). But what's a fair share for gasoline usage? Up to now, we have been asked to "cut down" on driving, take the bus, form carpools, etc., but hard figures on how much is enough have been almost as scarce as gasoline on a Sunday.

Why Figures Differ

THE GREAT variation in fuel supply estimates is due to several things. First, petroleum products move around the world in such a complex web that few people, if any, really had a good grasp of the total picture when the Arab boycott began. Second, there's the unpredictability of the weather. And third, there's the unpredictability of the leakage.

So, the best fuel figures you can get will be informed estimates, subject to change with changing conditions. They will not all agree, but most will fall within the same range, and most will indicate the same trends.

RIGHT NOW, the best estimates I know of on gasoline supplies show there will be somewhere between 20 percent to 30 percent less gasoline available for private automobile use than we would use under normal circumstances.

THIS SHORTAGE will continue even after the end of the Arab embargo, although the percentages will probably change.

Let's split the difference, then, and say that 25 percent less gasoline usage is the fair share.

The National Chamber is sponsoring a campaign asking everyone - businessmen and consumers - to cut down by that much.

That's not really so tough. Most of us have been in the habit of using our cars wastefully: The classic one-block drive to the store for a pack of cigarettes - or something - comes to mind.

Save Gas, Save Money

BUSINESSMEN can do more of their buying and selling by phone, instead of in person. They can consolidate deliveries, or pool delivery services with other businesses. And they can help employees form carpools, hold gas-saving contests, etc.

As individuals, we can take the bus or a carpool two days a week. Or leave the car in the garage over the weekend and walk or cycle. We can plan our shopping carefully, to do as much as possible in one trip, over the most efficient route. And we can form "social car pools" to pool shopping and recreational trips.

ALL DRIVERS can maximize their gas mileage with a few simple tricks:

Keep the engine properly tuned. Bad points, plugs, or timing can waste an enormous amount of gasoline.

Feather-foot it on the accelerator pedal. Quick acceleration and stop-and-go driving waste gas. Smooth is best.

Inflate the tires properly. Soft tires waste gas.

Don't idle your engine for long periods. Not even when cold. It's actually better for the engine to let it warm up under a moderate load.

IT ALL ADDS UP. When it all adds up to 25 percent you'll have done your share.

State Income Tax Form Features A New Format

THE NEW individual income tax form that some four million Ohio taxpayers are currently receiving in the mail features a new format this year, according to Tax Commissioner Robert J. Kosydar.

Kosydar said this year's tax return is very similar to that used by the Internal Revenue Service in that the form and return envelope are included in the instruction booklet which is addressed to the taxpayer.

Last year, Kosydar noted, the individual Ohio Form 1040 instruction booklet and return envelope each were separate and mailed in an envelope to the taxpaery.

KOSYDAR said this year the instruction booklet will carry a preaddressed, gummed label, like the one used by the IRS, which the taxpayer should detach and affix to either the Ohio short or long Form 1040, both of which are part of the booklet.

In order to facilitate processing of the Ohio returns, especially where refunds are due taxpayers, Kosydar suggested the following instructions be followed:

BE SURE to peel off the gummed lable on the outsideof the instruction booklet and affix it to the proper return; double check the mathematical accuracy of the return; be sure all handwritten figures are legible; attach all wage and tax withholding statements; and be sure the returnis signed.

Kosydar said the signature or signatures on the return are extremely important as no refunds will be made if the return is not signed.

The commissioner also cautioned taxpayers filing 1973 returns to claim nomore than six $500 personal exemptions, including the taxpayer or taxpayers, or a maximum deduction of $3,000 for personal exemptions.

ANOTHER POINT made by Kosydar was in the area of credit for joint filers in that each spouse in order to qualify for the credit must have at least $500 in adjusted gross income exclusive of interest, dividends, royalties, rents and capital gains.

If a taxpayer desires to obtain assistance in completing a return or additional information, he or she is asked to contact the nearest district fffice of the Ohio Department of Taxation, Kosydar said. Locations and telephone numbers of the department's eight district offices arelisted on the back of the instruction booklet.

Postcard Display At Public Library

A "Postcards and Posters" exhibit is now open in the second floor lobby at Columbus Public Library, 96 S. Grant Ave.

The postcard collection belongs to Mrs. Dorothy Wilson, head of the Fine Arts Division at the Main Library.

Several library staff members have contributed their own poster collections for the exhibit that will be shown through Jan. 31.

Mrs. Wilson's postcard collection will give library visitors a glimpse of the past–including such views as Main Street U.S.A. and pictures of old and new library buildings.

Comic postcards and cards from other countries also will be shown. The messages on the postcards help to describe life in the early 1900's when the postcard craze was at its height.

BEXLEY HIGH School is adding a new Independent Study Program to its curriculum. It is designed for the individual student who wishes to study extensively in an area of his interest that the present BHS curriculum does not offer.

Students may do their independent studies in any field. They are expected to spend at least 60 hours on this study, for whichthey will receive one-half unit of credit.

Participating students must work with a faculty advisor. They must prepare a list of objectives for their studies, which must be approved by the faculty advisor and the principal. They will then sign a guided learning contract, stating the goals they hope to achieve, the amount of time they plan to spend on the study, and after completion of the project, a summary of their studies and the advisor's evaluation.

Dr. John Blough, Superintendant of Bexley Schools, and Donald G. Wynkoop, principal of Bexley High School, prepared the guidelines for the program.

Curves Are Back In Style!

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

SWITCHABLE ruffled neckline and flounced hem on white matte jersey print. EMBROIDERED chiffon for a romantic hostess gown with adjustable waistline and bell sleeves.

PIN dot chiffon caftan with white chiffon front panel and white silk rose at the neckline.

EVA GABOR is a diamond-clad dazzler extraordinaire...with a very ordinary fashion problem. "All those clothes designed for tall skinny models do absolutely nothing for me," said the curvaceous blond beauty when she appeared with her first joint collection, presented in New York for the fashion press.

LIKE MANY other Hollywood stars, Eva has a secret weapon for looking her glamorous best...his name is Luis Estevez, who for many years was a leading designer in New York, but moved to Acapulco where he found living more romantic. Now he's back in New York showing his newest creations...and since Estevez has always been one of my favorites, I was delighted!

TOGETHER they presented a collection of designs with the "Eva Gabor Look" for Spring and Summer. These are clothes for women who love to entertain in their own home or someone else's home", Estevez explained. "The night club has given way to the living room as the main scene for social life today, and for this, a woman needs very special clothes that are exciting and glamorous, but not too formal...lady-like, sexy and feminine."

ESTEVEZ has given the "Eva Gabor Look" collection all of the wizardy in fit and line that has made him a favorite with international stars and celebrities. Secret inner linings keep curves under control and give clinging jerseys a "no bra look." Graceful sleeves, seductive decolletage, clever switchable necklines and adjustable waists seem to foil figure faults.

Fabrics are soft, romantic and trans-seasonal. The accent is on washable, easy-care versions of matte jersey chiffon, lace and linen. Color's are clear bright pastels, bright red, navy or black and white...punctuated with polka dots, embroidery or small definite prints. "These fashions are wearable 12 months of the year, in any climate, and they pack and travel perfectly", Estevez remarked.

BEST OF ALL, the "Eva Gabor Look" by Estevez is designed for the chic woman with a figure like Eva's...between 5'2" and 5'6" tall, with rounded, feminine hips and a normal or well-endowed bustline.

Well now, doesn't that include just about every woman over thirty, these days?

'The Consul' Scheduled At Otterbein College

A musical drama in three acts written for the Broadway theatre rather than the opera house, "The Consul" will be performed at Otterbein's Cowan Hall Jan. 18-19.

Produced and directed by Dr. William A. Wyman, "The Consul" is offered by the Otterbein College Opera Theatre at 8:15 p.m. both evenings. Tickets are available at the Cowan Hall box office, 891-3331.

"The Consul", winner of the New York Drama Critic's Circle Award as best musical play of the year and the Pulitzer Prize for Music, has been successfully produced throughout Europe and the United States. The actionof the drama takes place in Eastern Europe, sometime after World War II, and tells the story of a courageous man and woman and their struggles for freedom.

The Consul seems to thwart every effort of Magda Sorel (Betz Lowe) as she tries frantically to join her husband John (Allen Roese) who has fled to freedom. The Sorel baby and John's mother (Jill Leasure) become ill, and even the Consul's secretary (Marianne Wells) is unable to help.

APPEARING NIGHTLY - WESTERN MOTELS
LINCOLN LODGE 4950 W BROAD

Billy Brown who has been performing at the Lincoln Lodge 4950 W. Broad. For a one man act Billy Brown has to be about the best in Columbus.

His performance sprinkled with earthly jokes and banter with the audience, and his recollection of many Country and Blue Songs written in the last 30 years.

In 1959 Billy Brown did the original recording of "He'll Have To Go" for Columbia Records. It rose to No. 1 in many cities but according to Brown at this time Jim Reeves also recorded it in the same Style and Reeves recording became one of the biggest Country Hits ever.

Billy Brown a Country - Western Singer and Guitarist from Florida has been engaged for a six week contract at Lincoln Lodge.

He is drawing the largest crowds to the Lounge since it started with the Billy Brown Show entertaining with the up - town Country - Western Sound.

Brown's newest record has just been released on Big M Records-"Thank You Darling" and "Country Boy" Brown performance features versitility, personality and ad-lib humor in addition to a repertoire which includes yodelling, impersonations of Johnny Cash, Elvis Presley, Gene Autry, Eddie Arnold, Charlie Rich and Walter Brennan. He sings "Cool Clear Water" in the styles of various singers.

For an enjoyable and relaxing evening filled with pleasant fun, the Lounge at Lincoln Lodge is recommended.

ROLAND SUNKER

Sammy Davis At State Fair

FLASH....Just received word that Sammy Davis Jr. may be appearing at the Ohio State Fair this year. Davis wants to bring in a complete show for free, with permission to pass the hat among the audience for one of his favorite charities, The National Highway Safety Committee. If these arrangements cannot be worked out, he would be willing to come in for free, with the entire amount turned over the The National Highway Safety Committee. Details are now being worked out and should be firmed up soon.

Michael's Is Exceptional

Michael's, an exceptionally fine restaurant, opened a couple of weeks ago in our area. Located on Hoover Road, in Grove City, Michael's is one of the best in the Columbus area. And, that's saying a mouthfull, my friends. You'll say more than that, once you tasted the food. It is great! So is the decor and so is the service.

Michael's is in a building, that used to house another restaurant. There the similarity stops. The place has been completely remodeled, and I do mean completely. It took the new owner, Bill Evans, over four months to revamp the entire interior.

While beautiful, intimate decor that gives a classy atmosphere is enjoyable and is rather conducive to good appetites, it certainly does not guarantee fine food. That's another story. And, believe me, Michael's has a great story.

Chef Jimmy Wilson is an expert. Winning awards at the National Chef's annual convention, Jimmy has the ability to prepare food that is fit for a king. Barbara Evans, no relation to the owner, is the dining room manager and is responsible for the excellent service. This team is just about the best I've seen anywhere.

Wait until you order your meal, and you'll see what I mean. Our waitress, Dee, was the most efficient and courteous I've encountered in many a moon.

After two trips to the salad bar, which features lots of goodies, and a wide choice of dressings, our entree, Surf and Turf was served.

The presentation was tremendous. Just having placed in front of me was like experiencing a Roman Holiday and the Fourth of July all rolled into one. I can't remember being as excited over how beautiful an entree appeared. The taste was equally as dynamic.

Surf and Turf, as you probably know, consists of a filet mignon and a lobster tail. Now, I have eaten Surf and Turf from coast to coast and from border to border, and never did I have one as delicious as this one. Often times the filet is dry. This one was extremely juicy and succulent. The lobster tail was huge and beautifuly prepared. As they say a picture is worth a thousand words, the same is true with the flavor of the Surf and Turf. You just have to taste it to fully appreciate the flavor. Fantastic!

Michael's is open Monday through Saturday for lunch and dinner. Prices are reasonable for what you get. Our meal included a baked potato with an abundance of sour cream, the yummiest green beans and lots of hot rolls.

To sum it all up, the food at Michael's is an experience you'll not forget for a long, long time.

Happiness At The Heritage

For those of you who enjoy pretty, pretty music, then I suggest you head to the Heritage Lounge of the Holiday Inn - OSU and listen to the melodious songs of The Middlemen. The duo is comprised of Darrell House on lead guitar and vocals and Steve Earely with the electric bass and vocal harmonies.

Besides playing nice soft music for dining, dancing and cocktails, the vocal stylings of Darrell House is really what makes the duo so darn entertaining. This fellow sings up a storm. Owning a strong voice with very pleasant tonal qualities, Darrell is the type of singer who you can sit and listen to all night long. He is not overpowering. His vocal renditions are rather soothing and relaxing to tired nerves and ears that are used to loud shake 'em up type of presentation. Don't get me wrong, Darrell is a strong stylist. He sounds like Darrell and nobody else.Darrell plays guitar as well as he sings. To say that he's a master of the guitar strings would almost describe his musical talents.

The other half of the duo also turns in some fine work. His vocal harmonizing with Darrell produces some close, close, harmony. It has been a while since I've heard this close and this beautiful vocal harmony work. Steve also does a fine job with electric bass. He seems to know the purpose of the instrument and plays it wisely.

Both Darrell and Steve provide plenty of good musical entertainment. That's the name of the game. I know that you'll enjoy them and be pleasingly entertained. It all happens in the main floor lounge of the new Holiday Inn-OSU from 6 p.m. until 11 p.m. Take my advice, and put The Middlemen on your entertainment menu.

TV-4 Has New Promotion Manager

The promotion department of any television station has an important function. Without them, we wouldn't know what is going on in the TV World. It is their job to prepare the logs for newspapers, place advertisement in papers, as well as on the air to let us know what programs are going to be broadcast and when, and what a particular show is about. The promotion department also prepares news releases, to help keep us informed about various television shows. Another function of the promotion department is to arrange interviews for the press with various stars who appear on the different TV shows so that you may get to know better the people you see on the screen. It is an important part of the broadcasting industry.

I am happy to welcome to our city and to introduce to you, Robert H. Wheat, the new Director of Promotion of WLWC. Bob has recently taken over the duties as promotional director of TV-4. Before coming to Columbus, Bob was Promotion Publicity Assistant at WLW-TV, Avco flagship station in Cincinnati.

A graduate of the University of Cincinnati, Wheat also holds a Masters Degree in Education from Xavier University in Cincinnati.

Bob promises many new ideas to keep Columbus informed as to what's happening on WLWC. So remember, anytime you see something in the paper or hear a "promo" on the air regarding one of the station's shows or personalities, you can bet that Bob had something to do with it.

To you Bob, you wife, Denise and your son, Robert, on behalf of my readers, we welcome you to Columbus.

Vienna Boys Choir At Mershon In March

The thirtieth North American tour by the Vienna Choir Boys will bring the world-famous youngsters to Mershon Auditorium Monday, March 4, at 8 p.m.

The Choir, founded on July 7, 1498, by Imperial Decree of the Holy Roman Emperor Maximilian I, was kept as a performing unit exclusively for the Hapsburg Court until the fall of the Austrian Empire in 1918. Following that time, the historic Choir School had to depend on itself for support, and public concerts were initiated in 1926.

S. Hurok, the noted impresario who has sponsored each of the earlier twenty-nine American tours, first brought the Choir Boys here in 1932. This season the Vienna Choir Boys began its three-month tourof the United States and Canada with six Christmas Week performances in New York's Philharmonic Hall.

A rotating system always leaves one complete choir unit in Vienna to sing at religious services at he Hofmusikkapelle and at St. Stephan's Cathedral, as well as to appear in performances requiring children at the Vienna State Opera. Other units travel around the world, and each boy is given the opportunity to visit as many countires as possible.

Reserved seat ticket sales has begun at the Mershon ticket office where information is available at 422-2354.

Closer To You, To Make Families Closer...

never stop long enough to talk about their problems.

In marriage problems, too, Mrs. Beaty says, the family counselors find that many times the couple is afraid to discuss things, between themselves, to come out and say things that are bothering them about the partnership. If they are angry, they say things they are sorry for later, or say things they don't mean. Often in a discussion with a counselor the couple can bring their differences to the surface and see just how important or unimportant they are. They can rethink and re-evaluate them and help find solutions for them.

"In many crisis times (perhaps a divorce is pending, or a divorce filed), some who have been divided can get back together with a counselor and make adjustments satisfactory to both," states Mrs. Beaty.

"IN SECOND MARRIAGES where there are children of earlier marriages, many of the stepparents do not feel sure of themselves. They do not know how to set down rules for the children. They are uneasy about telling the real parent of the children about how they feel." There are ways of talking out the problems in such a relationship which an experienced, but disinterested party, the counselor, can bring about.

A working wife with a husband who does nothing to help around the house—a common problem has a solution appropriate to the times. He feels he should help; he feels guilty, and is not sure how to say it. Traditionally, it is distasteful to some men to do housework. "It's women's work." Mrs. Beaty says, however, by looking at the situation with the family counselor, if they are both working eight hours a day and the wife has still more work to do when she comes home—by putting the stark facts before him, he realizes he should help. An alternative is hiring help for the wife if he can afford it." Mrs. Beaty smiles as she asks, "Why can't he wash dishes, run the sweeper? There is a growing idea that the work you do does not make you male or female."

THERE ARE the problems in marriages of unfaithfulness, sexual problems, verbal fighting, general dullness, a feeling of not being fulfilled. "There are no standard 'answers' here. We can help them see the situation, suggest new information, open them up to new ideas, but in the end, it is their choice."

FINANCIAL PROBLEMS contribute to the unsettling of many otherwise stable marriages. In cases where people have jobs which pay enough to cover usual expenses but not unexpected doctor bills, the counselors at the center help them work out a new budget.

However, one family with two children and an income of $14,000, was always late in paying bills and constantly being badgered by bill collectors. The counselors found that the trouble was that about $400. a month was being spent without any forethought; it just "trickled out." When the "missing funds" were accounted for, or at least recognized as unnecessary expenditures, the family's income seemed adequate.

Mrs. Beaty notes an increase of adults coming in about children's problems—the anxious parents from a home where the family lives under the same roof but where they are all strangers. They really don't know each other, are not closely involved with each other. Each member is busy with his own affairs and has no time to do anything with any other member. This is bound to lead to unhappiness. They need, she asserts, someone to be close to, to love and be loved. "Without it, they run frantically from one activity to another, trying to make up for it's loss. They run to drugs, promiscuity, or are so angry they don't care if they hurt someone else."

SOMETIMES THEY WORK with people who will be adopting a child. She observes, "There are very few white children available for adoption, but there are many bi-racial and black children awaiting adoptive parents.

The Family Counseling Center East is planning a series of weekly discussion meetings for married couples. It is planned to aid "marriages that have gone stale." The meetings will be several hours an evening from 7:30 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays, and are scheduled tentatively set to begin in late January. Information may be gained by calling the center at 236-8733.

The regular hours of the counseling center are Monday and Thursday, 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m., and Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mrs. Beaty sums up her thoughts on the center's work: "Some people think counseling is giving moralistic advice, which it is not. Without experience, people cannot see how much good a counselor can do."

Alcohol Causes Accidents

Roughly 50 percent of all our fatal traffic accidents involve motorists who have been drinking, says the Ohio Department of Highway Safety. Small amounts of alcohol will narrow the range of vision, impair muscular reaction, cut hearing ability, and dim speed and accuracy of thinking. If you drive, don't drink.

Jumbled Races Dot Leagues With Titles At Stake

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Spectater Sports Writer

CLOSER than a one point loss are these high school roundball races and when the smoke cleared after last week's action, the eyes do what they did one week earlier.

FOCUS ON THAT ROUGH SCHEDULE NEXT WEEK

While all of the area schoolboy races have a leader, not a real stable one the way things have been juggling around, the second and third place teams continue to threaten.

One new topper, Watterson in the Central Catholic League, dropped Hartley in a thriller last week to claim the top hold (maybe the temporary top hold) on that circuit.

The City is as jumbled as ever with Eastmoor hanging right in there while Mt. Vernon owns a one game spread over Whitehall's Russ Gregg Rams in the Ohio Capital Conference while those two powerhouses continue to dribble towards a first place collision only a couple of weeks away.

Teays Valley is a one game leader over Grandview in the Metro League while Bexley fell into a first place tie with Urbana in the Mid-Eight via a loss to Grove City.

And oh, how rough it will be to pick that top game that you want to see this weekend,how will one make a choice?

Eastmoor has to travel to Marion Franklin where the Devils pose a serious threat to Red Courtney's Warrior fighters while West tries to break the losing habit at Linden, not a real friendly place to win one.

Walnut Ridge possesses the biggest challenge when it hustles on over to Mohawk where the Indians are calling the City League shots. East will try to unslump at Brookhaven, a suprise winner over Walnut Ridge last week.

Worthington will try to rearrange the OCC when it visits Mt. Vernon in that cliches feature while Whitehall preps at Delaware. Reynoldsburg is at Westland in another OCCer.

THESE features never quit, and the CCL is no place to think they will as the headliner will be a dandythere when Watterson tests its top spot at Ready and Hartley tries to stay close at home against DeSales. St. Charles will attempt to make it two in a row at thome against Wehrle.

London will visit Bexley as Gene Millard will try to regroup his Bexley Lions into its first place form of early [illegible].

Last week was a good old humdinger for some and, well,n not so humdinging for others as East stalled twice and Walnut Ridge, split looking cool in a win at Marion Franklin Friday and then looking not so cool in a loss to lowly Brookhaven the next night.

WEST dropped a pair over the weekend also, only its hurt a little more because the losses were so close. Whetstone outshot the Cowboys (can you outshoot a cowboy?) 63-61 and South whipped'm 74-70.

Eastmoor was the weekend glitter with a two-point escape up at Linden on Friday and a 55-50 win at home on Saturday as the Warrior frontline subs Rob Hunter, Bill Wilson and Jody Hurt put the hurt to Central's Pirates.

That Hartley Watterson thriller in the CCL saw Watterson flier Tom Doyle spark the Eagles with a 15 point fourth quarter, too much for the grounded Hawks. St. Charles blasted De Sales and Ready played up to potential in a belting of Wehrle in other CCL outings.

The OCC was routine as Terry Burris led Whitehall inits win over Reynoldsburg, Ed Williams leading the losers, and Don Brough was rough and good in the Cardinal winover Delaware.

Westerville cut Westland by four while Gahanna gave Mt. Vernon a scare before folding by a basket.

Bexley came back but couldn't quite put it all together in its loss at Grove City although Franklin Heights earned praise for its valiant try against leader Teays Valley, despite a 79-75 loss.

SHORTS–Grapplers are being tossed around the mats and the top tossers (that's not the tosses) in the area to date are Roger Escolas of Westland in the 98 pound class; Rocky Wingof Bexley in the 105 category; Eastmoor's Sam Peppers, 112; Eastmoor's Todd Cohen, 119; Eastmoor's Jeff Matheny, 126; Worthington standout Bob Handley, 132; Kevin Foley Worthington 155; Dick Reiss and Terry Lynhart Whitehall 167; Steve Heine Worthington 175; Paul Wade Reynoldsburg and Jeff Eldelstein Bexley 185.....The above have a combined record of 87-5-1.

TERRY BURRIS (42), Whitehall's Mr. Basketball, outjumped Reynoldsburg's Bob Beasley for a rebound (Terry is the state high jump champion and has cleared the bar at 7 feet in a national meet) as the Rams won an OCC clashfrom the Raiders last week. Others in the photo are Ram Jerry Montgomery (24) and Raider Steve Wolford (11). (Whitehall-Reynoldsburg photos by Ed Kiernan.)

Reynoldsburg vs Whitehall

IT WAS ED WILLIAMS turn to shine last week as the Reynoldsburg star kept the Raiders in the game against Whitehall with his rebounding and scoring efforts. Here, Williams (33) gets ready to pick one off the boards.

Outdoors OHIO

By WOODY EARNHEART

Ice Fishing Tips

A successful ice fishing trip can depend upon the type of gear and bait used. Different types of gear are used for the various kinds of ice fishing found in Ohio.

When perch fishing in Lake Erie and Sandusky Bay, short stiff rods equipped with or without a simple reel are fished with braided or monofilament line with a spreader attached.

Minnows are the most successful bait, however worms and portions of already caught fish, such as flesh strips, etc., are also used.

Excellent catches of crappies are also made along Lake Erie and Sandusky bay, especially in harbor marinas. Best crappie catches are made using small flasher spoons and light line.

Dependingupon the season the baits may be fished from near bottom to many depths sometimes near the surface.

A GOOD suggestion is to move the bait around especially when the fishing is slow.

When panfishing in inland waters, short flexible rods with simple reels or line holders are fished with monofilament line with an ice fly or spoon baited with an insect larva, such as a mousie, wax worm, corn borer, meal worms or other larva tied to the end of the line. Cominbations may be fished using only ice flys or the angler may incude a small minnow.

Generally, a small bobber is used on the line to permit the bait to be about six inches off the bottom.

IN INLAND waters bluegills make up the highest percentage of fish taken with perch second, while crappies, bass bullheads and channel catfish are also taken.

The most popular inland ice fishing waters located in thiis area of the state include: Indian Lake, Schoonover Lake, Oxbow Lake, Lost Creek Reservoir, Ferguson Reservoir, Lima Lake, Nettle Lake, Harrison Lake, Fostoria Reservoir No. 5, Resthaven Ponds, Killdeer Ponds, Bucyrus Reservoir No. and No. 2 and Riley Reservoir and the many quarries and farm ponds found in Ohio.

Northern Pike

Northern Pike are present in Spencer Lake, Beach City Reservoir, Nimisila Reservoir and Aquilla Lake.

ICE FISHING presents an ideal method of taking this prize sport fish in Ohio. Tip-ups usually work best when fishing for Northern Pike. Heavy test line of 20-30 lbs. should be used.

The line should be braided so that it can be handled by cold fingers. Nylon leader of 20 lbs. test or a short ire leader should be used to prevent the line from breaking due to fraying.

BEST BAITS to use are live chubs, suchers or shinners about six inches long, hooked below the dorsal fin to ride level. For the first few weeks after ice is on, fish within 20-30 feet from shore over weed beds. Later is the season, move out into deeper water. It is best to use several tip-ups and fish at different depths (remember that the maximum allowable number of tip-ups is six).

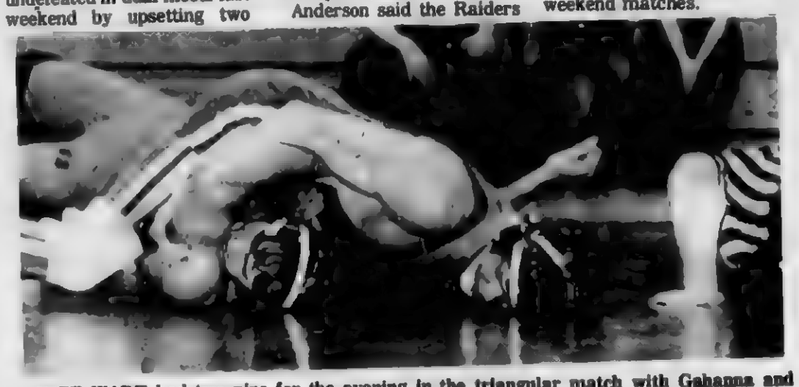
When a flag is up, get to your line immediately. Allow the pike to swim off with the bait always before setting the hook as the pike will carry the bait sideways in its mouth before swallowing.

UNTIL next week enjoy the gift of nature as long as you and I protect and preserve it.

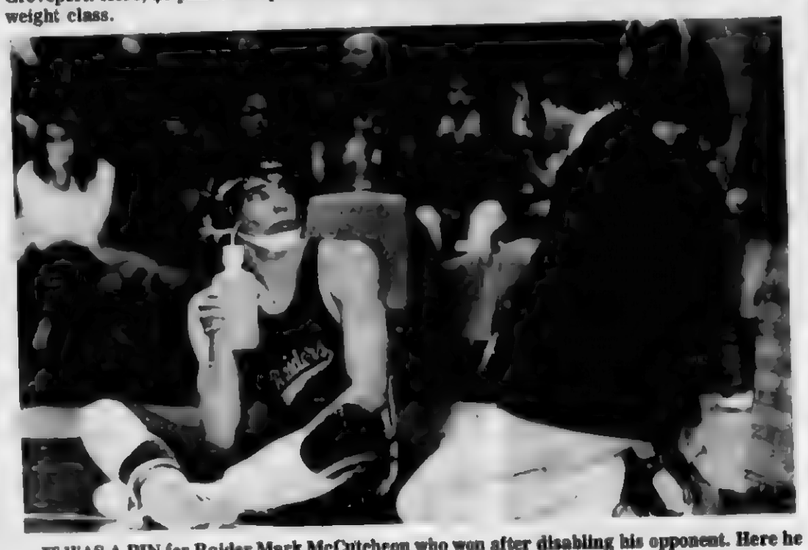
Raider Matmen Take Dual; Beat Gahanna, Groveport

Coach Roger Anderson's Raider matmen continued undefeated in dual meets last weekend by upsetting two previously undefeated teams, Gahanna (33-28) and Groveport (41-23).

Anderson said the Raiders were at peak form with two superb efforts by Jeff Wade (two pins) the tops for the weekend matches.



JEFF WADE had two pins for the evening in the triangular match with Gahanna and Groveport. Here, he pins Groveport's Garret Boyer to the mat at a time of 1:02 in the 175 lb. weight class.



IT WAS A PIN for Raider Mark McCutcheon who won after disabling his opponent. Here he talks about the match with Coach Roger Anderson.

IT WAS A PIN for the Raiders' Phil King, on top, as he won over Groveport's Erick Hagerman in the 98 lb. division. (Wrestling photos by Ed Kiernan.)

The Raiders meet Eastmoor there Saturday, Jan. 12 with matches starting at 7 p.m.

Here's how it went in the Raider-Groveport matches: (Reynoldsburg wrestlers listed first).

Phil King pinned Erick Hagerman, 1:31; Bill Wilcoxon decisioned Bud Chilcote, 6-2; Mark Newman decisiooned Terry Marsh, 6-4; David King tied Bob Hill, 3-3; Ron Nole pinned Mike Ball, 1:08; Pat Reed decisioned Ed Cunningham, 8-2; John Shepard lost to Jim Kiersow by default; Mark McCutcheon pinned Rick Hedge, 3:25 Jerry Phillips lost to Ron Hubner, 9-0; Jerome Mack was pinned by Mark Ball, 3:30; Jeff Wade pinned Garret Boyar, 1:02; Paul Wade pinned Rick Fully, 1:23 and Bob Dozier was pinned by Craig Ottman, 3:52.

Here's how it went in the Raider-Gahanna matches (Reynoldsburg wrestlers listed first):

Donkey Basketball At Eastmoor Jan.16

Donkey Basketball, the world's craziest sport, comes to Eastmoor High School Wednesday, January 16. This game, played from the backs of trained donkeys, is reputed to be wilder than a rodeo and funnier than a circus.

For this event, the Eastmoor High School Athletic Booster Association has obtained the services of the nationally known Buckeye Donkey Ball Co., Columbus.

Four teams have entered the exhibition, comprised of members of the Eastmoor Faculty, band, football team and cheerleaders.

The faculty has announced that its players are on a strict diet of Mothers Oats and raw carrots.

The Booster Association has announced that proceeds of the game will be used to assist all athletics at the high school.

For fifteen years the Association has been instrumental in purchasing equipment for sports not provided for by board of education funds.

Tickets are now on sale at Eastmoor High School for $1 each, or may be purchased at the door Jan. 16 for $1.50 each.

A Unique Enlistment

BY CHANCE, two former shipmates were re-united during an enlistment ceremony in Columbus. Peter Dour, 1080 Loring Rd., Columbus, was enlisted in the Navy's Aviation Officer Program by his former co-pilot, Lt. Robert Bourne, whom he served with aboard a P-3 Orion. Dour was previously in the enlisted ranks of the Navy as a radioman, and in 1970, he and Lt. Bourne were both assigned to VP 26 air squadron, Brunswick Maine. Since that time, Dour returned to civilian life for a brief period to receive a degree in Engineering from Ohio State University, and Lt. Bourne was transferred to Navy Recruiting District, Columbus, to serve as an Officer Programs Officer. It was a pleasant surprise for both men to enlist and be enlisted by a past crew member.

Safety Precautions Needed While You're Ice Skating

ICE SKATING, a great winter sport, can be even more fun if a few simple precautions are taken.

One of these precautions is to check ice thickness, advises W.E. Stuckey, Extension safety leader at The Ohio State University. How thick ice should be depends upon the quality as well as the quantity of ice, but for ice free of air bubbles and other imperfections, he recommends the following rule of thumb:

When it is two inches thick, it's safe for only one person. At three inches, ice will support small groups in single file. At four inches or more, it's safe for skating, skiing, sledding and ice fishing.

Stuckey suggests using a shallow-water area such as a pond, lagoon, or small lake for skating, if possible. Ideally, the body of water should not be more than waist deep.

NEVER skate alone, he advises. Stay with a companion and remain in a shallow area or close to shore, especially at night. Also, never build a fire on the ice, never drive a car or truck on the ice, and don't gather on the ice in large groups.

Should you break through the ice, don't panic. Extend both arms along the surface of the ice to spread your weight. Then kick your legs vigorously to lift your body and propel you forward, making it easier to slide onto solid ice.

A ROPE pole, ladder, or wide board should be kept handy at skating areas in case someone should break through. By extending these to him, while he flutter kicks, a rescue can be made.

SBA Approves 813 Loans For $42 Million

Frank D. Ray, Director of the Columbus District Office of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) has announced that a total of 813 loans for $42,781,381 have been approved in the 66 southern, central and northwestern Columbus District counties during 1973.

Ray said the greatest number of loans were approved in Franklin and Hamilton Counties. Franklin County's 330 loans for $9,336,967 included 137 regular business loans and 193 disaster loans. Business loans in Hamilton County accounted for 56 of the 171 loans totaling $3,248,834.

Ray noted that most small independent businesses are eligible for SBA financial assistance. SBA defines a small business in the retail or service field as having maximum annual receipts of from $1 to $5 million, depending on the industry. Eligible wholesale firms may have from $5 to $15 million maximum annual receipts, while construction businesses that averaged less than $5 million over a three-year period are also considered small businesses. Manufacturing company size standards allow from a maximum of 250 to 1500 employees, depending on the industry.

According to Ray, SBA loans are primarily funded by banks with SBA guaranteeing up to 90 percent or $350,000 of the loan.

Jumbled Races Dot Leagues With Titles At Stake

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Spectater Sports Writer

CLOSER than a one point loss are these high school roundball races and when the smoke cleared after last week's action, the eyes do what they did one week earlier.

FOCUS ON THAT ROUGH SCHEDULE NEXT WEEK

While all of the area schoolboy races have a leader, not a real stable one the way things have been juggling around, the second and third place teams continue to threaten.

One new topper, Watterson in the Central Catholic League, dropped Hartley in a thriller last week to claim the top hold (maybe the temporary top hold) on that circuit.

The City is as jumbled as ever with Eastmoor hanging right in there while Mt. Vernon owns a one game spread over Whitehall's Russ Gregg Rams in the Ohio Capital Conference while those two powerhouses continue to dribble towards a first place collision only a couple of weeks away.

Teays Valley is a one game leader over Grandview in the Metro League while Bexley fell into a first place tie with Urbana in the Mid-Eight via a loss to Grove City.

And oh, how rough it will be to pick that top game that you want to see this weekend,how will one make a choice?

Eastmoor has to travel to Marion Franklin where the Devils pose a serious threat to Red Courtney's Warrior fighters while West tries to break the losing habit at Linden, not a real friendly place to win one.

Walnut Ridge possesses the biggest challenge when it hustles on over to Mohawk where the Indians are calling the City League shots. East will try to unslump at Brookhaven, a suprise winner over Walnut Ridge last week.

Worthington will try to rearrange the OCC when it visits Mt. Vernon in that cliches feature while Whitehall preps at Delaware. Reynoldsburg is at Westland in another OCCer.

THESE features never quit, and the CCL is no place to think they will as the headliner will be a dandythere when Watterson tests its top spot at Ready and Hartley tries to stay close at home against DeSales. St. Charles will attempt to make it two in a row at thome against Wehrle.

London will visit Bexley as Gene Millard will try to regroup his Bexley Lions into its first place form of early [redacted].

Last week was a good old humdinger for some and, well,n not so humdinging for others as East stalled twice and Walnut Ridge, split looking cool in a win at Marion Franklin Friday and then looking not so cool in a loss to lowly Brookhaven the next night.

WEST dropped a pair over the weekend also, only its hurt a little more because the losses were so close. Whetstone outshot the Cowboys (can you outshoot a cowboy?) 63-61 and South whipped'm 74-70.

Eastmoor was the weekend glitter with a two-point escape up at Linden on Friday and a 55-50 win at home on Saturday as the Warrior frontline subs Rob Hunter, Bill Wilson and Jody Hurt put the hurt to Central's Pirates.

That Hartley Watterson thriller in the CCL saw Watterson flier Tom Doyle spark the Eagles with a 15 point fourth quarter, too much for the grounded Hawks. St. Charles blasted De Sales and Ready played up to potential in a belting of Wehrle in other CCL outings.

The OCC was routine as Terry Burris led Whitehall inits win over Reynoldsburg, Ed Williams leading the losers, and Don Brough was rough and good in the Cardinal winover Delaware.

Westerville cut Westland by four while Gahanna gave Mt. Vernon a scare before folding by a basket.

Bexley came back but couldn't quite put it all together in its loss at Grove City although Franklin Heights earned praise for its valiant try against leader Teays Valley, despite a 79-75 loss.

SHORTS–Grapplers are being tossed around the mats and the top tossers (that's not the tosses) in the area to date are Roger Escolas of Westland in the 98 pound class; Rocky Wingof Bexley in the 105 category; Eastmoor's Sam Peppers, 112; Eastmoor's Todd Cohen, 119; Eastmoor's Jeff Matheny, 126; Worthington standout Bob Handley, 132; Kevin Foley Worthington 155; Dick Reiss and Terry Lynhart Whitehall 167; Steve Heine Worthington 175; Paul Wade Reynoldsburg and Jeff Eldelstein Bexley 185.....The above have a combined record of 87-6-1.

TERRY BURRIS (42), Whitehall's Mr. Basketball, outjumped Reynoldsburg's Bob Beasley for a rebound (Terry is the state high jump champion and has cleared the bar at 7 feet in a national meet) as the Rams won an OCC clashfrom the Raiders last week. Others in the photo are Ram Jerry Montgomery (24) and Raider Steve Wolford (11). (Whitehall-Reynoldsburg photos by Ed Kiernan.)

Reynoldsburg vs Whitehall

IT WAS ED WILLIAMS turn to shine last week as the Reynoldsburg star kept the Raiders in the game against Whitehall with his rebounding and scoring efforts. Here, Williams (33) gets ready to pick one off the boards.

Outdoors OHIO

Ice Fishing Tips

A successful ice fishing trip can depend upon the type of gear and bait used. Different types of gear are used for the various kinds of ice fishing found in Ohio.

When perch fishing in Lake Erie and Sandusky Bay, short stiff rods equipped with or without a simple reel are fished with braided or monofilament line with a spreader attached.

Minnows are the most successful bait, however worms and portions of already caught fish, such as flesh strips, etc., are also used.

Excellent catches of crappies are also made along Lake Erie and Sandusky bay, especially in harbor marinas. Best crappie catches are made using small flasher spoons and light line.

Dependingupon the season the baits may be fished from near bottom to many depths sometimes near the surface.

A GOOD suggestion is to move the bait around especially when the fishing is slow.

When panfishing in inland waters, short flexible rods with simple reels or line holders are fished with monofilament line with an ice fly or spoon baited with an insect larva, such as a mousie, wax worm, corn borer, meal worms or other larva tied to the end of the line. Cominbations may be fished using only ice flys or the angler may incude a small minnow.

Generally, a small bobber is used on the line to permit the bait to be about six inches off the bottom.

IN INLAND waters bluegills make up the highest percentage of fish taken with perch second, while crappies, bass bullheads and channel catfish are also taken.

The most popular inland ice fishing waters located in thiis area of the state include: Indian Lake, Schoonover Lake, Oxbow Lake, Lost Creek Reservoir, Ferguson Reservoir, Lima Lake, Nettle Lake, Harrison Lake, Fostoria Reservoir No. 5, Resthaven Ponds, Killdeer Ponds, Bucyrus Reservoir No. and No. 2 and Riley Reservoir and the many quarries and farm ponds found in Ohio.

Northern Pike

Northern Pike are present in Spencer Lake, Beach City Reservoir, Nimisila Reservoir and Aquilla Lake.

ICE FISHING presents an ideal method of taking this prize sport fish in Ohio. Tip-ups usually work best when fishing for Northern Pike. Heavy test line of 20-30 lbs. should be used.

The line should be braided so that it can be handled by cold fingers. Nylon leader of 20 lbs. test or a short ire leader should be used to prevent the line from breaking due to fraying.

BEST BAITS to use are live chubs, suchers or shinners about six inches long, hooked below the dorsal fin to ride level. For the first few weeks after ice is on, fish within 20-30 feet from shore over weed beds. Later is the season, move out into deeper water. It is best to use several tip-ups and fish at different depths (remember that the maximum allowable number of tip-ups is six).

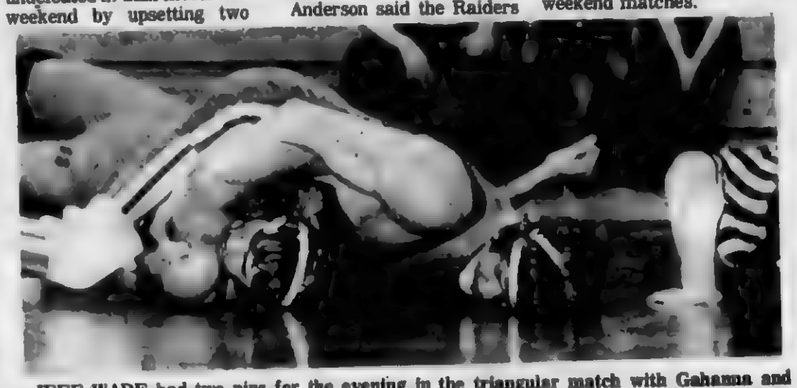
When a flag is up, get to your line immediately. Allow the pike to swim off with the bait always before setting the hook as the pike will carry the bait sideways in its mouth before swallowing.

UNTIL next week enjoy the gift of nature as long as you and I protect and preserve it.

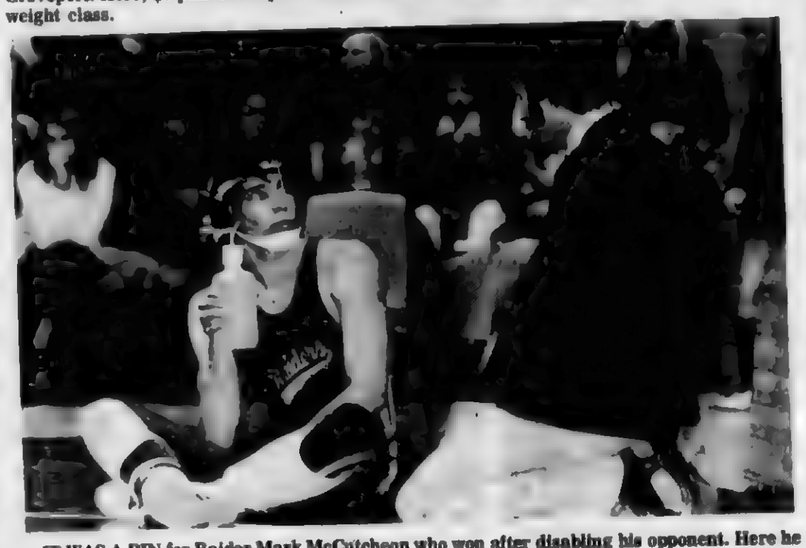
Raider Matmen Take Dual; Beat Gahanna, Groveport

Coach Roger Anderson's Raider matmen continued undefeated in dual meets last weekend by upsetting two previously undefeated teams, Gahanna (33-28) and Groveport (41-23).

Anderson said the Raiders were at peak form with two superb efforts by Jeff Wade (two pins) the tops for the weekend matches.



JEFF WADE had two pins for the evening in the triangular match with Gahanna and Groveport. Here, he pins Groveport's Garret Boyer to the mat at a time of 1:02 in the 175 lb. weight class.



IT WAS A PIN for Raider Mark McCutcheon who won after disabling his opponent. Here he talks about the match with Coach Roger Anderson.

IT WAS A PIN for the Raiders' Phil King, on top, as he won over Groveport's Erick Hagerman in the 98 lb. division. (Wrestling photos by Ed Kiernan.)

The Raiders meet Eastmoor there Saturday, Jan. 12 with matches starting at 7 p.m.

Here's how it went in the Raider-Groveport matches: (Reynoldsburg wrestlers listed first).

Donkey Basketball At Eastmoor Jan.16

Donkey Basketball, the world's craziest sport, comes to Eastmoor High School Wednesday, January 16. This game, played from the backs of trained donkeys, is reputed to be wilder than a rodeo and funnier than a circus.

For this event, the Eastmoor High School Athletic Booster Association has obtained the services of the nationally known Buckeye Donkey Ball Co., Columbus.

Four teams have entered the exhibition, comprised of members of the Eastmoor Faculty, band, football team and cheerleaders.

The faculty has announced that its players are on a strict diet of Mothers Oats and raw carrots.

The Booster Association has announced that proceeds of the game will be used to assist all athletics at the high school.

For fifteen years the Association has been instrumental in purchasing equipment for sports not provided for by board of education funds.

Tickets are now on sale at Eastmoor High School for $1 each, or may be purchased at the door Jan. 16 for $1.50 each.

A Unique Enlistment

BY CHANCE, two former shipmates were re-united during an enlistment ceremony in Columbus. Peter Dour, 1080 Loring Rd., Columbus, was enlisted in the Navy's Aviation Officer Program by his former co-pilot, Lt. Robert Bourne, whom he served with aboard a P-3 Orion. Dour was previously in the enlisted ranks of the Navy as a radioman, and in 1970, he and Lt. Bourne were both assigned to VP 26 air squadron, Brunswick Maine. Since that time, Dour returned to civilian life for a brief period to receive a degree in Engineering from Ohio State University, and Lt. Bourne was transferred to Navy Recruiting District, Columbus, to serve as an Officer Programs Officer. It was a pleasant surprise for both men to enlist and be enlisted by a past crew member.

Safety Precautions Needed While You're Ice Skating

ICE SKATING, a great winter sport, can be even more fun if a few simple precautions are taken.

One of these precautions is to check ice thickness, advises W.E. Stuckey, Extension safety leader at The Ohio State University. How thick ice should be depends upon the quality as well as the quantity of ice, but for ice free of air bubbles and other imperfections, he recommends the following rule of thumb:

When it is two inches thick, it's safe for only one person. At three inches, ice will support small groups in single file. At four inches or more, it's safe for skating, skiing, sledding and ice fishing.

Stuckey suggests using a shallow-water area such as a pond, lagoon, or small lake for skating, if possible. Ideally, the body of water should not be more than waist deep.

NEVER skate alone, he advises. Stay with a companion and remain in a shallow area or close to shore, especially at night. Also, never build a fire on the ice, never drive a car or truck on the ice, and don't gather on the ice in large groups.

Should you break through the ice, don't panic. Extend both arms along the surface of the ice to spread your weight. Then kick your legs vigorously to lift your body and propel you forward, making it easier to slide onto solid ice.

A ROPE pole, ladder, or wide board should be kept handy at skating areas in case someone should break through. By extending these to him, while he flutter kicks, a rescue can be made.

SBA Approves 813 Loans For $42 Million

Frank D. Ray, Director of the Columbus District Office of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) has announced that a total of 813 loans for $42,781,381 have been approved in the 65 southern, central and northwestern Columbus District counties during 1973.

Ray said the greatest number of loans were approved in Franklin and Hamilton Counties. Franklin County's 330 loans for $9,336,967 included 137 regular business loans and 193 disaster loans. Business loans in Hamilton County accounted for 56 of the 171 loans totaling $3,248,834.

Ray noted that most small independent businesses are eligible for SBA financial assistance. SBA defines a small business in the retail or service field as having maximum annual receipts of from $1 to $5 million, depending on the industry. Eligible wholesale firms may have from $5 to $15 million maximum annual receipts, while construction businesses that averaged less than $5 million over a three-year period are also considered small businesses. Manufacturing company size standards allow from a maximum of 250 to 1500 employees, depending on the industry.

According to Ray, SBA loans are primarily funded by banks with SBA guaranteeing up to 90 percent or $350,000 of the loan.

Smooth Sail Skating The Newest Winter Sport

WINTER recreation is vital to our health. This year, however, the energy shortage will make it harder for us to pursue our favorite sports.

Many will still travel hundreds of miles to a ski resort. Snowmobiling too will continue to go on.

Perhaps it is time to rediscover the joys of ice skating because frozen lakes and rivers are conveniently close.

ICE SKATING can be enjoyed in many forms; hockey, racing, figure skating, and just cruising around. But how many of us know of skate sailing?

Imagine zipping over the ice on skates at 40 mph! All you need in addition to ice skates and a frozen lake is a kite-like sail.

The wind supplies the power, a commodity that the Arabs have yet to control.

THE SAIL consists of a crossed vertical mast and a horizontal boom of equal length, over which is stretched a sailcloth.

Flexible bows in the front and rear maintain the sail's shape and tension. Large plastic windows permit an unimpeded view.

As the sail is supported on the skater's shoulder, it must be light yet strong enough to withstand the force of the wind.

An adult size skate sail has 9 feet long mast and boom, and carries 54 square feet of sail.

SKATE sailing tactics are similar to sailing a boat except the speeds are far greater.

The skater stands on the leeward side of the vertical sail where he is protected from the wind.

The boom rests on his shoulder and the hand nearest the sail grasps the lower part of the mast. As speed increases, he leans against the sail and is supported by the wind.

CHANGING course is accomplished by raising the sail horizontally overhead and bringing it down on the other shoulder. The overhead position also spills the wind for stopping.

Speeds of twice the wind velocity are easily attained and 55 mph has been recorded.

It follows that only the bravest skate sailors venture out when the wind exceeds 25 mph.

A skate sailor in trouble has a simple remedy, he just lets go of the sail and takes care of himself.

THE SPORT is quite safe and breaking through thin ice is the biggest hazard. Lightweight flotation vests are therefore recommended.

Although over 70 years old, skate sailing has been obscure because sails were homemade. Now ready-made sails are available for about $80. The sole manufacturer of skate sails is Waterfun Inc., Box 3442 Ridgeway, Stamford Conn. 06905.

Skate sailing generates no pollution, no noise, and the wind is free. Why not try it!

4-Year Contracts To Johnson, Peel

Whitehall Board Abolishes Business Manager Position

by ELSIE V. WEAVER

Whitehall-At Whitehall City Schools Board of Education's regular meeting last Wednesday night, the position of Assistant Superintendent for Business Affairs was abolished, a $4000 budget for new English literature and supplementary books was approved and four-year contracts extended to Superintendent Gilbert Johnson and Austin Peel, Assistant Superintendent for Instruction.

A letter from the Whitehall Police Department was read in which the board members were invited to the dedication ceremony and open house for the new city police headquarters to be held Sunday, Jan. 20.

Liability insurance for the four incumbent board of education members was renewed and new coverage approved for Mrs. Judy Bline, newly-seated board member.

Supt. Johnson reported he was to attend a meeting of the administrative council and PTA Safety chairmen the next day to discuss the problems related to daily school openings in the dark resulting from the change of Daylight Standard Time.

The board then approved as revised, administrative procedures for pupil attendance, one main clause of which provides that the superintendent is the only administrator to initiate expulsion action.

Assistant Supt. Peel introduced four members of the high school English department who were members of the English curriculum revision committee: Jon Anderson, head of the English department; H.W. Arbaugh; Betty Ault and Barbara Beberick. Peel explained that the English curriculum had not been changed in 15 years and that the committee had worked long and hard on the problem, even during two summers. He commended them on the job they had done.

High School Principal Janek explained that the committee members had met often and visited other high schools in Central Ohio, some of which seemingly had unlimited funds for their English program, but that the committee had planned at minimum cost, a good curriculum. "They have taken into consideration the aptitude of their students, their motivational level and their interests, and have done a very good job."

English department chairman Anderson said the committee started its work by surveying students, last year, as to which of 30 possible courses would interest them most. The courses most popular among the eleventh and twelfth grade students, who are the only classes eligible for the new program, were thus chosen by the students themselves. Some of these students, Anderson says, may elect as many as four of the courses, among whose titles are "The Bible As Literature" and "Folk Lore."

Peel told the board the courses are open to change over the years and will use paper back books to conserve money. Some will be in the classroom; some will be supplemental books and held on closed reserve in the library for those taking the courses.

Peel also complimented the committee on their choice of books to be used in the new curriculum, adding that there were many he would like to have in his own library, and expressed the hope that many of the students would buy their own copies for their own libraries.

The board approved the purchase of books and records totalling not more than $4000. Peel reminded the board that the appropriation was provided for in last year's text appropriations.

In other board business, leaves of absence were granted to Earl Orr and Mrs. Ruth Jenks, whose positions were then filled by the hiring of Mrs. Barbara Kaplan and Mrs. Sarah Pobereskin. A number of substitute teachers were hired.

The board voted to consider a special meeting Wednesday, Jan. 16, to decide if the 5 mill levy voted on, in 1973, for a special election in March, would be enough in the face of rising costs and inflation. They asked Supt. Johnson to re-figure their needs to see of the 5 mills, which would bring in $400,000. will be sufficient.

Johnson pointed out that taxes have been reduced every year for the past

Prentice Elected Columbus Board President

Board Approves $101.9 Budget For 1974

By SANDY SCHWARTZ

Special Staff Writer

Columbus–The Columbus Board of Education approved a $101.9 million budget and elected Mrs. Virginia Prentice to succeed Thomas Moyer as the board president for 1974. Board member Dr. David Hamlar was also elected board vice-president at the initial 1974 board meeting held Jan. 8.

The newly adopted budget represents an increase of 7.1 per cent over that of 1973. The major items included in the budget are salaries and benefits, supplies, materials and texts, purchased services and capital outlay. A detailed account of the funds was made available to the Board.

Mrs. Prentice, last year's vice-president, was elected by a 5-2 vote. The only dissenting votes were cast for Mrs. Marie Castleman, those by Dr. Watson Walker and Mrs. Castleman herself.

Hamlar, meanwhile, was voted in by a clean 6-0 vote, as he abstained from voting.

In Mrs. Prentice's acceptance speech she stressed unity and dedication. She said that each board member "is dedicated to providing the best possible education for each child, of this I am sure, and this we will do."

In a later interview with "The Spectator" Mrs. Prentice said that she felt the board works well together and she added that she didn't think that the board is divided in any way.

"I feel that Columbus is fortunate," she answered when asked about the school situation here. Mrs. Prentice did say that the board must be sure to get the building projects going and, "We must keep the changes in population in mind."

Mrs. Prentice, Dr. Walker and Moyer were sworn in for new four year terms as they won re-election to the board in the recent November election.

William A. Guy, clerk-treasurer for the board, was also sworn in for a four-year term.

One of Moyer's last official actions as president of the board was an announcement that formation of committees to explore ways to obtain additional funds for the Franklin Junior High School and Douglass Elementary Developmental Learning Center will begin.

Moyer said that the Franklin Committee will be headed by Frank Brockmeyer; he also asked Hamlar to serve on both committees.

Also on the agenda was the selection of seven teachers for the elementary cadet training program. The seven were unanimously accepted by the board.

The seven are: Donald Gales, sixth grade teacher from Fairwood Elementary; Ronald Jackson, Re-entry Guidance, Title I, Starling Street; Roger Veley, sixth grade teacher, Franklinton; Joseph Green, sixth grade teacher, Alpine; Meredith Johnson, reading teacher, Regional Center V; James Voyles, reading teacher at Franklin Junior High; and Margaret Prillerman, curriculum specialist at Alexander Graham Bell.

To qualify for selection the seven nominees took a written exam and were interviewed by a committee that included school administrators, a teacher, a PTA representative and a Columbus citizen. The seven will now begin a training program to prepare them for future assignments as principals and assistant principals in elementary schools.

School Superintendant John Ellis announced receipt of a $5,000 contribution which will be placed in the special fund which is used for educational grants. The contribution is from an anonymous donor who has contributed to this fund for the past 20 years.

In action concerning building, the board approved the working drawings and specifications for Sherwood Junior High. This authorizes the administration to advertise for bids on this project.

The remodeling at Sherwood will include eight new classrooms. Also on the Sherwood building docket are two new art rooms and two new home economic rooms which will be constructed from existing space. The present library will also be expanded into a modern learning center.

Also approved was the purchase of land to be used for the expansion of Shepard Elementary School. The tract of land was purchased in the amount of $21,000.

The board also agreed to set the first and third Tuesdays of each month as board meeting times, with the exception of January when the second meeting of the month will be held on the fourth Tuesday.

The committee of the whole meeting will meet Tuesday, Jan. 15, and Tuesday, Jan. 29, and on the second and fourth Tuesdays in each other month.

Other actions included a board agreement to place the $20 per month compensation rate for each board member in a special fund while other routine personnel appointments and procedures were also included in the agenda.

Give Rules For Safety On Way To School In Dark

East Columbus- Going to school in the dark has increased problems for school children. The Police Department would like to remind all motorists and pedestrians of some tips to better safety.

1. Lighter colored outer garments are recommended to make the children more visable.

2. Where there are no sidewalks, pedestrians should walk on the left facing traffic.

3. Parents are urged to make arrangements with other parents and send several children together, when possible.

4. Bicycle riders are reminded the law requires a white light on the front and a lighted red light on the rear, both visable for a distance of 500 feet.

5. Some companies have reflective tape that can be placed on the outer garment. This is suggested as a good project for the Parent Teachers Association (PTA).

6. Motorists must be more alert, especially in the school areas.

The Columbus Auto Club will equip all school patrol flags with reflected "Hot Dots" as soon as possible.

The Columbus Division of Police will be concentrating more of their efforts in the school areas during the early morning darkness.

"Through the exercise of good sense and good judgement by motorists and pedestrians, the department hopes to accomplish the goal of a safer community," says a spokesman for the Division of Police, Department of Public Safety.

Whitehall- The Whitehall City School Administrative Council and Superintendent Gilber Johnson believe that school students' walking to school in darkness because of the change to daylight savings time is a temporary problem and after a meeting last Thursday, with the PTA Safety chairman from each school, announced a number of precautionary measures to help insure the safety of the children.

Johnson said, "Safety is a problem everyday, not just these few winter weeks," He pointed out that students in special programs, like Distributive Education classes, Cooperative Office Educatio, Intensive Office Education, Work Adjustment classes, and especially the employers who hire these students, plus other students employed after school would be seriously inconvenienced, some perhaps relievedof their jobs, if the schools were to open an hour later. Also, he mentioned the problem of the district's transportation being integrated with other schools' schedules (Eastland Vocational, private, special, and parochial schools).

The following measures the group recommended will provide for student safety:

1. Principals will recommend to students safe routes to school.

2. School patrols will be required to wear their bright yellow ponchos at their assigned crossings.

3. We request that the children travel to school in groups rather than individually.

4. We request that students choose the latest travel time as opposed to arriving at school too early.

5. We urge teachers to continue to review safe passage rules with their students.

6. We are urging the parents to dress their children in light-colored outer garments. In addition, we are suggesting that reflective tape or cloth be attached to the children's outer garments.

7. We are urging block parents and others who can assist in supervising safe passage to school, be outdoors in their neighborhood and at busy crossings.

8. We are placing this matter as a priority item on the agenda of the regular scheduled meeting of the city schools and city law enforcement officials.

9. We are asking that all residents keep their sidewalks cleared of ice and snow.

"The school administrators and law enforcement officials are asking for parent involvement and citizen participation in this time of crisis for our community. If all the citizens of Whitehall unite in a common effort to help in this time of need, the problem can be overcome. Out of this situation we can get a better understanding of some of the problems our community faces and how the citizens of Whitehall can help to make our community a better place to live.

We welcome your ideas and suggestions that will help our children to travel to school safely. Any parents wishing to offer their ideas, suggestions, or comments are asked to call 235-2385."

$7.9 Millon Issue Okayed For Eastland

THE EASTLAND Joint Vocational School Board of Education at its Jan. 9 meeting approved the resolutions necessary to put a bond issue and operating levy on the May 7 ballot.

THE SECOND center would be similar in size to Eastland and officials have said it is needed due to rapidly increasing enrollment both in day school and in adult education.

The millage necessary for the bond issue will be determined by the County Auditor within the next few weeks.

Discussed, but took no official action on, each of the following items: (A.) Present building program progress; (B.) Proposed building program and (C.) Professional negotiations wit the Eastland Education Association.

The meeting was adjourned to meet in regular session at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, January 30, in the conference room at Eastland.

Cups Filled To The Brim ... With Oil, Perhaps?

"UNA NOCHE EN VENEZUELA" (A Night in Venezuela) was magically transferred to Columbus last Saturday night as the Symphony Grand Ball became the loveliest night of the year for the social community. Columbus Mayor Tom Moody andhis charming wife, Jean, found plenty of time to chat with the guest of honor and his wife, Dr. Andres and Mrs. Regina Aguilar. Dr.Aguilar is the Venezuelan Ambassador to the United States. Could be that the toast they made was to keep Columbus' cups filled to the brim with oil since Venezuela is the prime producer among our South American neighbors and the Ambassador pointed out in a short talk that the two countries have had "no incidents" in the 150 years of their friendship. Whatever their conversation as they toasted each other it's a good bet that this person to person chat was good for everyone. From left are the Mayor, Mrs. Aguilar, Mrs. Moody and Dr.Aguilar. A story and photos of the symphony are on Page 4.

THE OUTER LOBBY of the BHS auditorium is being transformed into a permanent showcase of Bexley students' artwork.

The study-gallery is the first of its kind, according to Mr. Peter Cooper, Bexley art teacher and adviser of the Art Club. The gallery is scheduled to open after the next PTA meeting. Students will also participate in an art show to be held Jan. 26 and 27 at Eastland Mall. Kevin Regan, Caren Catterall, Chris Weiner, and John Patton are strong prospects for the honor of bringing back ribbons.

Bexley High School will be in charge of operating the information booth at the art show. Doug Wyman, Art Club president, and other officers will assume responsibility of monitoring the area during theshow.

THREE BEXLEY High School students attended a Junior Achievement Regional Management Conference (JAMCO) in downtownCincinnati, Dec. 26 to Dec. 28.

Seniors Katy Duffy and Lisa Maddox, and Junior Parker Potter, attended the conference as members of the Central Ohio Delegation. They competed with Junior Acheivers from all over Central Ohio for spots in the delegation. Selections were based on their performance on a comprehensive examination on business and on Junior Achievement prepared by th regional J.A. office.

The conference was held to increase the participants' knowledge of business affairs.

A NUMBER OF BEXLEY High School students are participating in new awareness groups that meet during second and fifth period study halls every Friday.

The purpose of the program is to increase the student's awareness of his external and internal environments. By accomplishing this, he can hopefully better understand himself and the people around him.

The groups use games and structures experiences designed to help sudents cope with their environment. The games also help the participants decide whether their actions are appropriate for their needs.

The program is directed by Lynn Gundersheimer, a graduate of Bexley, presently working at the Human Resources Center on E. Broad St.

Whitehall Board Abolishes Position...

every year for the past five years, that as their bonded indebtness is reduced, taxes are reduced. By 1978, all but one bond will have been retired; the remaining bond will be retired in 1992.

The regular meetng was adjourned and the executive board went into an executive session, during which, Supt. Johnson reported later, the position of business manager was abolished. The action had been discussed last year when other economy staff cuts, such as all elementary school assistant principals, were made. The decision was delayed until this time, when a number of reasons, prompted the action.

Glendon Evans has held the business manager position for nine years. Before that he was an assistant high school principal.

Also at the executive session, Johnson and Peel were awarded four-year contracts in their present positions.

At a brief Jan. 7 reorganization meeting, Don Sander was elected vice president of the board and a temporary 1974-75 budget appropriationof $4,296,178.87 was approved. The sum will be up for approval at the March meeting.

Charles Floyd Slagle II

Festival Of Lights Will Be At St. Paul Episcopal

Charles Floyd Slagle II, will be Great Candle Bearer in the Festival of Lights service, commemorating the season of the Epiphany, at 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Jan. 20, at St. Paul's Episcopal Church, 787 E. Broad St.

Charles, 16, son of Mr.and Mrs. Charles F. Slagle, of Bethel, Connecticut, formerly of 6211 Retton Road, Reynoldsburg has participated in the Festival, for 11 years when, at age 5, her served as a "satellite."

The Slagles just recently moved to Bethel and are returning for the Festival.

The traditional service is reportedly the only known American duplicate of ceremonies at London's Westminster Abbey.

The service originated 54 years ago at St. Paul's after a member of the congregation, the late George C. Dunbar, witnessed the feast in London. He helped organize a replica of the ceremony upon his return home.

Dunbar purchased cassocks and cottas from an ecclesisastical costumer in London which still are being used in the service, He also imported special crosses and banners and later purchased, in France, a gold embroidered ca pe, lined with red satin, for the priest to wear.

The great candle, which young Slagle will carry, stands for Christ, the Light of the World. Twelve lesser, candles, which are placed in the form of the cross during part of the service, represent the light spread by the 12 Apostles. The candles of the choir, stand for the Christian churches.

The service will be conducted by Father G. Wayne Craig, priest at St. Paul's. Directing the service will be Walter J. Stephens II. He will be assisted by Harold W. Thompson, history and publicity and E. C. Jack Heater, Dwight L. Fullerton, Jr., AldenE.Stilson, Croft S. Merritt and Gregg M. Hamilton, properties.

Those incharge of wardrobe are; Mrs. Earl L. Hamilton, Mrs. Charles F. Slagle, Mrs. Walter J. Stephens II, Mrs. Croft S. Merritt, Mrs. Fred G. Taylor, Mrs. Dwight L. Fullerton, Jr., Mrs. Frederick W. Wirth, Mrs.Sydney Reynolds and Mrs. Charles Jones.

Professor Gordon Wilson, is organist and choirmaster.

Also taking part in the service will be Phillip Wirght, first crucifer; Ronald Slagle and James Slagle, first taper bearers; David Hamilton, second crucifer; William Fullerton and Walter Stephens, second taper bearers; Sam Merritt, third crucifer; Keith Heater and Chris Russell, third taper bearers; Robert England, American flag.

The following boys will portray the Apostles; Bruce Neikirk Mark Kraft, Duane McFall, Glenn Kraft, Basil Duncan, Jr., Steve Neikirk, Jeff Baker, William Stephens, Kenneth Kavel, Tim Fullerton, Stanly Woodard andScott Baker.

Satellites walking with the priest are Bryan Loveless, Ray Skibinski.

Symphony Grand Ball

Una Noche en Venezuela Became The Loveliest Night Of The Year

Story And Photos
By Ray Adams

"Una Noche en Venezuela" was the loveliest night of the year, expecially when you are in love with elegance that almost fell over itself in an effort to glimmer a little more than the glitter cascading from the gowns and charm of the Symphony Grand Ball.

Other social affairs have glamour, charm and decor and atmosphere that are at times elegant but, like the Rose Bowl is referred to affectionately, we'll refer to the 11th edition of the Symphony Grand Ball as the "granddaddy of them all".

There might be "no business like show business" but the Symphony Grand Ball is a business all its own, entwined with lovely surroundings, lovely women, charming men and cuisine that is of another world.

There are so many persons who put their little personal touches to this ball last Saturday at the Downtown Sheraton Columbus tomake it glimmer that the task is impossible and the list too long - but - perhaps if we give our applause to Mr.and Mrs. Paul A.Henderson, the Ball General Chairman and his lovely wife, that they can pass it onto others who are so deserving.

From the moment the cocktail hour started with moodmusic by the Bill Harrington Trio to the moment when the last dancer left the ballroom, still beautiful although empty, the evening was beautiful to behold.

The Venezuelan Ambassador to the United States and his charming wife, Dr. and Mrs. Andres Aguilar, were the guests of honor and after a few moments on the scene fit the atmosphere like a comfortable glove.

Gordon Keith took many bows for the creation of the ballroom and promenade into the heartland of Venezuela.

One of the spectacular moments came when the white-gloved waiters shouldered huge mounds of orange and cream parfait while led by waiters with flaming swords.

An all too short performance by the Columbus Symphony Orchestra batoned by Evan Whallon was another highlight. Hearing "Malaguena" was like hearing it for the first time and as the tempo increased one kept looking for a host of flamenco dancers led by Jose Greco to appear.

The business and social community has again contributed to keeping culture in the city that needs this spark to keep the completeness here.

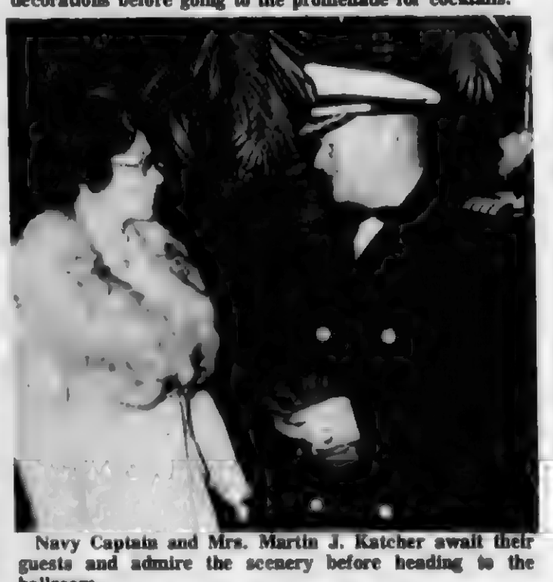
Mr. and Mrs. Karl Case, right, enjoyed the ball and here discuss the evening with Mrs. Kenneth Bishop, before departing.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul A.Henderson (he was the General Chairman) glance at some of the attendees enjoying the evening.

Bob and Sandy Kaunth held hands to see if the magic of the Venezuelan atmosphere would continue for the evening. They were right - it did.

Mr. and Mrs. William Roper took time to discuss the lobby decorations before going to the promenade for cocktails.

The superb baton of Evan Whallon led the Columbus Symphony Orchestra through a short but inspiring program.



Navy Captain and Mrs. Martin J. Katcher await their guests and admire the scenery before heading to the ballroom.

By the Venezuelan mural on the promenade Mr.and Mrs. Charles Gatterdam, left, chatted with Mr.a nd Mrs. Arthur Herrmann.

Venezuelan Ambassador Dr.Andres and Mrs. Regina Aguilar, center, posed with Julie Morrisey and her escort for the evening Venezuelan Government Tourist and Information Center Director Nelson Becerauda-Sardi.

A two-week all expenses paid trip to Venezuela was the prize won by Mr. and Mrs. Harmon W. Beyer. Here, Mrs. Beyer proudly waves the Venequelan flag presented her as the Ambassador Dr. Aguilar looks on with pride.

With young couples doing their own thing...writing individual ceremonies, selecting the type of wedding best suited to their life style, and not accepting what others feel they should have...the ceremony becomes their own personal adventure."

Although the groom's way of dressing is changing radically...becoming very colorful...brides still want to look like brides. Beauty and comfort are the basic requirements.

SILHOUETTES vary so much that it is possible for every bride to find the gown of her dreams...molded to the body with softness of skirts, shorter trains, and ethereal, floating fabrics. Favorites promise to be jerseys, chiffons, English net, sheer organdies, in white or ivory...romanticized with beautiful laces, delicate appliqued and pearled. A touch of color in flowers of pastel organdies...blue, pink, yellow and green on white...is suggested for a lovely garden wedding.

VEILS can make the difference in the total look of the bride and can be simple or elaborate...selected to compliment the gown, they can be long worn with shorter trains, or short with longer trains.

ATTENDANTS gowns are youthful and contemporary...linens, chiffons, jersey, sheer cottons and great synthetics that do not wrinkle and are suitable for other parties after the wedding. Along with solid colors, small and delicate patterns, which are less distracting than the large prints, are shown in soft colors. There are also lovely chintz patterns, and dresses with capelets are prominent. Hats are optional, however, attendants accessories are getting more attention. Newest are unusual flower arrangements mixed with fun things, such as real white flowers and artificial red strawberries in small straw baskets...to keep forever after.

OVER CHRISTMAS vacation, thirty-two students of the Drama Club of Hartley, along with eight chaperones, traveled to New York. The group left on January 1 and returned five days later, during which time they toured the city and viewed five Broadway shows. They saw many interesting sights and everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

HARTLEY is beginning a new project: Sunday night Bingo. January 13 was the first night of this new weekly activity. It is held in the school cafeteria and begins with Early-Bird Bingo at 6:00 p.m. and regular Bingo at 6:30 p.m. All Bingo lovers are invited to include Hartley in their Sunday night agendas.

THE TWO students to participate in the nationwide National Honor Society scholarship test were elected last week. The two Hartley representatives are Joe Karpowicz and Mike Gilliland. Congratulations to both and good luck.

A TOUR OF SPAIN is in the process of being organized for the week of Easter break, April 12 to 21. It is open to all students and is being headed by Miss Connie Link, a Spanish teacher at Hartley.

IN ORDER to raise money for a scholarship for an eighth grader, the National Honor Society will be sponsoring a dance after a basketball game in the near future. They will continue to raise money throughout the rest of the year in order to provide money for a deserving eighth grader so that they will be able to attend Hartley next school year.

ROLAND SUNKER

Judy McCalmont Is Exciting

Monday night, I caught one of the best lounge acts to come down the pike in many a moon. Notice, I didn't call it a quartet or a group, rather an act. That's just what it is. The "It", being the McCalmont Express, featuring lovely Judy McCalmont, at the Holiday Inn-OSU.

Backing up Judy are three very talented musicians including Ross Watkins, a real wizard on the keyboards. He plays the most beautiful electric piano I've ever heard, that has a full, mellow sound. In fact, this is true for the entire group. A sound that is rich and full, with a style that's very relaxed and easy-going. Yes they can come back at you and knock you off your feet with some of their jump tunes. This is true both instrumentally and vacally.

Also in the act is drummer Mark Host. Wait until you see and hear him play. I flipped over his patterns and tempo changes. Craig Cutcliff is an expert bass man. He certainly is not afraid to jump into a tune and whip out some mighty fine bass work.

While the three men are strong, solid musicians, it is Judy McCalmont that makes things happen at the Holiday Inn-OSU.

Judy has a powerhouse of a voice that will practically knock off your earlobes. Her tonal quality is beautiful. She can take a ballad, such as "When Sonny Gets Blue," or "Free Again," and literally give them an ethereal treatment. You can hear a pin drop in the audience. Yet, Judy has the ability to sing up a storm creating an auros of excitement with the swinging music.

All in all, I think of Judy McCalmont as a beautiful ballad singer. This is where her voice shows all of its colors and shades. As they say one picture is worth a thousand words, the only way to fully appreciate Judy McCalmont is to listen to her sing. When you do, you'll keep listening and listening and listening all night long. Remember the name Judy McCalmont, I feel you will hear a lot more from her in the next year or two.

Meanwhile, drop into the University Lounge of the Holiday Inn-OSU and catch Judy McCalmont in the McCalmont Express. I know they will be one of the best lounge acts to play Columbus in 1974.

Fabulous Meal At Holiday South

I had a fabulous meal the other night, at a place I have been passing by for several years, The Holiday Inn-South. Until the cluster of motels which has developed in the area, I never had much reason to pass by the Holiday Inn-South. Recently, that all has changed, and I have noticed the large number of cars in the parking lot. So, I figured something must be going on, and that I had better investigate.

Things are going on, and in a big, big way.

The food is tremendous, the service is superb and there is first rate entertainment in the lounge.

First, let's talk about the food. It is fit for royalty. General manager, or as they are referred to in the Holiday Inn chain, the innkeeper, is Dee Signaracci. She is oneof the most attractive, charming, and most of all, astute G. M. I've run across. Thanks to Dee for the excellent food and service and the over-all success of the operation.

The meal, as I said, was great. After a huge shrimp cocktail, I enjoyed a cup of homemade clam chowder. Not can, no sir, real delicious homemade clam chowder. Out of this world. Next came a large salad, with a Cream garlic dressing, the likes of which you have never tasted before. The salad dressing was so darn good, I could have eaten three salads just for the dressing, even though the one I had was swimming in dressing.

My dining partner selected the New York strip. This was served sizzling, and I do mean sizzling, and, it was cooked to perfection. I chose the Lobster Tail, consisting of two mamoth, savoury lobster tails cooked to perfection. I cannot acctually describe the flavor. The only way for you to fully understand, is to head for the Holiday Inn-South and try them yourself. We both selected baked potato, with real bacon bits and fresh chives.

In all seriousness, The Holiday Inn-South is a must in your dining menu.

The same is true for your entertainment schedule. The Paul Click Show is exciting and entertaining. The night I was there, the lounge was packed and everyone was having a plain old fashioned good time. It was almost like New Year's Eve. But, The Paul Click Show is another story, which you'll read about in a couple of weeks.

I'll be back again and again because I enjoyed the food and entertainment so much. I know you will too.

Skipping Around Town

George Westermyer III, is tearing things up at the Grog Shop at Stouffer's University Inn. This fellow is great. His vocal and guitar stylings are highly enjoyable. Take my advice, and give a listen to George Westermyer III. Very explosive .... The Holiday Inn-North continues to please the people with the Jerry and Nick Duo in the lounge. This duo is one of the most intimate ones to come down the highway. Their music is ideal for dancing or soft conversation, as well as very easy listening. The lounge at the Holiday Inn North is a fine place to take that special someone. Jerry also plays for the dinner hour in the restaurant, earlier in the evening. This man is a real master at the organ keyboards. Producing all kinds of sounds, his music never becomes dull. Then when he teams up with Nick at the drums in the Lounge, you have a duo that's hard to beat ... For a special place to dine, one that is really unique, don't forget the Dobb's House Restaurant, located in the airport terminal. The food is simply tremendous. The atmosphere is lovely, very quite, elegant. The entertainment is unique. Where else can you go Around Town and watch all the air planes land and take off? That's what. you get at the Dobbs House. There is glass from floor to ceiling, giving you a panaramic view of the field. The kids love it, and so do the grown-ups. There are special menus for children, for lunch and dinner. Mom and Dad can have a cocktail, also. The Dobbs House while serving the finest in food, also caters to the members of the family. Plan on visit soon. Young and old will love it ... The Holiday Inn-South has something that no other motel has in the entire central Ohio area. They show first run movies on Channel Three every night for free. Hum, it might pay to rent a room just for the movie. Also, there is a large remodeling program soon to begin. The Holiday Inn-South's lounge will be enlarged and remodeled to the tune of $80,000. Last, but not least, Skock Evans, the Food and Beverage Director is one personable young girl. Very qualified, and a barrell of fun. A great combination for that position .... For a swinging good time, remember the Marco Polo's Lounge. You'll have a ball here ... Comming up in next week's column, review on the new show at the Cou ntry Dinner Theatre, starring Hans Conried, a story on the Gourmet Room, the finest restaurant in Central Ohio and a story on George Westermyer III, plus many other interesting notes on what's going on the night scene Around Town.

Fabric Farms Offers New Energy, Job Market Ideas

Your spare time can be profitable and enjoyable - especially with the weather bad, the energy crisis upon us and idle hands looking for something to do.

Sewing and creative do-it-yourself home decorating has become the thing these days to fill the foid of idle hours when you are weathered in.

According to Nancy Ewing, manager of the Fabric Farms, 3590 Riverside Dr., people can save while learning a part-time or retirement job.

Mrs. Ewing also pointed out that for the first time pattern companies catering to home decorators offer bedspreads, draperies, table cloths, pillows and sofa patterns.

And, you can use your own ideas instead of standard ready-made and you'll save money and mileage in this one stop shop.

In addition, Mrs. Ewing pointed out, men and women alike are finding it easy to learn home decorating techniques and upholstery. They, in turn, can turn idel hours into profit or savings whether a "do it yourselfer" or a victim of the tightening job market. Plus - there are creative processes with a great deal of self satisfaction.

The Fabric Farms is a unique store in every sense of the word and offers classes in sewing, upholstery, needlework and others. There are a wide selection of fabrics available.

Performing Arts Will Present Films

Though the fuel shortagemay curtail foreign travel this winter, it need not interfere with enjoyment of far away places for Central Ohioans.

In a new entertainment venture, the Columbus Association for the Performing Arts will present a series of five midweek travel films at the Ohio Theatre starting January 22.

In order to make the films as widely available as possible, CAPA is offering the series at a resonable $1.50 for single admissions, $1 for senior citizens, and "five for five" — advance sales of five tickets for $5 usable in any combination.

CAPA executive director Alan McCracken has announced that each program will be presented twice, on Tuesday evening at 8 and Wednesday morning at 10:30. The films will be narrated by the internationally known photographer-travelers themselves. An added feature feature will be a mini-concert on the Ohio's famed Morton theatre organ preceding each program.

The films and their dates are "There Will Always Be an England," by Dr. Charles Forbes Taylor, on January 22 and 23; "Denmark and Greenland," by Arthur Wilson. February 12 and 13; "Soul of Apan," BY Kenneth Wolfgang, February 26 and 27; "Hungary," by Sherilyn Mentes, March 26 and 27; and "Rhine Journey in the '70's," by Curtis Nagel, April 9 and 10.

Tickets are available now, at the special advance sale rate, at the CAPA office, 41 East State Street, telephone 469-1045. Block seating is available.

BILLY BROWN

featuring SAMANTHA LEE

APPEARING NIGHTLY - WESTERN MOTELS

LINCOLN LODGE 4950 W BROAD

Billy Brown who has been performing at the Lincoln Lodge 4950 W. Broad. For a one man act Billy Brown has to be about the best in Columbus.

His performance sprinkled with earthly jokes and banter with the audience, and his recollection of many Country and Blue Songs written in the last 30 years.

In 1959 Billy Brown did the original recording of "He'll Have To Go" for Columbia Records. It rose to No. 1 in many cities but according to Brown at this time Jim Reeves also recorded it in the same Style and Reeves recording became one of the biggest Country Hits ever.

Billy Brown a Country - Western Singer and Guitarist from Florida has been engaged for a six week contract at Lincoln Lodge.

He is drawing the largest crowds to the Lounge since it started with the Billy Brown Show entertaining with the up - town Country - Western Sound.

Brown's newest record has just been released on Big M Records-"Thank You Darling" and "Country Boy" Brown performance features versitility, personality and ad-lib humor in addition to a repertoire which includes yodelling, impersonations of Johnny Cash, Elvis Presley, Gene Autry, Eddie Arnold, Charlie Rich and Walter Brennan. He sings "Cool Clear Water" in the styles of various singers.

For an enjoyable and relaxing evening filled with pleasant fun, the Lounge at Lincoln Lodge is recommended.

Ice Fishing Report

Generally, the ice cover of many central Ohio lakes is unsafe. A few areas report fair ice conditions with ice thickness from 2 to 4 inches. Those areas include: Indian Lake - 4 inches of ice and safe in spots with the channel areas being much safer than the lake proper, Kiser Lake with 4 to 6 inches of ice still has areas of open water du e to spring seepage and Buckeye Lake with 2 to 4 inches of ice is unsafe in many areas.

Anglers are advised to be extremely cautious when venturing onto ice.

Waxworms, Mosies and minnows fished on the bottom have resulted in some good catches of Bluegills, Crappies and an occasional Channel Catfish in the Long Pond and channel areas of Indian Lake. According to Steve Jacks, State Game Protector residing in Logan County, ice fisherman are getting good results throughout all periods of the day, with good fishing expected throughout the coming week.

Paul Reuter, Champaign County Game Protector, reports that midday fishing with waxworms, mousies and jigs has resulted in some fair catches of bluegill, whit crappie and occasional walleye at Kiser Lake. Fish are being taken throughout the lake with baits fshed on the bottom.

Buckeye Lake has produced some good catches of bluegills on mousies and waxworms fished in about 3 feet of water throughout the east end of the lake. Bill Boltres, Licking County Game protector, expects good fishing throughout the coming week on Buckeye Lake if the ice cover holds out.

Poison Ivy In The Snow

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources Division of Wildlife reports habitat for rabbits often contains poisonous plants.

Even in winter, with constant contact of such plants, the rabbits fur may become contaminated with the plant's toxic materials which can be transmitted to other animals including man.

Poison ivy is quite common in the winter to the avid sportsman who is allergic to it. Treat it as you would any other time of the yearor as your doctor prescribes.

You will probably find there is little you can do but relieve the itching and let it run its course.

Poison ivy takes about ten to fourteen days to clear up.

Poison ivy seeds are also one of the preferred quail foods. If the crop is ruptured while dressing the bird you may come in contact with some of the seeds and pick up their toxic substance. This does not effect the bird. The meat of rabbits or birds will in no way be effected by the animal's contact with these plants or their seeds, however, clothing worn in the field and the animals fur may carry toxic residue until laundered.

Last but not least when chopping firewood be careful of fuzzy vines clinging to the bark of trees. Those allergic may be affected by the animals contact with the vines and the smoke from burning them in a campfire or fireplace. Ivy vines chip off easily with the bark.

Don't handle the axe head afterward without wiping it off.

By SANDY SCHWARTZ

WITH Mt. Vernon and Whitehall clashing in the Ohio Capital Conference bright light mainliner Friday night, Eastmoor and Mohawk will have to clear a couple of hurdles to make their Saturday night encounter the City League's big house topper.

The "others" meanwhile, straggle along the way, stalling, sputtering, choking or whatever you want to call it. But their chance comes this weekend, the chance to be the spoiler.

Mt. Vernon, now 7-1, tries to avenge its only OCC loss at Whitehall this weekend while the Rams, 7-2, may be on the eve of their only hope at the OCC title.

THE FEATURE again, Whitehall's Terry Burris and Mt. Vernon's Ted Williams, the premier big men of the OCC. While Whitehall tuned marvelously at Delaware with Burris tossing in 21 to lead the win last week, Mt. Vernon had to settle for a quick practice as the Yellow Jackets were grounded because of icy road conditions, Worthington the scheduled foe.

That Saturday battle of City League powers Mohawk and Eastmoor could be a battle of first place occupants, second place dwellers or a combination of both. Eastmoor faces frisky Brookhaven on Friday while Mohawk tries to be successful in Tigerland, in the East High gym Friday.

Northland, meanwhile, the other first placer in the CL, travels to Walnut Ridge to test if the Scotts are for real, that's not for real in the traditional Walnut Ridge victory banner, but the other way around.

And that brings us into the "others". Pre-season contenders Walnut Ridge and East are now prancing around in untraditional style, both below .500 basketball. But both could be instrumental with big wins this basketball week.

And Ready, two time defending state champion in the AA class, took a tough one on the chin, 64-60 to Watterson, last week. Asked what is causing the Silver Knights to stall in the big CCL dogfight, Coach Bob Jackson replies.

"We're really a lot younger and inexperienced than most people think. We've got nine juniors, and I guess that we're just learning."

HARTLEY, a game back of the Eagles in the CCL, kept on winning with Ron White handing out a new school record 14 assists. The Hawkeyes wait to corner Watterson in that CCL return match, two weeks away but this time at Hartley.

Bexley, currently in a jam-up tie with Urbana in the Mid-Eight League, tripped London 53-50 with Mark Liefeld leading the scoring charge. The Bexleyites of Gene Milliard now must stand tall at Groveport Friday in hope of hanging on to the Mid-Eight lead.

Franklin Heights hasn't found the winning key yet either, a 71-54 loser against Dublin last week, but the Falcons do sport a standout in Larry Ferst.

Ferst, the agile 6-1 Mr. everything of the Franklin Heights quintet, has been averaging at a 20 ppg. clip thus far.

IN OTHER action last week: Ron Williams scored 15 in a 84-58 West loss to Linden McKinley; Tim Kaufman canned a 12 foot jumper at the buzzer and Brian Stertzer singed the nets for 29 as Eastmoor edged Marion Franklin 69-67 in overtime; Terry Jameson's 18 points was the only bright spot for East as the Tigers dropped their sixth straight, this time to Brookhaven; Mohawk anihilated Walnut Ridge 81-70, all in the City League.

Other CCL action: Freshman Marquis Miller was super in canning 30 and cleaning the backboard 17 times to lead St. Charles over Wehrle.

OCC Highlights: Gregg Spellman tripped the chords for 27 to head the Westland bumping of Reynoldsburg, Mark Wade totaled 21 for the losers; Westerville looked tough as Ed Calo and Steve Myers teamed to dump Gahanna 65-59.

SHORTS–Reynoldsburg's easy Ed Williams is leading the Raider scoring attack with an even 20 ppg. average....Don Brough leads the Worthington parade with a 14.9 clip...Top Mid-Eight wrestlers from Bexley include, Rocky Wing 105, Kevin Michael 155, Paul Hoverstein 167, and Jeff Edlestein 185, Wing is 11-0.

Reynoldsburg vs Westland

High School Basketball

FRIDAY

City League: Brookhaven at Eastmoor, Marion Franklin at North, Central at West, Linden at Whetstone, Northland at Walnut Ridge, Mohawk at East and Mifflin at South.

Central Catholic: Ready at DeSales, Wehrle at Watterson and St. Charles at Hartley.

Ohio Capital: Westerville at Worthington, Delaware at Reynoldsburg, Westland at Gahanna and Mt. Vernon at Whitehall.

Metro: Olentangy at Franklin Heights

Mid-Eight: Bexley at Groveport

SATURDAY

City League: Eastmoor at Mohawk, Whetstone at Central, South at Linden and Walnut Ridge at Mifflin.

Area non-league: Akron South at East, Groveport at Hartley and Reynoldsburg at Urbana.

The event is sponsored by the Varsity OD Club.

The JV teams of ODC and Cedarville will meet at noon Saturday preceding the varsity game at 2 p.m., in St. Charles High School gym.

Kenty was a repeater, having also made both All-American teams in 1972.

Fifteen bouts are scheduled. Boxers from Muncie, Indianapolis, Edinburg, Indiana will square-off with Columbus boxers. Richard Rozelle is paired with Julius Anderson, Muncie; James Kenty vs Arthur Gibson, Indianapolis; Pete Seward vs Gary Guiden, Muncie. The show is sponsored by the Central Ohio AAU Boxing Committee. Tickets are $2.00 advance, $2.50 at the door. Tickets are on sale at Sears Northland, Sears Eastland, Berry's Sporting Goods, 74 S. 4th Street, Agler-Davidson Stores, 250 S. Hamilton Road, 1821 N. Prairie Township Increases Police Protection

New Rome–At the reorganizational meeting of the Prairie Township Trustees in January Jack Heater was elected chairman and Rodger W. Schellhaas was elected vice-chairman.

The meeting will remain the second Wednesday of each month at 6725 Alkire Rd. at 7:30 p.m.

Dec. 18 the trustees met with a representative of the sheriff's office to discuss scheduling additional hours of police protection made possible by the passage of the police levy.

The contract went into effect Jan. 1 and a total of 112 hours are scheduled. Sheriff's Deputy Steve Lutz introduced himself as the new officer who will be serving the township in addition to Glen Goldsberry.

The board appointed Paul A. Hiett to the Fire Indemnity Board. Other members are Lenny Critchfield, fireman; Tom Barbar, fireman; and Floyd Armstrong, citizen.

Deputy Goldsberry reported that in December there had been 397 house checks, nine felony arrests, six intoxification arrests, nine accident citations and 4,292 miles driven in the township, as well as other miscellaneous duties.

Deputy Lutz reported the radar gun is again in use.

Art Patznick, Superintendent of Dawes Arboretum at Newark, will conduct the workshop.

Licking Heights Will Sponsor Wrestling Meet

Licking Heights High School will host its Third Annual Wrestling Invitational January 18-19.

Seventeen A and AA team's from the greater central Ohio area will compete in what has become one of the finer Invitational Tournaments in the state.

All thirteen teams from the 1973 tournament are returning and the expanded cast includes newcomers Granville, Teays Valley, Academy, and Mansfield St. Peter.

Columbus Watterson is the defending champion by virtue of its one point win over Bexley in last years thrilling finish.

In addition to the host Hornets, others returning to compete in the two-day event are Watkins Memorial, Utica, Hamilton Twp., Jonathan Alder, Mifflin, Wehr Beckeye Valley, Ready, Circleville, and Marysville.

Wrestling will begin at 5 p.m. Friday January 18.

With action on four mats, 156 matches will be held during Friday night's first session.

The second session will begin Saturday at noon with an additional 78 matches.

The third and final session will begin at 7 p.m. Saturday, as the top six wrestlers in each weight class compete in the final 39 matches.

Headlining the returning individuals will be Bill Lewis, the 175 lb. State Champion from Licking Heights and Rocky Wing, Bexley's outstanding 98 pounder chosen as outstanding wrestler in the 1973 Invitational.

The price of admission will be $1 for each session.

Whitehall Police Dedicate Headquarters To Memory Of First Police Chief

By ELSIE V. WEAVER

Whitehall--Under threatening skies but amid spring-like temperatures in the mid-60s, the new $800,000 police headquarters building of the Whitehall City Police Department was dedicated, Sunday, in memory of Harry E. Worley, the department's first chief.

Several hundred people listened to the hour-long program during which Worley was eulogized by former mayors Paul Haytcher and Walter J. Siemer, and the present Mayor John A. Bishop, who acted as master of ceremonies. Afterwards over 500 people toured the building.

The event was begun with the invocation by the Rev. Robert Harwick, of Holy Spirit Catholic Church and the raising of the United States and police department flags by a silver-helmeted police honor guard. The national anthem was sung with the accompaniment of a contingent from the Whitehall-Yearling High School band.

In his brief history of the Whitehall Poilice Department, Mayor Bishop recounted that in 1958, the first year in the old building across Yearling Rd. from the new building, the department drove 225,000 miles, investigated 221 accidents and 1831 citizen complaints. In 1973 the department logged 295,508 miles, investigated 1246 accidents and 3,444 complaints. While in 1958 there were 15 men, today there are 38 sworn officers, four radiomen, four clerks, one dog warden and one custodian. They have 19 pieces of rolling stock.

Bishop said that in 1970 the first parcel of land was purchased for the new facility for $67,000. In 1971 more land was bought for $28,000. The building was originally scheduled to be finished in April, 1973 but various delays pushed the occupancy date to last October.

Bishop added that "the stubbornly independent people of Whitehall bought and paid for every stone of this building out of their own taxes."

The only federal funds put into the facility was seventy-five percent of the $77,000 needed for the new electronic communications equipment. The other twenty-five per cent was paid by the department, which now has, according to the mayor, perhaps the finest example of upgrading of a police communications system under "The Kelly plan" being adopted all over Ohio under the sanction of the Criminal Justice Coordinating Commission.

Bishop introduced Capt. James A. Gillespie, USN, who spoke briefly, representing Rear Admiral G.C. Heffner, of the Defense Construction Supply Center. Bishop termed the center "our largest taxpayer." He referred to the 5500 Whitehall residents who are employed there and who pay approximately three-fourths of a million dollars a year in taxes.

In his eulogy of the late Harry E. Worley, Mayor Bishop characterized the man as having a rough-hewn exterior but a heart of gold, who might come into his office and shed tears after seeing a child who had had too little for Christmas. "His whole life was Whitehall. He never took a day off, never took a vacation. He always spent most of his money on someone else and was always doing something for someone else," said the mayor. "Everyone loved him."

Chief of Police Ralph Walker honored Director of Public Service Floyd Cecil with a plaque from the Police Department in recognition of the long hours he spent doing research on plans and specifications for the new building, his general supervision of the construction, which "far exceeded the call of duty."

In noting the presence of a long list of present and past city officials, council members, and representatives of other city governments, Mayor Bishop announced that Council President Louis Valente was recuperating in the hospital after surgery and could not be at the ceremonies.

Congressman Samuel L. Devine brought the gathering his congratulations on the new building and general good wishes.

The mayor presented Mrs. Marie Solomon, daughter of the late Harry E. Worley with a plaster cast of the portrait relief of her father identical to that on the copper plaque inside the police headquarters foyer.

The plaque's message, written by Mayor Bishop, is as follows: Born Aug. 31, 1890 Died April 26, 1972 Deputy

A PROUD DAUGHTER is Mrs. Marie Solomon, a Hilltop resident whose late father, Harry E. Worley, shown in the plaque next to her, was honored last Sunday in Whitehall. He was the department's Deputy Marshal for three years, Street Superintendent for 18 years and its first Chief Of Police, a position he held for three years. The full text of the plaque is found in the story on the dedication.

Careers Center Master Plan Explained

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Staff Writer

Columbus--The Columbus School Board heard a detailed report on master planning for the Metropolitan Careers Center at its Jan. 15 Committee of the Whole meeting.

The report was presented by Jack Gibbs, executive director of the center; Dan Carmichael, project architect; and Bill Brubaker of the architectural firm of Perkings and Will, Chicago.

Construction for the center, to be developed on 49 acres of land which was originally part of the site of Fort Hayes, will be divided into Phase I and Phase II construction. The board hopes that the first phase can be completed and be ready for student attendance by September, 1975.

THE 49-ACRE tract of land was sold to the school system in 1971 by the government for the sum of $1. With a chuckle, the board hinted that they may be willing to spend up to $2.99 for additional land the government has to offer on the old Fort Hayes site.

The center is to be an innovative career center with programs designed to attract an academic, economic, geographic and racial cross-section of students with a wide range of interests and abilities.

The center will offer only programs which do not now exist in Columbus' high schools.

The campus type center will be divided into career clusters. It is proposed that each career cluster be organized into three identical curriculum components-morning, afternoon and evening.

THIS WILL HOPEFULLY provide flexibility in scheduling which will enable in-school youth to maintain their home school affiliation while completing other graduation requirements.

In addition it will enable persons who are employed to schedule a program in conjunction with their work schedule.

This center will be metropolitan in scope with emphasis on high school 11th and 12th graders, out-of school youth, 16 years and over and adults who have the desire to become involved in career education.

The curriculum of the center will enable each student to complete successfully a program of instruction which will qualify him or her for immediate employment and give the student an opportunity to live an independent and self-reliant life on and off of the job.

Another goal is that each student have the opportunity to pursue high educational goals at the post-secondary level.

THE CENTER WILL be operated by the Columbus Board of Education and will be intended to serve the entire metropolitan area. Students from throughout the Columbus school district and several neighboring districts may attend the center under some kind of agreements. It is also hoped that arrangements in the near future will permit interested students from all area districts to enroll.

Demolition of existing buildings will be necessary before any construction can begin, according to Gibbs. One building currently is being remodeled for use as an administrative, planning and staff developmental center while it is hoped that one other building, the old arsenal building, can be saved and rennovated in some fashion.

Proposed landscaping will give the complex "an attractive outlook along with ecological values," according to Brubaker.

According to Gibbs, "We found that it would cost more to update the existing buildings than to build new ones."

The plan, according to architect Brubaker, "a master plan for long range development," stimulated the board members greatly. All seemed extremely enthusiastic and agreeable to the project.

NEWLY ELECTED Board President Mrs. Virginia Prentice said, "this is just fantastic, extremely exciting, something that can just grow and grow. This is just the dream of every school system."

Board member Marilyn Redden was assured, in answer to her questioning, that the Phase I part of the center is included in the current budget even though the Phase II part is not. She was told additional funds will be needed for the second phase.

Columbus Public School System Superintendent Dr. John Ellis described the center as "a beginning...a thing of the future." He added that this would be just like a campus and would be continually growing, "maybe for five, 10 or even 20 years. This may even have a Phase III to it some day."

In other board action Mrs. Prentice explained that "the role of the vice-president will be different." She said that newly elected vice-president Dr. David Hamlar would be working closer with her and he would be involved with more decision-making.

"THIS WILL BE an extremely healthy thing for the board," added Prentice.

Also announced was the head for the Douglas Elementary Developmental Learning Center. He is the Reverend R.A. Meyers.

Mrs. Prentice also announced that the week of March 18-22 will be the week that school board members will tour the schools of the system. This year the target will be the junior high schools.

"It is very important that we see what is going on in these schools. I hope that we can see all 26 (junior highs)."

The board will then discuss their respective tours at the March 26 Committee of the Whole meeting.

Last, it was announced that the next Committee of the Whole Meeting, Jan. 29, would be a session with Student Forum. This will include student representatives from the schools and according to Prentice will enable the school board members to hear views of the students and vice versa.

Madison Schools' Needs Explained To Community Leaders At Meeting

Groveport--Over 250 community leaders were invited to attend a Dutch Treat dinner meeting at the Groveport-Madison High School Tuesday, Jan. 22 to explore community and school needs.

They viewed a film presentation which graphically illustrated the needs of the Groveport-Madison School District. According to Dave Lindsey, Community Relations Director, it has been five years since a building program has been approved. "During this five year period the school enrollment has grown from 4,475 to 6,692, a total of 2,217 students. To have adequately housed 2,217 additional students would have required an additional 75 classrooms."

Because additional classrooms could not be built, the Groveport-Madison school district has gone to half-day sessions in grades six through twelve. As the district continues to grow and elementary schools start on half-day sessions next year, Groveport-Madison, Lindsey says, will "be fostering crippled scholars because part-time schools mean part-time education which means part-time scholars."

Madison School Board is asking for the passage of a $7 million dollar bond issue at a special election, March 19, so they may build the needed facilities to house their students without half-day sessions.

Parents From Six Schools Learn Of Drug Program

East Columbus--Parents of students at Yorktown Junior High, and its five feeder elementary schools will become acquainted with the pilot drug program being initiated by the Columbus Public Schools through a series of three meetings to be held at Yorktown Junior High School Library.

Dates of the meetings are alternate Wednesdays, Jan. 23, Feb. 6 and 20.

Meeting times are 1:30 - 3 p.m.

The five elementary schools are Woodcrest, Oakmont, Olde Orchard, Mayberry and Easthaven. The emphasis is on prevention from kindergarten through junior high.

The meetings will be conducted by the developers of the program, Kent Gearhart, Associate Director of the Franklin County Mental Health Association, and Ann James, a teacher.

An evening meeting will also be held March 5 at 8 p.m. featuring a panel of Yorktown teachers who are currently involved in the program.

All parents in the area who have children in these six schools are encouraged to attend one or all of these meetings. "Parent awareness is a vital part of this program," says Gearhart.

Board Story Correction

Whitehall--At the Jan. 9 meeting of the Whitehall School Board, the position of Business Manager was abolished in an open meeting reconvened after an executive session had been adjourned.

In last week's Spectator East, in the story of the board meeting it was incorrectly stated that the position was abolished in an executive session. The move was discussed only, in the closed session.

Also decided at the executive session was the fact that a special meeting was not needed Jan. 16 for announcement of millage for the next operating levy. The amount of millage will be announced at the next board meeting Feb. 13 by Supt. Gilbert Johnson. The levy will be voted on at the regular May primary, instead of in a special election in March as previously decided.

CONGRESSMAN Samuel L. Devine and Capt. James A. Gillespie, USN, of the Defense Construction Supply Center, at left applaud as Police Chief Ralph Walker presents a plaque from the police department to Floyd Cecil, Director of Public Service. Cecil was honored because of the time he spent aiding in the construction of the building, "far above and beyond the call of duty," as Walker expressed it. At the rear, left, is the Rev. Elliot T. Fair, Jr., pastor of the East Baptist Church of Whitehall, who gave the benediction at the close of the program.

PART OF THE CROWD which gathered to dedicate the new Whitehall Police Department headquarters are shown as they bowed their heads while the Rev. Fr. Robert Harwick, of the Holy Spirit Catholic Church, gave the invocation. Several hundred people attended, and over 500 toured the facility after the ceremonies. The guest book with their names will be sealed into a time capsule in the south wall of the foyer as soon as pictures taken at the affair and news stories about it are received and readied for the capsule. Speaking of Beauty
WHAT DO YOU AND THE QUEEN OF ENGLAND HAVE IN COMMON?
If she came into our salon we couldn't do any more for her than we do for you. Each of you have your own choice of the beauty look you want us to create...and both of you would have our superb skills at your instant command. Of course, if we WERE hair stylists to the Queen of England we'd probably live in England and charge a lot more for our work. Don't worry Queen Elizabeth hasn't heard about us yet, and we won't go when she does send for us. We'd much rather work for you. It must be very frustrating to her hairstylist to do beautiful work and then have it constantly covered up with that crown.

We Salute The Jaycees During Their Special Week

This is Jaycee Week and the background of this organization tells much of the dedication these men have for community life.

A COMPLETE history of the United States Jaycees will probably never be written, for it would have to contain more than 6,700 chapters–one for each local organization in the Jaycee movement.

The dramatic story of the Jaycees lies in what has been accomplished by these thousands of locals at grassroots level in their attempts to build a greater America through developing better communities.

THE BASIC purpose of the Jaycees has not changed since the days of founder Henry Giessenbier, Jr. and the great early backer, Clarence H. Howard.

The Jaycees resulted from the budding of a very simple but valid idea; the thought of utilizing the young manpower of the community for public services, with a firm conviction that youth is not a handicap for participation in municipal, state and national affairs.

TODAY THAT idea has paid off in terms of an or ganization which boasts more than 6,700 local chapters in the United States, with a total active membership of over 315,000. The movement is also world wide with more than 80 nations affiliated with Junior Chamber International.

The USJCS evolved from the Herculaneum dancing Club, which had only four members when it was originated in 1910. The founder would not be surprised by the strength of the Jaycee movement if he were alive. Giessenbier, as early as 1920 said:

"I cannot but think that the future will bring a total enrollment of at least 5000,000 young men actively engaged in civic activities."

The Herculaneum Dancing Club which Giessenbier originated in 1910 had a modest purpose–to boost the social standing of its members–and it accomplished its mission. By 1914 it was considered to be "the outstanding dancing club of its time" in St. Louis.

DURING World War I the Jc's formed Co. L of the 138th Infantry Regiment. Commader was Dwight Davis, later to become assistant secretary of war and donor of the Davis Cup tennis trophy.

Giessenbier and Howard felt that a national body should be formed, and on January 21 and 22 of 1920 a caucus was held in St. Louis with 29 cities represented.

THE USJC was organized at this caucus, a convention called for the following June, and Giessenbier elected provisional president. The St. Louis group, which numbered about 3,000, was the hub of the new national organization.

Twelve of the 27 cities represented at the June convention became charter members of the USJC, and Giessenbier was chosen first president.

PERHAPS the first really big step taken to weld the loose federation together was the establishment of Expansion magazine in 1925. This publication, which continued until 1929, was the first of several which served the USJC until the present Future magazine was born in 1938.

During the 1920's and 1930's, the USJC not only grew in size, but the scope of Jaycee activities became even broader. Then, as now, Junior Chambers were concerned with almost every conceivable type of project designed to be of service to community, state and nation.

A BIG STEP was taken in 1935 when it was decided to settle in St. Louis, after declining an offer of space in the Washington, D.C., headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The Jaycees felt that it would be best to remain completely independent of the senior group, which is still the case today. Although the two organizations are in no way connected, they are on the friendliest of terms.

Before World War II, the USJC became the first young men's organization to back Selective Service, and the war years saw 85 percent of all Jaycees enter the armed forces.

The ones staying home topped all other organizations in scrap collecting, blood-donations and bond sales.

A POSITIVE development to emerge from the war was Junior Chamber International, established at a meeting in Mexico City in 1944. Attempts to found such a group date back to the 1930's.

The idea of a War Memorial for the Jaycee dead was proposed at the Omaha War conference in 1944. Tulsa was subsequently chosen as the site for this War Memorial Headquarters after citizens pledged $100,000 towards its construction. The USJC moved its national office to the Oil Capital in 1947.

Raising of additional funds made construction possible, the cornerstone was laid on December 7, 1950, and final dedication ceremonies held August 4, 1951.

Since that date the USJC has continued to grow from its headquarters in the "Young Men's Capital of the World."

Franklin County is indeed fortunate to have many fine Jaycee organizations in communities that are prospering even more because of the dedication these young men have brought to their projects.

We salute them this week - Jaycee Week.

Senior Citizens Enjoying COTA Good As Gold Cards

"GOOD AS GOLD" card carrying Senior Citizens have been enjoying Columbus, for half price courtesy of COTA, for about two weeks. Now, for reduced price again, they can see the World.

Alan McCracken, President of the Columbus Association for the Performing Arts, is offering Senior Citizens one dollar admission to his new series of travel films at the Ohio Theater.

"We planned the Wednesday morning times with the Senior Citizens expecially in mind," said McCracken. "So many times, things our older citizens would like to see are given only at night. I don't blame them for not wanting to venture out then. We picked the 10:30 Wednesday morning performance for them particularly.

"Letters and posters are going out this week to all the Senior Citizen Centers in the City. If they want to plan a party together, we have block seating available and that way too they can share transportation like taxis and such.

We also are offering five tickets for five dollars and these may be used all at once, separately, or by twos and threes.

Thus, Senior Citizens may choose what they and their friends want most to see."

EACH program will be presented twice, Tuesday evening at 8 and Wednesday morning at 10:30. The films will be narrated by internationally known photographers and travelers themselves. Films and dates are:

"There will always be an England" by Dr. Charles Forbes Taylor, January 22 and 23; "Denmark and Greenland" by Arthur Wilson, February 12 and 13; "Soul of Japan" by Kenneth Wolfgang, February 26 and 27; "Hungary" by Sherilyn Mentes, March 26 and 27; and "Rhine Journey in the 70's" by Curtis Nagel, April 9 and 10.

TICKETS at these special rates are now available at the CAPA office at 41 East State Street, or you may make reservations by telephone 469-1045.

"Be sure to remind everyone", concluded McCracken, "That we have that fine organ installed in the Ohio Theater. We plan organ concerts just before the presentation of each film. The concerts will about 20 minutes in length."

FOR SOME time now, many Senior Citizens of Columbus have been enjoying the mid-day Hot Meal program inaugurated in November by the City Department of Health and sponsored by the Council on Aging under funds provided by the Department of Recreation and Parks.

Besides supplying nutritional daily balance for "solitary cookers," the dinners have turned out to be a great place to socialize, get with it as to what's going on for the Senior Set in the City, and even to provide a resource for the solution of special problems.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Health Department, 461-5745.

LAST BUT not least, if you have not already obtained your "Good as Gold" card for the half price fare on the Columbus bus lines, three of the registration locations will be open all month: McDowell St. Center, 275 McDowell; Second and Summit Center, 92 E. Second Ave.; and 1100 East Broad St. Center. Opening from January 23 through January 30 are Whetstone Recreation Center, Whitehall City Building, and at St. John Lutheran Church you can go to mid day dinner and get the card for COTA afterwards all in one trip.

Employment Services Betters Hours

The Ohio Bureau of Employment Services (OBES), in a move to better serve job seekers and employers, has changed the hours of operation of its Job Service community placement offices.

New Job Service hours are 9 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. until noon Saturdays, Hugh Schaffner, Columbus employment service manager announced.

Job Service, a totally new concept in free employment assistance, is designed to help people find work efficiently, without inconvenience.

"These extended office hours, unusual for a government agency, will provide increased service to unemployed workers and employers," Schaffner said.

Job Service offices are located at 3215 W. Broad St., telephone: 276-2604; 887 S. Hamilton Road, 237-2550; and 2007 East Dublin-Granville Road, 888-7112.

TIME FOR LOUNGING

WHY GO METRIC?

There has been increasing discussion about changing our standards of measurement to the metric system. Congress is considering legislation which will provide a ten-year transitional period for the changeover.

The reason for doing so is convincing. As our nation's horizons expand in travel, communications, the sciences and arts we should assume leadership to assure a simple basis of measurement that the entire world understands.

Today, most of the world uses the metric system. This means that today when we provide exports for the ever-expanding world market our domestic products are the wrong size. It's just like selling a shoe that almost fits, or a hat that covers your ears.

American industry will make the change when Uncle Sam turns the traffic light green. But don't junk your socket wrenches, because the metric measure will come in gradually, so that it will not be too much of a burden to any one of us in making the change.

However, now is the time to become familiar with the new dimensions and to plan ahead.

James Gibson, 86, Selected Catholic Man-Of-The-Year

by James Kozelek

The Franklin County Catholic Men's Luncheon Club has announced the winner of its 18th Annual Franklin County Catholic Man of the Year Award.

At a luncheon held at St. Patrick's Parish Hall, James Gibson, 86 year old member of St. Dominic's Parish, was honored for a lifetime of service to others.

Gibson, active in the St. Vincent de Paul Society, an organization devoted to assisting the poor and needy, was referred to as the Frederick Ozanam of Columbus.

Ozanam is the founder of the St. Vincent dePaul Society.

Not born or raised a Catholic, he was converted to Catholicism in 1932, some 41 years ago, at St. Cyprian's parish here in Columbus.

IN A SOCIETY where mobility, transition, and uprooting seem to predominate, he stands as a rock of stability, living now in the same modest home he has lived in for the past 48 years.

He held with honor the same job he labored at for 41 years-that of a United States mailman-all of those years working here in Columbus.

Married in 1912, he stayed married for 27 years, until his wife Mabel passed away in 1939, and he has stayed a widower for the 34 years since, although he states he runs an ad in the paper once a year for a successor who has not yet emerged.

He is the father of one married daughter, and has seven grandchildren.

He is a member of St. Dominic's Church, a parish of modest means, and he is typical of its membership.

HE WAS raised in Greenup, Kentucky by his grandmother, a former slave. As a young boy, he remembers his grandmother, a woman of little means, feeding indigents and transients in the home in which he was raised. That recollection never left him, and his life has since centered around helping the needy.

An outstanding member of the St. Vincent DePaul Society, he works each day, Monday through Friday, at the age of 86, at St. Lawrence Haven, feeding the poor, cleaning up after them, visiting with them, sorting clothes, investigating requests for assistance, and doing any of the hundreds of unglamorous, unpublicized tasks that literally keep the poor alive in body as well as spirit.

NO LONGER able to drive an automobile, he often has to take a bus to St. Lawrence Haven, spending his own money for carfare to do this work.

Described by his nominator as the Frederick Ozanam of Columbus, his pastor agrees with that comparison.

He is still active as an usher at his Church, but since he is no longer able to drive he misses being able to take the parish sisters shopping as he formerly did, and he misses driving on Sunday for the children at the State School - just two examples of the many useful, if unheralded ways in which he has served others throughout his life.

STILL ACTIVE AND energetic at the age of 86, he continues to grow a garden of vegetables and roses each year, and, typically, he shares his bounty with his neighbors and others.

HIS NOMINATOR beautifully summed up his life by saying that if he is not well known by many of us, it may be because he is not a Rotarian, not a Knight of Columbus, not a Charity Newsie nor a member of any country club - he is simply a man doing God's work in a quiet, unobtrusive way because it is God's work. "But", his letter of nomination continues, "if you ask anyone in the bread line at St. Lawrence Haven, or any of the numerous poor, the underprivileged, the down cast, the sick in body or spirit whose lives have been touched by him - any of those could tell you who he is."

AND SO I speak for our selection committee as a whole, the entire membership of the Catholic Men's Luncheon Club, and those we represent, in expressing great pride and admiration for the 1973 Franklin County Catholic Man of the Year, James Gibson.

Goodwill Industries Needs Your Help

To The Editor:

Columbus Goodwill has an emergency situation. Due to the poor weather, December donations reached a new low. For the first time in thirteen years the Goodwill warehouse is empty, and the amount of clothing and household goods that come in daily is not enough to keep our people working.

As of Monday, January 14 the plant went on reduced hours and without additional material twenty-five handicapped employees will be laid off, with more to follow.

Here are a few examples of the type of people effected:

(1) "Cathy" was in a State Hospital for 10 years. She is now "outside", working full time at Goodwill. Without her weekly paycheck, she will not be able to afford groceries.

(2) "Ralph" has a wife and a seven year old son to support. He can not read, but works hard at sorting clothing at Goodwill. If you take away the clothing, Ralph is out of work.

(3) "Ann" has various health problems, and without the money she now earns, she can just make ends meet. Take away her job and she becomes another victim of the clothing shortage.

We need the support of the community. January 19, Goodwill Founders Day, we started an emergency drive to replace the needed goods. To make donating as easy as possible, Goodwill trucks are located at convenient locations around town.

They are: Bill Swad American Motors, 667 S. Hamilton Road, The Northland Shopping Center on Morse Road, and all three Gold Circle stores on West Broad, Olentangy River Road, and Hamilton Road.

All trucks are located in the main parking lot of each location and are within sight of the main road and the store (or stores). All of the participating stores volunteered their space to help in this Goodwill clothing drive.

The trucks are at these locations from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for two consecutive Saturdays, Jan. 26 and February 2. In addition a drop off point has been established behind the Goodwill store at 909 West Fifth Ave. Its hours are 7:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. Tues.-Friday; 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.Monday; 7:30 to noon Saturday.

We urge all concerned area residents to please donate all clothing and household items available.

All donations are tax-deductible. Goodwill does its part to help the handicapped, please do your part to help Goodwill.

Sincerely,

Dick Jones
Community Relations Director

Hours Figures Are Questioned In Story

To the Editor:

As a graduate and an employee of Ohio State University, I wish to object to what I believe is misleading comparison in your January 9 story entitled, "Local Police Spend 852 Hours in School."

The lead paragraph of the story, written by Kathy Devaney reads as follows:

"An undergraduate at Ohio State University must have 196 hours of credit in order to graduate. A Columbus Police Officer is required to take 852 hours before being sworn in, as well as spending 200 hours in on-the-job training."

It is my understanding from the story that Columbus Policemen receive a total of 1052 hours of training. However, this paragraph also suggests that Ohio State University undergraduates receive only 196 hours. This is untrue. In order to gain, say, five credit hours at OSU, a student must attend class for a minimum of five hours per week for the 10 weeks of the quarter, or a total of 50 hours of classroom time. So, a student who graduates from OSU has actually spent a minimum total of 1,960 hours in class to get 196 hours of credit.

I telephoned Ms. Devaney after reading the story, identified myself as an OSU employee and told her of my objection.

While I certainly do not intend to downgrade the content of the story–indeed, the rest of the story performed a valuable service by giving information probably not generally known by the community–I think its credibility was not enhanced by the use of such a distorted comparison.

Sincerely,

Sandra S. Nichols
College Communications.

Reader Questions Police Story Facts

To the Editor:

I appreciate and enjoyed the article by Kathy Devaney on Jan. 9 "Local Police Spend 852 Hours In School".

However, I did not agree with her facts that "an undergraduate at OSU must have 196 hours of credit to graduate! and "A Columbus Police Officer is required to take 852 hours before being sworn in, as well as spending 200 hours in on-the-job training."

If Ms. Devaney is a college graduate I am sure she will agree that the 196 college credit hours equals about 2,302 man hours of which she is s peaking for the Columbus Police Force.

I am not "knocking" the force who do a great and necessary job, but again I don't feel there is a comparison in the amount of actual hours spent to become a policeman as opposed to that of a college degree.

1052 hours is less than half spent in college. Let's get the facts straight before presentation.

Sincerely,

J.B. Kelley
308 Hiler Dr.
Columbus

Volunteers Recruited

To the Editor:

We wish to express our thanks for the recent article which appeared in the January 9th issue of your newspaper.

It has been helpful to us in the recruitment of volunteers for the Columbus Public Schools.

Thank you very much.

Volunteer Services.

AROUND TOWN

Last Friday night I thought I died and went to that great restaurant in the sky. This is the evening I dined at the BEST RESTAURANT in Columbus, Le Gourmet Room. It has been quite a while since I have had the pleasure to write about the fabulous Le Gourmet Room.

With no further ado, let me take you into the world of an exquisite epicurean experience.

First, the hors d'oeuvres. Carole selected seafood crepe. This is a pancake, very thin, filled with an assortment of seafoods in a special sauce. An unusual taste treat. It was almost breath-taking. I had escargots en champignons de bourgogne, which are snails in mushroom caps and garlic butter. Simply terrific.

Next came the caesar salad. Now here was a delightful event. There are not very many places Around Town where one can order a good caesar salad. Le Gourmet Room happens to be one of those very rare places.

Roast duck a la orange, with wild rice, was Carole's choice of entree. Here again, you just don't find roast duck prepared as at Le Gourmet Room. You'll marvel at the fascinating flavor. I chose sole en papillate. This is fillet of sole baked in paper with a delicious champagne sauce. I have never tasted anything so delectable. The flavor was unique, and oh so very enjoyable. I believe I could go back and dine on the same dish every night for a week and still not become bored.

Often times you have heard me state that a meal was fit for royalty. In this case, this was royal, in every sense of the word.

In my opinion, it's rather difficult to finish a meal with something that will really top it off in high fashion. But at Le Gourmet Room I had no problem. Their Irish coffee was just the thing to complete the feast. The Irish coffee was prepared with an abundance of Irish whiskey, kahula, and of course, coffee, in a cup with the rim laced with lemon and glazed with sugar. Whipped cream and creme de menthe was added. It was really captivating.

In fact, that is the best way to describe the entire meal, from start to finish. Captivating.

Le Gourmet Room is located in the lower level of the Circle Restaurant. The decor is as enjoyable as the food. For you who enjoy true gourmet food at very reasonable prices, then this is the place for you. Everything is ala carte, meaning you order what you want. If you are like me, that's everything on the menu.

"How The Other Half Loves," opened this past week at the Country Dinner Playhouse. The show, itself is superb. The cast is marvelous. Hans Conreid, along with five other people constitute one of the strongest, most talented casts to hit the boards in our area in many a play.

Thank goodness for the Country Dinner Playhouse and the audience this is true. After listening to several gripes, including my own, regarding poor service, limited selection of alcoholic beverages and a buffet that left a lot to be desired, many were not in the best mood to be entertained. However, by shows end, the entire crowd walked away on cloud nine.

The play is well directed, moving along at a fast clip. From the beginning it just keeps building into a super sonic pace. The principal characters are Frank and Fiona Foster, a middle aged couple played by Hans Conreid and Gaylea Byrne, and Bob and Theresa Phillips, portrayed by Stephen Bolster and Carol Mennie.

Bob in his thirties, is having a little affair with Fiona. They go out on her wedding anniversary. The next day Bob tells his wife that he was out with William Detweiler and Fiona says that she was out with Mary Detweiler. Both tell their spouse that the Detweiler's marriage is on the rocks. Since Frank, Bob and William all work together, Frank and Theresa invite them to their homes on successive nights for dinner. Of course by the end of the play all of the truths and secrets are brought to the surface.

But, in between all of this, the plot becomes more involved, with hilarity raining all over the place. There are plenty of excellent comedy bits, fine acting and a host of scenes that are done with all the professional skill you'll see in any Broadway production.

The staging of, "How The Other Half Loves," is most unique. At all times, there are two sets of furniture on stage. One representing the more affluent Foster household, and the other representing the Phillips' home, a typical young, not so gracious couple. The difference is best pointed out in the scene where Fiona and Theresa are both preparing the menu and table settings for their night to entertain the Detweilers. Fiona plans a gourmet menu and uses fine china. Theresa has a simple menu and practically throws the dishes on the table.

The Detweilers are a very shy couple, who seem to have never been around very much. Their roles, and the manner in which they are played, by Alec Murphy and Diane Deckard, adds a lot of gusto to the production.

Diane, by the way, appeared in the commercial in which she reminds her "husband" that he did indeed, "eat the whole thing."

As I said earlier, the entire cast is superb. Hans Conreid turns in his expected performance. The other five members of the cast do an equally fine job.

It's a terrific play. An absolute must for lovers of good theatre, especially you who enjoy comedy.

The Dell Restaurant is open again. After five years of Columbus being without one of its favorite landmarks, Dee Johnston has re-opened the famous restaurant and lounge. For those of you who remember the Dell Restaurant, you'll be glad to know that it is the same ole Dell as before, except the entire interior has been refurbished.

The only addition to the decor is that the place is completely carpeted. Everything else is the same. The Dell's charm and quaintness has been retained. Dee has refinished every booth, table and literally every piece of wood from floor to ceiling. It has been a long time since I entered such a fascinating, warm and intimate atmosphere, be it a restaurant or lounge. It was mid-afternoon when I was there. At night, it must be a true dreamland.

Dee Johnston has had some help and lots of moral support from her husband, Dick Johnston. Many of you know him as the founder of the Columbus School for Girls, former director of the Columbus Boys Choir, who is presently professor of voice at Capital University. Dee has earned a first rate reputation in the restaurant industry. She has served in various managerial positions in restaurants in Columbus and Florida.

The Dell, founded by Karl Tracht and operated by him until his retirement five years ago, still has his expert advice. Since its opening again, Karl stops in several times a day to greet all of his old friends.

While I have not dined at the Dell, I can tell you this, both luncheon and dinner menus offer a very wide choice of food. Prices are reasonable.

In the evening, there is a small piano bar, plus a host of singing waiters and waitresses. They sing everything from classics to rock.

Another interesting aspect about the Dell Restaurant, is that all profits will go to establish a summer camp for retarded children. The Johnstons want to purchase a farm in Perry County for the camp. However, the Dell Restaurant is not being operated as a charitable operation. Their first concern is to serve and please you, hoping the end result will be enough money to accomplish their goal.

All I can tell you is that you must make at least one trip to the Dell. I will promise you that with all of its charm and beautiful atmosphere, along with the interesting entertainment at night, you'll go back many times.

For the time of your life, make sure you stop in at the swinging Rendezvous Room. Located on W. Broad St., in the Lincoln Village Plaza. The Rendezvous Room is a rather unique watering and dining spa. On weekends, you'll find the well known Dick Wolford and his show performing for the crowds. Dich has one of the hottest records on WMNI, at the present time. Also, between the hours of 2 a.m. and 4 a.m. you can have an ole fashion country style breakfast every Friday and Saturday. It's yummy. All during the week, they serve the best lunch in the west, plus offering a wide dinner menu every evening. Another very special attraction at the Rendezvous Room is their singing bartender. It's the only place Around Town that has one. Bob Carter is his name, and Bob sings and plays guitar between mixing up your favorite drink. . . Don't forget the Shirley Lewelly Duo, featuring Vic Percora at Michael's. This is one of the loveliest lounges Around Town. Located in Grove City, Michael's is also a fine place for dining. Plan on stopping in there soon. You won't be sorry. For one of the best show groups Around Town, make sure you catch the McCalmont Express at the Holiday Inn-OSU. Leader, Judy McCalmont sings up a storm. What a terrific singer. You'll find them nightly at the Top of the Inn. Downstairs, in the Herritage Lounge, the Minute Men, a duo, plays nice soft music for your dining and dancing pleasure. They also serve up some excellent vocal work, too. . . Caught the sensational Bill Brown at Lincoln Lodge the other evening. This guy is one of the best single acts to hit town in many a moon. What a singer, and I do mean singer. His voice is big and deep, and Billy sings all types of songs. With his electric guitar and other electronic gadgets, Billy sounds like a trio. To tell you just how good he is, Billy Brown is breaking all records in the Lounge at the Lincoln Lodge Motel. And that my friends, is saying a mouthful. . . Last week I told you about the fine meal I enjoyed at the Holiday Inn-South, and the fact that Paul Click and his show were appearing at the Holiday Inn. Well, from Saturday to Wednesday a beautiful new stage was built. Wait until you see it. Without a doubt, it is one of the nicest stages I've seen in any motel. It adds so much to the room and to the presentation of the act. Take my advice and stop in real soon. You'll have a great time. . . That's all for now, see you Around Town.

Young People's Concert Feb. 2

"An Adventure In Music," the Columbus Symphony Orchestra's Annual Young People's Concert, will be presented Saturday, Feb. 2 at 11 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. in the Ohio Theatre. Music Director Evan Whallon will conduct the concerts especially designed for the fourth grade and up.

The popular "Light Cavalry Overture" by Franz von Suppe, opens the concert with a clarion solo trumpet call evoking the martial spirit. The audience can picture the tramping soldiers, the "kilppitty klop" of the horses, the call to battle and the "Song of Lament" for fallen heroes.

Other selections will include Dukas' famous work, "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," Richard Rodgers' "March of the Siamese Children," and "Love for Three Oranges" by the Russian composer Serge Prokofieff.

The audience should be able to make mental pictures during Villa-Lobos' "Little Train of the Caipira" and Kleinsinger's "Tubby the Tuba."

Tickets are $1 and may be obtained by calling the Symphony office at 224-3291 or at the Symphony office, 200 E. Town St.

The Young People's Concerts are part of a complete program of music education presented by the Columbus Symphony.

Gallery Players Are Ready

Gallery Players of The Jewish Center, 1125 College Ave., is now in rehearsal for "The Dybbuk," which will open Feb. 2. Subsequent performances will be Feb. 3, 6, 7, 9 and 10.

"The Dybbuk" is regarded as the classic drama of the Yiddish stage.

Based on ancient Jewish folklore, its dark implications of mysterious, other-worldly forces at work in a quaint and simple village make for gripping, suspenseful theater.

Tickets are now on sale at the Gallery Players box office at The Jewish Center. Reservations and further information may be secured by calling 231-2731.

AAUW Conference Scheduled

The Columbus Branch of the American Association of University Women will hold its 40th annual Conference on Education January 26 at the OSU Faculty Club.

Elementary, secondary, college and university levels of education will be examined under a theme of "Diversified Learning Approaches."

Registration will begin at 9 a.m.

Dr. Frank Duddy, President of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities of Ohio, will be the luncheon speaker at 1 p.m.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. John C. McConaughy, 885-6775.

HEART SENSE

You can have a healthier heart if you know the risk factors of heart disease. The major ones are high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol and excessive cigarette smoking. The Franklin County Heart Branch will tell you how to lower your risk.

Glaucoma Screening Scheduled By Lions

The free glaucoma screening, co-sponsored by the Tri-Village Lions and the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness, will be held Monday, January 28, 3:30 to 6:30 p.m., at the Central YMCA, 40 West Long St.

Formerly held at the Columbus Health Department, the monthly screenings have been rescheduled to provide for easier bus transportation and to accommodate the public after working hours.

Paul Richards, M.D., Columbus opthalmologist and board member of the Ohio Society for the Prevention of Blindness, will perform the quick, painless test.

Glaucoma claims the vision of almost 90,000 adults over 35 in Ohio, and most people are unaware they are victims, according to Dr. Richards. There is no cure for the disease, and only early detection and treatment can halt its progress.

Workshop Planned

A CENTRAL OHIO High School Counselor Financial Aid Workshop will be held at Columbus Technical Institute, 550 East Spring St., in Eibling Hall 03-06, from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., January [illegible].

This workshop, jointly sponsored by Columbus Tech and the Office of Student Assistance of the Ohio Board of Regents, is to present the aspects of various financial aid programs available to students entering post-secondary institutions in 1974.

THE PROGRAM is geared to answer the most common questions asked by students of the counselor.

Kappa Alpha Meets Jan. 26

The Alumnae and Active Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta will meet Saturday, Jan. 26 to celebrate Founders Day.

The social hour (11:30-12:30) will be followed by luncheon at Presutti's Villa, 1692 W. 5th Ave. Call Mrs. Robert Gerbig, 3733 Pevensey Dr. (451-6788) for reservations.

BILLY BROWN
featuring SAMANTHA LEE
APPEARING NIGHTLY - WESTERN MOTELS
LINCOLN LODGE 4950 W BROAD
Billy Brown is performing at the Lincoln Lodge 4950 W. Broad. For a one man act Billy Brown has to be about the best in Columbus.
His performance is sprinkled with earthly jokes and banter with the audience. He has a recollection of many Country and Blue Songs written in the last 30 years.
In 1959 Billy Brown did the original recording of "He'll Have To Go" for Columbia Records. It rose to No. 1 in many cities but according to Brown at this time Jim Reeves also recorded it in the same Style and Reeves recording became one of the biggest Country Hits ever.
Billy Brown a Country Western Singer and Guitarist from Florida has been engaged for a six week contract at Lincoln Lodge.
He is drawing the largest crowds to the Lounge since it started with the Billy Brown Show entertaining with the up-town Country - Western Sound.
Brown's newest record has just been released on Big M Records-"Thank You Darling" and "Country Boy" Brown performance features versitility, personality and ad-lib humor in addition to a repertoire which includes yodelling, impersonations of Johnny Cash, Elvis Presley, Gene Autry, Eddie Arnold, Charlie Rich and Walter Brennan. He sings "Cool Clear Water" in the styles of various singers.

Take The Plunge?

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

ELOISE CURTIS welcomes Resort-Spring in white matte jersey with straps of cording forming the plunging neckline...the hemline bordered in schiffli embroidery.

THE ELEGANT flow of Mimosa yellow pleats for a deep v'd evening dress with self-sashed waistline, by Shannon Rodgers for Jerry Silverman.

PAT SANDLER designs a bared gown of flowing matte jersey with its own Diamante jewels at the halter neck and waistline...white ostrich boa.

SENSUOUS navy matte jersey cocktail dress with "V" neck topped by silver sequined chiffon cardigan jacket...by Morty Sussman for the Mollie Parnis Boutique Resort-Spring collection.

FOR HEAVEN'S SAKE, don't buy a new Spring dress with a plunging neckline, without a lot of thought. Don't buy a plunging neckline because other women are wearing them, or because all the celebrities are being photographed for the magazines in plunging necklines, these days. Those celebrities may look ravishing in print, but the real-life close-ups can be disillusioning.

Don't buy a plunging neckline just because you believe the dimensions of your own front are second only to Venus. To get away with a plunging neckline needs more than the right dimensions...it calls for a lot of courage. If you're going to buy a low-cut dress, then face the facts that it's not the native dish of the average American girl. Whether she likes it or not...she was born and bred puritanical...a neckline up to the collarbone makes her happiest. For the difference, look at any Italian girl, who knows instinctively how to cope with a neckline that plunges to anywhere...she simply stays natural.

IF YOU'VE already bought a plunging neckline dress for a party...for heaven's sake don't plan to enter the room timidly, looking as if you were Priscilla Alden...don't blush or look coy. Don't keep looking down either, to see whether your dress is slipping or you're about to pop out of it. Neither is likely, but if it should happen, you're sure to make the gossip columns the next day. If you have to bend over, sternly suppress that impulse to clutch the front of your dress, or even to peek at how far things are going. Anyway, the point of buying the dress was to show your figure, wasn't it?

For heaven's sake, don't wear a little white bra under your black dress with a plunging neckline. What can you wear underneath? Come now, haven't you heard of the half-bra? Some of the models use adhesive tape...but those Italian girls solve it better than anybody by wearing nothing at all.

IF YOUR plunging neckline dress is short, don't be afraid to wear it a little longer than the rest of your clothes...the balance between top and skirt is better. For goodness sake, don't wear chunky shoes...the heel height isn't important but be sure they're cut-out and fragile looking.

LAST BUT not least, just remember one thing about the plunging neckline...if you're going to take the plunge, you've got to have heart. Either stay out, or, as they say when teaching you to swim...plunge clear in!

Whitehall Rules OCC; Warriors Share CL Lead

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Spectator Sports Writer

Whitehall came through nicely with the pressure on last week giving the ramblin Rams sole possession of the Ohio Capital Conference slot. Although its only a half game edge over its victim Mt. Vernon, it's a margin none the less.

And a sweet 62-50 whomping it was, as tangy Terry Burris matched his 22 points with 22 caroms off of the backboard. And assisting Burris was reserve guard Wayne Buck who merely danced onto the court to take charge of the Ram offensive mastery while adding a quick 11 markers on for good measure.

WELL THE OCC spotlight isn't just on the Rams as most will agree, for Mt. Vernon's Yellow Jackets only have two losses also. A makeup game with Worthington evens games played for this powerhouse duo so maybe the Pat Manion crew can help this cross-town rival.

And while Manion's Worthington quintet was eking out a three point win against visiting Westerville, Reynoldsburg was another lough suburban team in this OCC dogfight with a three-point advantage against Delaware.

Mark Wade glided 20 points in that Raider win, a win that could add much needed spice to the Raider purple machine when it trucks up to Mt. Vernon this Friday to match witts and quickness with the Jackets.

WHITEHALL will have to stand tall at Westerville Friday and if you are a real roundball fan you'll be at Whitehall Saturday night when Red Courtney brings his reckless Warriors to Ram country for a renewal of a longtime non-league rivalry.

And don't think that action wasn't wild and woolly in that big time City League circuit last week, as Eastmoor stood alone at the conclusion of Friday's play only to get scalped good on Saturday night at Mohawk, thus bringing, now get this, the same three teams, Northland, Eastmoor and Mohawk tied for the top rung.

Projecting that schedule a bit you might say that Mohawk has the best shot of winning the rest having already played most of the teams in the upper division while Eastmoor has Northland this Friday and East and Walnut Ridge to content with in later meetings.

AND SHARP isn't a sharp enough word to use when describing the weekend rimwork of this rejuvinated Walnut Rdige bunch. After upsetting Northland from the top spot Friday the Ridgemen showed much class and realness in a win at Mifflin on Saturday.

Talk about teams rebounding back and playing up to potential, hey, what about this tall timberful East High Tiger team? A stunning but extremely convincing victory it was over Mohawk Friday but even more convincingly where these Tigers one night later against visiting Akron South, a team rated 6th state-wide in one area poll.

Well, tournament time is just around the corner and you know that East and Ridge are talking tourney power and a new life but this Class AA bracket won't be shabby from Columbus. For aside from Mohawk, there is that smooth-dribbling Watterson crew.

PRANCING merrily along with a two-game bulge in the Central Catholic League the flying Eagles have shown no energy shortage in Eagle land. But if highlight victories are what you are into, shine on St. Charles' 50-49 stumping of neighborhood pal Hartley.

Mike Haufeld led the Cardinal show against Hartley with 19, but more important is the clearer road Watterson now has over Hartley and Ready, a one-point victor over DeSales last weekend.

Ready and Hartley will battle it out at the home of the Silver Knights next Friday for the best shot at overtaking Watterson, a longshot though, since both have two losses.

Bexley was on a short end of an encounter with Groveport last Friday but a big win over Urbana, at Urbana, could lift the Lions right back in control of the Mid-Eight stack Friday.

FRANKLIN HEIGHTS tallied cooly, Olentangy its victim, with Ron Lathem and Larry Ferst handling the scoring chores.

Others who helped carry their teams to victory include Hilton Hale of East who was perfect on 11 of 16 floor tries and finished with 26 in East's quest of Mohawk, Brian Stertzer, the cool Eastmoor forward who canned 29 against Mohawk, Todd Loe and Ron Marshall who sparked Walnut Ridge to weekend success and Tim Thrush for a 26 point performance for his West playmates.

SHORTS—If you are not an ardent roundball worshiper and you like nice clean fast high school athletics, be on hand Friday night when DESALES travels to WORTHINGTON for a top dual wrestling meet. . . All interested women, keep your eyes out for Columbus may have a pro WOMENS football team next season . . . Credit LARRY CAPEHART with 13 assists in Walnut Ridge's win over Northland, the pint size guard broke his brother's record in the process. . .

Rabbit And Quail Season Drawing To A Close

The season on Ohio's most popular game animal, the rabbit, will come to a close at 5 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 26. Along with the rabbit season the quail season will also close at the same time. The daily bag limit for rabbits is four and for quail is six. Total possession limit on the two species, not in the field, is equal to a two day limit.

The cock pheasant season, which is now closed on private lands, remains open on Ohio's Public Hunting Areas until Jan. 26 when it closes at 5 p.m. The daily limit is two and total possession limit, not in the field is four.

Most Popular Bait

Over 26 million Americans buy a fishing license each year and it's not certain if fish or fisherman like earthworms the best. Fish will take a variety of insects, minnows, frogs, artificial flys and lures, but the lowly earthworm remains the most popular bait.

I can't think of one species of fish that won't drool over these wiggly creatures. Now that you know the bait, here's what you do with it:

Don't bunch, twist or wind a six to eight inch nightcrawler on your hook when fishing for bluegills and sunfish. These little panfish are bait stealers. Use the little two inch red worm or garden worms found in most bait stores. Go ahead and bunch these little worms on a small hook.

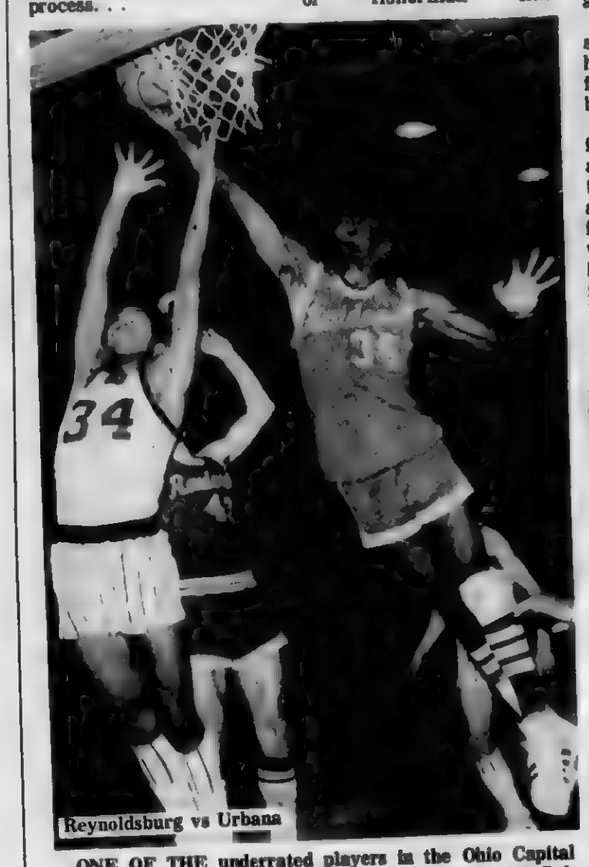
To attract larger fish like bass and walleyes, start at the heavy or banded end of a nightcrawler and thread a medium size hook about two inches down through the end and leave the barb of the hook covered. This makes your nightcrawler semi weedless, less snags and most important the live loose wiggling action will attract larger fish.

You know it's a great thrill when that boy or girl of yours takes their first fish. To help them along have them follow this basic method: Don't use a hook larger than the fishes mouth their trying to catch. Most panfish have a mouth no larger than a dime.

Don't use a bobber or float that a small fish can't easily pull under the surface. Too large a bobber resists the fish and they'll drop the bait.

Clamp a small weight about six inches above the hook and heavy enough only to hold the float upright and keep the bait off bottom and snag free.

I've watched a lot of kids fishing along stream banks and ponds, and almost every time their hook and bobber are too darn big for the size of fish they hope to catch. Don't worry about using a small hook, with it they can land a fish up to 10 pounds and bigger. Ask your dealer to recommend proper size equipment. They'll be glad to help.



Reynoldsburg vs Urbana

ONE OF THE underrated players in the Ohio Capital Conference is Reynoldsburg's Bob Beasley. Here's a big Bob (35) laying one in and up against Urbana last Saturday in the Raider's losing battle. Back of Bob is Charles Ratcliff (42) and the Urbana player is Charles Justice (34). (Reynoldsburg - Urbana photos by Ed Kiernan.)

AAA 'Fuel Gauge' Reinstituted

In view of uncertain gasoline supplies, AAA is again issuing its "Fuel Gauge Report" weekly, which reported conditions at the pump for 13 weeks last summer. The Columbus Auto Club is participating in the gathering of information for this report. Both major and independent gas stations along major travel routes are tallied in this composite national check which includes Hawaii. From the compilation of Jan. 15 the following pattern emerges:

–Only 51 per cent of the 2,331 gasoline stations contacted for this Fuel Gauge Report on gasoline availability are pumping fuel after 7 p.m.

–61 per cent of the stations surveyed are selling gas after 5 p.m. on Saturdays, but most are closing pumps about 6:30 p.m.; 15 per cent are open part of the day on Sundays; 2 per cent were out of fuel when contacted, although gasoline is generally available throughout the country.

–17 per cent of the stations are limiting purchases to customers, mainly by restricting sales from $2 to $5, or 10 gallons. The greatest amount of limiting purchases was found to occur in Arizona, Florida, New York, New Jersey and the District of Columbia area.

Most stations on all but one of the turnpikes checked are limiting gasoline purchases from a low of $1 worth to a high of 10 gallons. Only the Ohio Turnpike reported no limits on gasoline purchases, but listed diesel fuel purchase limits at $10. Pumps on the majority of turnpikes are closed from 9 p.m. Saturday to midnight Sunday, with the exception of the New Jersey Turnpike.

The "Fuel Gauge Report" found that the highest average prices for gasoline were being charged in New York City with 52 cents for regular and 56 cents for premium while lowest average prices were noted in Texas at 41 cents for regular, 45 cents for premium.

The AAA said that future "Fuel Gauge Report" surveys would include a greater number of stations and that a breakdown of AAA reports for 10 geographic and individual regions would be included in each release.

Under provisions of the Black Lung Benefits Act of 1972, the U.S. Department of Labor's Employment Standards Administration on July 1, 1973, became responsible for all new claims of miners for black lung compensations.

Energy Clinic Topic

Techniques which can be employed immediately to conserve energy in schools will be the major focus of a clinic in Columbus, January 28, sponsored by the Council of Educational Facility Planners, International.

Ben E. Graves, clinic coordinator and president of the Council, said the clinic will also help school administrators and school plant personnel understand how to protectively close down structures on a temporary basis and how to expand energy conservation measures into the total community.

Ohio Superintendent of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex, who is president of the Council of Chief State School Officers, will address the clinic. He will be joined by four experts in energy conservation and school design.

The clinic will be held at the Fawcett Center for Tomorrow on the Ohio State University campus from 8 a.m. to 3:15 p.m.

Invited to the clinic have been all school superintendents in Ohio and educational facility planners and architects from the Great Lakes region.

Over 200 participants are expected to attend.

Local Police Spend 852 Hours In School

By KATHY DEVANEY

Columbus--A Columbus Police Officer is required to take 852 hours of instruction before being sworn in, as well as spending 200 hours in on-the-job training.

The first half of training at the Police Academy, 2609 McKinley Ave., is strict military--a totally controlled atmosphere with the cadets under very close supervision, according to Sgt. Larry Mead, who heads the Cadet Division which is in charge of the cadets. Courtesy and discipline are also emphasized in this first 10-week period. The classroom atmosphere remains intact but outside of class cadets are strictly controlled.

The second phase the Academy uses the guidance method approach. The atmosphere is toned down and cadets take over the operation of the class outside the classroom for the final 12 weeks of training. The men become responsible for all formations (roll call, physical training, raising the flag). The responsibility for this is rotated so everyone in the class is put in a command position and is responsible for discipline and getting the class where it is supposed to be, he said.

"THIS METHOD attempts to get them ready to move from the strict, controlled, military setting of the academy to street duty. The Police Department is a semi-military organization which means discipline is not as strict but we have to instill self-discipline. The strict discipline makes them decide whether they really want to be a police officer," Mead said.

The men are observed while they are in a command position on their judgment, attitude, tact and ability to deal with others.

Also in this last phase they spend five days on the street in a cruiser as observers to see what it's like and to show them how important the subjects they are learning are. "We can't create these situations in class," Mead said.

There are 10 divisions of training presented to the cadets at the Academy. They are intended to present the fundamentals of modern police work and general knowledge to make the officer a competent and professional policeman.

IN POLICE TRAINING one would expect the cadets to take such courses as the history of policing, firearms policy, rules and regulations, arrest, search and seizure, criminal law, legal phrases and definitions, traffic laws, rules of evidence, the Constitution, court appearance, crime prevention, radio communication, ethics, accident reports, narcotics, riot training, anti-guerrilla tactics and firearms instruction.

But some surprising courses might be psychology, sociology, public speaking, obstetrical emergencies, practical English, spelling, boxing, public relations, handling family disturbances, press relations and the need for informants.

The cadet is also introduced to the Red Cross donor program as a way of helping the citizens of his community.

Cadets attend the Academy from 6:50 a.m.-3:50 p.m. During training they receive patrolman's pay of $4.07 an hour ($8,465.60 a year). After graduation they are assigned to the traffic bureau for five days and for 20 days they are assigned to a coach.

THE COACH IS required to evaluate his man on a weekly basis and then make an overall evaluation recommending that the man be put on, receive more coaching or be retrained. The evaluation is eight pages and covers 33 areas of police work. One of the last questions is "Would you be willing to accept this person as a partner?" and this often happens, according to Mead.

No cadet has ever been sent back to the Academy for retraining, but some have been sent back for very specific subjects such as driving, Mead said.

More people are applying for police officers jobs and taking the civil service test because of the salary and fringe benefits according to Mead. But many are being screened out by the strict discipline at the beginning of training. No one has been dismissed from the current Academy class, although several have resigned he said. The attrition rate has averaged 10 per cent over a period of eight years.

THE ACADEMY not only trains new officers, according to Lt. D. A. Wilson.

In-service training is provided for officers who must come back for 40 hours each year for a refresher course on things that have changed. Classes have been going on since November to explain the new Ohio Revised Code. Classes have been conducted six days a week for the 1,000 officers who have finished the course. The final group will be finished in February (these are men who don't directly enforce the new laws, such as radio operators).

An auxiliary class began Jan. 8. Auxiliary officers receive the same training as cadets only they go two nights a week for eight or nine months.

The second school for detectives begins Jan. 14.

Special training was also given to 12 civilian radio technicians which will free police officers for other duty. Civilian guards are also being added to the jail bureau for the same reason, he said.

The Academy has also trained officers for other governmental entities such as Grove City, Whitehall, Clinton Township, Westerville, Upper Arlington and Wilmington, Ohio.

The teaching staff is supplemented by other officers from divisions within the police department who teach such things as the illegal aspects of vice, juvenile delinquency and traffic patrol procedures. There are also speakers from the FBI and Arson Bureau.

The present Academy, headed by Capt. Robert L. Ruddock, was built in 1965. Prior to 1965 the Academy was in the City Hall annex and prior to that in headquarters.

The first recorded class was in 1940 and they received six weeks training. Since January, 1971 there have been 471 cadets who have entered the school.

Board Urges Rescinding Daylight Savings Time

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Staff Writer

Columbus--The Columbus School Board made more progress in its building program at its Jan. 22 regular meeting. The Board also urged the General Assembly to rescind Daylight Savings Time during part of the school year so that the children would not have to walk to school in the dark.

First on the list of building matters was the Metropolitan Career Center. The board approved plans for the $5.2 million center which is to be located on a 49 acre tract of land at the old Fort Hayes military installation. The initial plans were drawn up by Dan A. Carmichael, architect, and his consultant, C. William Brubaker of Perkins and Will.

The master plan was accepted by the advisory committee for the Metropolitan Career Center before approval was asked. The board also had an opportunity to view the proposed center in detail at its Jan. 15 Committee of the Whole Meeting.

THIS PASSAGE authorizes the Development Office to proceed with bidding for demolition, filling and grading as specified by the Master Plan. It also authorizes Carmichael to proceed with the development of preliminary drawings of Phase I vocational-career projects which is the first building phase of the center.

Other building passage concerned Linmoor Junior High, Monroe Junior High, Linden Park Elementary Developmental Learning Center, Beechcroft-161 area Junior-Senior High School and expansion of Fifth Avenue Elementary School site.

All were passage of accepted drawings except the Fifth Avenue site which was a purchase of land matter.

Contracts totalling $511,790 were also awarded for addition and remodeling work at Sherwood Junior High School, 1400 Shady Lane Rd.

THE GENERAL and electrical contract went to Cooper Construction Company on a bid of $334,690 and the heating, ventilating and air conditioning contract to T. and G. Plumbing Incorporated with a bid of $177,100.

The Sherwood project included the construction of a two-story addition housing eight classrooms, the conversion of existing space into a new library-learning center, a new art room and a new clothing laboratory. Also included is additional storage space. The project also provides for the air-conditioning of perimeter classrooms and the auditorium.

The board urged the General Assembly to rescind Daylight Savings Time during part of the school year in a resolution introduced by board member Thomas Moyer. In the resolution the board also voiced disapproval to a proposed House Bill which would "remove from the school districts in the State of Ohio the authority to set the beginning time of the school day by establishing 9 a.m. as the earliest beginning time for pupils in grades K-through eight."

Also in the resolution "we the Columbus Board of Education urge the members of the General Assembly of Ohio and particularly Representatives Bauman, Hale, Hughes, Kopp, Norris, Stinziano and Pemberton, and Senators Gray, O'Shaughnessy and Woodland to oppose H.B. 1044 in its present form and any other bill which may be introduced with a similar purpose."

IN OTHER ACTION the board approved the appointment of Donald Love as the "Supervisor of Legal Services" for the board. Love will be a full time attorney for the board at an annual salary of $19,000.

In the past the school system has used attorneys from the City Attorney's office for routine legal work. It was explained that services may still be sought by the board from the City Attorney's office but as Ellis said, "this enables us to have someone work consistently with the board."

Love is a former teacher, counselor and administrator in the Pupil Personnel Department for the Columbus School System. He resigned from school service a year ago to enter private practice.

Also approved was the hiring of Mrs. Beverly Gifford who will replace Joe Ashley who resigned last fall as public information director for the board. She will begin work Feb. 11.

The board also approved the purchase of liability insurance for board members. This insurance is a continuance of insurance already subscribed to by the board. The policy was purchased from the Republic-Franklin Insurance Company for $140 per year for the entire board.

Madison Drive To Pass Bond Issue Well On Way

By ELSIE V. WEAVER

Groveport--A Dutch Treat dinner meeting at Madison-Groveport High School Tuesday, Jan. 22 was the kick-off for a concerted effort of the entire Madison school district and Groveport community to pass a school bond issue March 19. Guests were community business leaders.

A filmstrip developed by adminstrative personnel was presented by Ray Seelinbinder, who was in charge of the meeting. It pointed out the student housing problems of the district and the solutions which will be effected by the bond issue's passage.

It has been five years since a building program has been approved in the district and in that period of time the school population has grown by 2,217 children. Half-time schedules are presently in force in all grades from the sixth grade up.

ELEMENTARY schools will all go into half-day sessions next fall.

The filmstrip pointed out that students on half-day sessions are losing educational time that will never be regained again. They and their teachers are finding that they do not have enough time to learn some subjects well, especially math. Younger students have a half day without supervision. There is also a certain amount of loss of cultural values for all.

High school students are not able to take some of the courses they need to enter college. They also will find out later, Seelinbinder avows, that they are losing potential earning power and are unable to compete with people with fulltime education.

OPERATION CATCH UP is the name given to the building plans to eliminate crowding and half-day sessions. The details of Operation Catch Up are as follows: construct a new middle school in the Blacklick Estates area and in the Groveport area; construct a new elementary school on a site to be determined at a later date; construct classroom additions to the Glendening and Sedalia Elementary Schools; construct an addition to Groveport-Madison High School and an addition to the school bus service garage; remodel certain areas in the present middle school in Groveport and complete minor remodeling in the present Groveport Elementary School; purchase sites for the three new schools to be constructed with the proceeds

Winners At Art Show

AT THE EASTLAND Mall High School Art Show last weekend, entries from 12 East area schools were shown and many ribbons awarded. Here at the left, Peter Cooper, Bexley High School art instructor and Doug Wyman, Bexley High School Art Club president, admire the second place entry in the clay division done by John Patten, of Bexley High School. It is a framed bas relief sculpture. The complete list of ribbon winners will be listed in next week's Spectator. Edward Kitchen, Groveport-Madison High School, was the chairman of the show and the Bexley High School art department manned the show's information booth.

THE HAPPY ARTISTS with first place ribbons are Debbie Dremten, left, and Kay Simon, right. Debbie, a senior at Walnut Ridge High School, won first place in the graphics division of the second annual High School Art Show, held last Friday, Saturday and Sunday at Eastland Mall. Her work is an embossed design, which because of its subtle shadows and low relief does not show in a photograph. It was produced by soaking water color paper overnight, placing the paper over a design of layers of cut cardboard and running it through an etching press. Kay, also a Walnut Ridge senior, entered a lidded pot which she "threw on the wheel," or made on a potter's wheel. The cream-colored pot shown won first place in the ceramics division of the show.

The drive to bring about the passage of the bond issue is called the Parent's March To Victory. Meetings of the type held last week are scheduled for parents' groups in small geographical areas. The OPSE, non-certified personnel of the school district, will help get information on the bond issue to the non-parent public. Dexter Blais is OPSE president.

There will be a campaign for voter registration. In one school area a check revealed only 40 per cent of the parents were registered.

SUPT. PHILIP WILLIAMS suggested that people write or call their state legislators to ask that state income taxes be released to help build schools. He also asked that citizens having questions on the matter may call the administrative offices, 836-5371.

The Parent's March To Victory will cost about $3,000, estimated Williams, and he said the money cannot come from school district's funds. By the end of the evening, contributions in the amount of $1,114 had been received. $614 came from businessmen and $500 from the Madison Local Education Association.

Contributions to the bond issue drive may be sent to Robert Wiessinger, treasurer of the Madison Local PTA-PTO Council, 5055 S. Hamilton Rd., Groveport, Ohio 43125.

The PTA sponsored the show which enjoyed its second year as a separate event in the school. PICTURED ARE four OSU doctors who received a total of $90,000 for research and research fellowships in lung diseases from Christmas Seal funds. They are holding a mock check representing the money given by the Central Ohio Lung Association and the American Lung Association. Left to right are, Dr. Herbert Grodner , Whitehall; Dr. Yash Pal Kataria, Reynoldsburg; Dr. Michael Altman, Upper Arlington, and Dr. Evan Dixon, Grandview.

Get Check For Lung Research

Whitehall--Dr. Herbert Grodner, 1095 Fountain Ln., Whitehall, is one of four Ohio State University doctors to receive research and fellowship monies for lung disease research from Christmas Seal dollars. A total of $60,000 of local and national monies was presented recently by the Central Ohio Lung Association, formerly the Tuberculosis Society, to further the organization's work in lung diseases.

Dr. Grodner, a research fellow in pulmonary diseases at OSU, received a fellowship grant from the Central Ohio Lung Association totaling $12,000. The money was provided by Christmas Seal contributions.

Dr. Grodner is working on how the air flows in and out of the airways. He is studying the speeds and relationships of air flow to the generation of breath sounds as it relates to what is heard through the stethescope. The purpose of the study is to facilitate better diagnosis of abnormal breath sounds.

A full 81 per cent of the local Christmas Seal monies stays and works in Central Ohio for local programs and research. Ten per cent goes towards national programs and research, and the remainder stays in the state organization for state-wide programs.

The research and fellowship funds are awarded annually at Christmas time. The money comes from the previous year's campaign. Next year, however, less money may be available for needed local programs and research. The reason? The Central Ohio Lung Assoc. is $36,000 or 21 per cent behind the January 1972 totals. If the campaign remains at this percentage, the Central Ohio Lung Assoc. will close $85,000 below the 1972 campaign, failing to meet its goal of $275,000.

The local drop in contributions is following a national trend in all Christmas Seal campaigns this year.

Anyone who has not sent in their Christmas Seal donation can do so now or at any time during the year. Those who have already given are asked to send an extra dollar or two to help in local and national lung disease research and programs. All donations will be greatly appreciated. Send them to The Central Ohio Lung Assoc.ation, 185 South Fifth St., Columbus, Ohio 43215.

In Military Wife Contest

Whitehall--Mrs. Diane Gillig has been selected the United States Air Force Recruiting Detachment 514's nominee for Military Wife of the Year for 1974.

A native of Tiffin, Ohio, Mrs. Gillig is married to Captain Michael G. Gillig. He is assigned to United States Air Force Recruiting Detachment 514, which is headquartered at DCSC. The responsibility for the southern half of Ohio and sections of Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia.

MRS. DIANE GILLIG pictured with her two daughters, Laura, 3, and Julie, two months, is the United States Air Force Recruiting Detachment 514's nominee for Military Wife of the Year for 1974. The detachment is headquartered at Defense Construction Supply Center.

In her senior year at Ohio State University, Mrs. Gillig has been selected for her community relations activities during the past year. A speech and hearing major, she has voluntarily worked with two deaf people during the past year. During this same period she has made numerous visits to a senior citizen's home in Columbus. Earlier in the year she helped organize a Valentine's party at the Ohio School for the Deaf.

Mrs. Gillig is active in the National Student Speech and Hearing Association and is currently the treasurer of the Ohio State University chapter of this organization.

In addition to her speech and hearing activities, Mrs. Gillig is mother to two daughters, Laura, 3, and Julie, two months. She also manages to find time for hobbies such as cooking, knitting and reading.

Reviving A Victorian Craft

Two area senior citizens, Edna Kellewr and Elsie Gesch, will be featured in a china painting demonstration at the Golden Hobby Shop on Friday, Feb. 1, 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Elsie Gesch, now 81 years old, learned to paint china when she was 12 years old. She was unable to pursue her hobby for 50 years, but is now actively involved in arts and crafts activities and classes in senior citizens centers. She will demonstrate the craft at Asbury Methodist Church, Now-Bixby Rd. at Winchester Pk., on March 5.

Mrs. Keller has done her skilled china painting only on imported bone china. Special favorites are her miniature scenes down from antique greeting cards.

Many pieces of handpainted china are displayed and offered for sale at the Golden Hobby Shop, a nonprofit consignment shop for senior citizens' handicrafts, operated by the Columbus Recreation and Parks Department at 906 E. Broad St. Anyone interested is invited to attend the china painting program Feb. 1.

AROUND TOWN

Restaurants Offer Values

After attending a press briefing conducted by Richard J. Harman, president of the National Restaurant Association and Dave Beck, president of the Ohio State Restaurant Association, I discovered that eating out is one of the best consumer's buys today. Harman pointed out that a restaurant meal is a better buy today than in 1967.

August of 1973 showed an increased of at-home food prices of 18.3 per cent compared to only 3.6 per cent for food purchased in a restaurant.

Harman said that restaurant sales in Ohio showed a 17 per cent gain for 1973, with about 8 per cent of this gain due to inflation.

Food service operators are highly motivated to hold the line on prices because price is a volatile issue with restaurant customers. Cutting quality is widely viewed as self defeating, according to Harman.

He further explained the industry is becoming more creative, and is doing a better job of merchandising entrees that can be served for lower costs. Also, the industry has discovered that serving a smaller portion is not upsetting most customers.

So, it's like I have been telling you, not only will you enjoy yourself by dining out, for a family of two, three and even four, it is really cheaper. Also, according to Dave Beck, dining out saves energy, because more meals can be prepared by a restaurant, than each of you doing the same thing at home.

Dine out, have fun, save money and energy too. Here are two fine places to dine out this week Around Town, The Kingswood Inn Motel and Farrell's Ice Cream Parlour.

Divine Food

It has been a while since I have told you about the food at the Kingswood Inn Motel. George Dill, the new manager for the past several months has made many improvements at the Dublin Road Motel. It is very difficult for me to believe that one can improve on a good thing. But, George has done just that at the Kingswood Inn.

The restaurant has been one of my personal dining spots. Now, it is even more so.

The first thing that George has done was to hire Bill Bell as the Maitre D'. This man has over fifty years in the business, working at some of the most well known restaurants in the country. Bill has worked at the Jai Lai. Flaming dishes at your table, Caesar Salads and Chateaubriand are only a few of his specialities. Bill has his own special methods in preparing these items.

Since Bill is an expert, I decided to give him the test. First I had the Caesar Salad. Now, my friends, I have tasted some good ones Around Town, but Bill's was the best of all of them. No doubt about it. The flavor was perfect.

Next, George recommended the Filet Mignon. This, too, was perfect, very juicy and seculent. In fact, I believe this rates as one of the finest you will find.

After being pleasantly stuffed, Bill came by and ask if I cared for Peach Flambe or Irish coffee for dessert. After experiencing works of art with the Caesar Salad, I really had a difficult time deciding. So, Bill made me one of each. The Peach Flambe was the best I ever had at any restaurant in the country. I can still savor this taste treat. It contained just the proper amount of brandy to give it punch, yet not being over-bearing. The Irish coffee was another masterpiece by Bill.

Now, don't get me wrong, it doesn't take a ton of money to walk into the Kingswood Inn. And, there is a rather large variety to choose from, in case you don't care for gourmet type food. However, if this is your taste buds' desire, they will be well pleased.

The exterior of the place is a real fooler. The interior is exquisite. So is the food. My hat is off to honor George Dill, his entire staff, and of course a special honor to Bill Bell.

It all happens at the Kingswood Inn Motel. To me dining there is not a treat, it is an epicurean experience.

Ice Cream-Capades

Bang! Slam! Blast! Fanfare!

Sirens wail, drums beat, trumpets blare, people sing and shout. No, it is not the Eighth Wonder of the world, a Cecil B. DeMille premiere or a Woody Hayes team scoring another touchdown. It's another giant Zoo Sundae being raced through the crowd to my table, at Farrell's Ice Cream Parlour Restaurant. It is so wild you have to see it to believe it. That's true for both the Zoo Sundae and Farrell's Ice Cream Parlour.

A safari of singing, shouting waiters accompany the Zoo to my table. It is so big that it took two men to carry it. Their knees practically sag under the nine flavors of Farrell's famous ice cream, five toppings, immense portions of cherries, almonds and bananas. Served in a silver bowl, the Zoo is sight that you have never seen before, no matter where you have traveled in this world. The several hundred customers in the parlour were almost speechless when they saw this huge ice cream sundae. Designed at serve eight to ten people, my party of three hardly made a dent in it. And, we ate and ate and ate. It was so darn good, you just couldn't put it down. This is ture with all of the Farrell's Ice Cream dishes.

Farrell's is a happy explosion of pre-planned spontaneity from the minute you walk in the door. It lasts long after you leave the place. Everything about Farrell's spells fun and excitement.

Just reading the menu if fun. Try a Tropical Delight, a Sooper Double Double Soda, a Gibson Girl and many other items, including the flagship of Farrell's fleet of fantastic fountain fantasies, The American Beauty Banana Split.

Though Farrell's is famous for ice cream, nearly half of its business is food, fabulous fares from a hungry giant's Gastronomical delicatessen-epicureandelight to a kiddie's Hangerber Samich.

Farrell's offers a bit of nostalgia, Tiffany Lamps, cushioned Bentwood chairs, Gobson Girls, player pianos and barbershop songs, straw skimmers and red-vested singing waiters all combine to give the customer a happy, fun feeling at Farrell's.

Farrell's is an eye-popping world of fantasy, for young an old. In fact, when you walk out, you'll feel like a kid again. That's Farrell's Ice Cream Parlour.

Skipping Around Town

This is the finale week for the McCalmont Express at the Holiday Inn-OSU. This is one fine group that I feel you will enjoy. Leader Judy McCalmont is a singer's singer. In the first floor lounge, The Middlemen are founding out the last week also. The Holiday Inn-OSU is the place to go for fun, excitement and good food...I enjoyed a fime meal the other night at the Dell Restaurant. The singing waiters and waitressess are a real treat. Their music blend in well with the atmosphere and the food. While I was there rather early, I know you will have a ball even later in the evening.

Drop in for a drink or two, and experience some different and very good entertainment. Be sure to read next week's column for a complete review on the food at the Dell Restaurant...The Ramada Inn East through a bash last Sunday to welcome everyone to their first Sunday of liquor. Now, Ramada Inn-East will swing with top entertainment on Sunday nights just like Ramada Inn-North. One of my favorite gals at Ramada Inn-East is Front Office Manager, Suzy, Miss Personality Pluss. Another one is Adrienne, the supervisor of the cocktail waittresses. This gal is sharp and the same is true for her staff...For the time of your life, be sure you stop in at the Rendezvous Room. Their good is good, I love the atmosphere and the Dick Wolford Show is worth the trip. That's especially true if you like country and western music. The Rendezvous Room is the only place in town with a singing bartender...Several new acts in town next week, be sure to read Around Town to find out where you want to go for fun and excitement.

HERE ARE JUST a few of the many types of Sundaes served at Farrell's Ice Cream Parlour, located in the Graceland Shopping Center. Opening yesterday, Farrell's serves are kinds of ice cream and offers a wide variety of sandwiches.

THE SHIRLEY Lewellyn Duo with the well known Vic Perdora are currently entertaining the crowds at the fabulous Michael's in Grove City. Shirley and Vic appear Wednesday through Saturday, playing music for your dancing and listening.

BILLY BROWN
featuring SAMANTHA LEE
APPEARING NIGHTLY - WESTERN MOTELS
LINCOLN LODGE 4950 W BROAD

Billy Brown is performing at the Lincoln Lodge 4950 W. Broad. For a one man act Billy Brown has to be about the best in Columbus.

His performance is sprinkled with earthly jokes and banter with the audience. He has a repollection of many Country and Blue Songs written in the past 30 years.

In 1959 Billy Brown did the original recording of "He'll Have To Go" for Columbia Records. It rose to No. 1 in many cities but according to Brown at this time Jim Reeves also recorded it in the same style and Reeves recording became one of the biggest Country Hits ever.

Billy Brown a Country - Western Singer and Guitarist from Florida has been engaged for a six week contract at Lincoln Lodge.

He is drawing the largest crowds to the Lounge since it started with the Billy Brown Show entertaining with the up - town Country - Western Sound.

Brown's newest record has just been released on Big M Records-"Thank You Darling" and "Country Boy" Brown performance features versitility, personality and ad-lib humor in addition to a repertoire which includes yodelling, impersonations of Johnny Cash, Elvis Presley, Gene Autry, Eddie Arnold, Charlie Rich and Walter Brennan. He sings "Cool Clear Water" in the styles of various singers.

For an enjoyable and relaxing evening filled with pleasant fun, the Lounge at Lincoln Lodge is recommended.

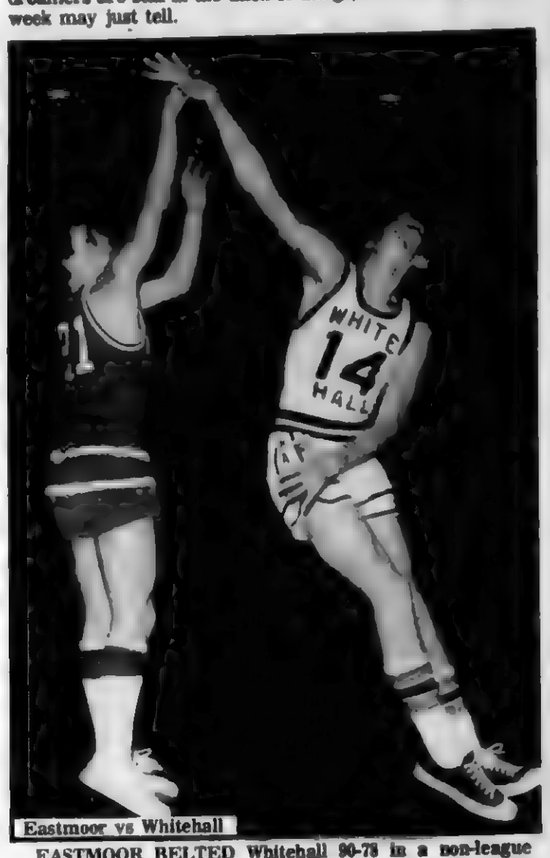
Title Hopefuls Face Week Of Decision

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Spectator Sports Writer

It all started last November, in that sweaty high school gym, those title aspirations that we are talking about. And oh how everyone spoke carefully, but sneakingly confident about having some shot at that league title.

Well, its not autumn anymore, no leaves on the trees, it even gets cold outside once in a while. But the major difference now, is only a couple of those championship dreamers are still in the thick of things, for how long, next week may just tell.



Eastmoor vs Whitehall

EASTMOOR BELTED Whitehall 90-78 in a non-league game Saturday pitting City League and Ohio Capital Conference powers. Tim Kauffman (21) puts the lid on two points here showing Whitehall defender Wayne Buck (14) what City League basketball is all about. Eastmoor's Brian Stertzer was the games leading scorer with 34 points while Whitehall's Terry Burris canned 31. (Eastmoor-Whitehall photo by Craig Weaver)

YES, ITS down where the going gets tough and if the tough don't get going, they'll get going in another direction, probably right out of the door, not even getting the faintest whiff of that title treasure.

There is that famed City League circuit, still in doubt of course, and now it looks like the best shot for the marbles may belong to co-leaders Mohawk and Northland.

Northland fresh from its 76-72 zapping of Eastmoor and Mohawk healthy after its 91-79 laugher over North now have only a pair of losses each. That Eastmoor loss now drops the titles hopes of the Warriors far behind unless, well unless the old unexpected comes and plays a little trick on us.

THEN IT could be really messy up front in the CL as three losses constituting a crown could possibly have four teams involved. It's not likely that Mohawk has plans for any more losses as the Indians prepare for West Friday night while Northland takes on lowly North.

The Ohio Capital Conference is a bit more interesting if you like "maybes, should ofs and would ofs" as Whitehall had to survive a Westerville scare last week before subduing the Cats 69-61.

THAT GIVES the Rams a half game spread over Mt. Vernon, a narrow 65-55 victor over improving Reynoldsburg. Even though Mt. Vernon will take it easy at Delaware Friday, those Yellow Jackets can't forget that make-up game with third place Worthington, a clever six-point victor over Gahanna last week, that takes place in the homely town of Mt. Vernon Tuesday, Feb. 5.

And don't think for one minute that these Pat Manion coached Worthington cagers think that they are out of title contention with only three losses compared to two each for front runner Whitehall and trailer Mt. Vernon. A Worthington victory at Mt. Vernon and a Whitehall slip could jumble things three ways in this funny OCC.

THE TOUGH did come through in the clutch for Whitehall, Terry Brurris canning an important three point play in the last period sparking the Rams over frisky Westerville.

"What you need at this point of the season is someone coming off of the bench and doing a good job like Wayne (Buck) did last week," were the words of Whitehall mentor Russ Gregg, Russ, with Terry Burris, who needs subs?

While the other two big leagues continue to fight it out how about the class AA dominated Central Catholic League and those fighting St. Charles cagers? Watterson turned out to be not as invincible as all thought as St. Charles turned a quick 66-51 number on the flying Eagles (grounded perhaps) and tightened up that CCL race up a bit.

NEXT WEEK Watterson tries to regroup at DeSales while St. Charles goes to Ready and Wehrle to Hartley. Hartley with only two losses, gets another shot at Watterson, trying to shake that title run up a bit.

Most likely to win the classic of all classic preseason statements is Bexley boss Gene Millard. The classy former Ohio State cage star didn't figure his Lions to have much of a chance in the Mid-Eight dogfight this season, a rebuilding year for Bexley's roundball program.

Well, you guessed it, the swift Lions a narrow but good as gold winner over Urbana last week now share that top slot with Urbana.

And its probably a combination of things that make these Bexleyans go, starting with senior captain Marc Abramson, a smooth Millard like floor general. Mark Liefeld, not towering at 6-4, roams inside, cashing for 17 against Urbana while unexpected help from Phil Wright come in handy, 19 points of it last week, to round things out.

OTHER STARS of note last week on the high school scene included Brian Stertzer, 19 points, Steve Manning 12 and Pete Liptrap 14 in Eastmoor's losing cause and Hilton Hale for a super performance, 32 points worth, for his East playmates in their pounding of troubled Walnut Ridge.

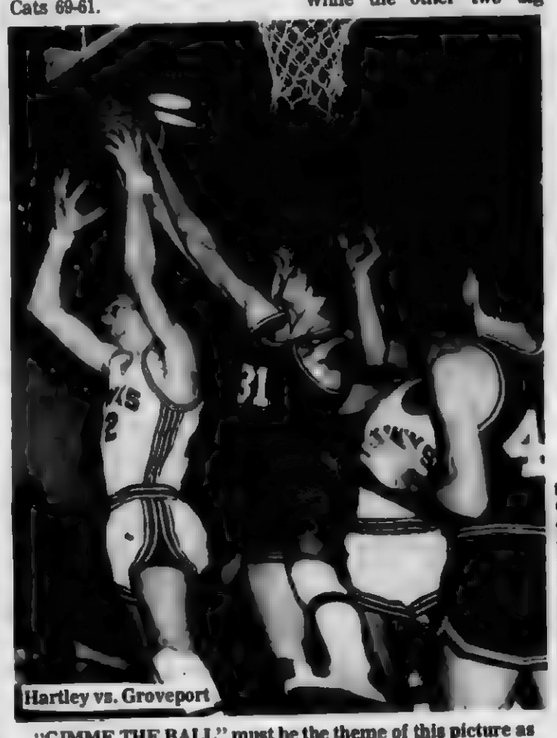
Catholic League breadwinners where Mark Hausfeld and Tim Carlisle in St. Charles' supriser and Ron White and Mike Gilliland for their neat play in Hartley's win over Ready.

Special OCCers include Ed Williams of Reynoldsburg with 20 points and Don Brough with 20 in helping save the day for Worthington. Greg Spellman was sure as ever with 20 for Westland, while Bill Besalski and Benton Tedlie helped Burris clip Westerville.

SHORTS--A recently released list of Who's Who in National High School Athletics includes JOHN BOGANWHRIGHT of Columbus North High...BEWARE, for tournament fever is on its way.

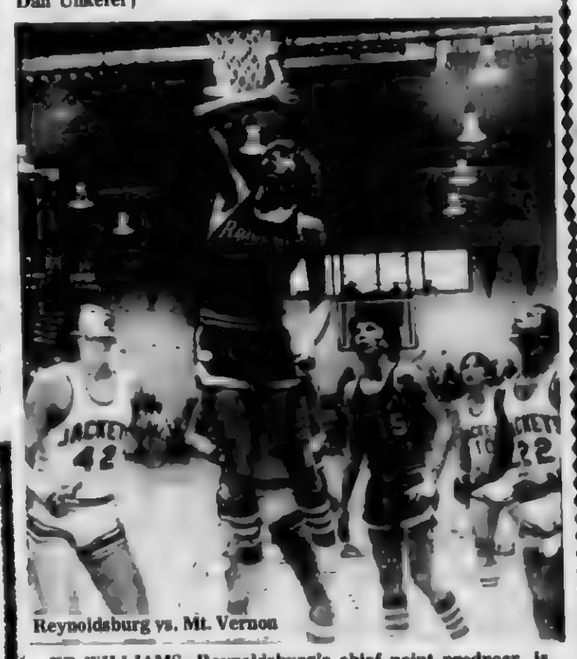
OWN A CAR

Two out of every three households in center cities own a car.



Hartley vs. Groveport

"GIMME THE BALL" must be the theme of this picture as six Hartley and Groveport cagers battle for this carom off of the backboard. Rich Hartman (31) of Groveport and Dave Profera (only 2 visible on his jersey) look to have the best chance of gaining possession. (Hartley-Groveport photo by Dan Unkefer)



Reynoldsburg vs. Mt. Vernon

Beat The Season For Bass

Did you ever throw common sense to the wind after that long winter, just pick up your fishing gear and head out to your favorite bass lake? I do it every year just as soon as the ice breaks up. My wife thinks I've popped my cork when I have to wear long-johns, heavy jacket and rain gear to go fishing.

I checked my notes for the past couple of years and found most of my bigger bass were taken during early spring when it was plenty cold and I was wearing a jacket.

This doesn't mean you won't land a lunker bass in August wearing a t-shirt when it's hot, but the odds are in your favor that you'll take more and bigger bass during early spring when they're hungry and begin to feed after their winter snooze.

If you've an avid angler you can begin bass fishing in central Ohio in March, but when February rolls around I can't wait to get out so I spent a couple of dollars on one of those inexpensive water thermometers found in most sporting goods stores. I learned that largemouth bass begin to feed when water temperatures reach 50-55 degrees, and smallmouth bass begin to feed about 40-45 degrees.

My next problem was to find water te temperatures warm enough for bass to begin feeding. I could go to Florida, but it isn't practical or economical for just a weekend when you live in Columbus, Ohio.

Most of your local newspapers print air temperatures in other cities, so I would wait till I found a warm spell of a couple of days south of my home town and head out in that direction with water thermometer in hand. I found a distance of 50 to 100 miles you might drive can make a big difference in water temperatures, the arrival of spring and an opportunity to beat the season for bass.

Navy Offices Relocated

Two U.S. Navy commands located in downtown Columbus, held "open house" last week to show off their new facilities at 300 S. Third St.

The ribbon cutting was accomplished by Ken Kabelka, President of the Columbus Council of the Navy League.

The two commands are Navy Recruiting Area Four which was formerly located in the old Federal Building, 85 Marconi, and Navy Recruiting District, Columbus which had offices at 74 E. Gay.

The Area Four command, which is headed by Capt. K.E. Cornell, has five districts which cover all or part of six states. One of the Districts is Columbus, commanded by Lieutenant Commander J.W. Shelton, which includes central and southern Ohio and several bordering counties in Indiana and Kentucky.

Scattered throughout the District are 29 "local" recruiting stations.

17,000 Receive Good As Gold Card

With more than a week remaining in the month long registration for the Good As Gold reduced fare bus card, more than 17,000 senior citizens had already received their cards.

Officials of the Central Ohio Transit Authority (COTA) said registrations will end at the Columbus Senior Citizens Centers as scheduled Jan. 31. However, a mobile unit will visit other locations between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. on the following schedule.

Feb. 5, Hillside House of First Community Village at 1800 Riverside Dr.; Feb. 8, Wesley Glen at 5155 N. High; Feb. 12, Worley Terrace at 79 S. Central; Feb. 14, Stafford Village at 814 Hartford St., Worthington; Feb. 18, Reynoldsburg Senior Citizens Center, Blacklick Metropolitan Park, Beach Maple Lodge; Feb. 20, Bexley Recreation Center at Jeffry Mansion, 165 N. Parkview; and Feb. 28, Gahanna Senior Citizen Center, Mifflin Presbyterian Church. Some locations will be open for two days. Check the one nearest you for details.

A permanent registration location is being maintained at Cota Transit System Offices, 10 W. Long St.

Ardath Lynch, director of the Council on Aging, complimented the many volunteers who have donated literally thousands of hours in helping with the registrations. "We also want to thank our Senior Citizens who have been so patient while waiting to have their photos taken and cards produced," she said.

Thompson A. Nooner, resident manager of the COTA Transit System, said estimates were that about 15,000 cards would be issued in January with a total of about 20,000 by year's end. "We now think we will issue nearly 22,000 cards in January and total about 35,000 by December of this year."

Nooner also said there is evidence the Good As Gold cards are being used frequently by their owners. "While we have done no official research as yet, drivers report an increase in non-rush hour senior citizen riders."

The manager also cautioned card holders to protect their cards from loss or use by other persons. The original cards are free to owners through a grant by The Columbus Foundation, but a replacement will cost the owner one dollar.

Goodwill Still Needs Clothing

As a result of the Goodwill clothing drive held Jan. 19, 903 bags of clothing, 104 bags of household goods and 42 pieces of furniture were collected. Also, because of the amount of publicity received, Goodwill has increased the amount of goods coming in through home pick-ups and their collection boxes.

Goodwill would like to thank the public for their generosity, but remind everyone that a need still exists for additional clothing and household goods. The drive will continue this Saturday, Feb. 2, from 10-3 at the same five locations (Northland, Bill Swad American Motors, Gold Circle-West Broad, Olentangy and Hamilton Road) plus an additional truck will be at the Gold Circle Store on Morse Rd.

DR. LOWELL MECHLER, Bexley doctor who specializes in internal medicine, admires the interior of his "rolling hospital," which he and many of his friends have built into the body of a second-hand school bus, and which will be given to an African community. Completely repainted outside, it also has been refinished entirely inside: ceilings, sidewalls, floors. Venetian blinds shield the inside from the hot sun and provide privacy. The examination table can also be used for X-raying. The X-ray head is not in place in the picture. The racks on the wall will hold X-ray plates for chest X-rays. On the ledge at the right, microscopes and other lab analysis equipment will be used. A corner of the sink is shown, lower left; also seen, right, is the corner of the room set aside for the portable generator and chemical toilet. At left, rear of the bus, will be the X-ray dark room, where film will be developed. (Photo by Elsie Weaver)

'Rolling Clinic' Leaves Soon For Africa

By ELSIE V. WEAVER

Bexley-Some doctors take to the woods for fishing on their summer vacation; some go to Florida or Canada, or drive through the West with their families. Some go to Europe on de luxe tours, first class all the way. But one Bexley doctor, Dr. Lowell Mechler, with the late Dr. William McCormick went on his vacation the summer of 1971 to the East African country of Kenya, and worked in a hospital with the natives there.

For six weeks they were a part of the American Doctor Program, medical volunteers, working in a small hospital at Maseno, near Lake Victoria. It did not have much in the way of equipment.

Sometimes they would go out to treatment clinics where patients go who live too far from the hospital. Here the equipment was barely adequate.

There are special health problems in this area of Africa. The people use untreated water from Lake Victoria and since it contains many parasites, its use causes many illnesses.

Dr. Mechler thought it would be better if medical equipment could be taken to the patients instead of the patients coming to one of the clinics. He also decided to do something about it.

In the fall of 1972 he purchased an old school bus to convert into a complete traveling clinic to be donated to the authorities in the Maseno area. Friends helped repair the engine. Many others helped strip out the seats.

The inside of the bus was completely refurbished. When the equipment purchased for the bus is in place, it will be suitable for physical examinations, electrocardiagrams, X-rays, medication, suturing of wounds, minor surgery and routine lab work.

Ten local people will be going by plane to Kenya, this spring, hoping to arrive about the time of the arrival by boat of the hospital bus. The latter date is not known at this time.

In addition to Dr. Mechler, Dr. Richard Lamprecht, an obstretrician and gynecologist; and Dr. John Schwarzell, a surgeon, two lab technicians, three registered nurses, and two X-ray technicians will prepare to stay in Kenya two weeks, in order to train paramedics and others in the operation of the equipment on the bus.

The group must undergo many injections such as typhus, cholera and typhoid, in addition to those the usual overseas tourist gets. They will have to take medicine to prevent malaria before going, while there and for some time after they return home.

While there the Americans will boil all their water and eat only canned food, which they will buy locally.

Thousands of dollars have already been poured into the humanitarian project by Dr. Mechler and many of his friends. Shipping the bus, the details of which are being taken care of by CARE, would have cost $5100 if it had taken place by Jan. 22. Shipping costs are rising daily, and if the date if some time after March 5, it is expected to run about $6300.

Lutheran Social Services, headed by another friend of the project, the Rev. James Couts, is assuming the responsibility of raising the $6300.

Anyone wishing to contribute, may make a check out to "Lutheran Social Services", and earmark it for "African Relief Bus," and mail to the agency, 57 E. Main St., Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Student Smoking Forum Topic

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Staff Writer

A Columbus School Board and student forum rap session was the feature of the Board of Education's Jan. 29 Committee of the Whole Meeting. Student representatives from 12 high schools discussed subjects ranging from the smoking of cigarettes on school property to just how good an education the students feel they are receiving in their respective schools.

Smoking on school property was the most controversial topic of all, but the students did agree that smoking was a definite problem in the school buildings. One proposed relief for the problem was some type of a smoking lounge somewhere in or outside of the school where smokers could relieve "nicotine fits" and non-smokers could escape the smoke which the students claim is prevalent in most restrooms.

"Patrolling of these areas (areas where smoking occurs) is not done," explained Eastmoor High School junior Rick Ruffin. Ruffin attributed this to the high rate of smoking in the restrooms and explained that one could easily smoke in there without fear of being caught.

BOARD MEMBER Dr. Watson Walker conducted an informal survey among the student participants in the forum to find out how many favored some type of smoking area that was approved by the school administration. Seven opposed such an area while five agreed with it.

Those against had a general feeling that setting up such an area would mean that the school system is condoning smoking and since smoking was proved to be hazardous to one's health, they seemed opposed to such actio 1.

A complaint that the students aired concerning the matter was that the teachers could freely smoke in their lounge and that this was not setting a good example for the students. Although Board President Mrs. Virginia Prentice agreed that this was quite hypocritical, the students were reminded that the teachers are employees of the system.

School Superintendent Dr. John Ellis introduced the question of how good an education the students felt they were getting which brought varied responses from the panel.

Walnut Ridge student Jerry Mayer spoke highly of the education he was receiving at the far east side school but was critical of student teachers (college seniors that tenporarily take over high school classes for experience) saying, "Student teachers tend to be harder and I really don't feel that when I have a student teacher I learn as much." Mayer added that his grades tend to drop when a student teacher had his classes and he suggested the regular teacher be on hand more when the student teacher is teaching the class.

VANITA THOMAS, A Mohawk student in the vocational education program the school system offers said, "Vocational education is the best for me. But I don't feel that education at our school is being emphasized enough."

Ruffin added, "I really feel what I learn, I learn by myself. The majority of the work a teacher assigns is busy work." He later described busy work as work a teacher assigns to give the class something to do, something that has no educational value and something that enabled the teacher to "get out" of presenting material.

Ruffin did say, "There are both ends of the spectrum, though, some teachers are really not putting out while others are just great."

Other problems that the students brought to the attention of the board were people always roaming the ahlls during school hours, (both student and outside visitors) locker room break-ins, buildings, poor lighting, general poor condition of buildings, bad communication between student and

Enough For The 'Little Hurts'

GROVEPORT-In calling for all Madison School District residents to vote for the bond issue at the special election March 19, Madison Elementary School Principal Robert Wiessinger, says, "The 'little hurts' of life are one thing. Often all you need to fix them is a small bandage. But you need more than that to protect your child against the 'big hurts' of life, such as part time schools that can strip him of his opportunity for the advantages of a full time education." Illustrating the fact are, left to right, Mrs. Thomas Herman, applying bandage to a knee of Glenda Sword, with Wiessinger looking on. (Photo by Elsie V. Weaver)

ONE POINT THE board was happy that was not labelled a problem was discipline. Board member Dr. David Hamlar said "this surprises me because discipline is the big problem in junior high."

All of the board and the students echoed feelings of satisfaction in the achievement of the rap session.

The other items on the agenda for the meeting were the showing of plans for the proposed high school on the west side of Columbus and discussion of the building expansion program for Marion Franklin High School.

That old bus sitting in Dr. Merchler's backyard is not just any old retired school bus. It will soon be on its way across thousands of miles of sea and driven hundreds of miles into the plains and plateaus of Africa to help diagnose and treat the ills of untold hundreds of people there, just because one American medical man saw its need and many more also showed they cared.

Special Meeting PTA Scheduled

Whitehall-A special PTA meeting has been called for Monday, Feb. 11 at 7 p.m. at the Whitehall-Yearling High School, according to Mrs. Paul B. Weller.

Hawk Herald
by Karen Kaiser

ON TUESDAY, Feb. 12, at 6:30 p.m., the principal and vice-principal of Bishop Hartley will hold a get-together for parishioners of St. Philip and Our Lady parishes who have children in the DCD religious program, grades seven, eight and nine. This meeting, which will be held in the social hall of St. Philip school, will inform parents about Hartley and answer any questions they may have about the school.

On Jan. 26, Hartley's band presented a Mid-Winter Coffee Concert in the school gym. Under the direction of Mr. Keith Fifer, the thirteen member group presented popular songs from the past fall. During one song, "King of the Road," the Hawkettes, Hartley's majorettes, performed a routine. One of the new practices Mr. Fifer is trying out is to let each senior member direct a number at some concert during the year. At this particular concert, Tim Hopkins directed "Saturday in the Park," while Kevin Lewis led the band in "Photograph." From beginning to end, the concert was thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended.

CONGRATULATIONS go to the Varsity and Reserve basketball teams of the Girls' Athletic Association. Both groups are as of yet undefeated.

THE SUNDAY night Bingos are serving as moneymakers in two different ways. The school profits from the Bingo-playing itself, but each week, different school groups alternate to sell the refreshments. Profit from this sale goes to the working organization of the week. An example of this is the National Honor Society. The money made by this group goes toward the scholarship they will supply to an eighth grader who wishes to attend Hartley next year.

CONGRATULATION goes again to the Hawks for their victory over Wehrle, and best of luck against the Watterson Eagles this week.

Mrs. Howard Willson (Patsy) joined the program in recent ceremonies at the headquarters of the 83rd U.S. Army Reserve Command. Major Larry F. Waltham, Adjutant General of the 83rd Arcom administered the oath of office. Mrs. Willson's sister, Staff Sergeant Carolyn Cheely, left, and Sergeant Major Y.C. Title III Grants Announced

Thirty-three Ohio school districts, including the Columbus City Schools, will share $1.6 million in federal funds to innovate educational concepts and experiment with new educational practices.

Successful projects carried out under ESEA Title III grants (federal funds earmarked for educational innovation) may eventually be adopted nationally according to Superintendent of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex, who announced the 33 grant recipients.

Essex said innovative proposals submitted by the 33 districts were recommended by the Title III State Advisory Council after three independent reviews of each proposal. Some 126 applications for Title III funds had been submitted to the State Department.

Previous Ohio projects have been nationally recognized and are being shared with other schools throughout the country. The National Advisory Council last fall recognized six Ohio Title III projects from the 1972-73 school year for their "contributions to experimentation, creativity and innovation in education."

Projects which have received national recognition are a classroom video taping program for teacher self-evaluation developed by Maumee City Schools; a computerized evaluation model for EMR students prepared by Mentor Exempted Village Schools; curriculum materials for students to learn control of aggressive or destructive behavior developed by Lakewood City Schools; curriculum materials on use and abuse of drugs, alcohol and tobacco prepared by Dayton City Schools; an integrated, pre-school program with parent involvement developed by Cincinnati City Schools; and an assessment plan to discover a pre-school child's learning strengths and weaknesses prepared by Fremont City Schools.

The scope and exact funding of the 1974-75 Title III projects will not be determined until after April 8, the State Department's deadline for submission of final, detailed plans for each project by the 33 districts.

Columbus City Schools presented a program whose purpose is to develop teaching techniques for advancing the academic performance, with emphasis on reading skills, for disadvantaged pre-kindergarten children.

LIEUTENANT Colonel Joseph T. White, the commander of United States Air Force Recruiting Detachment 514, presents the United States Air Force Recruiting Service Plaque to Mr. Anthony Persi, the education officer at Lockbourne Air Force Base.

Air Force Education Officer Honored At LAFB

Since March, 1972 Persi has actively assisted United States Air Force Recruiting Detachment 514. The detachment is headquartered in Columbus and has recruiting responsibility for the southern half of Ohio and sections of Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia.

Persi has traveled extensively throughout the detachment speaking to educators at 24 dinners and luncheons. In order to make these various speaking engagements he has had to constantly rearrange his own work schedule and his teaching schedule. These speeches have been instrumental in persuading the educators to assist the local Air Force recruiters.

Look Younger Than Friends Your Age

Now and then you like to be a step ahead of your friends. You like to set yourself apart from them.

Now you can, in a wonderfully satisfying way. You can look younger than many friends your age, just by easing away skin dryness that accents lines and wrinkles that can make you look older than need be.

Fortunate women, from Bangkok to Baghdad, now look their youngest because they know the secret benefits of a skin-loving formulation created by beauty researchers. Skin almost drinks in the precious fluid, known in the United States as Oil of Olay beauty lotion. Its natural moisture, tropical oils and other emollients work with nature to maintain the oil-moisture balance needed for you to look your youngest. Complexion becomes more supple and radiant from the first days you use quick-penetrating Oil of Olay.

Faithful users let Oil of Olay work its wonders at least twice a day. In the morning, as a protective, non-greasy makeup base that lets cosmetics stay fresh for hours. At night, to soothe and cherish as you sleep.

Oil of Olay® is at your drugstore. It's not a moment too soon to begin looking younger than friends your age.

Pool Patter
by Peg Pierce

THE JEWISH CENTER Outdoor Group meets on Friday mornings from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Thus far the group has walked the Alum Creek Camp Site followed by a swim in the indoor pool, hiked at Blacklick Woods, looked for fungus at the covered bridge near Canal Winchester where we stopped later for tea at Shades Restaurant, explored the Hoover campsite's new green trail, searched Blendon Woods for weeds, and studied sycamores at the Far East Recreation Park. We figure if we really step out and walk at a good pace we can have time left to stop somewhere for tea or hot soup. Future plans include a family walk some Sunday afternoon. Of course we play it by ear and go along with the weather.

You talk about Winter Wonder Camp and the following 4 and 5 year olds amazed their counselors by diving and swimming inthe deep end of the Center's pool: Marc Wolpert, Steve Siegel, Jason Walsh, Kenneth Garlikov, Brian Tuckerman, David Oppenheimer and Lauren Sachs. Jodi Spatt, Jennifer Bally and Rachael Channing also displayed their talents in deep water.

It is not geared toward those with severe physical or emotuonal handicaps.

According to Mrs. Mary Jo Myers, M.A., of the English Department faculty at Ohio Dominican, and coordinator of theReading Clinic, students will work in groups of not more than five students, with similar problems with specially-trained ODC student-tutors.

BASED ON the success of last winter's Reading Clinic, content will again emphasize word recognition, including use of contestual clues and phonetic and structural analysis and meaning comprehension on the literal, interpretive and critical levels.

Mrs. Myers emphasizes that each participant must make his own decision to enroll in the clinic, not his parents, teachers or counselors.

She said today: "We will administer tests on the first and last days of the class to determine the students' sight vocabulary and reading comprehension grade levels. Results will be sent parents at the end of the program, so comparison can be made."

Admission to the clinic will be limited to the first 25 applications, with the possibility of additional clinics set up if necessary to accommodate high school students interested in improving their reading skills.

Lions' Den

THE SECOND semester of studies at Bexley began Jan. 28, with a few staff changes.

Mrs. Trudy Krisher, teacher of upper level English, has left Bexley to return to law school. Mrs. Carole Jarrell, who has taught previously at Bexley, has taken her position.

Dr. William Hughes, who taught physics and the Introductory Physical Science course in the high school, has gone to Washington, D.C. to set up a science curriculum for the Model School for the Deaf, a division of Gallaudet College. Mr. Carl Schaaf, from Lexington, O., has taken his place. Mr. Schaaf is a graduate of OSU.

THE BEXLEY HOME and School Association presented a "Post High School Job Opportunities and Training" program in the BHS cafeteria Feb. 4, at 8 p.m.

The speakers discussed the many opportunities open to young people aside from the four year college. The topics discussed included junior colleges, high school and post high school vocational education, the military services, and employment.

THE BEXLEY Junior High School PTA held an orientation session for the parents of eighth grade students on Feb. 5, at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria.

The orientation was held to acquaint the parents with the various aspects of high school. Among the speakers were Mr. Donald G. Wynkoop, prioncipal of BHS, Mr. W. Boden, BHS freshmen-sophomore guidance counselor, and Miss McCreary, junior high counselor.

BEXLEY HIGH School's history curriculum will undergo some changes in preparation for the 1974-1975 school year.

The two year-long courses required for graduation, (usually taken in the junior and senior years) the Development of America I, II, will be altered slightly in content. DA I will remain a year-long course, covering the period of history beginning with the discovery of America, until the year 1900. DA II will become a semester course, covering material from 1900 to the present time., For the remaining seasmester the students may choose from a selection of courses, including Minority Studies, Contemporary Issues, Urban Studies, and Great World Religions.

The Comparative Governments course, an elective, will become a semester course, and will emphasize political philosophies. The World History and Economic Georgraphy courses, also electives, will remain unchanged.

SPRING GUIDE TO LIVELY LIVING

I have a friend who calls it the January, February, and March Disease - by which she means the great grayness of spirit that settles in for many of us, just after the turn of the year. It doesn't strike all at once but just piles up until suddenly one day when Johnny comes home with his 12th runny nose and your kitchen sink develops its umpteenth superclog ... and you've had it! One thing about J-F-M is that it can be alleviated - maybe even cured, by the simple creative act of calling...

Billy Brown Is Swinging At Lincoln Lodge

BILLY BROWN has been performing at Lincoln Lodge for several weeks. In all those weeks, he has been breaking all records. The place is packed almost every night of the week. All weekends, it's Katie bar the door.

Billy is a one man act. To be more specific, Billy is a one show. He makes more things happen with his voice and electric guitar than do most duos and trios. Several nights a week, Billy is joined by a cute little singer, Samantha Lee. This gal is terrific. But, most of the time, it is Billy Brown, all the way.

Billy is simply great. He is the greatest one man show to hit Columbus for a long, long time.

While he leans to the country and western vain, both in style, tonal quality and material, Billy handles all types of music very well. He owns a big, beautiful sounding voice. He knows show business from the word go. Billy employs a strong attack to every number, regardless if it is down home stuff, or "Bill Bailey Won't You Please Come Home," to, "I Left My Heart in San Francisco." His style is his own, Billy sounds like Billy rown, and no one else.

Accompanying himself on electric guitar may not sound very appealing to you, wait until you hear him play. He sounds as if there are three guitars, a drummer and a bass on stage. I think Billy is one of the finest guitar players in captivity. He literally plays the "H" out of the thing.

AT THE END of the evening, Billy and Samantha Lee receive a standing ovation. Fantastic for a lounge.

Samantha Lee, who frequently joins Billy, as a singer and showman in her own right. This gal is only fourteen years old, but looks, acts and sings like a gal with fourteen years of experience. While Billy doesn't need any help, Samantha sure adds plenty of musical whip cream to the show. Samantha is a dynamo who really sings up a storm. Like Billy, she is a strong stylist with an attack that is bound to knock you off your seat. Remember the name, Samantha Lee, because I know in the years to come, you are going to hear a lot more abouit this gal.

AS I SAID, the music does run in a country and western vain, but it is not the strong hillbilly type of music. If you love good music, you'll enjoy the Billy Brown Show, with Samantha Lee at the Lincoln Lodge. I know, because I, and many hundreds of people agree, this is one group that has to be a must on your entertainment schedule. The Lodge is swinging with this pair.

Relax, Fine Food At The Dell

A COUPLE of weeks ago, I told you about the unique, interesting and relaxing decor of the Dell Restaurant. It is a place that's a joy to walk into, day or night, for lunch, dinner, or a few of your favorite beverages. Everything in the place has been restored. The only addition to the famous Columbus landmark is the carpeting.

The other evening I dropped in for dinner and to listen to the entertainment. Both are first rate and fit the atmosphere of the restaurant as a glove fits a hand.

First, let me tell you about the food. I'll start off by telling you that you won't find none any better. My broiled filet of Pickerel was a pure delight. Flavor was the keynote to this dish, a taste treat that I can still savor. The salad was excellent, with a delicious Roquefort dressing. An abundance of hot rolls were also served. The meal also included choice of potato and plenty of butter.

Ned, our waiter, was at my beck and call throughout the meal.

During and after the meal, I, as the rest of the crowd, were treated to some mighty fine, unusual entertainment. All of the waiters and waitresses sing. Now, if you enjoy good music, good voices and good fun type atmosphere, then the Dell Restaurant is a must for you. All of the waiters and waitresses are students at Capital University. All have well trained voices. Their musical library covers most all of the Broadway show tunes, some classics and the best of the old standards. It is entertainment, that you rarely find in a club or restaurant today.

If you already have had dinner, but still want to take in this excellent entertainment, just remember the Dell Restaurant is open until 1 a.m. There is a piano bar, plus another bar as well as tables. You can always order a late night snack or sandwich, also. Once in a while you'll find some of Columbus' better singers stopping in and rendering a few tunes.

The Dell is an absolute fun place. There is no other place like it Around Town.

Michael's Features A Good Duo

I CAUGHT a good duo the other evening at Michael's, in Grove City. Called the Shirley Lewellyn Duo, with Vic Percora, this twosome play a lot of music. The place was crowded with most everyone appearing to be enjoying themselves. The dance floor was full for just about every number, be it a rumba, rock slow, danceable tune.

The Shirley Lewellyn Duo is not a show group. Their stock in trade is providing lots of good music, that is great for listening or dancing.

Shirley is an attractive organist. She plays the black and whites with plenty of gusto. Also, owning a nice voice, Shirley serves up all types of fine vocals.

Teaming up with Shirley is Vic Percora, a well known local drummer, who certainly knows what his job is all about. Vic is not one of those pounding types of drummers. He shows a varied combination of rythyms. Yet, Vic keeps everything simple, laying down good, strong beats. The end result is a drummer who provides strong, simple toe-tappin' rythms. He and Shirley compliment each other both vocally and instrumentally. Vic sings up a storm, with a voice that's quite unusual. To me, Vic sounds like a combination of a Louis Prima and Louis Armstrong. He is really fun to hear. Then with Shirley's nice, soft, melodious voice, you are treated with just about any type of song you want.

ALL IN ALL, Shirley and Vic combine to give you a good, solid muysical duo. As I said before, Michael's was packed last Friday night, and everyone was having a ball. I think you will, too.

Skipping Around Town

AN INTERESTING person, is Jerry Entingh, the bartender at the Outrigger Bar of the Kahiki. Jerry is majoring in journalism, and soon will be giving up the bar for a typewriter. Stop in and say hello to Jerry, he makes your visit enjoyable . . . At the Grog Shop. The Oldies, But Goodies Night is back. Every Tuesday it happens. All of the good, old songs of the 50's and 60's, lots of prizes, and plenty of fun. George Westermeyer entertains the crowds nightly. George is tremendous, both as a singer and performer . . . Back to the Lincoln Lodge, Billy Brown is drawing people from all over Columbus. Saw Bob Warner and his beautiful wife, dancing like a couple of teenagers. One of the sharpest gals Around Town, Donna Chapa, with hubby ex-furniture king, Ricco, also doing their thing on the floor. Same is true for Roy and Nancy Karns of Dayton. People are having a ball with Billy Brown . . . Don't forget Michael's as a fine place to eat, as well as for entertainment. Their food and service are tops, in my book. Watch for lots of news regarding the Holiday Inn-South. Plenty of new plans and ideas are in store to keep the Holiday Inn-South a fine place to go dining and all around good time . . . For you who enjoy good country and western music, The Rendezvous Room is a must for you. The Dick Wolford Show is there every Friday and Saturday. After the show, there is a good, down home breakfast available until 4 a.m., with country ham, eggs and the whole works. It's all a barrel of fun . . . For an intimate, quiet type of evening, the Holiday Inn-North is just the place for you. With the Jerry and Nick Duo playing beautiful, soft music Thursday through Saturday, in the lounge, this has to be the place to go for relaxing. The lounge is dark, quiet and is just the place to take that special someone for conversation or dancing. You'll love the place . . . Last but not least, Le Gourmet Room is my restaurant in Columbus. As the name implies, they specialize in gourmet food. It is a dining delight...See you Around Town this week, get out and enjoy yourself.

BILLY BROWN
featuring SAMANTHA LEE
APPEARING NIGHTLY - WESTERN MOTELS
LINCOLN LODGE 4950 W BROAD

Billy Brown is performing at the Lincoln Lodge 4950 W. Broad. For a one man act Billy Brown has to be about the best in Columbus.

His performance is sprinkled with earthly jokes and banter with the audience. He has a recollection of many Country and Blue Songs written in the last 30 years.

In 1959 Billy Brown did the original recording of "He'll Have To Go" for Columbia Records. It rose to No. 1 in many cities but according to Brown at this time Jim Reeves also recorded it in the same style and Reeves recording became one of the biggest Country Hits ever.

Billy Brown a Country - Western Singer and Guitarist from Florida has been engaged for a six week contract at Lincoln Lodge.

He is drawing the largest crowds to the Lounge since it started with the Billy Brown Show entertaining with the up - town Country - Western Sound.

Brown's newest record has just been released on Big M Records-"Thank You Darling" and "Country Boy" Brown performance features versitility, personality and ad-lib humor in addition to a repertoire which includes yodelling, impersonations of Johnny Cash, Elvis Presley, Gene Autry, Eddie Arnold, Charlie Rich and Walter Brennan. He sings "Cool Clear Water" in the styles of various singers.

For an enjoyable and relaxing evening filled with pleasant fun, the Lounge at Lincoln Lodge is recom-

THE FRIENDLY FISHERMAN

Fishermen are the friendliest people in the world. I think everyone is friendlier when they're outdoors enjoying the gift of nature. Besides just being neighborly you can pick up a lot of information to help you catch more fish.

On a nice day take a walk along a river bank or lake and watch the people fishing and enjoying the serenity of the outdoors. Stop by to chat and ask if they're having any luck. I've seen little kids hold up their stringer with a lonely six inch fish on it, eyes sparkling and say, "Look at this one mister." I'll ask what he used for bait and he will proudly tell me.

I have seen big fish people have caught in Ohio's well stocked lakes and streams and not once has a person kept their bait or lure a secret. Some of may favorite lures and methods were given to me on my strolls along a river bank talking to friendly people being neighborly, just fishing.

One morning on Hoover Reservoir north-east of Columbus, my wife and I were trolling for walleye near the shoreline and having no luck at all. I stopped my outboard motor to look in my tackle box of a different lure when I noticed we were drifting into a private dock. I looked up and saw a man standing there. He stared for a moment, smiled and asked if we were having any luck.

I told him no and showed him the artifical lure we were using, a minnow imitation about five inches long. He said he had fished Hoover since they built the dam and found that walleyes were darn lazy fish and we might have better luck using smaller lures.

I thanked him, shoved off and changed to a smaller minnow imitation lure only three inches long. Don't you know it, we started catching walleye right away, and since we got this tip from the friendly stranger we have been using smaller lures for walleye and having good luck. We hope you do to.

WILD TURKEY HUNTING PERMIT

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources' Division of Wildlife reminds Ohio sportsmen that applications for wild turkey hunting permits are available at the Divisions' Columbus headquarters and all District Wildlife offices.

Dates for the 74 bearded turkey hunt are May 1 through May 4 and May 8 through May 11.

Dan C. Armbruster, Chief of the Division of Wildlife, said that applications for permits must be mailed and must be accompanied by a check or money order for $10.50 for each turkey hunting permit sought. Each hunter must submit his own application. Applications postmarked before March 1, 1974 will bot be accepted. Armbruster said 2,000 permits will be issued (1,000) each period on a first-come, first-served basis.

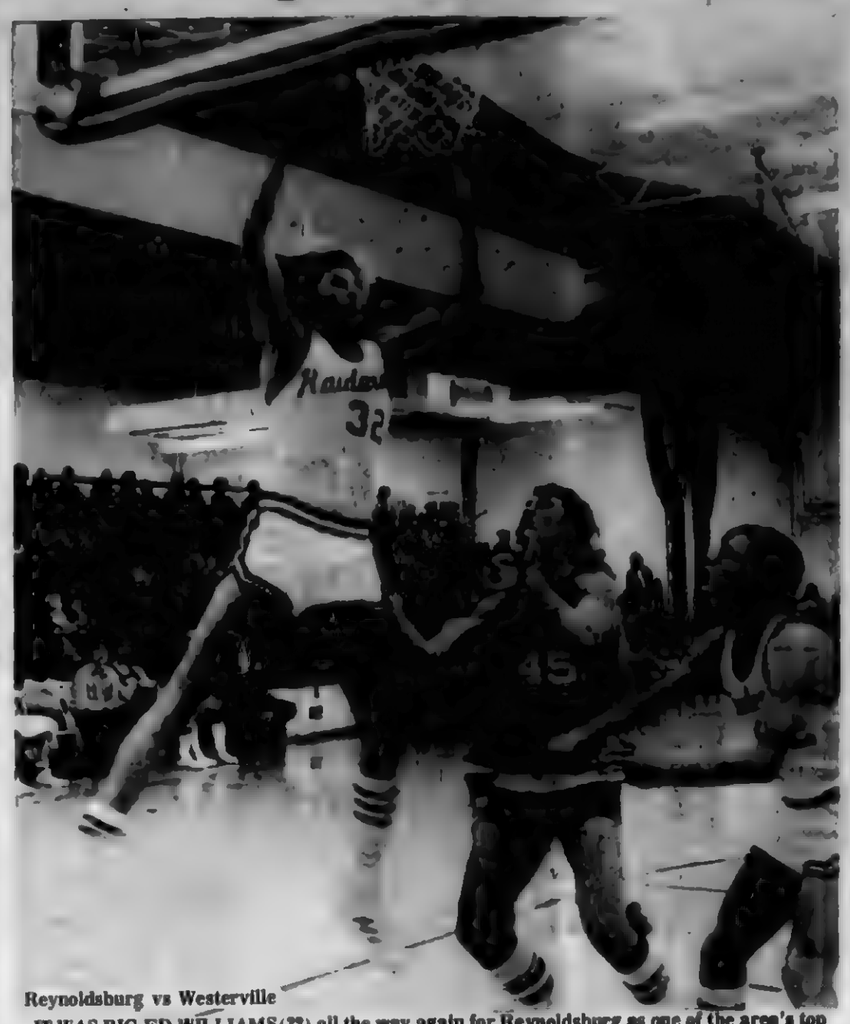
Cage Season Enders Should Be Terrific



Reynoldsburg vs Westerville

IT WAS BIG ED WILLIAMS (32) all the way again for Reynoldsburg as one of the area's top school boy scorers went up for one of his defensive specialties and added another rebound to his total. Reynoldsburg vs Westerville

THE TEMPO of the Raider win (for the second time this season) over Westerville was set by the kind of action shown. That's the Raiders' Bob Beasley (34) snaring another rebound while Ed Williams (32) watches just in case the ball comes his way. No. 43 for the Cats is Tony Staten. (Photo by Ed Kiernan.)

Races Still Up For Grabs

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Spectator Sports Writer

West may have been lacking a respectable record entering last week's City League clash with then co-leader Mohawk but one thing is for sure, never under estimate the wealth of enthusiasm and talent these free-wheeling Cowboys [redacted].

"The kids realized that they are a much better basketball team than their record indicates, and they know that they can't win the league, but are in a tremendous position to dictate who will." Those words by energetic West High boss Marv Schultz couldn't be truer.

AND THIS Friday night, in the famed Cowboy gym, those red hot free lancers will get upset assignment number two when sole City League leader Northland rides into Cowboy land with championship goals labeling them. And don't think that these Cowboys don't know the importance this could shed on the confused City Circuit as they were chanting "Northland is next," on the short victory ride home from Mohawk last week.

Eastmoor and Mohawk, now a game back of Northland, can skip right into a first place tie with the Vikings should West win, leaving only one week remaining on the City schedule. Eastmoor, a victor over rival Walnut Ridge last week, is home against East this week and Mohawk travels to troubled Whetstone.

THIS NEW breed of enthusiasm at West will culminate this week as the first ever "Mom's Night" will take place at the roundball match which will share the ticket with the championship match of a one-on-one contest between students of West which Student Council has been conducting this week. This will take place at halftime.

And this new brand of basketball is not so new according to the six-year veteran Schultz who says, "The ball was just not bouncing the right way for us in the early part of the season and these kids deserve alot of credit for hanging in there and realizing they are capable of playing the brand of ball that they played at Mohawk Friday night."

The main cog in that 78-75 upset of the highly touted Indians, as has been all year, was sparky Wes Redd, the smooth 6-1 talent rich team leader of this West squad. "Wes is just a tremendous individual and he not only displayed this Friday night, (24 points) but he had a team meeting about a week ago and laid it on the line with these guys and told them what they had to do."

CAPTAIN REDD will b e the co-feature in the show that coach Schultz claims will pit two of the best guard in the league against one another, Northland's Jud Wood a highly sought after college propect, being the other half of the show.

Redd has been getting some great court help from Tim Thrush and Ron Williams who combined for 31 against Mohawk and from 6-3 sophomore Gregg Biffle who earned praise from Schultz. "Biffle is really coming on and has been giving us great help under the boards."

The Central Catholic League will have a spotlight game of its own Friday night when twice beaten Hartley plays host to top dog Watterson. A Watterson win here clinches at least of a tie for the Catholic crown while a Hartley victory would send the pair into a possible two-way championship share.

It should be another backcourt matchup between free-wheeling Mike Gilliland and sure-firing Sam Dixon of Watterson.

THE OHIO Capital Conference, bearing a new leader as of last Friday in Mt. Vernon, will pit Whitehall and Worthington in the mainliner which will be a first place dual or a second place scrap depending on last night's Mt. Vernon-Worthington tilt.

Whitehall will try to shake a three game losing skein as they lost to an inspired Gahanna club last Friday, marking their second OCC loss to the Lions. Worthington, meanwhile, gained a bit of steam via a 46-34 edge over Westland.

Bexley, leader of the Mid-Eight League, prepares for a rough time when Grove City invades Friday. The Gene Millard cagers come fresh from a 68-39 route of Groveport and must contend with the always tough Grove Citians who upset previous co-leader Urbana by a neat 89-87 count.

SOME INDIVIDUAL performances rendering recognition last week include Ron White for his 25 markers in Hartley's ten-point spread over Wehrle and Mark Hausfeld for his point leadership in St. Charles' quest of Bishop Ready.

Ron Lathem and Larry First teamed to lead Franklin Heights in its win while Marc Abramson, Bexleys crafty guard and Phil Wright were helpers in that Mid-Eight win.

In the OCC Don Brough, Tim Crandall and Doug Burkhardt all cracked double figures in leading the Worthington win while Reynoldsburg's Ed Williams continued his amazing scoring pace with 22 in the Raider win over Westerville.

CITY STARS included productive weekend work out of Mike Hall and Hilton Hale in a pair of East wins and Brian Stertzer with 30 for Eastmoor in its Walnut Ridge victory. Incidently, Stertzer was accurate nine times in 10 field goal attempts.

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS

Daylight Savings time poses visibility problems for both motorists and pedestrians, says the Ohio Department of Highway Safety. Drivers are asked to be cautious of children on their way to school. Make sure headlights are used ½ hour after sunset to ½ hour before sunrise or in bad weather when visibility is less than 1,000 feet.

Y Volleyballers Are Winners

The Columbus Central YMCA "A" volleyball team started it's season this past Saturday with a win at the Akron, Ohio invitational. There were six teams entered in the tournament: Columbus, East Dayton, Akron, Columbus Caps, Youngstown and Willoughby. Columbus "Y" defeated East Dayton in the finals 7-15, 15-13, 15-12.

ECO-TIPS

The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency reminds you that energy conservation makes good sense. Transportation consumes ¼ of our nation's energy. You can reduce your consumption of fuel by never racing your engine. When your engine's cold, drive slowly instead of idling. You'll be saving money while conserving precious fuel and reducing air pollution.

Glicks Plans Grand Opening Of Furniture Show Case East

Robert A. Glick, president, and William Glick, executive vice president, Glicks Furniture, will open Glicks Furniture Show Case East at 2233 S. Hamilton Rd. Feb. 10.

The well-displayed, sales oriented Furniture Show Case East constitutes an investment of more than $1.7 million on the part of Glicks.

Glicks Furniture Show Case East, which was prompted by overwhelming public acceptance of Glicks new concept in a home furnishing "idea center" has been opened to better serve the east and southeast areas of Central Ohio.

The new Show Case represents a 280 ft. by 220 ft. addition to Glicks rapidly-expanding organization. The Show Case East will add 61,600 sq. ft. in which to arrange nearly 200 three-walled, individually decorated rooms. This will enable customers to better relate specific home furnishing ideas to their own homes. Glicks has long been a leader in the home furnishing industry in employing this principle. Architect for the new Show Case East is George Acock of Acock-White and Associates.

President Robert A. Glick estimates that the new Show Case East facilities will increase the firm's sales volume by about 28 per cent. The new store, according to Glick, will employ a staff of approximately 40 people.

In addition to the new Furniture Show Case East, and the original Morse Road Furniture Show Case, Glicks also has stores in Columbus in the Town and Country, Northern Lights and Great Western Shopping Centers, the Glicks Warehouse Outlet and stores in Chillicothe and Newark.

President Robert A. Glick stresses that "At our Furniture Show Case East, as well as at all Glicks stores, customers will find that good taste in home furnishings need not be expensive."

When Robert and William Glick set out to build a "furniture show case" in Columbus, they were determined to spare no expense in making their new Hamilton Road store one of the outstanding furniture showplaces in the entire United States.

Their decision led to the hiring of Ray Anderson, N.S.I.D.-I.D.G., of Dallas, Tex. Anderson is nationally-recognized as one of the nation's truly outstanding designers of furniture store interiors. His work has won scores of national awards.

Wayne McClellan, display manager for Glicks, and his staff worked closely with Anderson in coordinating nearly a thousand accessories for nearly 200 room settings.

Designer Anderson sees the new Show Case East as "a marvelous cavalcade of home fashion styles with exciting new innovations in background ideas. We tried to take all of the ideas we had in our original Furniture Show Case store – the galleries of nearly 200 individual room settings, along with special areas and special kinds of merchandise. To these we have added two new galleries and have collected new lines of furniture from all over the world."

Robert and William Glick cordially invite the public – beginning today – to come out and see what decorative genius Anderson has accomplished.

Says President Robert Glick, "This is one of the things many furniture companies seem to miss in their presentation to the public. They show beautiful furniture, however, they forget the importance of backgrounds in the home. This is what sets Glicks Furniture Show Case East apart. The furniture Show Case East is an "idea center" in which we have created the backgrounds as you see them in the national home furnishings magazines, and as they can look in the customer's home."

Glick stresses that at the Furniture Show Case East, "We have furniture of every price range and of every description, finish and style. If the world has seen it at any time or period, or if the world has dreamed it for the future, you will find it at Glicks Furniture Show Case East."

NOW Meets February 6

League To Meet

The monthly meeting of the Columbus New Neighbor's League Club will be held at the Jai Lai Tuesday, Feb. 12, at noon preceeded by a social hour.

RECREATIONAL VEHICLES

Thank You
JEEP
and other 4-W.D. owners

Trail City will soon be celebrating its first year of operation. Within this first year, we have provided our customers with the largest selection of Jeep parts and accessories in the mid and eastern U.S. and still adding. From information received, and thanks to you, our Jeep part and 4-W.D. equipment sales have exceeded all dealers in the central and south central Ohio combined. There is a reason, our prices have been kept reasonable and expect to be even lower.

Our service dept. is not limited to just Jeep but specialize in complete service and expert advice on all 4-W.D. vehicles and equipment. Anything from a minor tune up to a custom built 4-W.D. unit.

Trail City is the state warehouse distributor for Husky, Bestop and many other quality tire, wheel and accessorie lines with plans of having dealerships in west Columbus, Springfield, Chillicothe, Cincinnati and Portsmouth in the very near future.

Again we thank you for your patronage and assistance in making our first year a great success.

Time Magazine Honors Auto Dealer

GEORGE KRIEGER

Bexley–George Krieger, president of Medick-Krieger Ford, Inc., has been named a Time Magazine Quality Dealer Award (TMQDA) winner for 1974.

Krieger, whose dealership is located at 1800 Morse Rd. is one of only 57 dealers in the entire nation selected for the Time honor.

The TMQDA program, sponsored by Time in cooperation with the National Automobile Dealers Association (NADA), annually honors outstanding new car dealers in America "for exceptional performance in their dealerships combined with distinguished community service."

The Columbus dealer was honored along with the other winners at the 1974 convention of the NADA in Las Vegas, this week.

Born in Athens, O., Krieger graduated from high school in Bexley, and received his bachelor's degree in business administration in 1950.

A Bexley resident, he has been active in many central Ohio organizations.

Krieger and his wife, Joan have four children, three sons and one daughter.

Hired By Amtrak

CYNTHIA CARROLL

Bexley–Cynthia Carroll, 88 Preston Rd., has been employed by Amtrak as a reservationist in Philadelphia, Pa.

She is a graduate of Bishop Hartley High School, Ohio State University and the Wilma Boyd Career School.

She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul T. Carroll.

PASSENGER CAR

The average passenger car is driven over 10,000 miles during a year.

IN PUERTO RICO

East Columbus–Marine Second Lieutenant David K. Saffle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth M. Saffle of 4170 E. Livingston Ave., has deployed from the Marine Corps Air Station, Cherry Point, N.C., for a training exercise in Vieques, Puerto Rico.

Saffle serves with Marine Air Support Squadron One.

A 1972 graduate of Ohio State University, with a Bachelor of Arts degree, he joined the Marine Corps in Aug. 1972.

Bexley Democrats Elect New Officers

Bexley–A reorganized Bexley Democratic Club elected new officers Jan. 29, in a meeting at the Washington Square Racket Club, Coldstream Dr.

President is John M. Milton Jr., 682 Remington Rd., public information director for the Ohio Department of Liquor Control. Attorney Irwin W. Barkan, 245 N. Drexel Ave., with the law firm of Barkan, Barkan and Neff, was picked as vice president. Secretary is Mary Catherine Byrne, 805 Euclaire Ave., an Ohio State University student. Treasurer is David B. Pariser, 2656 Fair Ave., in his final year of law school at Capital University.

Thomas L. Kaplin, candidate for State Senator from the 15th District, chairmed the meeting and introduced Fran Ryan, candidate for U.S. Representative from the 12th Congressional District; Robert Bell, running for judge of the 10th District Court of Appeals; and William Schmidt, a candidate for the Frikklin County Court of Common Pleas.

Discussion centered around how the club can help candidates in upcoming elections and how to interest Bexley's youth in becoming involved in the political process.

CLOSE-UP VIEWS OF COMMUNITY NEWS

Serving Bexley, East Columbus and Whitehall

Vol. VXI No. 11 Total 952 — Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, February 13, 1974 — 15 Cents

NEW EQUIPMENT for special procedures in Mt. Carmel East's radiology department, some of which can be used in diagnosis before neurosurgery, is demonstrated by Ellen Amore, left, a registered technician; center, "Patient" Judy Thorpe, also a registered technician, and right, Sister Jean Louise, CSC, Senior Administrator.

Mt. Carmel East Fills Area Needs

By ELSIE V. WEAVER

EAST COLUMBUS—Most people agree that it gives you a wonderful feeling to be wanted and needed. Right now about 350 employees of Mt. Carmel East Hospital, 6001 E. Broad St., should be feeling pretty wonderful for they surely have been wanted and needed, at an ever-increasing rate since the hospital opened in April, 1972.

Robert Montgomery, the Senior Administrator of General Services, grins broadly as he explains that some interesting figures on the number of people helped by the hospital since its opening bear out the staff's claim that they are fulfilling a great need for hospital services in the East area of Franklin County. He points out the convenient location, on a main thorolare, near the outerbelt 270. People in the surrounding area no longer need to go the inner city of Columbus for emergency room or hospital outpatient or inpatient care.

SISTER JEAN LOUISE, CSC, Senior Administrator, joins in the enthuriastic listing of statistics that show the growth of the hospital's use.

On January 29 of this year the hospital opened the last floor of the building. Eight beds are now available there and more will be added up to its capacity of 60, as they are needed.

Some statistics show enormous leaps in the use of some departments.For instance, from April 17, 1972 opening day to December 31, 1972, the emergency room saw 13,921 patients, but from January 1, 1973 to December 31, 1973, they saw 25,650 patients.

IN THE MONTH of December, 1972, the X-ray departmentmade 1,255 exams; in January, 1973, they made 2,637 X-ray examinations.

In the area of laboratory tests, in December, 1972, there were 8,994 and 150 outpatients procedures. In December, 1973, 16,234 laboratory tests were made and 898 outpatient procedures were completed.

In December, 1972, admissions ran 262 and in December, 1973, there were 486. The highest occupancy rate on any one day was 89 in Dec. 72 and 157 in Dec. 1973.

By January 21 of this year, 171 beds are open out of a maximum capacity total of 233. This includes the eight new beds on the newly-opened second floor.

Registered nurses are needed, the director says, as the full capacity of the second floor is anticipated.

IN THE EMERGENCY room of Mt. Carmel East, patients may be put to bed in nine cubicles in one large room or three in another room, all conveniently located near the hospital laboratory, X-ray room, operating room, and pharmacy. Sophisticated monitoring equipment can check vital functions of a seriously ill person. Doctors in charge in the emergency room are from Emergency Services, Inc., a group of less than 10 doctors who contract with Mt. Carmel Medical Center and Mt. Carmel East to provide 24 hours a day service. They have special training and experience for emergency room duty. X-ray services are also available at all hours.

Administrators point out that the hospital does not have a maternity section or facilities for pediatrics.

Here is a medical team with a colorful, attractive building, needed services and equipment, happy to serve East area residents in almost every medical emergency.

Former Columbus Principal

Theodore Turner Named Assistant Superintendent

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Staff Writer

The Columbus School Board approved the appointment of Theodore H. Turner as assistant superintendent, personnel, of the Columbus Public Schools at its Feb. 5 Board of Education regular meeting.

Turner, who currently is serving as principal at Mohawk Junior-Senior High School, will fill the vacancy created by the retirement of James Wade. Wade became president of the Piney Woods Country Life School, Piney Woods Mississippi, Feb. 1.

Turner, 49, is an accomplished music composer and widely-known conductor. He joined the Columbus Public Schools as a teacher of music theory and director of instrumental music at East High School in 1957. He then became an administrative cadet in 1966 and was assigned as assistant principal of Linmoor Junior High School from 1966 until 1968.

DURING THE 1968-69 school year, Turner served as assistant principal of Mohawk. He was promoted to the principalship of Franklin Junior High School in 1969 and served in that capacity until 1971 when he was promoted to principal at Mohawk.

Turner, a native of Weirton, W. Va., holds a bachelor's degree in music and education from Ohio State University and a master's degree from the University of Cincinnati. He also has studied at Purdue University, the University of Rochester and Rochester's Eastman School of Music.

He taught in the Lockland, Ohio, Public Schools and the Cincinnati Public Schools before coming to Columbus. He has a total of 23.5 years experience in the education field, 16.5 of those in Columbus.

School Superintendent Dr. John Ellis said, "We are most fortunate in having a person like Ted Turner available to assume responsibility for the Division of Teacher Personnel. He's a broad-gauged person. He has many talents and competencies and he has demonstrated a high level of administrative ability in each of the demanding assignments he has assumed."

ELLIS ADDED, "Ted Turner is known for his capacity to organize effectively and to relate to a broad spectrum of people. These talents are essential in fulfilling the complex responsibilities of attracting and retaining the finest teachers in America."

Turner's salary will be $30,336. His appointment will become effective Feb. 11.

Ellis said a successor to Turner at Mohawk will be named later but it was learned that assistant principal Larry Metz would take over until a replacement was appointed.

Turner was approved by a 5-1 vote, the only dissenting vote cast by board member Mrs. Marie Castleman. Castleman said she was aware of the great talents of Turner and she had the highest respect for him but she felt someone else was better qualified for the position.

Also on the agenda was approval of working drawings for Cassady Elementary, 2500 N. Cassady Ave. The drawings include a 9,000 square foot addition and the remodeling of present facilities to the school. Three classrooms, a teachers' conference room, two counseling offices and two restrooms will be included in the addition. Remodeling of existing facilities will provide a library-learning center and three additional classrooms.

BUDGET FOR THE Cassady project is $410,000. Plans for Cassady were prepared by Holroyd and Myers.

The Board also awarded contracts totalling $792,122, for the construction and remodeling of Walnut Ridge Senior High School. Those receiving contracts are Trapp Construction Company, for the general and electrical work, and R. T. Evans Company, for plumbing and heating, ventilating and air-conditioning.

The original bids on the Walnut Ridge project, which totalled $911,150 were rejected by the Board Nov. 20 because they exceeded the budget for the project by nearly 20 per cent.

Dr. Ellis voiced approval for the Walnut Ridge project saying "Rejecting the previous bids really paid off, we were able to restructure and still avoid the loss of academic space."

ELLIS LAUDED Eschliman Associates, Architects-Planners, for the revision of the plans and said they showed where the money could be saved. Ellis said $119,000 was saved.

The Walnut Ridge project calls for the conversion of the existing library and career-vocational space into classrooms and the remodeling of the present auto shop and storage space to provide a teacher preparation area and a second art room.

New construction will house new career-vocational facilities and a new library-learning center with a production room, storage area, office work space and conference room.

The new career-vocational unit includes an auto mechanics shop with related classroom space, an occupational work experience classroom, a distributive education classroom and a business office education laboratory with two classrooms, work storage spaces and staff offices.

Also on the agenda was approval for the purchase of nine new school bus chassis. This purchase from the International Harvester Company totals $56,407.05.

Other board transactions were routine professional, finance and civil service actions.

Golden Age News And Notes

WOULD YOU like to have your income tax done by an expert for free? That is exactly what you can do at the Council on Aging. Beginning this week and continuing through April 9, this service will be available every Tuesday from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. at the Council headquarters, 906 East Broad St., 461-5668.

Mrs. Roger Sankey has been trained by the Internal Revenue Service to give free advice on returns.

She is a volunteer under the VITA Program which she entered as her Junior League assignment.

"I used to get involved in the family income tax returns and they always seemed so complicated," she said, "After a while, I began to get interested and fascinated by the process.

When I heard about the training program I jumped at the chance. We were trained at the Columbus Technical Institute with instructors furnished by the IRS. We had a large class and beginning in February, 10 stations will be opened around the city. They will be manned by volunteers who will give free help on income tax returns to anyone who comes to us.

"MY SPECIAL League volunteer placement is at the Golden Hobby Shop, so when I finished my IRS training, I broached the subject of opening up a station at Council headquarters with Ardath Lynch, the Director. I will be here every Tuesday from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. I plan to make the problems of Senior Citizen returns a specialty. I have carefully studied the rules on pensions and I've got a wonderful textbook that gives me all the answers I could possibly want. In a crisis, I have a special number I can call for direct help if I have to have it."

MRS. SANKEY will have to reluctantly forgo her duties as a volunteer with the Golden Hobby Shop during her stint with the IRS station. She is equally enthusiastic about both these activities but a growing family only allows so much free time.

So there you have it - a place to go to get your IRS problems solved, someone to do it for you, it's tailored to your needs, and it's free.

AFTER YOU have your returns completed and off your mind, you can go downstairs and enjoy with a clear conscience the new look of the Golden Hobby Shop.

After an immensely successful Christmas season, a mid-season closing for inventory, and a re-opening with new merchandise, the Shop now sports the Valentine look.

Everything is here for your sweetheart.

THERE IS a lovely big doll dressed in red dotted gingham trimmed with red lace. Her jewelry consists of tiny heart pins.

More sophisticated is the Ballet Doll with her stiff white skirts, huge tipped up red hat, and her valentine box purse.

Even Raggedy Ann and Andy have red polka dotted clothes. The Teddy bears have donned "heart" buttons and have red yarn around their necks.

ON THE MORE practical side are the little girls' dreses, one red with a white pinafore, size 4, and the other size 2 or 3 with an organdy eyelet pinafore over red.

For table favors, there are great suckers cunningly concealed on red felt jackets, and a huge red, plump, old fashioned pin cushion with lace trim.

AS ALWAYS, the shop is filled with gifts of every description; jewelry in glass, hand painted, ceramics, and novelty materials; knitted goods (all hand made of course by senior citizen consignees); stoles, capes, sweaters, afghans, and yes, pot holders.

The hand painted china is especially attractive. This art has been given an added impetus by the demonstration of china painting held last week at the shop.

Artists were Edna Keller, Elsie Gesch, and Adele Peters.

WHILE enjoying the Shop, we met one of the consignees. By request, he was bringing in more of his popular glass candle holders.

He trims the outside of the glass with stones in a framework of metal and the resulting design creates wonderful prisms for the candle glow.

He explained that he picks up the stones from a favorite place in the North of the state choosing them by shape.

HE PLACES them in a slow tumbler for two weeks, with fine grained silt the first week and much coarser grains the second. What emerges is a smooth, shining colorful stone.

Fishing With Numbers

Here's a way to help you locate those hiding schools of crappies, bass and walleyes.

I call it fishing with numbers. When you reach the area of a lake or stream that looks productive, walk quietly to the shoreline, or if you're in a boat, shut the motor off, row or let the wind drift you within casting distance.

Remember, if you can see fallen trees and rocks below the surface, fish can see you and they won't wait around long enough for you to even wet a line. A quiet approach is necessary.

To fish with numbers in five to ten feet of water, use a lure that floats at rest and dives below the surface when retrieved.

A nightcrawler or minnow with a small weight attached about six inches above a medium size hook will also work.

Now, picture the face of a clock out on the water. Cast out to nine o'clock position, then eleven, twelve and on around the clock using a slow retrieve with each cast. If you don't get a strike the first time around, start again at nine o'clock. When you land a fish, remember the number and work that area.

YOU MIGHT ask what do you do if casting the numbers on the clock doesn't locate a fish. Chances are the school of fish is in deeper water. To locate a school in water ten to twenty feet, first switch to a lure or spinner that sinks, or add more weight to your live bait rig.

Cast out to the numbers on the clock, but let your lure sink and count down until it reaches bottom. Lets say you counted to twenty.

Retrieve slowly and if you don't find a school near bottom at the count of twenty: Cast out again and begin your retrieve at the count of fifteen. If this doesn't produce a strike, cast, count down and begin your retrieve at the count of ten, etc.

When you land a fish just remember the number you began your retrieve on your last cast.

IF FISHING with numbers sounds like work, you're right. Avid angling is work, but enjoyable work.

Northern Pike at Kokosing Lake Tailwater

During the past week many many nice Northern Pike were caught from the tailwaters of Kokosing Lake. Local resident, Lester Kokes, harvested 6 pike ranging in size from 18 to 36 inches weighing up to 8 pounds.

The Northern Pike in the tailwater of Kokosing Lake were first stocked in the Reservoir during June of 1972. They exhibited exceptional growth in the reservoir and have apparently escaped to the tailwaters during flooding conditions.

Test netting of the Reservoir indicated the pike had grown to between 15½ and 18½ inches during their first 4 months in Kokosing Lake.

By April of 73, testing revealed the Northern Pike had grown up to 20½ inches. Recent angler harvest for the tailwaters indicated the pikes exceptional growth has continued with many of the two year old fish measuring 28 to 36 inches.

THE MOST productive bait has been large shinners (3 to 5 inches) fished in the tailwaters above Township Road 378, the first bridge immediately below the lake.

Vocational Education Advances As Students, Adults Get Ahead

By Ray Adams
Executive Editor

THOUSANDS of students in the area are busy this week letting others know this is Vocational Education Week.

They are showing it by their activities both in school, at home and for some, at their places of employment.

IT IS significant to note that vocational education is closely tied to academic needs in today's job market and many students continue academic training along with their interests in becoming proficient in a skill that will possibly mean immediate employment upon graduation.

Employment during the school year is also possible and gives the student on-the-job training that in many cases gives the employer almost a "finished product" employe to go along with the diploma.

WE HAVE HAD the opportunity the past three years to become personally involved in the vocational education program through participation with many student and adult programs in an advisory capacity.

And, now, vocational education is even reaching more people in different categories; two being the dropout from high school and the adult who wants to become more knowledgeable in his present occupation to enhance advancement opportunities, or to obtain new knowledge in another field that could be a start in a new occupation if a layoff occurs or the present job folds.

WE DON'T FEEL it is necessary for anyone to proclaim this week as Vocational Education Week. The persons directly involved are already doing this and their accomplishments span more than just a week of recognition as from sunrise to way past sunset, in many cases seven days a week, they put their collective noses to the educational grindstone to produce a better product for all humanity.

Historical Center Schedules Nature Lab Show, Black Film

"Black Music in America" is this weekend's free film at the Ohio Historical Center.

The third in the February series on black history, this film traces the development of black American music thru the years. Using the performances of many famous black artists,black music is traced from its early beginnings in the slave quarters of Southern plantations to its strong influence in modern American Cluture.

This entertaining colorfilm will be shown at 2 and 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 16-17, in the auditorium of the Center. Admission is free.

Liquid crystals, the fascinating matter that falls between solid, gas and liquid, are the subject of this weekend's Nature Lab demonstration at the Ohio Historical Center.

The discovery of liquid crystals has opened up new horizons in everything from desk thermometers to cancer detection. Visitors will have a chance to use the heat of their own hand to trigger the crystal reaction on a sheet of paper and they'll learn how liquid crystals are being used to monitor the body temperature of newborn infants.

"Liquid Crystals" will be presented at 1:30, 2:30 and 3:30 Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 16-17, in the Nature Lab Theatre of the Ohio Historical Center. Admission to the Center, on I-71 just north of the Fairgrounds, is free.

Ralph E. Haffenden Is New Postmaster

Ralph E. Haffenden was sworn in last week as Columbus' new Postmaster and Manager of the Columbus Postal District with its 110 post offices.

Regional Postmaster General Clarence B. Gels administered the oath in a ceremony witnessed by Haffenden's family, postal union representatives and the staff of the Columbus post office and District.

"We are fortunate indeed," Gels said, "to have a man of Ralph Haffenden's wealth of postal experience and managerial skill to head this important post office and District."

A former Postal Inspector, Haffenden has been in charge of the post office and District since Postmaster Victor Bodish's retirement last June 30.

Garden Clubs Will Sponsor Tree Seedlings Sale Program

ARBOR DAY has been a special day for many Ohioans since 1882, and to encourage more citizens to celebrate Arbor Day '74 April 26, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs are combining efforts to sell tree seedlings at cost in minimum lots of 25.

The purpose of the program is to give area residents an opportunity to participate in Arbor Day by improving the environment, according to Mrs. Gordon Shepard, president of the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs.

"SINCE ITS beginning in 1872 in Nebraska, Arbor Day has been more than a day to plant trees; it has been a day to plant beauty and to create a heritage for the future," said Natural Resources Director William B. Nye, explaining that Ohio's first Arbor Day celebration was in Cincinnati April 27, 1882. In 1954, the Ohio Legislature established Arbor Day as the last Friday in April.

"Trees clean our air, protect our natural surroundings and enhance our visual environment," Nye said.

TWO SPECIES of trees are being offered for sale, the redbud (flowering deciduous tree) and the Douglas fir (evergreen tree).

Order forms may be obtained by contacting Garden Club Trees, P.O. Box 393, Reynoldsburg, Ohio, 43068 by Feb. 28. Order forms should be obtained before checks or money orders are mailed.

The seedlings sell in minimum lots of 25 for $5. Each lot of 25 three-year-old bare root seedlings will contain only one species of tree.

Planting instructions will accompany each order filled.

"THE COST (20 cents per seedling) is very reasonable," Nye said. He urged citizens who do not have the space to plant 25 trees to consider sharing an order or giving the extra trees as environmental gifts to friends, neighbors or relatives.

The seedlings will be available for pick-up on April 25, 26 and 27.

Serving as State Chairman for the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs second annual tree seedling sale is Mrs. James L. Bates, and assisting her is Mrs. Eugene Crosby.

These gardeners have been working on this project with Robert McCance of the Department of Natural Resources. Both Mrs. Bates and Mrs. Crosby are members of the Marbar Heights Garden Club, Reynoldsburg.

The bare root, 3-year seedlings of the Douglas Fir will be approximately 8-16 inches in height, and the Redbud seedlings will be approximately 10-18 inches in height.

Deadline for submitting orders for seedlings along with a check or money order payable to Garden Club Trees will be Tuesday, March 5.

Christmas Seal Campaign Was Successful

To the Editor:

I would like to thank you on behalf of the Central Ohio Lung Association. Your cooperation in printing articles, editorials and photographs for the 1973 Christmas Seal Campaign activities was an invaluable service.

Without the help of the Spectator, many people would be unaware of our organization and its year-round health work.

This year has been a difficult one for us, partially because we changed our name from the Tuberculosis Society to the Central Ohio Lung Association.

Your support has helped imeasurably in the transition to our new name.

We are very grateful and hope your support will continue through the years on a year-round basis.

Ohio Village Name Of Historical Village

"Ohio Village" has become the official name of the new pre-Civil War community being constructed in Columbus by the Ohio Historical Society. The Society's Board of Trustees approved the name at their meeting Jan. 25.

The name, submitted by John P. Teevan of Lebanon, was chosen from several hundred nominations made to the Society since mid 1971. Teevan will be honored during dedication ceremonies at the village later this year.

The primary consideration for approval of "Ohio Village" was that it states what the village is and implies its purpose: a representative county seat of the early nineteenth century designed to convey the atmosphere and workings of an early community's economy and its social life.

Also since the village represents the type of community found in Ohio at that time rather than a particular town, it was felt this general title would be more clearly understood.

The Ohio Village will bring to life the daily activities in a small community before the Civil War. Initially visitors will be able to observe 18 separate crafts and trades being practiced by skilled workers. These include a blacksmith, printer, gunsmith, cabinetmaker, tinsmith, shoemaker, and weaver.

The village hotel dining room will serve visitors from an authentic menu of the early nineteenth century. A general store, glass and china shop, town hall, doctor's office and early museum will also be open to the public.

The Ohio Village is being developed just north of the Historical Center on I-71 and 17th Avenue in Columbus.

Speaking of Beauty

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT HAIR WHEN YOU KNOW IT'S FOR KEEPS!

First of all you should know it is not indestructible. The roots are sturdy and can take considerable punishment, but a steady practice of pulling them tightly can kill them. Many times youngsters hair is pulled too tightly when braiding them, resulting in bald spots. Another dangerous practice is wearing a wig day after day. The scalp has to breathe and wearing a wig too constantly can smother it. Also, wigs that slip around can rub off hair on the contact spots.

For information about any beauty problem come in or telephone anytime. If you're new in town, let's be friends.

AROUND TOWN

ROLAND SUNKER

Big News For Next Week

WAIT UNTIL next week Columbus! You'll read some mighty big news regarding a new club in town. We will tell you this for now: it is located on North High St. near downtown. It will be a high class, elegant room, very intimate with good jazz, type of music. The place will be operated by a well known local operator, who has as many followers as do the entertainers he'll bring into the club. As of this writing, I don't know what name he has selected for the club. The place will be in full swing by this Thursday, February 14. Be sure to read the Around Town Column next week in the Spectator, for all the details.

Rock 'Em, Sock 'Em At Holiday OSU

AN EXPLOSIVE, rock'em, sock'em opened last week at the Holiday Inn-OSU. The Murphys have more action and showmanship, than any ten quintets I've seen or heard.

Clifford Murphy is the leader. The guy does everything well on stage. He sings, plays instruments and provides an electrifying spark to the rest of the members.

Assisting him are two other talented performers and musicians, David Gorsuch, keyboard wizzard, and Paul Stubblefield, a drummer, who almost takes your breath away with his speed and patterns.

But, three talented men do not make a razzle-dazzle quintet. You have to add two more ingredients, two very talented girl singers, by the names of Jacke Williams and Michelle Finch.

Jacke sings with plenty of gusto. She is a great swing type of singer. Shows plenty of drive, lots of poise and a voice that just won't stop. Michelle, on the other hand has a totally different style.She is more of the ballad type, with beautiful tonal qualities and a relaxing, easy approach.

ADD ALL five members together and you end up with an exciting, dynamite quintet. All are tremendous performers, all will aim to entertain, and they do stay right on target. It all happens at the Holiday Inn-OSU.

Get In The Spirit Of '76

IT HAS BEEN quite a while since I have dined at the Spirit of '76. Located in Eastland Shopping Center, The Spirit of '76 has always been one of my favorites Around Town.

Not only do I enjoy the decor, but I really like the friendly atmosphere. With people such as Mode behind the bar in the cocktail Lounge, and a waitress by the name of Ruth, one just can't go wrong.

Of course the first thing I do at the Spirit of '76, is to stop at the bar for a couple. Not because I'm that thirsty, but I have a real ball here. It has to be one of the friendliest lounges in town. As I said before, Mode helps makes this true.

AFTER TALKING with several people in the lounge, I headed toward the dining room and a festival of food.

My dining partner selected homemade clam chowder and I had the French onion soup. Both were out of this world. Next came the salad, with a very special rocquefort dressing. This was certainly a yummy taste treat. Very different.

Now, came the entree. I can't remember when we journeyed to the Spirit of 76 for dinner and ordered anything but their London Broil.

I LOVE good London Broil, but it is hard to find. The Spirit of '76 since they have been opened several years ago, has always served the finest. London Broil is very tender slices of Tenderloin, with a special blend of Parmesan, mushrooms and wine. An excellent London Broil is something you'll remember for a long time.

In fact, your entire dining experience at the Spirit of '76 will be an event that you'll talk about and think about for many a moon. It's the kind of place that makes you want to come back for more. As the saying goes today, "Get the Spirit," and head for the Spirit of '76.

Holiday On Ice Was Fun Time

LAST FRIDAY, I journeyed to the Cincinnati Gardens in Cincinnati as guest of AVCO Broadcasting to view the Spectacular Holiday On Ice. Friday was Bob Braun night, with most of the cast from the "50-50 Club," taking part. Of course, Bob, as well as the rest of the cast, turned in their usual entertaining, crowd pleasing performance.

After the show, a small press reception was held, which proved to be lots of fun for the press, the cast of the 50-50 Club and several members of the Holiday On Ice. Bob, as well as several staffers, brought along their children.

EVERYONE had a fine time. The Holiday On Ice production is the most spectacular vehicle in show business today. The lighting, costmes and sets are phenomenal.

So is Bob Braun and the 50-50 Club phenomenal. This television show, originating out of Cincinnati, and seen locally on WLW-C daily just keeps building and building and getting better and better. If you are one of the very few who do not view the show, take my word and do so tomorrow. It is a fast moving talk-variety show, offering something for everybody, young or old, male or female.

THE PROGRAM is informative,humorous, full of music and song, and features the top names in the world of entertainment, sports and politics every day.

If you are a working person like me, do what I do most of the time, I listen to the show on WLW Radio. To me, it is just as much fun. At least I know what's going on, it's better than nothing.

So, do yourself a favor, and tune in the 50-50 Club at noon every Monday through Friday on WLWC, and I promise you, your day will be just a little brighter.

Anna Russell Will Wow 'Em

ANNA RUSSELL, known as The Crown Princess of musical parody, will perform this Saturday at the Ohio Theatre. The Columbus Association for the Performing Arts is sponsoring Anna Russell.

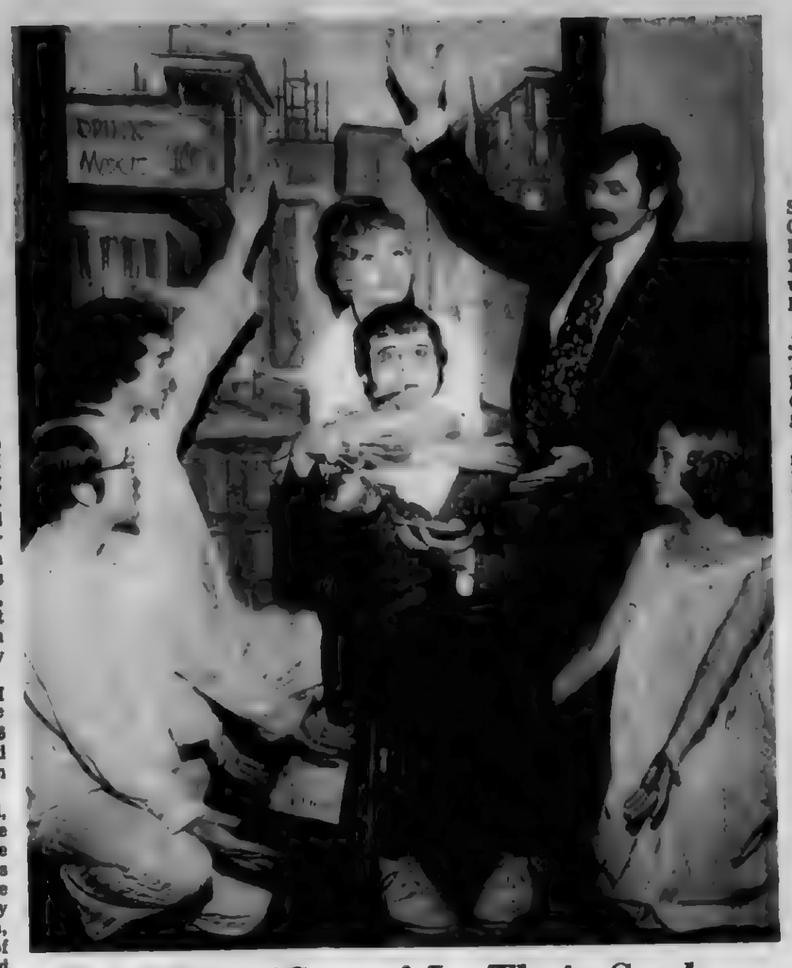
This is the first time she has played Columbus since February 26, 1964 when she played to a packed house at Mershon Auditorium. In that performance, Anna Russell kept the audience in stitches. Today, as then, Anna writes and composes most of the music for her show.

IF SHE is still as good as she was ten years ago, Anna Russell will have another packed house in stitches. The London Times has called her "The world's funniest woman." Just remember, Anna, The Ohio Theatre is much older than Mershon. I know you'll bring down the house, but not litteraly, I hope.

Anyway, run, don't walk, to the Ohio Theatre and get your tickets now. There are some good seats remaining. Prices are reasonable. Curtain is 8:30 p.m., this Saturday.

Skipping Around Town

Stopped in at Studio Five the other night. Love the intimate, cozy atmosphere. I was with a couple of fellows though. The place is made for boy-girl relationship. Music by Gemini proved to be a little loud for me. I think of the place as a spot to take that special someone for a tate de tate...From there headed up the street to see my old buddy Mark Adams, the owner-operator of Marco Polo's Lounge. He had a gal singing that knocked my and my companions right off our seats. Her name is Diane Basich, singing with a group called Spanky Shears. To be quite honest, forget the group, but any time you can hear Diane Basich sing, don't let neither rain, sleet, rain or snow keep you from hearing her. She is great. Take my word for it, you are going to hear a lot of big things about Diane Basich in the next couple of years...The Jerry and Nick Duo continues to keep people happy at the Holiday Inn-North. This an excellent duo, playing nice, soft danceable music, that is truely great for easy listening or dancing.Both are extremely talented, and love entertaining. You'll love them, also. It happens Thursday through Saturday, at the Holiday Inn-North...For the time of your life, it's the Dell Restaurant, a Columbus landmark since 1925. They serve great lunches and dinner. But, the piano bar offers plenty of fun in the evening. The singing waiters and waittresses all join in, and it's just one big happy, carnival type of atmosphere...Billy Brown is still knocking them dead at the Lincoln Lodge. He is absolutely great, and so is his partner, Samantha Lee. This little teen-ager sings up a storm...You know, even with all of the energy shortages, cold weather and such, the night scene Around Town is still a busy one. So, join the rest of the crowd, and get out and enjoy yourself this week. See You Around Town.



It's The 'Gypsy' In Their Souls

BILLY BROWN
featuring SAMANTHA LEE
APPEARING NIGHTLY - WESTERN MOTELS
LINCOLN LODGE 4950 W BROAD

Billy Brown is performing at the Lincoln Lodge 4950 W. Broad. For a one man act Billy Brown has to be about the best in Columbus.

His performance is sprinkled with earthly jokes and banter with the audience. He has a recollection of many Country and Blue Songs written in the last 30 years.

In 1959 Billy Brown did the original recording of "He'll Have To Go" for Columbia Records. It rose to No. 1 in many cities but according to Brown at this time Jim Reeves also recorded it in the same Style and Reeves recording became one of the biggest Country Hits ever.

Billy Brown a Country - Western Singer and Guitarist from Florida has been engaged for a six week contract at Lincoln Lodge.

He is drawing the largest crowds to the Lounge since it started with the Billy Brown Show entertaining with the up - town Country - Western Sound.

Brown's newest record has just been released on Big M Records-"Thank You Darling" and "Country Boy" Brown performance features versitility, personality and ad-lib humor in addition to a repertoire which includes yodelling, impersonations of Johnny Cash, Elvis Presley, Gene Autry, Eddie Arnold, Charlie Rich and Walter Brennan. He sings "Cool Clear Water" in the styles of various singers.

For an enjoyable and relaxing evening filled with pleasant fun, the Lounge at Lincoln Lodge is recommended.

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

For The Groom And His Men

THE CLASSIC black tuxedo in lightweight worsted with clovershaped velvet lapels. The dramatic black and white brocade dinner jacket worn with black worsted formal trousers.

SKYROCKETING to new importance is After Six's "Windsor" tuxedo. Velvet lapels in cloverleaf shape, framed with satin trim to match trousers. Comes in an exciting array of fabrics and shades to blend with the bride's color theme.

THE WYNCOTE, a striking new wedding coat that looks like linen but is actually Dacron Polyester...in white or a choice of pastels accented in black satin.

KEEPING APACE with the current bridal boom, After Six is generating more than its share of fashion excitement for the groom and his men with some very bright formal ideas for that special day.

The big flash on the wedding horizon is definitely Color...from soft pastels to more vivid shades in a variety of fabrics, patterns and textures. Color is offered in tuxedos, dinner jackets, formal separates and furnishings...the result is total coordination, from a fellow's tie to his toes. The whole concept of wedding fashions today is "togetherness"...and the new emphasis on color enables bride, groom and the entire wedding party to blend beautifully with a minimum of effort. In fact, formal wear rental specialists across the country are touted as the new breed of matchmakers, offering to apply their style and color expertise to each wedding.

AFTER SIX'S "Tux Tail" is one of the most versatile formal fashions around...with the modified cutaway front and longer back, it's the perfect marriage of tuxedo and tailcoat. Formal trousers are tailored with a slight flare and may be either black tropical worsted or a jacket-matching fabric.

THE "Windsor" is one of the newest looks for Spring bridegrooms. Uniquely styled, it has clover-shaped lapels in lush velvet framed with a handsome satin border, and comes in a choice of fabrics and colors. It is sensational teamed with a velvet U-shaped vest, perfectly matched to jacket lapels and bow tie, of course.

The most recent introduction in wedding wear is the "Wyncote", an elegant linen-like coat with contrasting velvet trim on the notch lapels and square flap pockets. The ever-popular "Adventurer" is a dashing three-button design with a courtly braid trim...available in a variety of shades and fabrics...super-cool Dacron polyesters...herringbone texture, pastel checks and brocades.

FRILLY SHIRTS are putting up a great front. Today's man can take his choice from pastel-trimmed white to a full spectrum of soft colors, shown to advantage with a coordinated bow tie...the oversized tear-drop is the current favorite.

It happens every day...boy meets girl and there's fireworks!

Liz Winbush Pays Debt By Helping The Handicapped

WHEN GOODWILL Industries talks about helping the handicapped, it doesn't just mean those with physical or mental disabilities, but anybody with a condition that is preventing them from getting and holding a job.

A good case in point is Liz Winbush who has just been named Columbus Goodwill "Worker of the Year."

The Goodwill "Worker of the Year" award is presented annually to a person connected with Goodwill who has demonstrated outstanding achievement in overcoming a handicap.

Mrs. Winbush is not crippled and she is not mentally ill or retarded. When she came to Goodwill in September, 1972, her handicaps were emotional and educational.

LIZ WAS the oldest child in a large family, and was often called upon to help her parents. Besides helping out at home, she began working at the age of 13, doing household tasks for neighbors.

She was not always able to attend school regularly, and after ninth grade, she dropped out and got married.

AT THE AGE when most girls are graduating from high school, Liz was caring for her home and three children, and often working in restaurants or hospitals to help her husband support the family.

There was no time to even think about finishing high school.

The pressure of heavy family responsibilities at an early age caused Liz to develop nervous and emotional problems, and in July 1970, she was admitted to Columbus State Hospital for treatment.

It was during her three week stay there that she realized she was not satisfied with her life, and resolved to change it.

WITH THE HELP of counselors at the hospital and the Bureau of Vocational Rehabilitation she was placed in the Goodwill business training program, where she learned business English, business math, filing, clerical record keeping, the operation of office machinery and how to work the switchboard.

Liz Winbush

Her instructor, Joyce Curtis said that during her period of training Liz was both an inspiration and a direct help to fellow trainees who were less fortunate than she.

AT PRESENT Liz is secretary to the Goodwill Community Relations Department, a job she has held since completing her six month training program in April 1973.

Officially, she handles all secretarial duties of her own department, helps out with work of other departments and fills in on the switchboard when she's needed.

Unofficially she functions as a sympathetic listener and advisor to Goodwill trainees presently struggling to change the course of their lives as Liz has managed to do.

LOOKING BACK on the past year Liz said, "Goodwill really did change my life. When I first came in I didn't think I'd be able to get a job, especially the type of position I have now. If it hadn't been for the people and the training here, I'd still be carrying bed pans".

She gives a special thanks to her business instructors Joyce Curtis and Ann Broyles, and to her counselor Barb Bolen.

Liz received her award at an assembly for all Goodwill employees and trainees last month. Also receiving certificates were Dudley Black, Iva Goodrich and Charles Lehman, named as runners-up in the competition.

Liz will be considered, along with the winners from Marion, Portsmouth, Newark and Chillicothe, for the title of Goodwill Worker of the Year for Central Ohio. That award will be presented at the Goodwill Annual Dinner to be held March 14.

The Central Ohio winner will be a candidate for Ohio Goodwill Worker of the Year who will represent the state in the national competition.

All Brides Are Beautiful!

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

EXQUISITE ivory silkened organdy gown with appliques of white Venetian daisy motifs. Matching shoulder length mantilla over illusion. Teeny proportioned gown by Priscilla.

PICCIONE shows yards and yards of organza in a princess gown, with full circular train. Venise lace fashions the capelet bodice. All gowns available at Montaldo's.

FOR AN at home wedding, Priscilla created this charming natural colored plisse' embroidered with pink and green flowers on the bodice...baroque sleeves with delicate Venetian lace, repeated at the hem.

HOW LUCKY you are that this is your year to plan a wedding...bridal gowns and attendants gowns have never been more beautiful.

THE DESIGNERS, who dream up such things, have gone all out for romance with a contemporary flair. A bride can pick and choose to her heart's content to suit her life style...from the most formal church wedding to a chapel wedding, a garden wedding, or an individualized ceremony "in the park".

SILHOUETTES vary so much this season that it is possible for every bride to choose the gown of her dreams...the Southern belle, the princess silhouette, or the sophisticated bride with ruffles...new ways with the hood and fluid body looks.

FAVORED FABRICS for spring-summer are jerseys, English net, sheer organdies in white or ivory...romanticized with beautiful laces delicately appliqued and pearled. The dream of "floating down the aisle" becomes a reality in yards of billowy chiffon. A touch of color in flowers of pastel organdies...blue, pink, yellow or green on white...makes for a lovely garden wedding.

VEILS are the final touch, and usually make the difference in the total look of the wedding. For the bride who wishes a "total look"...gowns, headpieces and mantilla are perfectly coordinated to make an important fashion statement.

ATTENDANTS GOWNS are youthful and contemporary...linens, chiffons, jerseys, sheer cottons, and great synthetics that do not wrinkle and are suitable for other parties after the wedding. Small and delicate patterns in soft colors prevail, and dresses with capelets are prominent.

MONTALDO'S will be showing many of these exquisite bridal fashions by the most famous designers...Priscilla, Bridal Couture, Piccione, Bianchi, Galena, Pandora, to name a few...along with attendants gowns and Mother's gowns and lingerie...on Saturday, February 16th at 11:00 a.m...you're cordially invited to attend. If you are planning a wedding in the near future...here's one showing you won't want to miss!

Moment Of Truth Faces Most Cage Loop Hopefuls

Down To The Wire At Last

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Spectator Sports Writer

WE'VE ARRIVED at the final week of the regular season and this should be the time when those league crowns are tucked away already and those non-titlist are warming up for rejuvination in the state tournaments.

But this is not so!

This, the final week of league cage competition, will pit the survival of the fittest and thanks to some surprises that occured last week its decision time for those area roundball quintets in the City, Ohio Capital, Central Catholic and Mid-Eight Leagues.

NO HEAD on competition is slated for Mohawk, Northland, Whitehall, Mt. Vernon, Watterson, Hartley, Bexley, Grove City or Urbana but if they can all gain wins over their upset-minded foes it'll be co-championship time for all of them.

The flip a coin City Circuit saw West's rampaging Cowboys perform upset number two in downing Northland 75-61 and casting a vote that is for real last week. Mohawk, meanwhile, joined the toprung in whacking Whetstone handily but Eastmoor couldn't meet the challenge against East losing by four and losing a championship bid.

That gives Northland and Mohawk identical 9-3 marks entering this final Friday. Both will hve the home floor edge, Mohawk hosting South and Northland entertaining neighborhood rival Whetstone.

ASIDE FROM those title bearing games an important momentum contest will be staged at Walnut Ridge when West arrives. Walnut Ridge, a victor over Mifflin last week has been gaining steam and both should be fighting for a new life in the tournies cruising hard for this all-important final victory and a lift.

The OCC was a bag of tricks last week but Russ Gregg and his Whitehall gang will be looking for some straight shooting when they host Westland Friday. Mt. Vernon, the other co-leader, is home against pesky Westerville coming off a destruction of Westland.

WORTHINGTON was tied with Whitehall and Mt. Vernon going into last week's debacle and looked to have a win tucked away with a four point bulge and only :14 left.

But Terry Burris performed magic for Whitehall with an inside bucket and with only :02 showing on the clock Ram forward Bill Besalski picked up a loose ball and fired it into a quick two-pointer all in one motion, his only basket of the game.

That sent it into overtime and that was strictly Whitehall, compliments of Burris being responsible for the first six points of the extra period. So that makes Whitehall and Mt. Vernon the obvious picks for a co-championship assuming things go as expected for both this Friday.

CCL ACTION wasn't quite as dramatic last week but Hartley showed Watterson a thing or two in manhandling the Eagles 80-48 behind the hurculean effort of blond bombing Mike Gilliland who poured in 35 points and held Watterson's backcourt ace Sam Dixon to a scant two points.

That bulges that league two ways between Watterson and Hartley as Watterson rates the toughest assignment hosting Ready while Hartley travels to DeSales.

BEXLEY'S win power ran one point thin against Grove City last week opening the door for the Grove Cityans and Mid-Eight League rival Urbana. Friday's action could render a three-way tie there if Bexley is successful at London, Urbana at Groveport and Grove City at home against hapless Hilliard.

So after all of the lead ups this is really the week that will etch the record books and barring upsets would bring a cluster of champions around town.

Other recognizables in the crowd with super individual performances besides Gilliland and Burris who had 37 in his stardom there was Wes Redd for his 23 point performance and all-round floor leadership in West's win. Teammates Warren Lewis, Greg Biffle, and Ron Williams also had double figure performances for West.

HILTON HALE was a sparkplug in East's denting of Eastmoor while Ron Marshall and Tod Loe headed the Walnut Ridge win over Mifflin. Gary Jordan, Mike Blount and Ron Lathem were scoring leaders for Franklin Heights in its quest of Marysville in that Metro League affair.

CCL standouts included Eric Stinson and Mike Hausfeld for sparking St. Charles to a hairline two-point win over DeSales. Tony Walker, Barry Longhino and Tom Hefferman were stalwarts in Ready's shellacking of Wehrle.

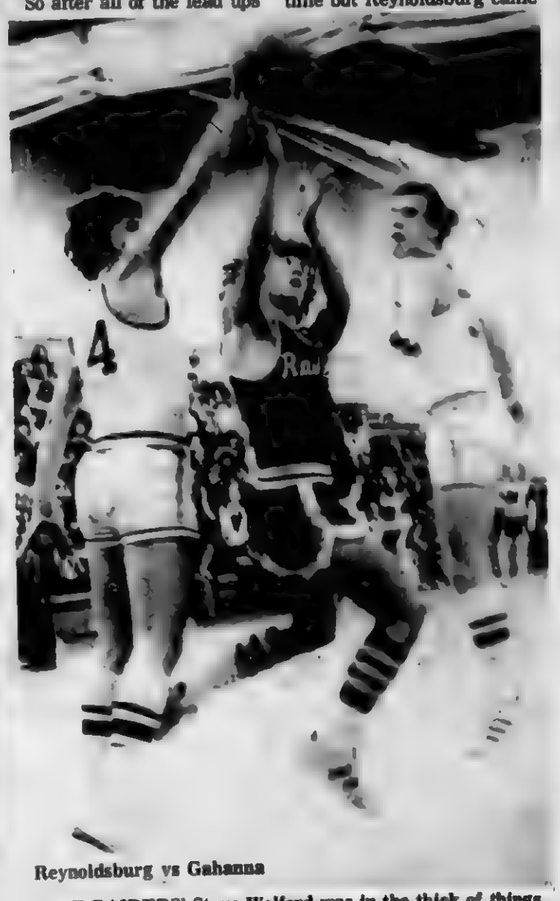
IN THE OCC Ed Williams had another big night, 28 this time but Reynoldsburg came out on the short end of a count with Gahanna. Gregg Spellman owned a hot hand in Westland's loss as the sharp forward connected for 27 while Don Brough and Steve Cuffe double figured it for Worthington in its downfall.

SHORTS: The Ohio Capital Conference wrestling tournament will be staged this weekend, both Friday and Saturday, at Worthington High School.

WORTHINGTON —is the strong choice to win it...And the City League has its biggie this weekend also this time at Central. Mark EASTMOOR as a solid there...Credit that strong ST. CHARLES basketball squad with a string of improvements as they will hopefully enter the district tourney with a 12 game winning streak...

Whitehall vs Worthington

IT WAS A BATTLE of the giants under the boards for both Whitehall and Worthington in their overtime thriller last week won by Whitehall's Rams. Tall and terrific Ram Terry Burris (43) grabbed this one (1 of 29) as he outleaped Worthington's Steve Cuffe (30). That's Cardinal Tim Crandall (24) at left and Ram Benton Tedlie (11) at right.



Reynoldsburg vs Gahanna

Times Are Changing

Whitehall vs Worthington

ONE OF THE KEY plays in the overtime period was this rebound contributed by Whitehall's Steve Marinello (33) and the snare put a damper on the Rams opportunity to get a two-pointer to match the Rams' two-pointer by Burris that put them in the overtime lead for keeps. That's the Rams Chris Zag (41) backing up Marinello.

City Mat Meet Starts Thursday

Finals, Saturday, February 16 starting at 7 p.m. Admission: $2.

Will Handle Trophies

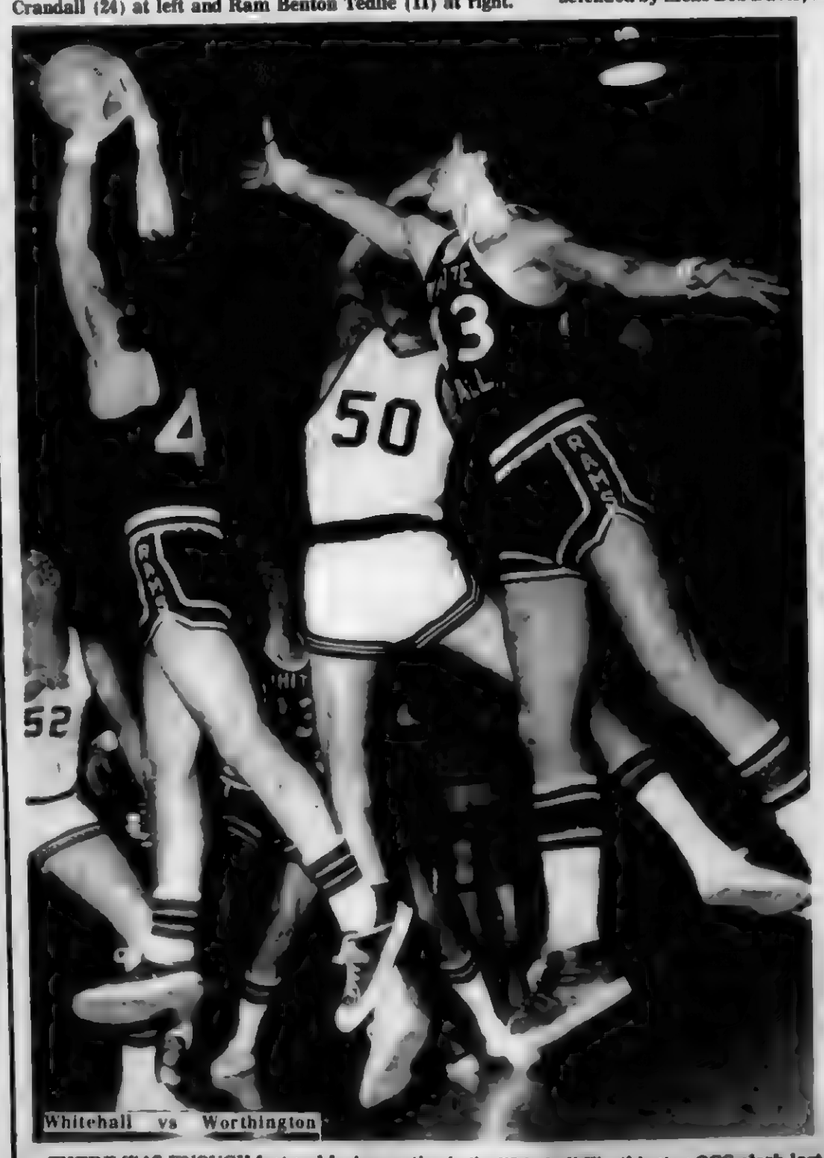
The Hartman Corporation has been formed to design and produce custom trophies and awards and to concentrate on the sale of major lines of bowling equipment through its Pro Shop, according to Larry Hartman, president.

He added that in addition to standard trophies and plaques, The Hartman Corporation will custom design and produce awards to individual client specifications for every type of presentation.

Manufacturing facilities are at 2415 N. High St. with sales outlets at that address and 3860 E. Main St.

The Pro Shop is managed by John Fabbro, local professional bowler.

Terry Theis is general manager of the trophy division.



Whitehall vs Worthington

THERE WAS ENOUGH fast and furious action in the Whitehall-Worthington OCC clash last Friday to last most basketball fanatics a lifetime. Hard-fought board play and field goal and foul try accuracy were sensational at times and produced one of the best OCC title opportunity games of the season. Whitehall's Chris Zag (41) corralled this rebound that was also contested for by Ram Terry Burris (43) and Worthington cager Don Brough (50) while at left the Cards' Doug Burkhardt (52) and Ram Steve Marinello (33) get ready to follow up the play. Winter Action Plentiful At Dillon State Park

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ohio has 62 state parks, but most Ohioans are familiar with only a few of the parks and the opportunities for outdoor recreation that they offer. This one of series of stories designed to make Ohioans more aware of what their state parks have to offer.

DILLON State Park is ready for winter action.

This recreational gem, seven miles north of Zanesville in the Licking River valley, has an impressive array of winer activities. Action ranges from ice skating and ice fishing through sledding and skiing to the exhilaration of ice boating and ice sledding.

FOR EQUALLY enjoyable winter activity, Dillon's 6,218 acres are laced with seven miles of hiking and nature trails, including the Ruffed Grouse Self-Guided Nature Trail.

Dillon State Park, 55 miles east of Columbus and 110 miles south of Cleveland, is off State Route 142.

"In the early 1960s, when the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers purchased land for Dillon dam and reservoir, the Ohio Department of Natural Resources was presented with a perfect opportunity to design and construct a modern, complete park," said Frank Lomax III, the department's deputy director for recreation and resources management.

THE PARK was completed in 1968. The obvious success of the designers is apparent in the lean, tasteful lines of the park administration building; the large, modern, boat marina; the court games area and swimming beach; the modern vacation cabins and the camping areas.

These facilities are located in this spacious park so they don't encroach on one antoher, but still leave thousands of acres of woodland untouched for hikers.

MOST WINTER activity is centerd around the 1,330-acre Dillon Lake. And the most spectacular wintertime activity is ice boating.

Dillon State Park manager Gary Every calls the lake perfect for ice boating. "We really get a brisk downlake wind in the winter that enables ice boaters to really move, sometimes at speeds of more than 40 miles per hour across the nearly frictionless ice," says Every.

ICE BOATS are either specifically designed for the sport or conventional sailing hulls modified with runners.

The lake is also used for sledding and ice skating and, in January and February, ice fishers take good catches of bluegill and crappie.

Dillon's 700-foot sledding and skiing hill is popular with kids of all ages. On snowy days, the slope is covered with sleds, toboggans and anything else that will slide or tumble downhill.

SOME DILLON sledders add an unusual twist to sledding by using giant inner tubes on the steep, slippery slope. The huge tube, supporting a mass of flailing arms and legs, provides a bouncy downslope trip which is often interrupted when a rider leans a little too close to the snow and upsets the tube.

The fickle inner tube always rights itself in a moment and skims down thehill leaving its occupants in a laughing, happy heap.

THE HILL is near the class A camping area, so it is convenient to winter campers.

Every said winter camping in the class A area is open only to self-contained units, since heated washhouses and latrines have been closed as an energy conservation measure.

THE AREA will beopen for tent camping during the eighthannual winter campout February 22-24, which also will be at Mohican, Indian Lake and Hueston Woods state parks. The class A washhouses and latrines will be opended in these parks for the campouts.

Every said a winter weekend stay in a park vacation cabin is becoming increasingly oppular with Dillon visitors. Renting one of the park's 29 deluxe vacation cabins means a hot shower and a warm cup of hot chocolate is not too far away after a day of ice fishing, sledding or boating.

THE GAS-HEATED, two bedroom cabins each sleep six people, and are completely furnished and stocked with linens, towels and cooking and eating utensils. They rent for $25 for one day, $21 per day for two ormore days and $110 per week.

Hiking is another important winter activity in Dillon State Park. Many hikers find a winter trek through snow-covered woods is bracing and spiritually regenerating. The peace and solace of winter woodlands is a welcome respite from the daily bustle of most Ohioans.

THE LACK offoliage will make is easier to spot one of the park's many deer, especially on hikes in the early evening.

The park has two tame deer. One, Peaches, is free to roam but she is usually found near the park office.

A young buck, Bambi, very populkr with park visitors, is kept in a large, fenced area behind the park maintenance building. After suffering brain damage in an auto accident, Bambi was nursed back to health by a local veterinarian.

Every said most warm weather activity at Dillon centers around the modern 1,300-foot beach and court games area on the northwestern shore of the lake. A bathhouse with showers, lockers and a snack bar is nearby.

THE GAMES AREA is next to the bathhouse and includes tennis, volleyball, handball and paddleball courts; eight shuffleboard and 12 horseshoe courts and a playground area with swings, slides and climbing bars.

Excellent deer and upland game hunting can be found in the adjacent public hunting area.

Boat owners can rent 64 docis at the Dillon Lake marina while visitors without boats of their own can rent rowboats, paddleboats, skiboats, canoes, sailboats and a pontoon boat.

THERE IS SO much to see and do at Dillon State Park that visitors may not have time to see Dillon Dam, which blocks the Licking River and makes this superabundanceof recreational activity available. The dam is operated by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Tom Lilly, the dam's chief engineer, or one of his staff is always ready to provide a personally-guided tour of the dam and the floodgate control tower.

The $33 million earthen-fill structure is 118 feet high and 1,725 feet long. Lilly said its three huge flood gates could drain the lake's normal pool of about four billion gallons in about five days, "without causing a riffle downstream."

The dam, which controls a drainage area of about 748 square miles, protects Zanesville and the lower reaches of the Licking and Muskingum rivers.

CABIN COMFORT –A wintertime stay in one of Dillon State Park's 29 deluxe vacation cabins is becoming more and more popular, Many of the cabins overlook 1,330-acre Dillon Lake and offer cabin guests spectacular views of the ice and snow-covered landscape Each two bedroom, furnished cabin sleeps six and is stocked with linen, dishes and cooking utensils. Dillon State Park is in Muskingum County, off State Route 142, seven miles north of Aznesville. (Ohio Departmentof Natural Resources photo)

TUBE EACH HIS OWN – Sledders at Dillon State Park in Muskingum County add an unusual twist to sledding by using inner tubes to slide down the park's steep, 700-foot sledding hill. Dillon boasts a tremendous variety of winter action including ice boating, ice fishing, ice skating, ice sledding, camping and hiking. The park is off State Route 142, seven miles north of Zanesville. (Ohio Department of Natural Resources photo)

Jewish History To Be Documented

A group composed of three Columbus organizations have banded together to research the history of the Jewish community in the capitol city.

The Ohio Historical Society, Ohio State University and Columbus Jewish Federation have launched a three-year project to document the lives, interests and contributions of the Columbus Jewish community from 1850 to the present.

According to Robert Glick, chairman of the advisory board, the group will conduct the most extensive study ever made of the Jewish contribution in Columbus.

Initially, the group will concentrate on collecting historic materials on the Jewish community. This information will then be compiled into a 200 to 300 page history.

Anyone having information on documents relating to Columbus Jewish history should contact the Ohio Historical Society Archives-Library.

Up Lunch Price 10 Cents

Whitehall Board May Close East Main School

By ELSIE V. WEAVER

Whitehall--In its regular meeting, Wednesday, Feb. 13, the Whitehall City School Board voted to install burglar alarm equipment in Robinwood Elementary School, increased the prices of all school lunches ten cents, and studied the possibility of closing East Main Street Elementary School.

The meeting opened with a reminder from the Robinwood School principal, James Carle, of the city-wide newspaper curb-side pickup, Saturday, March 9.

ATTENTION was also called to the fact that COE-TV has a program for helping those over 19 who have no high school diploma pass the GED test, which is widely accepted in place of the diploma.

The Whitehall Recreation department was again granted the use of school buildings for spring and summer programs.

Superintendent Gilbert Johnson pointed out that he had received estimates of the cost of burglar equipment the board had hoped to install in all schools except East Main Street School. So sensitive that the drop of a pencil can activate a sensor which sounds an alarm at the Whitehall police station, the equipment can be monitored by the police radio operator, and the department know where to dispatch police. The cost was said to be $500 for equipment and $10 an hour for labor.

THE BOARD decided that since they would not know how many man hours would be involved in the installation in all six schools, they voted to equip only Robinwood Elementary at this time, as a test of the expense involved. Robinwood has been the target of burglars several times recently.

When the equipment is put into all the schools, insurance rates will be considerably lower.

Johnson quoted figures showing that the cafeterias lost money each month last year, and so far this school year. The board decided that a ten cent increase per meal would make the cafeterias break even and approved the increase, effective March 1.

FORMERLY having the "lowest lunch price in any Franklin County School," the elementary lunch cost goes from 30 cents to 40; junior high school lunches go to 45 cents. Staff lunches will be 50 cents.

A recent inventory of audio-viosual aids and musical instruments revealed need for additional supplementary insurance. The board voted to increase coverage at an additional $369 premium.

The feasibility of closing East Main Street School, which has been discussed in other years, came up for a large share of the night's discussion. In order to save the more than $24,000 annual expense of operating the old building, ways were considered to find room in other schools for the six classrooms of students and one kindergarten plus their teachers. Johnson said they were trying not to split families, so that students would not be going to two or three different schools. Teacher-pupil ratios, it was felt, should not be pushed up too far, especially in the first grade.

THE SUPERINTENDENT promised to give further study to the possible distribution of the East Main students and teachers, and accomplish, too, satisfactory teacher-pupil ratios by the next board meeting. The possibility of changing attendance areas by next fall was mentioned to help achieve the proper ratio.

Several groups have come forth with offers to rent or rent-lease the old building if and when the board closes it.

One organization would like to rent it for up to $1000 per month and would be prepared to occupy it immediately.

ANOTHER SCHOOL system would like to rent it for a year and transport in 400 elementary school children.

The Whitehall Recreation Department had had feelers out, it was reported, for possibly using it for classes or clubs. Another use mentioned was for MR and NH classes, but necessary government financing is uncertain at this time.

President Wayne Davis said it would not be suitable for physically handicapped students and it would not be feasible to remodel the building for their use. He does not want to see it remodeled or allowed to deteriorate, either, in case the board would ever need it again to house their own regular classes.

THE BOARD took no action on the matter, preferring to explore all possibilities and await another report from Johnson at the next meeting.

In other action, Carol Sims was transferred to Rosemore Junior High School remedial reading, a program made available for the rest of the year by the receipt of federal funds. Her replacement was also hired.

The board will consider, again, the problem of how much levy millage to ask at the May 7 primary and to settle on a 1974 budget at an adjourned regular meeting which reconvenes Feb. 25.

THE MILLAGE MATTER awaits more input from WEA and OPSE; the budget figure will take more time to arrive at because of inflation and the inclusion of between $120,000 to $130,000 for necessary maintenance projects.

'Israeli Point Of View' Guild Lecture Topic

Bexley-The last of the four-lecture series on "The Critical Mid-East and Russia," sponsored by the Women's Guild of St. Alban's Church, 333 S. Drexel Ave., will be held Thursday, Feb. 21. Walter W. Birge, a former diplomat, will speak on "Israeli Point Of View."

The lecture will start at 10:30 a.m. and will be followed by a panel discussion with all four speakers of the lectures featured: besides Birge, Dr. James L. Burke, chairman of the History Department, Capital University; Dr. Russell Smith, member of the History Department, Capital University; Dr. Fred Cadora, professor of Arabic, Ohio State University.

Walter Birge was graduated from Harvard University with honors in history and has had post-graduate study at London School of Economics, George Washington University and Turner's Diplomatic School in Washington.

He served as foreign service officer for U.S. State Department in Latin America, Turkey, the Middle East, Czechoslovakia, French West Africa and the Department of Commerce, Washington.

Careers Center Drawings Unveiled

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Staff Writer

Columbus--Building once again dominated the agenda as the Columbus School Board convened for its Feb. 12 Committee of the Whole meeting.

Preliminary drawings for four of six new buildings to be constructed at the Metropolitan Careers Center were unveiled along with details of Phase III of the Columbus Public Schools' $89.5 million building program.

The Career Center buildings, which will house health occupations, business education, food services and performing arts programs, are part of the major educational complex being developed on 49 acres of the old Fort Hayes site. The land was acquired by the school board when it was declared surplus by the federal government in 1971.

Bill Brubaker of the architectural firm of Perkins and Will, Chicago, discussed the drawings with board members, noting that all buildings in the new center will be designed to create a campus setting. Of particular interest is the Business Education Center. This one-story structure includes a shopping mall with the various programs to be showcased along each side.

BRUBAKER SAID, "This will have everything on display just like a beautiful mall."

One of the board's concerns about the mall setting was the question of the student's work being affected by being on display. Brubaker told the board most work would be done towards the rear and if the students felt "looked at" this was an environment they would face during employment.

Jack Gibbs, executive director of the Careers Center, said that Phase I programs projected to begin in September, 1975, would accommodate 1,870 students from grades 11 and 12 in the following areas: business and office education (350), distributive education (390), home economics (200), trade and industry (80), health occupatins (500) and pre-professional (350).

Total budget for Phase I of the Metropolitan Careers Center is $5 million. Four million dollars of this is for construction or remodeling of six buildings and $1 million for equipment. One existing building is being remodeled for use as an administrative, planning and staff development center. The sixth building in Phase I will be a health services clinic for which architectural plans have not yet been developed.

MAKING THE presentation to the board on the details of Phase III of the building program was Dr. Howard Merriman, executive director of development for the school system.

Merriman told the Board that launching of Phase III would mean about 75 per cent of the building program would now be underway.

Board President Mrs. Virginia Prentice said, "Seventy-five per cent of the total promises we made when planning for the passage of the bond issue is an awful lot. This is definitely an important part of the building program."

A total 81 new projects have been added in the latest phase of the building program including additions to or remodeling of seven junior-senior high schools, six junior high schools, 65 elementary buildings and an addition to Alexander Graham Bell School for the Deaf. Two new buildings to be constructed are a Bethel-Godown Road area elementary school and a Northeast Career-Vocational Center on a site not yet determined.

CRITERIA FOR selecting the 81 new projects stems from five critical needs identified by the district during the campaign for the bond issue in November, 1972, Merriman explained.

These needs are relief of overcrowding, expansion of vocational and special education programs, addition of library-learning centers and multi-purpose rooms and replacement or remodeling of out-of-date buildings.

Giving a progress report on Phase I and Phase II of the school building program, Merriman told the board that 54 projects are presently under way. A total of 18 buildings are actually under construction while plans for another five buildings are out for bids.

The board has approved preliminary drawings for 18 new buildings and architects are presently doing working drawings for these structures. Architects are also developing preliminary drawings for another 12 buildings. and educational specifications for one new elementary school according to Merriman.

Of the $55 million budgeted for Phase I and Phase II projects, over $6 million has been awarded in contracts and professional fees. Merriman said this amount is only $159,000 more than the $6,221,000 originally budgeted for these contracts. He described the 2.5 per cent increase as "remarkably low" in view of inflated building costs.

A breakdown of the building program's $89.5 million budget shows $30 million to be spent in Phase I, $25 million in Phase II, $21 million in Phase III and $13.5 million for future phases.

Rosemore To Send 39 To District Science Fair

Whitehall-On Tuesday, Feb. 12, the independent science projects of 193 Rosemore Junior High School Students were judged in the annual Rosemore Science Fair. The range of interest expressed by the students in their projects vaired from "How do various household liquids (milk, beer, bleach, vinegar) affect human hair?" to "How can the earth's gravitational pull be converted to electrical energy?" and from experiments with the interdependence of life in an ecosystem, to experiments dealing with lipid chemistry.

According to tabulations of the 40 pairs of impartial judges, 53 projects were rated Superior, 72 were rated Excellent, 44 were rated good, and 24 projects were rated satisfactory. The 35 projects that receive the highest number of points are elegible to enter the Central Ohio District Science Fair at Ohio State University on March 9.

The teaching staff at Rosemore hope that for each student the motivation, involvement, and hard work that go into a science project will help the student maintain a scientific attitude, a staff spokesman said.

Science projects that were rated Superior were entered by the following students (the first 39 won places as District Fair participants and alternates):

Board, COTA Have Discussions

East Columbus--Representatives of the Columbus Board of Education and COTA held an exploratory conference Feb. 13 to discuss the questions of a reduced student fare and services that COTA might provide to the school system.

Following the meeting, Mrs. Virginia Prentice, Board of Education president, said, "I believe we could be of mutual benefit to each other. Not only could COTA help provide transportation for our much expanded Columbus Plan, but also provide transportation for students in order to reduce the use of private cars in the energy crisis."

It was agreed that a detailed study should be conducted by COTA officials and school officials to determine where services could be implemented that would be beneficial to all concerned. No time was set when any decision will be made.

Attending the meeting were Robert Holland, president of the COTA Board of Trustees; Norman Folpe, member of the Board of Trustees; Mrs. Prentice; Dr. David Hamlar, vice-president, Board of Education; Dr. John Ellis, superintendent of schools; and Charles Hall, assistant superintendent, business affairs.

How To Select Lures

WITH SO many manufacturers and importers offering such a large number of lures on today's market you can really get confused. The purpose of this tip is to help you round out a tackle box already in use, or get together a basic assortment of artificial lures.

I would say that you should buy only lures that are nationally advertised or recommended by a friend who has used one with success. The bargain imports sometimes work, but they're usually a gamble.

FOR EASY spincasting a lure should not weight less than one eight ounce and no more than three eights ounce. When choosing surface lures, forget color.

Many of these lures have light bellies and different colored backs and the back isn't even seen by the fish, however I do like an all black surface lure for bass fishing at night.

A VERY productive class of lures are the ones that float at rest, but dive under when retrieved, they're hard to beat. Try to pick colors to match the bait fish common in the water you're fishing.

Add a couple of sinking lures or spinners to use when fish are in water below ten feet, a weedless spoon and a jar of pork strip. This should give you a basic assortment for most fishing conditions.

IF YOU use a certain lure at just the right time and it works, it becomes a favorite, but the very same lure at the wrong time and no fish, you consider it a dud and way back in the tackle box it goes.

As an experiment, the next time you're into a school of fish and they're hitting, try the lure you considered a dud. You might be surprised.

DO FISH see and react to different colors? That's a mighty important question to ask yourself when trying to figure out which of those different colored lures to plunk down a couple of bucks for.

It's my opinion that a fish can distinguish light from dark. If a friend tells me fish are hitting on a certain color lure, all I want to know, is it light or dark. As an example I've had good luck fishing light colored lures on bright days or in clear water, and dark colored lures on clouded days or in stained water.

You might ask what do you use at night? Just what you're thinking, dark colored lures.

Just remember, light when it's light and dark when it's dark.

IF YOU become a fishing bug like I have you'll look in your tackle box one day and say, "I wonder which lure will work today, let's see, that one, this one, or maybe it's the one I have in my other tackle box."

Easter Seal Drive Will Be Steamed Up Mar. 1-Apr. 14

CHADRICK RAY, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ray, 2579 Homeacre Dr., and Mrs. William Ellis, Seal Day chairman for the First Community Church location, spread a little sunshine to promote the February 26 letter assembley event for the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children.

SEAL DAY for the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children will be bright this year with a theme of "sunshine."

The traditional letter assembly day, promoted as an event to "bring sunshine days to crippled children," will take place Tuesday, Feb. 26.

VOLUNTEERS will assemble the Easter Seal letters at two locations that day: at First Community Church, 1320 Cambridge Blvd., with Mrs. William Ellis, 2291 Walhaven Court, in charge; and at the Society's treatment center, 565 Children's Drive West (corner of Parsons and Livingston) with Mr. J.D. Salzgeber, 2831 Exmoor Rd., in charge.

The several hundred volunteers will re present various social, fraternal and church organizations as well as members of the Braces, the Society's auxilliaries; and members of the Guilds of First Community Church.

Volunteers for Seal Day are to report at 9 a.m. at either of the two locations and bring a sack lunch. Tea, coffee and a special sunshine dessert will be served.

WORKERS are still needed at both First Community Church and at the treatment center. Persons or groups wishing to volunteer for Seal Day are asked to call the church, 488-0681 or the Society, 253-5523.

THE LETTERS processed during the one day event will contain a sheet of the 1974 Easter Seals, an appeal letter from Mike Peepe, the honorary Easter Seal Chairman, and a return envelope.

Goodwill Was Helped

To the Editor:

Goodwill Industries would like to thank you for your part in the emergency clothing drive.

We collected over 1500 bags of clothing in the three Saturday area pick-ups, plus additional furniture and assorted goods.

Without the help of the press, the public would not have responded the way they did. The amount given did not help us stock the warehouse again, but it did bring us to a full work schedule as long as the donations come in daily.

Yours truly,

Television Series Designed To Fit Education Needs

AN EXCEPTIONAL television series designed to assist individuals to prepare for a high school equivalency certificate will premiere on WOSU-TV, Columbus, WPBO-TV, Portsmouth, and WGSF-TV, Newark, Monday March 4.

Only two lessons a week, each repeated at least twice, will permit the student his choice of viewing times.

The program, Your Future Is Now, is a series of 60 thirty-minute programs produced by Manpower Education Institute, New York, a non-profit foundation whose aim is to solve urban problems caused by automation, lack of education and underemployment.

The project is considered by Richard B. Hull, director of The Telecommunications Center, O.S.U., and Roy McKinley, executive director of Central Ohio Educational Television Foundation, Inc., to be the singularly largest and most comprehensive educational offering in the history of the two organizations.

ANYONE who is 19 and who has been out of school for at least one year and whose high school class has been graduated is eligible for registration in the telecourse.

Completion of the course will more fully prepare the student to take the General Development Tests (GED) through which the high school equivalency certificate is granted.

Three study guides to be used in conjunction with the telecasts can be obtained by sending $10 to FUTURE, 2400 Olentangy River Road, Columbus, Ohio.

COURSES will include (in this order) 26 lessons in social studies, science and literature; 17 lessons in grammar, usage, spelling and vocabulary; and 17 lessons in mathematics.

"Your Future Is Now" will be telecast so that a student viewer can start and see a whole sequence several times over a span of 115 months.

Sponsored by The Ohio State Board of Education, "Your Future Is Now" will offer the public an opportunity to replenish their skills bank and prepare for that outreach to a better future.

A special preview showing will be presented on all stations Tuesday, Feb. 26 from 6 to 6:30 p.m. and Thursday, Feb. 28 from 10:30 to 11 p.m.

Casto Organization Promotes Goulston

Frederic P. Goulston has been appointed Director of Advertising and Public Relations for the Don M. Casto Organization, according to an announcement made by Don M. Casto, Jr., president of the firm.

In addition he will serve as Director of the Shopping Center Promotion Agency, the in-house advertising group that promotes the 23 Casto-developed shopping centers in five midwestern states.

Goulston joined the Casto Organization in 1962 in Dayton, Ohio, where he handled the advertising and promotion of the Dayton Town and Country and Miracle Lane shopping centers.

These were the third and fourth centers the Casto Organization had built following Columbus Town and Country and Central Point.

He was transferred to Columbus in 1963 to handle the promotions for Northern Lights and Great Western shopping centers. Later he took on Great Southern, Great Eastern and University City, before the appointment to his present post.

Goulston holds the title of ASPD (Accredited Shopping Center Promotion Director) which is awarded shopping center promotion directors by the International Council of Shopping Centers after a minimum period of full-time promotion duties and upon completion of a comprehensive written and oral examination.

At the present time there are only 137 persons, nationally, who have earned this rating.

A graduate of the Marquette University College of Journalism in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, in 1942, Goulston served as a Public Relations Officer in the United States Air Force during World War II in the Pacific area.

Prior to joinging the Casto Organization, he was a civilian employee in the Public Information Office at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base in Dayton.

Spanish Couture Collections

SPAIN – From the moment I boarded the fabulous Iberia jumbo jet in New York City, to my arrival in Barcelona and Madrid, it was one glorious adventure.

As a guest of the CAMARA DE LA MODA ESPANOLA to view the Alta Costura Spring-Summer Collections...I was treated royally. Everyone went out of their way to be gracious to "the American journalist".

Not since the days of the great Spanish Couturier, Balenciaga, have I viewed such irresistible fashions. Spain can really take its place along with Rome and Paris as far as their couture is concerned, and since this was my first visit to the Spanish Collections, I was delightfully impressed.

PEDRO RODRIQUEZ kicked off the shows, in his attractive atelier, with a group of exciting costumes...short jacket suits with wide, wide pants or with pleated skirts just covering the knee...short coats over print dresses. Rodriguez used great originality in his combinations of colors...shades of blue, lemon yellow, pale rose, mauve, beiges and browns along with white and ivory. One horizontal stripe knit coat shaded from white to brown, worn over a matching silk dress. Afternoon and evening dresses were feminine and pretty...short black lace and crepe, lots of jersey, and magnificent multi color satin striped prints with twin print chiffon coverups.

Although Rodriguez bills his show as spring-summer, he did a series of fascinating fake furs that would stop traffic any season...an orange fake fur dress with wide leather midriff...a floor length vivid stripe fur costume with sleeveless jacket over a sweater top. Obviously for those status-conscious ladies who want the world to know that Couture fashion has no season.

SANTA EULALIA likes the chemise and lots of pants or skirts. He showed 60 outfits, all very wearable, with skirts covering the knees...every costume beautifully coordinated from the tiny brimmed hats to the spectator matching shoes. Many of his coats were ¾ in length allowing the hem of the print dress to show beneath. Very young and feminine were day dresses with tunic tops and wide skirts, in soft airy fabrics...striped in white, navy, beige, black and green.

Eulalia's evening clothes were some of the prettiest...printed organzas with ruffled capes...Chinese crepe with embroidered or pailleted jackets...and as a finale, his bride in embroidered white batiste with triple tiered skirt...the top tier pulled up over her head to form a headdress.

PERTEGEZ, one of Spain's great fashion geniuses, did it again, and nothing can take away his glory. It's not that he designed never-seen before clothes, but he has picked up ideas that are in the air, and put them together with such authority and such pleasing results...at least he has given couture a reason for its existence.

He opened with back-wrap dresses cut with kimono sleeves and matching scarf-tied heads...the only look of nostalgia was the sling T strap and instep strap shoes...the clothes were strictly "today". His silk geometric print dresses with sweater cardigans and his coat costumes worn with small brimmed hats and huge sun glasses, drew applause. I particularly liked his grey menswear suit with checked vest over chiffon shirt...and his rainwear was sensational.

Evening fashions consisted of flowing chiffons, jerseys, crepe de chine and laces...ending with an enchanting bride in white chiffon with chiffon snood decorated with white yarn flowers.

(More news about the Spanish Couture Collections in the next issue.)

SANTA EULALIA'S printed silk day dress with navy wool blazer.

LINO'S deep pink crisp linen evening costume...sheath dress and voluminous cape cut in one piece, with fagotting edge and pink rose at the neckline.

PEDRO RODRIGUEZ blue brocade evening gown with matching cape of blue silk jersey with black fox trim.

Drill Club Starting

Fairfield Farm To Hold Horse Clinic, Arena Open House

Members of 4-H Clubs in all areas of Columbus and Franklin County, have been invited to a horse clinic and celebration in honor of the opening of a new horse training practice and show ring at Fairfield Farm, 11635 Alspach Rd.

People who have horses are also welcome to come to the affair if they will make a reservation in advance. They may also join a drill and jumping club which meets weekly at the farm.

Tom Reynolds, owner of the indoor ring, explains that it is 82 by 160 feet, identical to size to the Cooper Arena, horse show ring, at the Ohio State Fairgrounds. A lounge and observation room, 42 by 40 feet, will feature an open fireplace, refreshments and a tack shop. He feels that the new facility will satisfy the needs of horse-owners who want to train theirhorses and ride indoors in the winter. Reynolds adds that there are 90 acres to ride over in good weather.

Brief demonstrations will be given in the indoor arena, under the direction of Dan Sullivan, trainer and instructor, who was formerly a trainer and instructor at Springdale Farm near Hilliard for six years.

Dressage movements will be demonstrated by Mrs. Jerry Moore, Pickerington, on an Arabian stallion.

Converting A Western Trained horse to a possible jumper will be demonstrated. A "green" horse will be trained, for the first time, to go over fences.

Advanced jumping will be performed by Vicki Anstead, 1340 Jones Rd., Galloway.

Riders from all sections of Columbus have started to form a precision riding team at the arena for their own enjoyment and with the hope that they will become so proficient that they will be invited to perform at various fairs and other pubic events.

Many of the new team members are very inexperienced riders and some have beenriding for years. They have, in two weeks, begun todo grand right and lefts, figure eight corasovers, with horses to whichthe figures are also entirely new. Some have their own horses; some bring them each Thursday night to the meetings. Others board their horses in Reynold's horse barn. Some ride the farm's horses.

Reservations for the clinic must be made through Ruth Sullivan, 837-9503. A map showing the farm's location is shown on page 437 in the yellow pages of the Columbus phone book.

AROUND TOWN

ROLAND SUNKER

Composite Is New In Town

LAST WEEK I told you about a new lounge opening in town. If you remember, I told you it was located on North High St., and that it was a high class room specializing in good music. Well, here are the facts.

The name of the place is The Composite. It is run by none other than that well known night club operator, Scratch Pestano.

The Composite is an intimate lounge, with sofas and chairs throughout the entire lounge, plus a large bar. I think you'll love the atmosphere.

But, what you are going to like most of all is the music. Currently, I have to say that they have the best group Around Town. Their name is The Steve Burkey Group featuring Terry Foster. You ain't heard nothing until you've heard this group. What sounds. The outfit consists of four extremely good musicians and a male singer. They sound like a full orchestra.

STEVE BURKEY is at the organ, Vaughn Wiester plays trombone, Don Beck on guitar and Charlie Fadale on drums. It is a long time since I've heard anything so terrific. Literally fantastic harmonics with way out chord structures. This is a creative group, from the word go.

Vaughn Wiester at the trombone is something else. His tones are superb. His style and attack is just about the best in the business.

The guy is simply great. Of course almost everybody knows Don Beck is a wizard at the guitar. This guy is also a musician's musician. The same can be said for Steve Burkey. He is a real technician at the black and whites.

Chuck Fadale handles the drums as well as the best of them. Chuck has fine patterns, along with a fine sense of variations. Quick speed is another of his talents.

THE QUARTET plays any type of music that's ever been written. Their modern jazz is heavenly. Yet, they have the professional ability to come right back at you with good old standard numbers, the better country and western songs and right on to the best of today's music. Their motto should be, "You name it, we play it."

My friends, if I end the review here, I would feel, as I said earlier, the best group around. But, there is delicious whip cream on this musical dessert. That being, Terry Foster. There is no doubt in my mind, Terry is as good as any of the "star" male singers in the business. Terry has a voice that won't stop.

His voice is beautiful with a deep, rich sound that is beautiful. What a smooth approach Terry has to a song. He is a strong stylist with absolute control.

He sings tunes like, "My Funny Valentine," "Tie A Yellow Ribbon," and a host of the old standards and the best songs that's been written, but seldom sang by the average vocalist. You see, Terry is not a vocalist. He is a singer in every sense of the word.

IT ALL HAPPENS at The Composite. Leave it to Scratch to have the best Around Town. The Composite is located at 473 North High St., near Spruce St. Last Friday night the place was almost packed, just by word of mouth. I feel this will be the place in town. After all, it does have the best music and terrific atmosphere.

Playhouse Has No Hard Feelings

MY HAT'S OFF to the Country Dinner Playhouse. They have a real winning combination, currently on the boards. The show, "No Hard Feelings," is a fun filled vehicle that produces a laugh-a-minute that is played by a solid cast, starring Gale Storm.

The food and service was much improved since the last time. In fact, I thought the food was delicious.

"NO HARD FEELINGS," is a comedy with a plot that's almost ridiculous, yet could happen in today's society.

The play opens with Roberta and George Bartlett, played by Gale Storm and Tyler McVey, coming home from their daughter's wedding.

Roberta is packing, because she is leaving her husband. Her being a narrow minded, sour grapes type of individual, can't understand why Roberta wants to leave him. He is very unemotional about it all.

Roberta has been having an affair with Jimmy Skouras, a Greek waiter, portrayed by Arne Gundersen. She is going to live with him, and she means really live. As the play develops, it is discovered the daughter was pregnant when married, and mother is now pregnant. This is too much for George. But, he still tries to get his wife to come back.

NOW, LET your imagination run wild, and you'll be able to understand all of the humorous situations that develop. By the second act, the play is flying faster than a 707. The lines are terrific and produce tidal waves of laughter.

Arne Gundersen turns in an excellent job. Lee H. Doyle, as Alex Springer, George's business partner, a rather eccentric person, comes through with a highly humorous role. Bunny Sutton, is an older gal who won't give up, and feels rather desperate, so she sets out to catch George. This role is superbly played by Eda Seasongood. It's a small part, but played to the hilt by her. Lorelle Brownell turns in a strong job as the Bartlett's daughter.

PETER JOLLY, from Worthington, has returned home to do an excellent job in two minor, but important roles. This young man shows lots of promise.

Gale Storm is excellent as a woman who is tired of living a life with an "old man" and wants to kick up her heels. The role is demanding because it includes comedy as well as some heavying acting. I find no fault with Gale as Roberta Bartlett.

IF YOU WANT to forget your cares and worries, then, "No Hard Feelings," is just what the doctor ordered. Call now for reservations at the Country Dinner Playhouse, and laugh up a storm with Gale Storm and crew.

Sirocco Like A Roman Classic

COLUMBUS has another new spot this week, Sirocco. Located in the Eastland Office Park, 2812 S. Hamilton Rd., across from Lazarus at Eastland Shopping Center. Here is a beautiful, unique supper club.

It has a Roman classic atmosphere. The front wall of the interior is built like a Roman Coliseum with stone arches filled with opalescent glass. This bathes the lounge with a warm mixture of colors. In the lounge, you'll fine a hexagonally shaped, sunken bar. The entire bar and lounge area is relaxing and refreshing. While intimate, it is also airy. The decor makes you want to stay for just one more, day or night. It is beautiful.

FROM THE BAR area, you have an unobstructed view of the stage and dance floor, which is situated between the lounge area and back dining room.

There are two dining rooms. The front dining room can be converted into private party room. The back dining room besides offering a view of the stage, overlooks a lovely mall, which is dramatically lighted at night. Both dining rooms have interesting murals.

The entire interior was designed by Earl Stewart & Associates. They are well known as interior designers of restaurants, clubs, department stores and offices. All I can say is that Joe Morrone, his brother Tony Morrone and Glenna Phillips, the three partners of Sirocco, are mighty proud of their new place. Rightly so. It is gorgeous.

While a beautiful interior is conductive to pleasant dining, the food is important. Sirocco's food is excellent.

Their menu offers a very wide selection of Italian and American food. The prices are reasonable, to say the least.

Sirocco is open for lunch and dinner. Take my advice, and stop in soon. You'll be doing yourself a big favor.

Skipping Around Town

FOR DINING at its best, along with novel "entertainment," stop in at the Dobbs House at Port Columbus. Their food is excellent, so is the service. You can have a sandwich or a complete dinner such as a 20 ounce porterhouse steak or beef kabob. There is a special menu for children, also. The entertainment is to watch all the planes come and go. The restaurant has floor to ceiling windows giving a panoramic view of the airfield. It's fun for old and young alike . . . Another fun place is Farrell's Ice Cream Parlour. All types of wild ice cream dishes, sundaes and such. Also all types of yummy sandwiches. Never a dull moment here. I love the place . . . This is the finale week for that terrific singer and entertainer, Billy Brown at the Lincoln Lodge. Here is a strong entertainer. Billy also sings up a storm, too. His guitar stylings are a sure fire hit with the crowds at Lincoln Lodge. If you haven't caught him, be sure you do this week. If you have, I know you'll want to see him again . . . The Dell Restaurant is a must for those of you who enjoy good food in quaint surroundings. Now, The Dell is open for Sunday dinners. During the week, the singing waiters and waitresses add a lot of good, ole time atmosphere to the place. The Dell is run by Dee Johnston and a real fun place to go . . . Don't forget the Dick Wolford Show at the popular Rendezvous Room. Dick and his boys are there Friday and Saturday. After the show and dancing, beginning at 2 a.m., a good old fashioned breakfast is served, consisting of country ham, and the works. Judging from the crowds, people love it. So, remember the Dick Wolford Show, if you are a lover of good country and western music . . . Last but not least, the Grog Shop is swinging every night. George Westermeyer III is dishing out plenty of good contemporary music. On Tuesday night, it's Oldies, But Goodies Night featuring contests with prizes and all of the top oldie songs. Bill Sweetsar is the host for this big bash. And, it is a bash. See you Around Town this week. Make sure you get out .

Comedy At College

"SHALL WE give him a drink of water?" Jori Lynch, at left, who is cast as the daughter in Empire Builders" asks Mug, the maid, played by Marianne Damicone in the production to be staged at Ohio Dominican College. Gregg McNulty, is the "him," Schmurz, to whom she refers. The absurd comedy will be presented at 8:30 p.m., February 22-24 in the Little Theatre of Erskine Hall, Ohio Dominican College, 1216 Sunbury Rd.

APPEARING NIGHTLY - WESTERN MOTELS
LINCOLN LODGE 4950 W BROAD

Billy Brown is performing at the Lincoln Lodge 4950 W. Broad. For a one man act Billy Brown has to be about the best in Columbus.

His performance is sprinkled with earthly jokes and banter with the audience. He has a recollection of many Country and Blue Songs written in the last 30 years.

In 1959 Billy Brown did the original recording of "He'll Have To Go" for Columbia Records. It rose to No. 1 in many cities but according to Brown at this time Jim Reeves also recorded it in the same style and Reeves recording became one of the biggest Country Hits ever.

Billy Brown a Country - Western Singer and Guitarist from Florida has been engaged for a six week contract at Lincoln Lodge.

He is drawing the largest crowds to the Lounge since it started with the Billy Brown Show entertaining with the up - town Country - Western Sound.

Brown's newest record has just been released on Big M Records-"Thank You Darling" and "Country Boy" Brown performance features versitility, personality and ad-lib humor in addition to a repertoire which includes yodelling, impersonations of Johnny Cash, Elvis Presley, Gene Autry, Eddie Arnold, Charlie Rich and Walter Brennan. He sings "Cool Clear Water" in the styles of various singers.

For an enjoyable and relaxing evening filled with pleasant fun, the Lounge at Lincoln Lodge is recom-

Topsy-Turvy Finishes Make Cage Co-Champs In Three Loops

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Special Sports Writer

Whitehall and Mt. Vernon in the Ohio Capital Conference, Mohawk and Northland in the City League, Watterson and Hartley in the Central Catholic League and Grove City in the Mid-Eight League are the newly crowned 1973-74 area roundball champions.

In a topsy-turvy, helter skelter, wild and wooly finish these central district roundball quintets survived the frantic fumbles and unusual upsets that this cage season brought us, and instead of a mass celebration its back to the drawing board and Central District Tournament time.

THE OCC was the spectacle of upset this season and the two survivors possess styles that contrast as much as a lay-up and a 20 foot jumper. Whitehall the rollicking run and gun king was playing its specialty in nailing down its share Friday night with a win over Westland while Mt. Vernon blended its stingy defense with a pattern slowem down offense in tatooing Westerville.

But a 11-3 league tab was not an easy task for this Whitehall Ram gang as an almost loss to Worthington one week earlier could have given the Cardinals a share of the gold.

THE AWESOME silky pivot man Terry Burris was the master of this Ram clan and coupled with the playmaking of Benton Tedlie and handy relief specialist Wayne Buck, a bag of trouble for enemy ball handlers, this group helped make Russ Gregg the coach of yet another champion, the first since the departure of the Gregg sharpshooters of the early '70's, sons of the coach.

And don't forget to credit the rebounding and extra board work of Bill Besalski, Chris Zag and the leadership of Jerry Montgomery and Steve Marinello.

And then, when you couple all of this with the wonderous backing of the bustly Ram fan backers, yes the dancing Ram Man and all, it was quite a championship.

THE MAKE and take City circuit was a weekly soap opera with excitement dominating until the champs were crowned and that one dominating team not present as in the Ratleff, Connor and Lamar days. Mohawk's Eddie Tillman, a smooth shooting skyrocketting jumper headed that championship run while a pin point passing specialist by the name of Jud Wood spearheaded Northland's dream machine.

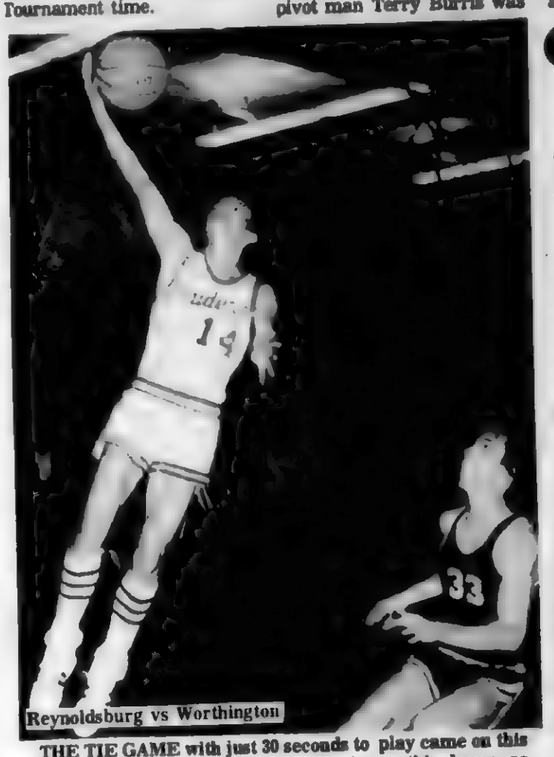
And finally the decline of the Ready dynasty, that was the news of the CCL. Was it the loss of Coach Pat Penn, the absence of Jimmy Jones? Try the power of Hartley and Watterson.

HARTLEY led by the free-wheeling dare devil Mike Gilliland matched 8-2 league tabs with backcourting smoothie Sam Dixon and his Watterson playmates.

Gilliland had plenty of special help from insiders Dave Profera and Ron White while Mark McNally, Rick Boone and Doug Jones [illegible] the luster to the finish. A healthy tournament campaigner if there ever was one.

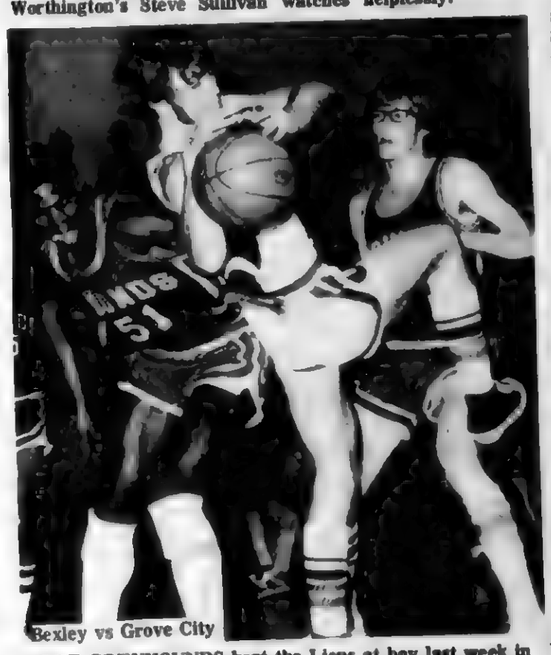
A fine season for Gene Millard's Bexley cagers ended sourly as they lost the Mid-Eight cage race to Grove City with a loss to London on that final Friday but a touch of class for performing so well without a returning starter.

SO IF you are a league follower and title chases are your thing you got your money's worth this season and if you want one more good investment, try those state tournaments, it's a sure bet.



Reynoldsburg vs Worthington

THE TIE GAME with just 30 seconds to play came on this basket by Reynoldsburg's Marc Wade on this layup as Worthington's Steve Sullivan watches helplessly.



Bexley vs Grove City

Rams Are OCC Co-Champs

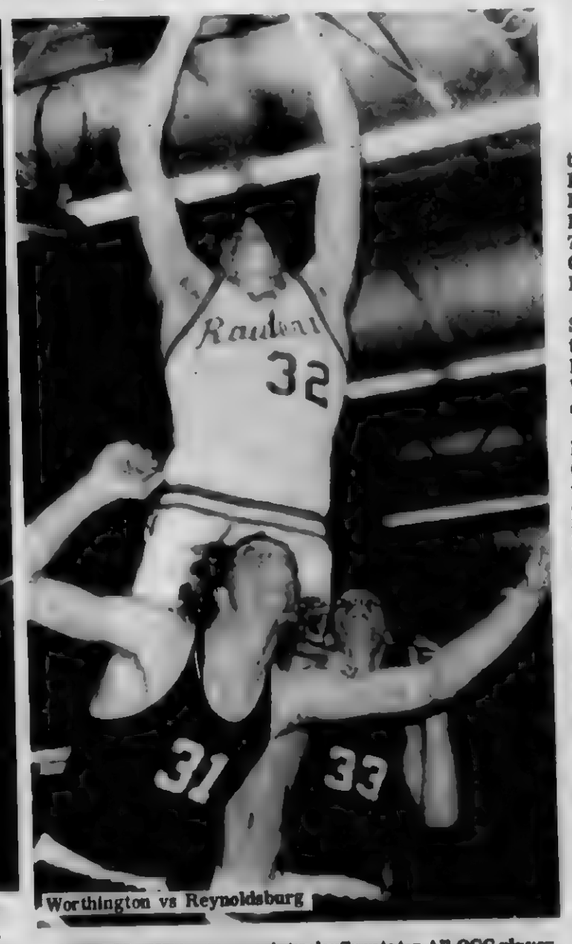
WHITEHALL'S RAMS became co-champs of the Ohio Capital Conference last week by zipping by Westland for its title tie with Mt. Vernon. This No. 1 photo was taken after their hair-raising win over Worthington the previous week. Seated are James Durkee, Wayne Buck, Tim Jordan, Bill Besalski and Chris Zag. In the middle is Manager Stan Fierstos. Standing are Assistant Coach Craig Shade, Benton Tedlie, Terry Burris, Steve Marinello, Jim Winegardner, Jerry Montgomery, Steve Stahley, Ciach Russ Gregg and manager Brian Gemandan.

Worthington vs Reynoldsburg

IT WAS NIP AND TUCK all the way for the Cards and Raiders in their epic OCC clash last Friday won by the Raiders, 65-63. Here's a sample of the rebounding action that was a determining factor in the outcome. That's Reynoldsburg's Mark Mahaffey (22) with the ball as Jay Werkhaven (44) comes up to assist. Worthington players are Doug Burkhart (55) and Tim Crandall (25). (Reynoldsburg-Worthington photo by Ed Kernan.)

Bexley vs Grove City

DRIVING AROUND a Grove City player but eventually slipping on the floor then taking a long slide was Bexley's Phil Wright (24) as Grove City's Greg Niebert (51) almost topsides him.



Worthington vs Reynoldsburg

HERE'S THE last two-pointer by Spectator All-OCC player Ed Williams (32) of Reynoldsburg that defeated Worthington, 65-63. Hoping the ball misses the basket are Cardinals Steve Cuffe (31) and Steve Sullivan (33). Williams leaped out of the camera range on this one.

Spectator Selects OCC All-Stars

By SANDY SCHWARTZ

THE CENTRAL District's top two scorers, classy Terry Burris of Whitehall and rangy Ed Williams of Reynoldsburg, head the 1973-74 Spectator Ohio Capital Conference All-Star Basketball Team.

Rounding out this Spectator Sports Staff hand picked team is Worthington's Don Brough, Mt. Vernon's Ted Williams and Greg Spellman of Westland.

BURRIS, a lanky Mr. Everything for coach Russ Gregg's co-champion Rams, was the leading point producer in the area with a 26.5 average. This successful two-sports star uses his 7-foot track high jumping spring to clean the backboards and block shot at will.

Williams, a 23.2 ppg. scorer is the inside specialist of the league coupling his soft inside touch with his keen ability of tipping in missed shots.

TED WILLIAMS of Mt. Vernon, the main cog in a smooth Yellow Jacket machine that shared this roundaball crown with Whitehall, parleys his accurate shooting touch with a hounding defense, the trademark of the Jackets.

And Don Brough, the youngster of this dream team, is perhaps the smoothest of all with his sweeping drives and baseline maneuvers that earned him a niche in this claim to fame. Brough may create sleepless nights next fall for opponents as he returns to hopefully make coach Pat Manion's winter nights a bit more restful as these Cardinals were a hair off of that championship pace.

ROUNDING OUT this super squad, the ball-handling genius of a Westland youth movement, Greg Spellman is the dare devil who drives with reckless abandon and shoots from the outside with the greatest of form and accuracy.

Warrior Wrap-up

by Ilene Zeldin

THE DISTRIBUTIVE Education Department at Eastmoor High School has been busy this month raising money for blind college students and participating in district contest.

The profits from a fund-raiser, a sale of stuffed animals, will aid in providing college students with pilot dogs.

The District 16 Distributive Education Clubs of America contest was held last week at Eastmoor, with Warrior students winning seven trophies.

THE COLUMBUS SYMPHONY Woodwind Quintet held an informal clinic for the EHS Concert Band last week. Bandmembers were permitted to question the musicians and gained insight into the world of classical music. Bandmember Nancy White commented, "It was a truly worthwhile experience and I hope the quintet will come again."

FRANK HAEBECKER, instructional coordinator at Eastmoor, announced tentative plans for next year's scheduling. Waiting for final approval from the State Board of Education, Eastmoor will probably operate on a semi-type of split sessions.

According to Haebecker, all students will attend school for seven periods. Upperclassmen will go from 7:30 until 12:30, while sophomores will attend from 11:15 until 4:15.

THE SUCCESSFUL Eastmoor Basketball and Wrestling teams have completed their city league competition and are presently looking ahead toward district and state tournaments.

THE COLUMBUS JEWISH Center Physical Education Department announces that Matthew P. Quinn (Phil), Director of Health, Physical Education and Recreation has accepted a new position at Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. He will be taking the helm as the Director of Health, Physical Education and Recreation at the Jewish Center there. We wish him and his family the best of luck, health and happiness in their new venture. We understand that this will be a good place to take a vacation as Phil tells me the area is dotted with beautiful lakes and streams. What a great place for a small craft instructor.

Our new skipper here in Columbus will be Michael J. Stewart, who will assume the post of Director of Health, Physical Education and Recreation immediately. Michael J. comes to us from the west coast and is a current senior life saver. He swims his laps in the indoor pool weekly with the Operation Rebound group. Mike holds his Bachelors and Masters Degrees in Physical Education with a major in Administration. He and his wife Donna live in Westerville. We piped Mike aboard last summer as a certified American Red Cross basic sailor. From the crow's nest it looks like we'll be carrying a new bumper sticker, "Don't pollute – sail".

Olde Orchard Parents Bring Busing Complaint

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Staff Writer

Columbus—Parents from Olde Orchard Elementary School brought a complaint to the Columbus School Board at the Board of Education's Feb. 19 regular meeting. Representatives from the Olde Orchard School spoke to the board during the public participation period which is free time for all with problems or questions for the board to come forward.

Eugene Clayman of the Greenbriar Association headed the Olde Orchard grievance voicing disapproval to the rumors that some students from Olde Orchard may be bused to other area elementary schools sometime in the near future.

He said when the School Board was campaigning for the recent bond issue Olde Orchard parents were assured that if needed, overcrowded conditions at the school would be relieved.

"IF OUR CHILDREN are bused to another school this would be a betrayal of our confidence in the board," Clayman said referring to the support given for the bond issue.

Board President Mrs. Virginia Prentice said no action has been taken to bus any students from Olde Orchard and she added that there were no plans to do so in the future.

Prentice also said, "Phase III of our building program does include enlargement of Olde Orchard."

Barring any complications estimation for completion of an addition at the elementary school would be September 1975.

AND IN THE building department the board took one more giant step forward when it voted to authorize the Development Office to proceed with Phase III of the building program.

Three new schools, additions and remodeling to 79 schools and five site acquisitions are included in this new phase.

Development of educational specifications for projects listed for construction in Phase I and Phase II of the building program is now complete. Of the 53 major construction projects in Phase I and Phase II, 12 are at the preliminary drawing stage, 18 at the working drawing stage and 23 in bidding or construction.

Also approved was the reassignment of five Columbus school administrators.

John E. Carter was appointed principal of Mohawk Junior Senior High School succeeding Theodore H. Turner who was recently promoted to assistant superintendent, teacher personnel.

RONALD G. SROUFE was appointed to the principalship of Roosevelt Junior High where Carter had been serving. Sroufe had previously been in his second year as assistant principal of Central High School.

Donald W. Taylor, previously a cadet principal at Central High School was appointed to fill the vacancy at Central.

A fourth promotion was that of Norman A. Kushen from cadet principal to assistant principal of South High School.

In addition, a fifth administrator, Robert Browning, assistant principal of Sherwood Junior High School is returning to a classroom teaching assignment at his own request. Browning had served in the post at Sherwood since September, 1966, and will now be teaching mathematics at North High School.

Other board actions were routine professional, finance, civil service and personnel actions.

Patrolman Receives First Medal Of Valor

East Columbus—An East area Columbus officer, Thomas M. Steckman, of the Patrol Bureau, was one of three Columbus policemen honored at the First Annual Awards Banquet held Feb. 20 at the Imperial House Kings Inn.

Officer Steckman, who received the Division of Police's first Medal of Valor, distinguished himself by rescuing a man trapped on the second floor of a burning building. Disregarding his own safety, he fought through smoke, flames and heat that had twice driven two other officers back, in order to effect the rescue.

The other officers honored were Officer Ronald S. Price of the Detective Bureau, who received a Medal of Merit for solving a homicide of six years ago in his off duty time; and Officer Paul H. Clark, Patrol Bureau, who also received a Medal of Merit for persuading an armed subject to release two hostages unharmed, and subsequently disarming him.

The awards are in the form of medals for outstanding acts of heroism and meritorious service and the recipients will also wear on their uniforms ribbons similar to military service ribbons, to show that they are winners of the awards.

The awards program is co-sponsored by the Educator and Executive Insurance Companies.

Groveport-Madison Plans Victory Rally

Groveport-Over 500 parents in the Madison Local School District are expected to attend a Parents' March for Victory Rally, Tuesday, March 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the Groveport-Madison High School Gym.

It has been reported from a prominent community leader that workers will receive their final instructions for putting the bond issue over the top at the special election, March 19. In additon, workers will receive a 16-page color brochure depicting the plight of children on part-time schools and urging its readers to take immediate action to remedy the situation created by the growth of the Madison Local School District.

It has been five years since a building program has been approved in the school district and during the past five years the school population has grown by 2,217 students. To have adequately housed the additional students would have required 74 additional classrooms, which is equivalent to four 20-room schools. Because additional rooms could not be built the school district has gone to split sessions or part-time schools in grades 6 through 12.

The Rev. Linden Damschroder in a recent church bulletin pointed out that as split-sessions move to the elementary schools next fall, "It is not possible to get a quality education by going to school only on a part-time basis. It takes full-time schools, full-time students." A good education, declared Damschroder, is the key to jobs, security and success. Then he said, "Our kids are worth it!"

Columbus Cancer Clinic Names Board Head

Bexley—Robert H. Carlile, 224 N. Parkview Ave., was recently elected president of the Columbus Cancer Clinic's Board of Directors. Carlile has served as first vice-president of the board for the past two years and has been a member of the board since 1971. He is a vice-president of the Huntington National Bank and was head of the General Business Division of the 1973 United Way campaign.

Other officers elected at the board's annual meeting were: Mrs. Alice L. Bentley, 485 S. Parkview Ave., first vice-president; Charles A. Lanphere, 5639 Clark State, Gahanna, second vice-president; John A. Caranahan, 872 Clubview N., Worthington, third vice-president; J. Jeffrey McNealey, 2350 Brentwood Rd., Recording Secretary; Mrs. Jarret C. Chavous, 2121 Willamont Ave., Corresponding Secretary; and Richard F. Donaldson, 1920 Edgemont Rd., treasurer. Dr. Arthur G. James, 1911 Waltham Dr., was re-elected medical director.

New Board members elected for a three-year term were Mr. Paul R. Gingher, 1725 Roxbury Rd., and Mr. Alan R. Weiler, 300 N. Drexel Ave.

Samuel L. Black, 273 Noe-Bixby Rd., was made an honorary life member of the Board. Black is a Past President of the Board and has served as director for 39 years.

Bexley Zoning Appeals Board Sets Open Meeting

Bexley—The Bexley Board of Zoning Appeals will meet on Thursday, March 14, at 7:30 p.m. at 2242 E. Main St. to consider the approval of rules and regulations for the enforcement of the new Building Maintenance Code, Ordinance 25-73.

The proposed rules and regulations are on file in the office of the Building Department at Bexley City Hall, 2242 E. Main St.

Any interested persons may appear at such hearing and be heard in favor of or in opposition to these rules and regulations, according to R.J. Vanney, zoning officer.

Vocational Education Gets Its Own Hotline

GOV. JOHN J. Gilligan has announced the start of a comprehensive public information program to encourage youth to consider entering vocational or technical education programs.

At the core of the program, Gilligan said, is a toll-free telephone hotline for persons wanting information about vocational-technical education. The hotline number is 1-800-282-0377.

"THE HOTLINE will enable anyone to tap directly into an information clearinghouse for answers to questions about vocational-technical education programs, which Ohio schools offer such training, and an employment forecast for vocational-technical fields," Gilligan said.

The vocational-technical information (VTI) program, operated by the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development, will provide public speakers, brochures, posters, film and other information to interested parties.

Television and radio public service announcements are planned.

THE GOVERNOR said, "American education systems are not emphasizing adequately vocational or technical training. Too much emphasis is placed on pure academic programs which are four-year college or university oriented.

"If this trend continues, the rising need for skilled workers and technicians will not be met."

Gilligan noted that by 1980 the need for college graduates will have diminished while the need for skilled workers and technicians will have increased greatly.

"SEVENTY-FIVE per cent of all jobs during the next decade will require adequate preparation in vocational or technical schools. Only 20 per cent of the jobs will require a four-year college degree," he said.

ACCORDING to the governor, one of the major strengths of the state in attracting new and expanded industries is its trained labor force.

He said the state "has neglected for too long the necessary emphasis on training a skilled labor force for the future."

"Skilled technicians are an important link in the flow of ideas and theories to a finished product or service. Without trained people to put these ideas to work for the general public, the economy will suffer," Gilligan said.

FROM 1970 TO 1973, enrollment in vocational education programs funded by the Ohio Department of Education increased by 61 per cent. Enrollment in adult vocational education programs increased by 50 per cent.

During that same period enrollment in secondary vocational education increased by 76 per cent, and job training in secondary schools increased by 57 per cent.

MORE THAN $94.4 million was earmarked for vocational classes in secondary schools during the 1973-74 school year. By the 1974-75 school year, funding for vocational education will be a record $103 million—an increase of 114 per cent since 1971.

WIMBA Holds Donkey Ballgame

Whitehall–The Whitehall Instrumental Music Boosters Association are sponsoring a donkey ball game at Rosemore Junior High School Friday, March 1 at 8 p.m.

Rosemore Junior High School teachers will play the district's elementary school teachers.

Tickets are now on sale at all Whitehall City Schools, or they may be bought at the door. Tickets bought in advance are $1; tickets at the door will be $1.50.

James Pritchard, 4125 Powell Ave., president of WIMBA, says donkey ball is played from the backs of trained donkeys, and "is reputed to be wilder than a rodeo and funnier than a circus."

'Grandma Allen' Celebrates A Century

At the last report, several days ago, Dollie McCoy Allen, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Azelle White, 59 Collingwood Ave., Whitehall, is "still excited" about her birthday party, which took place several weeks ago.

Grandson Don Davis, better known as Sgt. Don Davis, community relations director of the Bexley Police department, points out that over 150 guests, mostly relatives, greeted Grandma Allen on her 100th birthday at a party held at Jeffrey Mansion, Bexley. They came from as far away as Florida and Wyoming. Others came from Delaware, Maryland, Illinois, West Virginia, Kentucky, Michigan and Indiana.

Sgt. Davis' mother, one of Mrs. Allen's four living daughters, is Mrs. Martha Davis, 76 Beechford, Whitehall. Another daughter, Mrs. Maude Litton, lives at 3649 Beechton. Several grandchildren also live in the East Columbus area.

She has 112 descendents, with five of her 11 children still living. She has 18 grandchildren, 48 great grandchildren and 41 great great grandchildren. She also has three nieces and seven nephews.

She is the last surviving child of her family of four boys and six girls.

Mrs. Allen's husband, George Washington Allen, died 22 years ago and she has lived in Whitehall 21 of those years.

Born in 1874 in Road Fork, Pike County, Ky., which is now called Forest Hills, her parents were Betsy Ann Rutherford and Andy McCoy.

An uncle was a leader in the McCoy clan and active in the famous Hatfield-McCoy family "feudings". Mrs. Allen can remember when a Hatfield clan prisoner was held overnight in her home on his way to jail.

Saying "she couldn't have been more pleased" over her birthday celebration, Mrs. Allen also proudly displays 60 cards she has received from friends and relatives, and congratulatory cards from President Nixon, Congressman Samuel L. Divine, Senators Robert Taft and Lawrence Hogan (Maryland).

Madison Parents Launch Letter-writing Campaign

Groveport--Over 500 parents have been sending letters to over 4,000 other parents in the Madison Local School District over the past few weeks urging their support of full-time schools.

A recent letter started by saying: "Ever hear the story of the hard-working ant? Spring, summer and fall he stored food for the coming winter. But his friend, the fun loving grasshopper, fiddled his time away. When the frosty winds of winter blew, the grasshopper regretted his lack of foresight. The industrious ant and a carefully planned community program for the full time education of Madison District children have a lot in common. Both take a little from today to provide better living for a lot of tomorrows."

The letter points out that in a society such as ours, the individual has nothing to say about what happens to him or to his children unless he is registered to vote. Only one family out of three in the Madison School District, with children in school, is registered to vote.

Many people say they are not registered because their vote doesn't count anyway. Lot Smith of Smith's Farm Market, Winchester ZPk., noted that this line of reasoning is not true when one joins forces with other interested parents who believe the same as they believe. Smith says the district has an answer to the growing problems of part-time schools in the district. It is the "Parents' March for Victory," an organization created by the District's PTO-PTA council to promote full-time education for the children of Madison Local School District.

BCA Fund Drive Starts

Bexley-Bexley Celebration Association's annual appeal for family support of its year-round program gets under way this week-end (March 1-2), and BCA President John Lambrecht, 323 N. Ardmore Rd., expects returns will come close to meeting the 1974 budget of $6,975.

Again, a family donation of $5 is suggested, but amounts below and above that figure will be welcome, said Jack Bainter, financial chairman, of 942 Francis Ave.

The budget, adopted in January, covers nine projects or events, but the Independence Day celebration is earmarked for the largest share, $4200. The parade item alone is $2800. The July 4th budget is $350 more than it was in 1973.

The first BCA event of 1974 is the Easter Egg Hunt at Jeffrey Place on Saturday, April 13.

This was the first and only event in 1947 when the Bexley Civic Association, predecessor of today's BCA, [illegible]

Speaking of Beauty

BEAUTIFUL UNDERSTATEMENTS FINISH FIRST

We are great believers in your appearance being planned to make a statement about you. But we also believe that if it speaks too loudly it repels rather than attracts. Our system is to balance a strong note with a muted one. If you think bright red hair is your thing, that's fine, but then we would strongly advise you not to use heavy makeup or heavy obviously artificial eyelashes. We look for ways of contrasting the strong note with the quiet one and it always works out excitingly.

For beauty advice, to get acquainted or to make an appointment, please come in or give us a ring.

Warrior Wrap-up

By Mike Brennan

THE EASTMOOR Theatre Arts Department will present the comedy "The Mouse That Roared" this Friday and Saturday night in the school's auditorium.

The comedy is based on the book by Leonard Wibberly, and adapted for the stage by Christopher Sergel. It chronicals the diplomatic traumas of the tiny nation, the Duchy of Grand Fenwick. Leading cast members include Howard Epstein as Tully Bascomb, Debbie Gunther as Duchess Gloriana, Andy Derrow and Bob Lazear as her top aides, and Mike Kobre as the President of the United States.

The play is directed by Miss Mary Embree, and the student directors are Mike Feinstein and David Kaye.

EASTMOOR'S FACULTY was enlarged last week with the arrival of Richard Fein, the new cadet principal.

"It has always been my goal to be an administrator," said the former Walnut Ridge history teacher. Settling into his new position, Fein said he is enjoying the friendly atmosphere and hopes to be assigned to Eastmoor after his term as cadet principal ends in June.

EASTMOOR filmaking classes last month set up the first community film co-op in the city. The co-op is a working film production company designed to serve the school and any outside community groups wanting its services. All films are made free of charge.

The faculty advisor for the co-op is filmmaking teacher Roger Masten, who said his third period filmmaking students go out contracting groups for the films they would like made. Presently, the company is producing instructional movies for the distributive education and journalism departments.

MASTEN SAID the purpose of the co-op is two fold: While his students are learning more about the actual use of audio visual tools, they offer a valuable service to groups at a price anybody can afford.

Hundreds Pass GED Tests Retroactive To 1945

Columbus–Columbus Superintendent Dr. John Ellis has sent a letter of congratulations to 844 people who previously had failed to qualify for a certificate of high school equivalence.

The good news conveyed in Ellis' letter is that minimum scores for passing General Education Development (GED) tests have been lowered and the 844 who had previously failed the tests are now eligible for a certificate.

Ellis said that recent action by the State Board of Education lowered the passing score from 48 to 45 and a search of the files at the school district's testing center–going back to 1946 when the tests began–revealed the names of several hundred people who might benefit from the change.

"WE WERE NOT under any mandate to search our files," Ellis noted, "but Ohio has held a higher standard than most other states and we felt there might have been some hardship imposed by the higher score requirement. We have no way of knowing how many of these people are still living in the Columbus area, but we recieved 20 calls the first day the letter went out," he added.

The GED test is used to establish eligibility for a certificate of high school equivalence to residents of the State of Ohio who are at least 19 years of age and who have not received a high school diploma. The certificate is generally accepted by college admissions officials and by employers in lieu of a high school diploma, Ellis explained.

"Previous standards required an average of at least 48 on a battery of five tests with no single score falling below 40," the superintendent said. "The new rules call for an average score of 45 and a score of at least 35 on each of the five tests. We want to be absolutely certain that no one is denied the opportunity to receive a certificate who meets the criteria."

Questions regarding the rule changes or any other part of the testing program should be sent to the GED office, 52 Starling St., or by telephone at 225-2867.

Special Fashion Showing

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

KASPER'S soft suit in navy and white ribbed tweed, with navy Qiana shirt and scarf.

TURQUOISE cotton poplin all weather coat with matching shirt dress. Red poplin two piece rain dress with short belted jacket and bias "big" skirt.

SLITHERING snake print clear sequined crepe evening pyjama with roomy shirt and easy pants.

ELEGANT coral georgette bias tiered handkerchief points evening dress with bare top bra and coverup.

HOW EXCITING it is to see an entire American Designer's Collection, just as it is shown to the Fashion Press in New York. You'll have this delightful experience on March 1st, when Montaldo's present a special fashion show of Kasper for Joan Leslie designs . . . in their beautiful new dress salon on the second floor.

KASPER, one of my very favorites, consistently shines with his pretty, wearable collections, however for this Spring and Summer he has outdone even himself.

When I chatted with Kasper, after his showing in New York, he remarked, "the whole point of fashion this spring, is to simplify, un-clutter, and eliminate extravagances and excesses and get down to the beauty of clothes . . . silhouettes, colors, fabrics all reflect a purity that's completely contemporary . . . essential to spring '74."

THE FASHIONS are very feminine . . . with flattering necklines and skirts that move in soft fabrics from jersey to chiffon to his newest pongee and the look of tussah silk. For daytime he shows the raincoat dress, the T-shirt dress, the "oversized shirt" with drop shoulder in one and two-piece styles. His soft suits are paired down and unconstructed . . . with roomy jackets, tiny tank tops and fluid skirts. Another of his big looks is the all-weather, anytime coat costume in a smock silhouette . . . poplin in Chinese lacquer colors such as turquoise and red.

KASPER'S EVENINGS are the prettiest I've seen . . . at-home and dansant dresses (ahead of Paris, just 9 inches from the floor) . . . "lingerie" short evening dresses and flowing evening pajamas . . . and his romantic chiffons and georgettes in exotic prints and solids . . . often with bare top and "bed jacket" coverup . . . included is a group of special occasion gowns that can be worn for mothers of the bride or groom.

This is one collection you won't want to miss. Joan Leslie's New York fashion representative will be at Montaldo's to assist you with your selections . . . informal modeling from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Although I attended Kasper's showing in New York, I'm looking forward to seeing it at Montaldo's . . . so irresistible, it deserves a second loving look!

Miss de Havilland Next 'Lecturer of Note'

Olivia de Havilland will be the fourth lecturer in the "Lectures of Note" Thursday, March 7, sponsored by the Women's Association of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra for the benefit of the orchestra.Her topic will be "From the City of Stars to the City of Lights" at the Ohio Theatre at 10 a.m.

Miss de Havilland will share the highlights of her career. She has won Oscars for "To Each His Own" and "The Heiress."

Among the most-memorable of her screen roles are "Anthony Adverse," "Gone With The Wind," "Hold Back the Dawn" and "Charge of the "Light Brigade," as well as appearances on the stage.

In 1967 she was the first woman president of the Cannes Film Festival.

Since 1955 when she married Pierre Giante, executive editor of "Paris Match" she has been living in France.

Miss de Havilland's several creative interests, aside from acting include painting and writing. She recounted her experiences in France from the viewpoint of an American resident in a book of witty first-person essays, "Every Frenchman Has One," which was a major best-seller, both here and abroad in hardcover and paperback. The title, incidentally refers to the Fremchman's preoccupation with the health of his liver.

Tickets for $2.95 will be available at the door.

SPLASHES- Joel Ghitman, Day Camp Assistant Boating Instructor, has begun to collect items for the new Nature Museum at the Hoover site. The latest was a piece of obsidian found at Lake Hope State Park.

The newest member to join the Swim and Stay Fit group is Ronald Edwards. I almost fell over board when he told me that he runs thirteen miles at a time.

MARCH 3 THROUGH 9 is Catholic School Week. This is a special week devoted to increasing the population in the Catholic schools. The stress of various programs lies in showing the value of a Catholic education. One part of the week is an essay contest. Hartley, like other schools, has participated in this contest.

Hartley winners were announced last week. The school winner for the essay entitled, "DARE: What's So Great About a Catholic Education?" is Karen Friend.

The other essay, which had six winners, was titled "Students Against Abvortion." The six students are Cid Tata, Rita Canini, Debbie Rohletter, Karen Friend, Mary Beth Woerner, and Barb Owens.

The winning essays will be entered into a final contest against other essays from vasrious schools. Honorable mention was given to: Mary Kay Heise, Katie Doyle, and Cindy Bichimer.

THE CCL wrestling meets were held on Feb. 16 and 17. Wrestlers from Hartley who placed were: Bill Ulrich, who won the championship in his weight class (126); third-Terry Monsour, Paul Sweeney, Bob Colwell, and Rodger Ressa; fourth-John Weidner, Martin Stadler, Mike Colwell, and Jerry Orzano.

Congratulations goes to Ray Jacobs for being accepted to Ohio Wesleyan and Marietta Colleges; and Connie Claprood for her acceptance to Wheeling College.

Marcn 18, a meeting will be held at Hartley to explain to requirements for participation in cheerleading tryouts, to be held on April 9. The meeting will be held for all interested in trying out for the 1974-75 season, including any girl who will be attending Hartley for the first time next year. Practice will begin on March 19 and last for two weeks from 3-4:30 p.m. The three categories are Freshman, Reserve and Varsity. The initial required meeting (March 18) will be held in the cafeteria at 4 p.m.

THE HARTLEY cheerleaders are also sponsoring a competition for the seventh and eighth grade squads from all Catholic grade schools in the diocese. The girls will learn different techniques, and trophies will be awarded.

Let's All Have A Rendezvous

I HAD a ball the other night at the Rendezvous Room listening to the Dick Wolford Show. This is a country and western group that is one of the best to come down the pike in many a moon. I say this, because this outfit is not like so many of the C & W groups that play the local pubs. Dick Wolford and his boys are a bunch of talented musicians who are professionals all the way.

For example, Dick and his group is at the Rendezvous Room only on Friday and Saturday nights. When you read this review, Dick will be doing some one nighters in Colorado, then fly back to Columbus for the show at the Rendezvous Room.

BESIDES being a country and western group, they handle all types of music. Wait until you hear the version of, "Proud Mary," a contemporary song. One of the best renditions I've heard in a long time.

Besides Dick Wolford, other members are Gene Rusch at the steel guitar, Doug Faiella playing leaf guitar, Danny Friedman with the electric bass and Jessie Stewart, drums. All are top notch in my book.

The musicians play as a unit. No one is fighting another, musically speaking. The sounds produced by these four men are full of happiness. They certainly sound like more than four instruments on stage. The instrumental work is pretty. As I have said in other columns, I am not a great lover of country and western music only because most of it is so botched up. This is one outfit I could sit and listen to the entire evening and enjoy every moment.

SO FAR, I have only told you about the boys in the band. As the old saying goes, "You ain't heard nothing yet," until Dick Wolford begins to perform. He takes a tune and squeezes everything out of it. Dick takes a song and really delivers the words and music to your ears with uncanny feeling.

What a voice Dick has for this delivery. Clear as a cold winters night and just as crisp. His voice is big with full tones which he always has in absolute control. You don't have to be a C & W fan to enjoy the singing of Dick Wolford.

Something else you will enjoy, too, is the Rendezvous Room, itself. I think you'll like the pretty decor of the place. It is one of the nicest rooms in the city. During the week there is always plenty going on at the Rendezvous Room. They have a real live singing bartender, who accompanies himself on guitar while not mixing up your favorite drinks. I love his very intimate style. The food is also good at the Rendezvous Room. They have a large menu for both lunch and dinner.

But, all in all, Friday and Saturday nights are biggest, thanks to the Dick Wolford Show. By the way, the dance floor is packed, because when not presenting a show, Dick and the boys play lots of good dance music. Remember The Rendezvous Room as a place to go for lots of good entertainment, fun and food.

They Sing Up A Storm

APPROACHING Storm is the current entertainment offering at the Ramada Inn-South. This group does remind me of an approaching storm, with all of its vibrant, thunderous music. This quintet has it all pretty much together.

Mike Rice, the leader, is the featured vocalist with the outfit. Besides singing up a storm, Mike plays trumpet and flugelhorn. This young fellow is truly a multi-talented individual.

Another mighty man is keyboard master, Rod Lehr. Handling the organ and electric piano with plenty of gusto, Rod contributes a lot of talent and musicianship to the quintet. Larry Burnett is another dark cloud in the Approaching Storm. His abilities with the sax, flute, guitar and vocals adds more dynamics.

Chuck Adcock at the drums and Lynne Schneider handling bass both turn in strong performances. They are solid musicians.

Approaching Storm is a fun group. Presenting a tight, well paced show with variety is their basic forte. I particularly enjoyed their vocal harmonies. Close and melodous is the best way to describe them.

Approaching Storm, as you may guess from the name, is a rather strong contemporary quintet. Yet they keep volume and music sensible. They don't go out into left field, except on some of the instrumental solos, which are done quite well.

So, if you are looking for a swinging group playing and singing music with today's sound that's fine for listening or dancing, then I strongly recommend the Approaching Storm quintet at the Ramada Inn-South. This is the finale week. Make a date with the Approaching Storm. No rain gear needed.

Mannhole Is Groovy Place

STOPPED in at the Mannhole the other evening. Heard some nice, pretty music, played softly so that one could sit and talk with ease as well as do some nice romantic dancing. The Chet Grabel Trio was playing, with Boots Carter at the organ, Chet on tenor sax and the owner of the club, Danny Mann, at the drums and serving up some nice vocal renditions. This group is at Danny's Mannhole, Wednesday and Thursday.

Things swing a little more on weekends with the Counter Revolution on stage. Here you'll find Ralph Craven handling the organ stylings, a fine trumpet player, Bobby Search, who also plays the devil out of the flugelhorn and Jack Barger at the drums. Of course, Danny can't resist getting up and singing a few tunes. And, this columnist as well as a host of others, are glad that Danny is still entertaining, even though he has become a club owner. Danny has an exciting voice and is certainly a very strong stylist.

Sunday nights, you'll find action at the Mannhole, also. This is Country and Western Jamboree Night. Many of the C & W performers Around Town "sit in," which has proven to be very popular at the Mannhole.

So, remember, Danny's Mannhole. Give it a try. The atmosphere is not a rip roaring deal. It is a nice, quiet spot, offering good, pretty music. To me, it is one of the most enjoyable places to go in town. This is especially true, if you have that special someone with you, and you want a place with conversation and entertainment combined. They are hard to find. By the way, there is no manhole cover, just open the door and walk right in. Danny's Mannhole is the classiest manhole in Columbus.

Sveden House Has Variety

HERE'S a pleasant way to feed your family or yourself economically, while dining in warm attractive surroundings. Plan on eating at one of the two Sveden House Smorgasbord Restaurants. One is located at 4056 W. Broad St., near Westland Shopping Center, and the other is at 1345 Morse Rd., near the Northland Shopping Mall.

Entering either of the Sveden Houses in Columbus, you are greeted to all the hand carved roast beef and golden fried chicken you and your family can eat, with entrees such as baked whole salmon, barbequed ribs and many more too numerous to mention. There is always a large selection of steaming hot soups, like hearty French onion or creamy clam chowder.

THERE IS also a delectable selection of 15 cold dishes and tasty relishes, including herring in cream sauce, garden salad with a varied choice of dressings, jello molds and more.

Of course there is a yummy choice of vegetables and a host of other side dishes. Even four different kinds of delicious fritters are available.

Now here is the best part of all, all of this, with as many helpings as you want for only $3.99 for adults and 99 cents for children six through 12. It's free to toddlers five and under. Now, that's what I call a bargain today.

And, like I said, The Sveden House encourages excess. Make as many trips to the table as you want.

The Scandinavin smorgasbord tradition is carried out at the Sveden House. Most of the ingredients used in the preparation of the restaurants tasty food are fresh. Sveden does not compromise for the sake of quality. Besides carrying on the Scandinavin tradition, Sveden House has modernized the smorgasbord with good ole American know-how. Instead of one table crowded with both hot and cold dishes, Sveden House has added gracious friendly dining to the smorgasbord concept by having two heavily laden tables, one holding chilled appetizers and salads, the other steaming main courses and side dishes. Hence, no more standing in long lines.

By the way, the two Sveden Houses also serve a fantastic smorgasbord lunch for only $1.59. Take my advice, and head to one of the Sveden Houses soon. You golden agers get a special free coupon, too. So, young or old, rich or poor, dine like royalty at the Sveden House.

Skipping Around Town

Hey Columbus, here's something you won't want to miss. The Holiday Greece Special at the Imperial House-North. The most famous Greek entertainers will be performing Sunday, March 3 and Friday, March 8. This promises to be a great affair and very unique. Take my advice, make your reservations now. One low price includes dinner and show. Call now . . . Billy Brown, that great entertainer, has been held over again at Lincoln Lodge. I told you last week, that this was his last week. But, general manager Chuck Anderson, knowing a good thing, has held over Billy for three more weeks . . . For the best Italian food Around Town, be sure to visit Petty's Restaurant. Their food is out of this world . . . Donnie Beck and his trio opens at The Composite this week. Scratch has held over Terry Foster, who I can consider to be one of the best male singers in the business.

Remember, Times are Changing, You are Changing and, WE ARE CHANGING. See You Around Town.

Tourney Surprises Few But Underdogs Await

By SANDY SCHWARTZ
Spectator Sports Writer

West will face Gahanna at 6:30 tonight and Whitehall and Worthington will follow that act at 8:00 with the winners gaining a berth in the AAA district semi-finals Friday night.

IN TOMORROW night's lower bracket sectional final tournament roundball matchups it'll be East and Reynoldsburg at 6:30 with Eastmoor and suprising Westerville tangling at 8:00.

And for a ticket into those district finals to be held March 9, the West-Gahanna survivor will meet Franklin Heights next Monday while the Whitehall Worthington winner challenges the second seeded Mt. Vernon-Whetstone winner Friday at 6:30.

In the lower bracket the East-Reynoldsburg winner faces Brookhaven while the Eastmoor Westerville victor faces top seeded City League king Northland, these two games Saturday.

WELL THERE'S the Central District cast and although it seems real simple to label its wow, what difficult routes these daring quintets took in gaining these finalist pairings.

Capsuling AAA tourney action thus far: Wes Redd poured in 20 points in leading West to its slim three-point win over seeded Newark while Warren Lewis helped with 17.

Whitehall had to overcome a Marion Franklin charge with Bill Besalski and Terry Burris supplying the spark, while Worthington was playing a bit of rag tag game according to Coach Pat Manion in its win over North.

Hilton Hale was super in leading East in a hairline win over Linden while Ed Williams fired 32 points and grabbed 22 rebounds in the Reynoldsburg win over Grove City.

AND IN a tourney clash that will go down as one of the most exciting and one with a tremendous individual performance Eastmoor decisioned Walnut Ridge 70-68 behind the [illegible]lative effort of wonder Warrior Brian Stertzer.

Stertzer was faultless in the fourth period that saw the Warriors overcome an 11 point Ridge lead and also had clever Brian score 11 straight Warrior tallies and 20 points in all in that stanza, 36, the individual tourney high for the game, 20 of 22 from the charity stripe included.

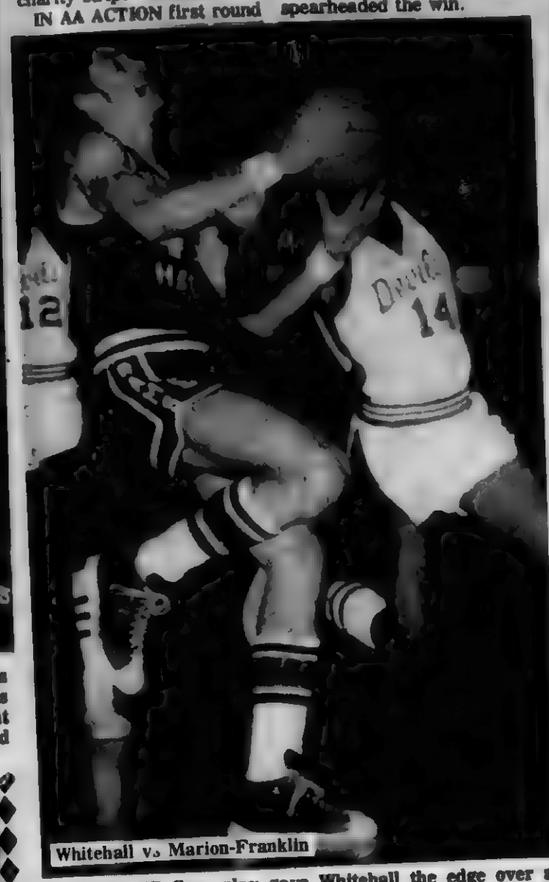
IN AA ACTION first round victors Hamilton Township and strong coming Hartley will tangle Friday at Grove City at 8:00 p.m. for sectional honors while Grandview and Ready will do the same at Westland.

St. Charles opens up its A tourney quest with an 8:00 p.m. scrap with Jonathan Alder Friday at Groveport.

And in another tournament surprise Franklin Heights posted an impressive pair of firsts, one being 61-56 upset of third seeded Central Monday, and the other its own Larry Ferst whose 31 points spearheaded the win.

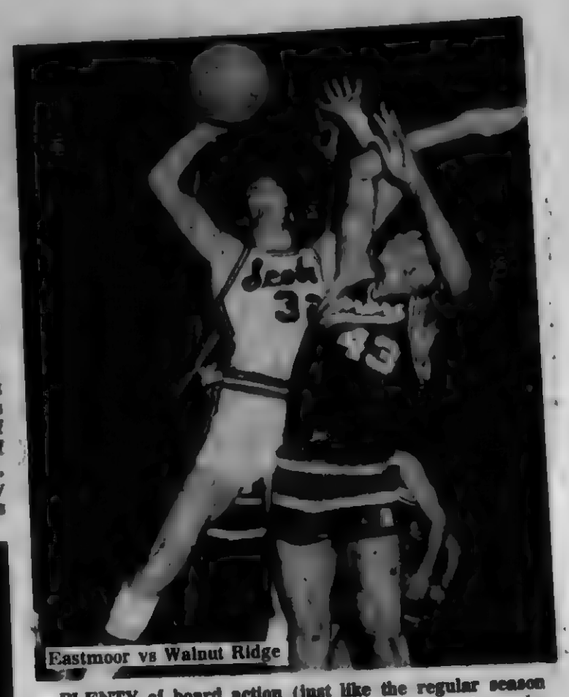
Groveport vs Westerville

THE WILDCATS of Westerville edged Groveport's Cruisers with a second half comeback that found the Cats winning by one point. The Cruisers' Steve Groves battled Cat Tony Staten (43) for this rebound as another Cruiser looked on. (Westerville-Groveport photos by Ed Kiernan.)



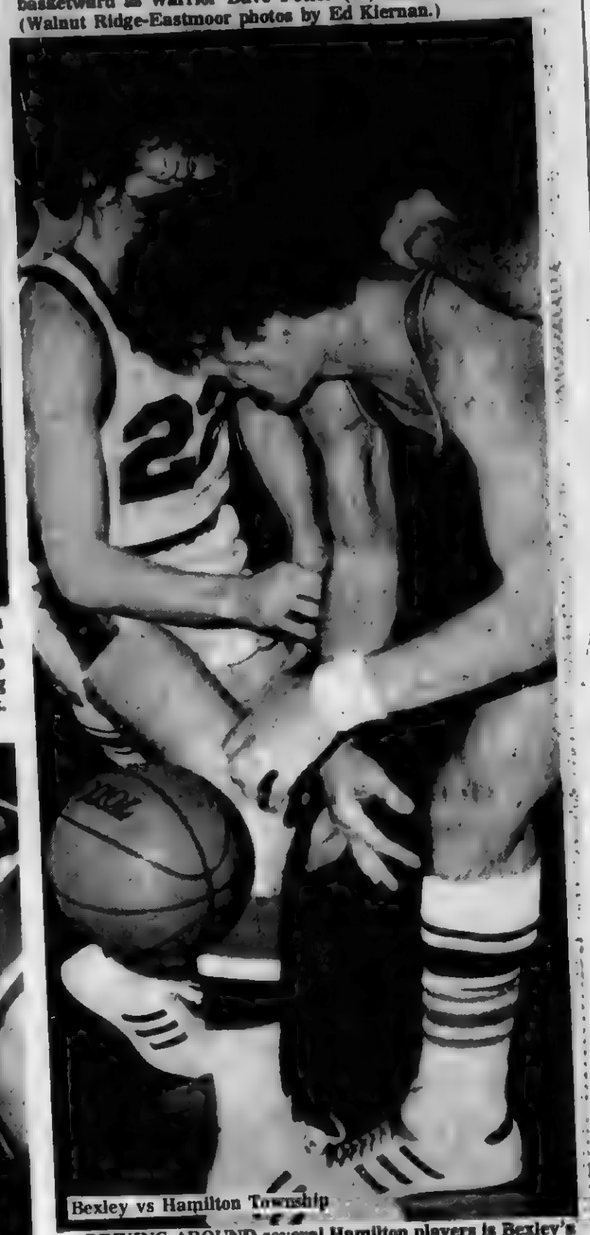
Whitehall vs Marion-Franklin

DAZZLING floor play gave Whitehall the edge over a hustling gang of Marion-Franklin Red Devils in Class AAA play last week and the Rams continued their championship style play with a victory. Here's Chris Zag (41) getting around M-F's Frank Carter (14) in a drive toward the basket. (Whitehall-Marion Franklin photos by Craig Weaver.)



Eastmoor vs Walnut Ridge

PLENTY of board action (just like the regular season game) highlighted the Eastmoor-Walnut Ridge clash won by the Warriors to knock the Scots from the State Class AAA title chase. The Scots' Bill Bardelang sent this one basketward as Warrior Dave Potter (43) tried to defend. (Walnut Ridge-Eastmoor photos by Ed Kiernan.)



Bexley vs Hamilton Township

DRIVING AROUND several Hamilton players is Bexley's Rich Hoffman (25) as he gets through the close quarters in the game won by Bexley. (Bexley-Hamilton photos by Dan Unkefer.)

Lions Gain Wins

BEXLEY wrestlers were victorious in the Class AA meet last week with two winning in these photos. Top is Jeff Edelstein on his way to a pin win over Tom Beddow of Jonathon Alder. In the bottom photo Paul Haverstein wins in a double overtime decision over Bill Greinhein of Teays Valley and went on to win the 185 lb. title. (Photos by Dan Unkefer.)

Spinning Tackle

When I first began to cast artificial lures for bass, I would sneak in my father's tackle box and borrow a hunk of wood weighing about an ounce.

My father would use this hand carved wood lure plunking it into rivers while I was dunking a live nightcrawler around stumps and logs near the shoreline with a long cane pole.

I STAYED up stream from Dad because I thought the big splash his lure made hitting the water would scare all the fish away. I was wrong. He took his share of big bass with his aritficial lure.

You needed a heavy plug in those days because most casting rods were too darn stiff to cast anything lighter than one half to one ounce lures.

Some of the rods were even made out of steel. After World War Two, veterans returning home started a trend using light weight fiberglass rods casting small quarter ounce lures with open face spinning reels they brought home from France.

Anglers who said, "You can't catch big fish with those tiny lures,". were soon changing their tune.

IN THE early 50's importers began offering light weight rods and spinning reels on the American market and they became popular.

Even kids and the beginning fisherman can easily learn to cast lures with todays light weight spinning tackle.

WHAT KIND of line do you use on a spinning reel? The two types available are braided and monofiliment.

Monofiliment line casts light weight lures easier, absorbs less water, is less visible and permits longer casts. Braided line has some advantage because it spools evenly and prevents backlash.

Whichever type you use, keep the spool on closed and open face spinning reels filled to about one eighth to one sixteenth inch below the flange. If the spool is over filled, you can bet that on your first cast your line will tangle.

If underfilled the line draging over the lip of the spool will shorten your casts.

It is important to keep your spool filled to the proper level when casting artificial lures.

Trout Fishing

During the past few weeks, many anglers have reported fine catches of Rainbow trout from the Mad River. Many of these fish have been in the river for six months or longer and have become excellent fighters, as well as providing fine eating.

Cheese, worms and salmon eggs are now the most consistent producers, although spinners also produce well when properly presented. Look for trout to be concentrated under log jams, undercut banks and other obstructions providing good cover.

DON'T forget that a 74 fishing license will be required as of March 1, while the daily bag and possession limit will remain at ten trout per angler.

Fair Weather At The Academy

THE COLUMBUS ACADEMY Mother's Association is sponsoring its annual Lower School Fair Friday, March 1 from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Academy, Cherry Bottom Road, Gahanna. Dinner will be served from 6 to 7 p.m. All proceeds from the Fair are used for school projects. Some of the mothers who are primed to the "Stop, Look and Listen" theme are front - Mrs. W. Byron Ireland and Mrs. John Perrini. Back are Mrs. Richard Ward, Mrs. David McClure, Mrs. Fred Luper, Mrs. Fred Golan and Mrs. David Ford.

Safety Slogan Contest Opens

THE OHIO Department of Highway Safety's ninth annual search for a winning safety slogan has opened, Acting Director Frederick A. Vierow has announced.

Top prize in the adult division of the contest is a year's lease of a luxury compact car, plus free insurance coverage, both provided by the Ohio Association of Insurance Agents, and the No. 1 Ohio license plate usually reserved for Governor John J. Gilligan. Adult winners in each of Ohio's 88 counties will receive transistor radios.

THE GOVERNOR'S Traffic Safety Committee will provide 10-speed bicycles for each of the top three winners in the under-18 age group, and awards of $5 to youth winners in each county.

The top award winner in the adult category, and the first, second and third place winners in the under-18 category, along with their immediate families, will be driven to and from their homes for presentation of their awards by the Governor. After the award presentation, they will be given a tour of the Statehouse and other state capital facilities.

"THE PURPOSE of the contest is to get people thinking about traffic safety," Vierow said. "Even those who don't enter the contest, but hear about it, are inclined to give a few minutes thought to safe driving.

Deadline for the contest, which is open to all Ohio residents, is April 1.

ENTRY BLANKS are available from the Ohio Department of Highway Safety, 240 Parsons Ave., Columbus, Ohio 43205; from Deputy Registrars of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles throughout the state, and from members of the Ohio Association of Insurance Agents. Contest rules are printed on the entry forms

Inflation Ups Levy Millage

Whitehall–The Whitehall Board of Education met in a special work session Monday night with representatives of Whitehall Education Association, the local chapter Ohio Public School Employees, and other interested citizens to pass on information to, and obtain input from, the groups on the best ways to organize a campaign to pass an operating levy.

In a special meeting Feb. 25 it voted unanimously to place an 8 mill levy on the ballot May 7. Its passage would generate $648,000.

Last November the voters defeated a 5 mill levy by approximately 40 votes. The board had a feeling then that inflation had leveled off. The extra three mills had to be added because inflation has run rampant and according to Austin Peel, assistant superintendent, some so-called "fixed costs" have increased so rapidly "we can scarcely keep track of them."

He cited examples: in 1972 the district paid 19.9 cents per gallon for gasoline; they now pay 34. A ream of ditto paper was 92 cents; it will soon cost $2. For fuel for heating and cooking, in 1972, they paid $40,339; in 1973 they are paying at the rate of $41,050 and costs are rising alarmingly.

A year ago, the electric bill was $69,082. This year they estimate it will be $66,157. Telephone bills came to $14,637 last year and this year they will run $15,549 at the current rates.

In the past year, the district has done a lot of "belt tightening." They cut their teaching staff by 29 teachers. This increased the teacher-pupil ratio to anywhere from 29 students to one teacher, to 29 to one. They are operating overall on minimal state standards.

Last year they also eliminated the position of business manager, dietician, superintendent of buildings and grounds, learning disabilities supervisor, audio-visual coordinator, three maintenance personnel and two bus drivers.

The district has cut back on the purchase of educational materials, supplies and field trips. According to Peel, who is in charge of instruction, they are far behind in the adoption of reading series, math and social studies texts.

Reminding us that "schools are a service organization," eighty per cent of the school district's money is set aside for salaries. "Whitehall teachers are on the third lowest salary schedule in Franklin County. They are caught at fixed salaries while inflation soars upward. Five per cent of the budget must be projected for salary increases to meet the rise in the cost of living, as well as the rise in the cost of fringe benefits such as hospitalization, retirement, insurance and sick leave."

Peel pointed out that until November, when the 5 mill levy narrowly missed passage, the board had not asked for an increase since 1968, when a 5 mill increase was approved.

Over the last few years the student population has decreased until there

Johnny's Reading Miscues Not All Bad

by ELSIE V. WEAVER

Whitehall-The child was reading one of the many verses about Old Mother Hubbard and her dog. The story read, "Old Mother Hubbard went to her cupboard to get her poor dog a wig," but the child said,"...and got her poor dog 'play hair.'" This is an example of what Dr. Carolyn L. Burke calls "reading miscues."

Dr. Burke is co-director of the Reading Practicum Center at Indiana University, where she holds the rank of associate professor of education. Last Friday afternoon and evening, and Saturday morning, she gave an illustrated lecture for about 50 teachers of the Whitehall City Schools at East Main Street School.

She says the child who said "play hair" instead of wig made a good miscue, which is this case is a kind of a mistake that is good, because she had to think what "wig" meant but supplied a synonym as she read aloud. The meaning was not lost in the reading.

An adult friend of Dr. Burke's, she related in an exclusive interview for the Spectator, once told of reading a headline in the newspaper and in the split second it took her to read it, thinking it said, "Jesus Christ Honored." Upon reading the news story she noted that it was not remotely about religion. She went back to check the headline and found it said, "Justice Christo Honored." The meaning had been lost in her first reading.

Dr. Burke says students should be taught to pay attention to what they are reading to be sure it makes sense. "Unless they do this, they will correct "wig" but not "Jesus Christ."

She adds, "When you read, it involves many thought processes. You are not only reading what is on the page, but you are bringing your own information to what you're reading."

Dr. Burke explains that she did her doctoral work in the field of miscue research at Wayne State University under Dr. Kenneth Goodman, who had researched the subject for 10 years on four federally-funded projects.

The term "miscue" came from the newspaper sports pages and there it meant a mistake that was bad.

But the young Professor Burke maintains that reading is not an exact process and that miscues are natural to reading, "and there are good ones as well as bad ones. Through them you can tell what strategy the student is using "to figure out what they are reading when it is not immediately familiar to him. Then to help him improve his reading, you can focus on Button, Button.....Button?

BUTTON, BUTTON, WHO HAS THE BUTTON? Five thousand Madison District school kids have the button. Shown in facsimile larger than the real button which is red and black, Groveport-Madison High School's colors, all kids kindergarten through eighth grade will be wearing the badge, and they are all worth it! This week they will be taking home letters explaining why they are worth a full-time education which will be provided if the district's bond issue is passed at a special education March 19 meeting. Mrs. Madge Anderson, left, principal of Dunloe Elementary School, adjusts the badge on Jimmy Reece, first grader. Mrs. Jackie Leist, co-chairman of the Parents March For Victory at Dunloe, wears a facsimile of the badge worn by parents who are committed to support the spread of knowledge on the bond issue and the drive to get all school parents registered to vote. Half-day sessions will be abolished as new buildings are constructed, in Operation Catch Up: two new middle schools; a new elementary school, classroom additions at two elementaries and the high school; addition to the school bus service garage, remodeling in one middle school and an elementary and purchase of sites for three new sachools. For the average family Voting YES for the bond issue will mean an average investment of 17 cents per day per family. "They are worth it!" (Photo by Elsie V. Weaver)

New Minister Appointed At Whitehall Methodist

Whitehall-Bishop F. Gerald Ensley announced his appointment of the Rev. James Stevenson, 1101 Bernard Rd., to the pastorate of Whitehall United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Walter Plummer, superintendent of Columbus North District in which the church is located, said the appointment is effective March 15.

Stevenson, a missionary in Africa for 15 years until 1969, succeeds the Rev. Paul Watson who has been placed on disability since suffering a heart attack last fall.

Upon his return from Zaire (former Belgian Congo), he and his family settled in Columbus where he has been employed by a large printing firm, work he followed in the mission field. His wife, Martha, is a daughter of missionary parents who served 35 years in Africa.

A native of Mercer County, Pa., Stevenson is a graduate of Bridgewater College, Va., and, as a local preacher, served a seven-point charge in the Blue Ridge Mountains in the late 1940s.

He prepared for missionary service at Asbury Seminary, Wilmore, Ky., and Garrett Thelogical Seminary, Evanston, Ill. He and his family went to Africa in 1955.

The Stevensons have three children,

East Deputy Registrar Agency Moves To Reynoldsburg

East Columbus–The Ohio Bureau of Motor Vehicles reminds residents of Columbus' far East Side and Eastern Franklin County that there has been a change in the location of the deputy registrar agency serving their area.

The agency formerly located at Shady Lane Pharmacy (Livingston Ave. at Hamilton Rd.) has moved to the B.F. Goodrich store at 6444 E. Main St. in Reynoldsburg. The new location is near Brice Rd., approximately one half mile east of the I-270–Main St. interchange.

This agency is authorized to issue truck plates, as well as photo driver licenses, passenger vehicle and motorcycle plates.

Police Establish Complaint Method

Police Chief Earl Burden announced the adoption of a new and up-dated general order for the handling of citizen complaints on police conduct.

The two principal objectives of the new general order are:

To establish the procedures for the handling of citizen complaints against members and employees of the Division of Police; and

To assure the prompt and thorough investigation of complaints in order to clear the innocent, establish guilt and facilitate appropriate and suitable corrective action.

The new complaint handling procedure – the second adopted by the Division of Police in the past two years - is the product of a number of recommendations from a police-community relations committee, which was set up by the Community Relations Commission to deal with the task of improving police-community understanding and cooperation in Columbus.

Major features of the new procedure include a provision for the notification to the complaintant of the disposition of the case and action taken and a summary report to the general public on a quarterly basis.

The new general order also calls for a special telephone number, giving direct access to persons wishing to make a complaint and spells out in detail the process that is followed from the initial receipt of a complaint to its final disposition and appeal.

Bexley High School's Department of Performing Arts presented an American Music Festival March 2 and 3 in the BHS auditorium. The festival included performances by the band and choir March 2 and an orchestra presentation Sunday afternoon.

The band opened the evening concert with "America the Beautiful." During this composition the Art Department showed slides of great American scenes and landscapes.

The band also presented "Concertant," by Dello Jlio and King Cotton, a march by Sousa. Selections from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" completed their portion of the festival

The evening concert concluded with an arrangement of music for chorus and wind ensemble. "Celebrations," composed by Persichetti, is a 38-minute blend of instrumental and vocal music. The text is taken from Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass."

The orchestra played five slections by American composers: Copeland's Celebration Dance from "Billy the Kid," Nestico's "Joboggan,", Anderson's "Arietta," Whear's Quentin Suite, and Gould's American Salute.

This performing group will attend the orchestra contest for the first time March 16. They will perform class A music, the most difficult music in this competition.

Golden Agers News And Notes

Nutrition, Housing, and Traveling are made easier and cheaper for Senior Citizens in Franklin County by on-going programs sponsored by the Franklin County Council on Aging, a division of the Columbus Recreation & Parks Department. An update on the three areas follows:

NUTRITION: The hot lunch program begun in early November at three sites, now has expanded to eleven sites. Several new locations are due to be announced in the immediate future when equipment details have been ironed out.

Operated by the Community Health & Nursing Service under a contract with the Council on Aging, the meals are prepared at Bradford Commons, the Ohio State University, and delivered to the locations in insulated trucks.

Because the trucks cannot reach all the places at the same time the serving times vary from 11:30 to 12:45.

LUNCHEONS are free to all those over 60 but anyone able or willing to make a donation may pay 50 cents. Guests under 60 are charged $1.35 a meal. Funded by a federal grant through the Ohio Commission on Aging, the primary idea was to furnish the elderly with at least a part of the basic nutrition needed for daily health.

In practice, the over 500 senior citizens taking advantage of the program have already experienced all sorts of side benefits of the program: eating with other people makes the food taste better; every day there is news and gossip to exchange; if you have a problem like as not someone else has the same problem and they can tell you where to go to get help; when you eat what you should at noon, it means you can indulge yourself at night—maybe.

As a matter of fact, special diets are available for those present with physicians' orders, but as a general practice, salty and sweet foods are in short supply.

LOCATIONS and serving times are: 1100 E. Broad St. Recreation Center, 11:30 a.m.; Sawyer Towers Senior Center, 975 Caldwell Place, and Holy Family Church, 582 W. Broad St., 11:45 a.m.; Linton Gardens Senior Center, 2385 Mock Rd., Aldersgate Methodist Church, 385 Miller Ave., Poindexter Towers, 1253 Mt. Vernon Ave., and First English Lutheran Church, Main & 22nd Sts., 12 noon; St. John's Parish House, 657 S. Ohio Ave., and Union Grove Baptist Church, 266 N. Champion Ave., 12:15 p.m.; Third Ave. Methodist Church, 1066 N. High St., 12:30 p.m.; and First Congregational Church, 444 E. Broad St., 12:45 p.m.

TRAVELING: You can go and have lunch because all the locations are readily accessible by COTA bus at a time in the day when Good as Gold cards entitling Seniors to reduced fares are acceptable.

Speaking of the COTA Good as Gold cards, Seniors who reach their 65th birthday after March 1, must apply for Good as Gold cards at the central COTA Office, 10 W. Long St. The application desks will be open Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Mrs. Phyllis Coates, COTA coordinator for the program, has been spending the month of February with the mobile registration unit visiting outlying neighborhoods. She announces that these visits were discontinued March 1.

As of February 18, this worthwhile program had enrolled 23,000 Senior Citizens for Good as Gold cards. Be sure to take documents for proof of birth date when you apply.

HOUSING: Applications for Homestead exemption on your income tax are now being received at the County Auditor's Office. You are eligible for Homestead Exemption if: You are 65 years of age or older; You own your own home; and Your total income is under $10,000 (up from $8,000 last year).

EVERYONE must file annual applications for this benefit. Income to be counted includes social security, pension and aid for aged. The auditor's office reports that they have already mailed out 14,000 applications to last year's applicants. If you have not already received your application you may obtain one by calling the County Auditor's Office, 462-3240 or 462-3241. They will be pleased to answer any questions you may have.

Natural Baits

WITHOUT doubt the ol' garden worm and the nightcrawler are by far number one on the natural bait list, but even so, don't forget the other natural baits.

A good bass bait is crayfish (soft craws).

They're easy to gather at night with a flashlight and dip net along the banks of streams and rivers in shallow water. Keep them in damp moss and use as soon as possible.

TOPS ON my list for smallmouth bass is the dobson fly larva. Maybe you know it as the hellgramite. Kicking up gravel and lifting rocks in ripples of streams while a companion holds a quarter inch mesh screen or net below should give you a quick dozen.

Keep hellgramites in a closed container of moist leaves. Make sure you punch a few air holes in the container.

CRICKETS caught by hand under boards in fields, and grasshoppers caught in fields by hand or with a net are good panfish and trout baits. Keep them in screened boxes.

One of the most used baits in the spring of the year are minnows, you can seign them or just about every bait dealer has all you need.

WHEN I began to fish I used live bait thinking it was the only way, and really enjoyed using it, but a few years later I became interested in artificial lures and became a real enthusiast.

While I was learning to fool fish with my lures, many times conditions were unfavorable for artificials and I came home skunked.

I finally decided, why not switch back to live bait when my artificials were not working. I forgot that live bait has two advantages, natural order and taste, why not use it.

Well, it improved my luck and it was a welcome change.

You know there are times when air pressure will send fish down, and the only way I can reach them is with live bait.

On other occasions when water is five or six feet above normal, you just can't reach them with artificials.

NOW MOST of the time when I head out to a new fishing spot, I'll carry a small supply of live bait, so why be stubborn and stick to any one method of fishing day in and out.

It's a lot more fun testing your skill using all the different ways there are to catch fish.

Have you ever tried casting live bait such as worms or minnows with a fly rod and have your bait fall off, or you're forced to use an extra heavy weight to be able to cast with a casting reel that has a revolving spool.

Using heavy weights to get distance will leave you with a bare hook almost every time.

YOU CAN solve this problem and save a lot of your live bait if you use spinning tackle. Your casting must be more gentle than when casting artificials, but light weight spinning rigs will let you toss that live bait out. 30 to 40 feet with very little effort.

For all live bait fishing I use six to ten pound test line and seldom use any weight at all.

If necessary I will clamp B-B size weights on my line to get just enough weight to cast out to a favorite fishing hole.

Try spinning tackle when you're using live bait. It's a hard to beat combination.

Swim Team Schedules 'Oldies But Goodies' Dance

The Executive Board of the Columbus Coralina Club will sponsor an Oldies But Goodies Dance at Valley Dale, March 8 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. The Master of Ceremonies will be Bob Conners. Admission is $3 per couple. Tickets may be obtained from Mrs. Vincent, 875-4328 or Mrs. Thomas, 451-4438. Tickets will also be sold at the door. Proceeds will be used for club traveling expenses.

The Columbus Coralina Club is an AAU competitive swim team and was founded in 1956 by the late Edna Hines. The sport was a 'babe in arms' and the field wide open. She built the club from one to three teams and captured nine Junior National Titles.

The reins were picked up by Mary Williams in 1966. The club now has six teams, 43 girls, and a staff of six coaches.

The sport of synchronized swimming has grown in recognition and participation until it is part of the Pan American Games, included in the World Aquatics Meet and has been exhibited at the last two Olympic Games.

The Coralinas are presently State and Regional Champions and are in the Top Ten nationally. The girls compete in meets throughout Ohio and last season the qualifying teams went on to Hershey, Pa., Cypress Gardens, Fla., and Santa Clara, Calif.

Care Continues After Hospital Stay

EAST COLUMBUS—Pat Connor, R.N., director of continuity of patient care, discusses a recent discharge planning conference with Mrs. Suzanne Martin, R.N., who is coordinator of that area. Mrs. Julia Mitchell is setting up an appointment for a patient to come in to have his case history taken before admission in order for the health teams to coordinate their efforts to help.

By KATHY DEVANEY
Editor, Spectator West

East Columbus—"If a patient has health needs we try to follow through from hospital to home," Pat Connor, R.N., said. Miss Connor is director of continuity of patient care for Mt. Carmel Medical Center and Mt. Carmel East.

The goal of the three-month old program is to give patients uninterrupted care.

Mrs. Suzanne Martin, R.N., has discharge planning conferences on a regular basis with each unit within the hospital. All patients are reviewed each week.

Those who attend the conference include a representative from the social service department (social worker), the unit dietician, at least one staff nurse, the unit director who supervises the unit, the coordinator of staff development which provides in-service training to the staff, the sister visitors who give emotional support to patients and anyone else interested in patient care, Mrs. Martin said.

THERE MIGHT BE 23 patients in a unit. All are reviewed with perhaps two or three identified as needing care after their hospital stay. Mrs. Martin then works with the patient and the agencies in the community which will provide the care after the hospital.

Three units a day are scheduled at Mt. Carmel Medical Center. Each unit knows when Mrs. Martin is coming so they are ready for the 20 to 30 minute conference.

"We determine the patients need with the nurses and doctor and then involve the community in aftercare," she said.

This care could include transfer to a nursing home, care at home with the health nurses visiting or referral to another agency such as the kidney foundation, she said.

"MANY NEED SOMETHING here such as dietary counseling. The patient gets what he needs to know before leaving. We keep a record of all aspects of patient care and we always work with the physician. This record of what has been done can then be passed on to the next agency. We can communicate what we've done and what the patient needs so there is no duplication of effort," Mrs. Martin said.

Volunteers call patients after they leave the hospital to find out how they're doing and if they need anything. They are also asked about the care they received while at Mt. Carmel.

"Ninety-five per cent of the comments are favorable. We are compiling them to send to the units. The unfavorable comments will be evaluated and corrective measures taken where necessary," Miss Connor said.

Continuity of patient care is a seven day a week department. "If you're giving patient service, you don't close on weekends," Miss Connor said.

The six people working with the department have a total of 250 years of service.

Other members of the staff are Miss Marilyn Nestor, admissions coordinator, Miss Colleen Cheuvront, R.N., patient history coordinator, Mrs. Josephine King, R.N., patient history coordinator, Sister Leo Joseph, C.S.C., R.N., patient history coordinator at Mt. Carmel East and Mrs. Julia Mitchell, coordinator's assistant. Mrs. Rose Forquer and Mrs. Dora Knight are the volunteers who call patients after they leave the hospital.

This department also makes appointments with patients to take their medical history before they are admitted so the care can be coordinated with all health team members who will be working with them.

CHILD SAFETY RESTRAINTS

Parents, your child is in danger during the time he rides in a car. The Ohio Department of Highway Safety asks you make sure your children are at least as safe in the car as you are — properly restrained and with all the doors locked. Child safety restraints which make use of the car's seat belts and bear a federal approval sticker may save your child's life.

PASSING

When being passed by a car, keep to the right and maintain or reduce speed, dim lights to avoid a glare in the rear view mirror of the car that has passed.

Economist Says $1 A Loaf Bread Not Probable

THERE'S NO reason why bread should be selling for as much as a dollar a loaf by late spring, says Edgar Watkins, Extension economist, food distribution, Ohio State University.

Watkins, in referring to recent news headlines on dollar-a-loaf bread, says the average price of a 1½ pound loaf of bread is about 47 cents. The farm value of the wheat in that size loaf of bread is just over 10.5 cents. Other costs and profits account for the 36.5 cents of the 47 cents cost, he points out.

IN ORDER for the wheat in a 1½ pound loaf of bread to be responsible for $1 bread, the farm value of that wheat would have to jump from the present 10.5 cents to 63.5 cents the 63.5 cents being the difference between $1 per loaf and the other 36.5 cents of non-wheat costs and profits in a loaf.

For the farm value of the wheat in that loaf to rise to that 63.5 cents, wheat at the farm would have to rise to about $30 per bushel, he adds.

The United States grows far more wheat than it uses, Watkins says. The normal use of wheat for food in the United States is little over 500 million bushels a year. Last year's wheat crop totaled 1.7 billon bushels. The 1974 crop is expected to top 2 billion bushel—nealry four times that used for food in the U.S., according to USDA figures.

Most of the wheat not used in this country is exported for cash. This strengthens the U.S. balance of trade, strengthens the dollar and makes it possible for the U.S. to import fuel and other vitally important items from other countries, thus helping dampen the fires of inflation.

Watkins says the Department of Agriculture is working closely with the grain industry to monitor the export situation. To this end, the department expects a carry-over reserve of around 180 million bushels next July 1. The industry pipelines require about 150 million bushels to assure reasonably good distribution. The supply situation by July 1 will indeed be close to the minimum required and will likely result in a continuing strong market for old crop wheat.

DEPARTMENT OF Agriculture figures show that the farm value of the wheat in a 1½ pound loaf of bread has gone up more than the increase in the farm value of wheat.

Fraternal Order Of Police Aids Officers, Community

By KATHY DEVANEY
Editor, Spectator West

The Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) is the only national organization for police officers. There are approximately 130,000 members in 42 states.

The FOP was started in 1915 in Pennsylvania by officers who wanted to help professionalize police work and upgrade working conditions, according to the recently elected president of the Columbus area lodge, Dewey Stokes, a patrolman for the Columbus Police Department

The local lodge tried to form March 7, 1920 but was stopped by a court injunction brought by the mayor and chief of police.

Fifteen years later, on June 11, 1935, Capital City Lodge 9 was chartered in the State of Ohio, he said.

THE LODGE HAS 1,640 members representing 16 departments in Franklin County. The FOP includes chiefs to patrolmen.

The FOP has members from the Columbus Police Department, Bexley, Whitehall, Madison Township, Franklin Township, The Sheriff's Department, Worthington, Gahanna, Westerville, Reynoldsburg, Blendon Township, Dublin, The OSU Police Department, Grandview, Upper Arlington and Clinton Township.

The Capital City Lodge is one of the largest of the 120 lodges with 15,000 members in the state.

The FOP was started to professionalize the police officer and upgrade working conditions and has been very successful in that endeavor, according to Stokes.

"The pay and benefits for police officers has increased steadily; and the FOP even benefits suburban departments which aren't members since the other departments must remain competitive or loose officers to the city," he said.

FOR THE $1.50 dues a month paid to the FOP, officers receive someone to handle wage negotiations, a death benefit and a state lobbyist, who recently helped to increase benefits to widows and orphans and a raise for retired officers, Stokes said.

The dues will probably be raised to $3 soon in order to help build a new lodge hall on the 10½ acres the FOP owns near Gahanna. This will still be the lowest dues in the state, he said.

Stokes welcomed and helped in the initial planning for area mental health centers as an important source of help.

"It is just as valuable to know about such places to refer people as it is to carry a gun, blackjack and mace," he said.

"WHEN THE POLICE officers walk into a family fight where one party is drunk, by taking the person to jail, the police officer only temporarily removes the problem. If this happens on a regular basis, someone is crying for help. The police officer has to be aware of help in the community.

"The officer makes a note on the back of a statement of fact that this is a recurring situation. The judge could sentence the offender to go to the mental health center for six months instead of to jail and the problem might be worked out," Stokes said.

Stokes thinks the police officer can also use the services of the centers.

"For eight hours a day the police officer is in constant contact with people—people who are usually physically and-or intellectually inferior to him. At the time of contact with the police a person may be intoxicated, on drugs or so emotionally disturbed that he or she isn't responding normally.

"THE OFFICER BEGINS to think everybody is like that, which distorts his view of the world. He also sees people (three per cent of the 10 per cent who get involved with the police) returned to society who have institutional minds - who can't live in society. This also causes problems with his thinking," he said.

"Ninety per cent of the people are good, law abiding citizens who don't abuse each other. In order to combat the distorted view of people, the police officer should belong to Kiwanis, Sertoma or other civic groups in the community in which he lives or works.

"This not only puts him in contact with the 90 per cent, but also makes him better able to cope with the problems of the community as he begins to understand them," Stokes said.

Another mind-affecting problem is the constant threat to life the police officer faces.

In other professions there can be safety lectures and safety devices to protect people from dangers on the job, he said.

BUT THE POLICE officer is under constant pressure. When his number is called over the radio his adrenalin shoots up because he doesn't know what he will be getting into. "There's no such thing as routine patrol anymore," Stokes said. "Not the way the world is today."

Plainclothes officers are especially upset with seeing the police unjustifiably under attack.

There is mental abuse in the form of a social stigma of being a police officer from an unfriendly neighbor or from liberal groups who give one view or who start false rumors, he said.

"This has an undermining effect on the individual policeman and on all uniformed police. It seems to indicate an undercurrent of discontent on the part of citizens which isn't true.

"There are also more recurring moments of frustration as plainclothesman because a case is on your mind constantly. It's not an eight hour job," Stokes said.

"A police officer is a trained doctor at the scene of an auto accident, a peacemaker in a family fight, a psychologist, a psychiatrist, child doctor, priest or rabbi. It's an odd profession. Sometimes you have to be physical, sometimes compassionate. It's tough being flexible," he said.

Warrior Wrap-up

THE SENIOR members of the Ohio State football team conquered the Eastmoor faculty last week during a charity basketball game. The EHS faculty, losing 71-56, was incapable of handling the rugged OSU ball players. Greg Hare, former co-captain of the OSU football team, led the All-Stars in scoring for the benefit of St. Jude Children's Hospital.

AFTER WINNING the City League Wrestling Tournament, six Eastmoor students participated in the District Wrestling Meet last weekend at Upper Arlington High School. The grapplers, Sam Peppers, Todd Cohen, David Gillian, Jeff Matheny, Ray Griffin, and Jack King were eligible to participate because of victories they had in the District Sectional Tournament.

TWENTY EASTMOOR MUSICIANS are presently preparing for the District Solo and Ensemble Contest to be held Saturday at West High School. The contest, sponsored by the Ohio Music Education Association, evaluates individuals on a solo or ensemble performance.

CARON FITCH, an Eastmoor senior, will be attempting to receive a superior rating for the sixth consecutive year. Since seventh grade she has received nothing but the best ratings in solo performance.

THERESA GINS, president of the Eastmoor Spanish Club recently announced future plans for the oganization. The club will attend a guitar concert at Mershon Auditorium tomorrow featuring the Romeros, the "Royal Family of the Guitar," and partake in a tour of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts on March 16 to see a Latin American exhibition.

According to Gins, "the club is set up in order to help widen the knowledge of the Spanish culture for all Spanish students who are taking, or have taken, Spanish III."

Health Club memberships may be obtained by Center members and individual health programs are planned by Ms. Shan Bumgarner, Assistant Physical Education Director.

SPLASHES–What with all the changes in the weather, we sometimes hear folks groaning when they get up from a chair. Our pre-school assistant, Mrs. Ruby Weems was heard saying in the hallowed halls, "Oh yes! I know the "itis" brothers real well. Let's see there is Arthur, Bruce and Neut."

SURPRISE! Ben Rose stopped in to see us. Ben started as a pre-schooler and later served on the summer aquatic staff for several seasons. An able seaman, he now sails a catamaran and will no doubt pass us at Buckeye Lake. We also found out that the Rosie's Pizza Parlor is owned and operated by Pete, Marv and Ben.

A new member, Jedd Korthals, swam by and offered to help us teach a fencing class. Such talent as we have in the Center pool!

TUESDAY, March 19, there will be no open swim from 7:30-9, due to scheduled Torpedo swim meet.

Air Guard Leads The Way

Love Still Key Word In Helping

OHIO AIR National Guardsmen have "adopted" 32 mentally retarded children in Whitehall.

The children are from Peck O' Wee Ones Foundation Inc. Helping to provide for their basic needs are members of the 121st Tactical Fighter Group, based at Lockbourne AFB.

In a project organized by Master Sergeant Ted Puckey of Whitehall and Technical Sergeant James Hughes of Reynoldsburg, the Guardsmen collect food, clothing, toys and other items for the children.

THE FIRST donations came just before Christmas, with the Guardsmen planning a year-around program.

The children are severely mentally retarded or deformed, placed at Peck O'Wee Ones by doctors, or transferred from other institutions.

A home-like atmosphere is provided by a staff of 15 offering 24-hour care, doing maintenance in their "free" hours.

"I KNOW some people think there's nothing you can do for these kids," said Sgt. Hughes, "but there are definite responses."

The children are below the Trainable Mentally Retarded level and must be taught very basic skills, such as feeding and dressing themselves.

At times, some are taken to a cerebral palsey school for special instruction.

State and county support provides $135 to $250 a month for each child, depending upon the severity of the condition. "But this is not nearly enough," notes Sgt. Hughes. "They can use just about anything, particularly baby care products."

Peck O' Wee Ones was founded by a retired U.S. Navy chief warrant officer, now deceased. The structure was orginally a warehouse, later remodeled into a pair of doctors' offices.

ALTHOUGH designed to accommodate 28 children, Peck O' Wee Ones is managing to care for 32 at present.

A building fund has been started, seeking state matching grants for a new 100-bed facility, including training area and day-care center.

MEANWHILE, the Air Guardsmen continue to see what they can do to help "our kids." The response has been "terrific," Sergeants Puckey and Hughes agree.

Spanish Couture Collections

SPAIN - Madrid and Barcelona.

CONTINUING my coverage of the Spanish Couture Collections ... ELIO BERHANYER, the master tailor, keeps on designing one good looking suit after another, no matter what the season ... his imagination never seems to run out. He opened his show, in his beautiful new boutique in Madrid, with six entirely different suits ... all in brightly colored woolens, solids and checks, with great variety in jacket lengths, from below the hip to short bell-hop ... all elegant, all irresistible ... worn with high, rounded crown hats with wide scooped brims. I'm sure customers will find plenty to wear in Elio's suits with those welt seams ... a work of art! Famous for his coats too ... Elio gives them a military feeling with great flair ... like his red wool coat with back pleat and belt, buttoned in gold over a matching dress. His printed leather coat in brown on beige drew applause. Elio still leads the Spanish Couture for his own fabric designs.

ELIO'S EVENING clothes are some of the prettiest ... feminine embroidered organdies with bell skirts and flared sleeves ... a Chinese porcelain satin striped print with kimono sleeves and pink midriff sash ... white organdy pagoda sleeves on a black and white print ... even a white organdy ballerina gown for the young debutant.

PEDRO ROVIRA started his collection with pret-a-porter while American "Blues" recordings blasted over the sound system. One piece shifts, short and long, worn with espadrille shoes ... wide pants and T shirts, or gored and pleated skirts just covering the knees.

His Couture followed with elegant suits and costumes ... each beautifully coordinated, from the tiny brimmed hats to the spectator tie shoes. However, Rovira's heart seems to be in his prints in soft airy fabrics ... dresses with wide skirts and tunic tops, often striped in white, beige, black and green. Topped with ⅞ length coats allowing the coordinated dress to show beneath.

ROVIRA'S EVENING FASHIONS are pure romance ... printed organzas with ruffled capes, Chinese crepe with embroidered or glitter jackets, sheer cottons and linens in the most sophisticated colors ... greens, pinks and purple.

COUTURE SHOWINGS always end with a bride ... the idea is that the clothes are geared to romance and then, hopefully, lead to the altar. Rovira's bride was enchanting in embroidered white batiste with tiered skirt to the floor ... the top tier pulled up over her head to form a headdress.

Spanish Couture is lovely ... and it's one way to live "happily ever after".

ELIO BERHANYER'S rose wool two piece suit, masterfully tailored ... with self tie belt and silk rose at the revere collar ... the skirt with deep center fold.

PEDRO ROVIRA'S spectacular evening costume in printed organza ... the strapless gown with matching ruffled cape.

ROVIRA'S three piece costume in navy and white with wide striped blouse, matching chain belt ... white felt cloche hat and spectator tie oxford shoes.

Flickinger To Study . . .

Recreation, and the National Recreation and Park Association, to be held in Flint, Mich., March 12-14.

There has been an increase in the number of school districts across the country who have developed the community education concept and are providing recreational (as well as medical, educational, social) services.

The Super Seminar will bring outstanding practitioners and educators together (from the three disciplines mentioned above) to develop policy, practice and procedural guidelines for operating recreation programs in a community school setting. Hopefully, the participants will come up with policies and or position papers with national implications that can be carried back to the three associations for implementation.

The purposes at this meeting are to focus on the issues, problems and necessary solutions to better provide community recreation services in community school settings at the local level. There have been a number of serious problems brought to attention surrounding the establishment of community school programs, most of which center around open competition and duplication of services rather than close cooperative efforts.

Flickinger stated "we are in full support of the need to provide recreation services utilizing all available school areas and facilities and have worked for this for many years. This new program can be of tremendous benefit to both fields and, more importantly, better serve the people of these communities throughout the nation." Flickinger hopes to establish further cooperation between the two professions, initiate legislation and promote curriculum revisions in colleges and universities.

Flickinger was the former Director of Parks and Recreation in Bexley (National Gold Medal Grand Award Winner). He was recently nominated and selected to the national honor society, Gamma Sigma Delta, for scholarship achievement.

This week he accepted chairmanship of the Resolution Committee and executive board of the American Parks and Recreation society.

Flickinger lives with this wife and two children in Bexley.

Police Training For Crisis Intervention

Columbus-Director of Public Safety, Bernard T. Chupka announced that the Columbus Division of Police in cooperation with the Columbus Area Community Mental Health Center is initiating a Family Crisis Intervention Unit Program.

The principal objective of this $134,000 federally-funded program is to increase police officers' skills in dealing with family crisis situations by familiarizing officers with the community agencies and resources available to them.

The eighteen-month project is divided into three phases: The first phase will last approximately four months and is designed to familiarize the staff of the Columbus Area Community Mental Health Center with the operation of the Division of Police. Phase I is actually an information-gathering process regarding the development of a training program.

Phase II will consist of the training portion of the program and will involve the selection and training of police officers in the handling of family crisis situations.

Phase III will extend through July of 1975 and will permit an in-depth evaluation of the first two phases and will attempt to measure program effectiveness and improvement in family crisis situation.

The board is confident that the citizens of Whitehall do not want to see further cuts in the quality in their childfren's education and will pass the levy in May. "Cuts are made regretfully," says Peel, "but state laws require that school districts must operate on a balanced budget."

Black Studies 218N
BLACK COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT

Black Community Development focuses on involving students in the search for solutions to problems important to Black people and on strengthening the ties between the University and the Black community. It is a course designed to fuse the collective knowledge of students, instructor and community residents in a theoretical and, more importantly, a practical approach to problem solving. The course is offered under the following broad themes: identifying concerns of the Black community; defining and quantifying concerns of the Black community; organizing and planning action around these concerns; and implementing planned action in and for existing community-based organizations. These themes are carried out by groups of people working together or by individuals. Because the course is offered on a quarterly basis, many students choose to spend time working in familiar problem areas, such as tutoring, non-credit course instruction, and leadership work with youth.

The course format includes two weeks of classroom preparation, and seven weeks of practical field work to solve the problem. A daily report is kept, and each final report and evaluation is bound for the Community Extension Center Library, and a copy forwarded to the appropriate community group.

History 663.02
HISTORY OF TECHNOLOGY IN AMERICA SINCE 1876

This course is the second of a two-part sequence on the role of technology in American life from 1876 to the present. Particular emphasis will be placed on the rise of new technologies—electrification, mass production, automation, atomic energy, electronic communications, and others—and how they have affected the quality of life in the 20th century. Related themes will also be discussed, such as the rise of professional engineering, the relationship between science and technology, Taylorism and the cult of efficiency, the changing meaning of work, the social impact of the automobile, television, rapid transport systems, the military-industrial complex, the environmental consequences of rapid technological change, futurism and others

The main purpose of the course is to develop a historical framework that will enable people to evaluate intelligently and constructively the many problems and issues in the contemporary world which involve man's attempt to control the environment, and to offer some perspective on living in a society which is increasingly affected by technological change

There will be two examinations: a midterm and a final. A critical book review on some aspect of 20th century technology will also be required. However, a student may negotiate a special contract with the instructor for alternative grading options; for example, a long research paper, several short thematic papers, a term project, a number of book reviews or a combination of these options.

Political Science 594B
WOMEN AND THE LAW

Women and the Law provides the student with an opportunity to look at the present social and legal status of women in the United States from a historical perspective. Taught by Prof. Mary Caldwell, the course will explore such topics as the treatment of women as minors, employes and as criminals; the sex-based impediments to the full exercise of political rights by women; and the disabilities of married women. Consideration will also be given to current and proposed legislation on the federal and state levels; executive orders; and judicial decisions relating to women's equality of opportunity in contemporary society. Students' assignments will be a term paper and a one-hour essay examination. The textbook used will be Leo Kanowitz's Women and the Law: The Unfinished Revolution. Additional materials will be provided by the instructor.

German 594N
FROM EXPRESSIONISM TO THE THIRD REICH: GERMAN CULTURE IN LITERATURE AND FILM

During Spring Quarter the German Department will offer for the first time a course which will juxtapose the literature of Expressionism, Kafka, Hesse, Brecht, and others with the showing of nine classic films from the literary periods, to develop a common image of German society and its intellectural currents in the Twenties and early Thirties. The goal is to study and compare the thematic content of filmic art and literature rather than to discuss the aesthetics and technology of the two forms

The films to be shown are: The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari; The Last Laugh; Metropolis; Secrets of a Soul; The Trial; The Blue Angel; The Threepenny Opera; Siegfried's Death (The Nibelungen); and The Triumph of the Will. The literary works to be discussed are the following: Kafka's The Metamorphosis, The Judgment, and In the Penal Colony; Hesse's Demian and Steppenwolf; and Brecht's Baal and The Threepenny Opera.

The class will be taught in English and all interested students are ——.

Natural Resources 510
NATURAL HISTORY OF OHIO

Natural History of Ohio is a field course emphasizing the interrelationship among area geology, soil, flora, fauna and climate in various ecological communities found in Ohio. Field techniques and identification skills are tools used in collecting data for the student's research paper. The course is designed for the student who has a minimal background in ecology and biological sciences. Preservice and inservice elementary and junior high school teachers could especially profit from this introductory, comprehensive course.

Astronomy 150N
DESCRIPTIVE ASTRONOMY

Astronomy is the oldest of the sciences, and primitive man developed a variety of speculations to try to explain the events he saw occurring in the heavens. The basic human curiosity, the need to understand the universe, has continued through the generations, but ideas of what outer space is like have changed dramatically during the last decade, with the revelation of a dynamic and occasionally violent state in the heavens.

Descriptive Astronomy is a non-mathematical course designed to acquaint the non-scientist with the discoveries which have caused such revolutionary thinking. The purpose of the course is to place modern astronomy in its historical perspective and to help the student understand the methods and principles used in interpreting the information received from space. The course should convey to the student what the universe is thought to be as well as the evidence for these conclusions, so that he may evaluate for himself how reasonable the conclusions are.

Art 100H
INTRODUCTION TO FINE ART ACTIVITIES

This course is an initial experience in studio art. It is an investigation of visual form, its perception, development and use. The approach in the course is through drawing, and the principal materials used are charcoal and pencil, and possibly pen and ink.

In the first part of the course, the structure of contemporary Israeli society will be analyzed and consideration will be given to the problems of immigration, acculturation and the various minority groups. In addition, the varied ethnic makeup of the population will be discussed. The remainder of the course will deal with the cultural scene in Israel today. This will encompass such topics as the educational system, research and academic life, the special status of the Hebrew language, major trends in contemporary Hebrew literature, the Israeli press and the arts.

BRICE VENTURES

Win 'Room Of Choice' Contest

EAST COLUMBUS–Ernest E. Early, 1376 Westphal Ave., has been named winner of the Glicks Furniture Show Case East "Room of Your Choice" contest, according to Floyd (Ed) Cohey, store manager. Early and his wife, Lillian, were chosen from among the 30,339 entrants who visited the Furniture Show Case East since the Grand Opening celebration. As winner of the contest, Early and his wife are shown above with Bruce Axner, (center) assistant store manager, and the traditional dining room setting they selected from among one of Glicks 200 completely furnished rooms at Show Case East. Early is employed by Battelle Columbus Laboratories as a technician in the Mechanical Engineering Department. Glicks, with its newest show case located at 2233 S. Hamilton Rd., is the largest retail furniture chain in Columbus. Glicks was proclaimed by "House Beautiful Magazine" in 1973 as the only "Pace Setter" furniture company in Columbus.

his strengths.

Dr. Burke, in collaboration with Yetta M. Goodman, has written and published the system she demonstrated at the in-service sessions. The book is called Reading Miscue Inventory Manual-Procedures For Diagnosis and Evaluation.

One reviewer of the manual calls it "a methodical way to assess a reader's strengths and weaknesses." He points out that the book dispells notions that (1) reading is an exact process and that it is important that the child 'get' every word, and (2) that miscues are of equal value.

The theory gives teachers a whole new way to look at reader errors: reading muscues show what is on the printed page versus what the reader thinks is there. It shows how the reading process works, not how it fails to work-because of them.

For the scores of Whitehall teachers who voluntarily gave up their Friday afternoon and evening and the next morning, the sessions were no doubt "eye-openers."

It is nice to know that mistakes are not all bad, and interesting to note that the human mind is so complex that we are just beginning to understand but a tiny bit of its endless machinations.

Prestige Concerts will present Les Menestriers in Battelle Auditorium Friday, March 8 at 8:30 p.m.

Five modern-day troubadours will sing and play a program of Medieval and Renaissance msuic, using ancient string and wind instruments such as lute, viols, krummhorn and recorders.

Tickets for this final event in the Prestige season are available at regular and student rates.

They may be obtained at University Music House, 4139 North High St. or through Mrs. F. S. Koehl, 1805 Coventry Road, or Mrs. Robert S. Platt, 2006 Coventry Road.

AROUND TOWN

ROLAND SUNKER

Hello To The Community Times

WELL, IT'S goodbye Spectator Newspaper, and hello Community Times Newspaper. As you probably know by now, this is the finale issue of the Spectator Newspaper.

Beginning next week, we will be issuing a brand new newspaper named Community Times. Besides a new name, the newspaper will have a new look.

THIS WILL be the final column of Around Town. With the beginning of Community Times, the entertainment section will be expanded, with a new name. Yours Truly will still be writing the reviews.

So, with the last issue of the Spectator, I thought it might be fun for you and I to reflect over these past six years regarding some of the acts, people and events that we have covered in Around Town.

FIRST, during the time I have been with the Spectator, there has been a great increase in the entertainment business Around Town. We have seen about a dozen new motels-hotels constructed. A host of lounges and restaurants have opened in the area.

People of Columbus and the suburban areas are fortunate to have towns in America for good dining places. According to the trade magazines, a couple of years ago, Columbus had more night life than any other city in the country, except your tourist cities, New York, Miami and such.

I KNOW for a fact that there are more clubs, lounges and restaurants in Columbus than cities such as Cleveland, Cincinnati, Boston, St. Louis and other cities of similar size.

This column has reviewed most of the greats in show business. Bob Hope, Marilyn Maye, Tom Jones, Engelbert Humperdinck, Roy Rogers, and many, many more, plus hundreds and hundreds of top notch lounge acts.

JUST ABOUT every major restaurant in the city has been reviewed in this column.

All kinds of special events have been covered, from beauty contests to the Indianapolis Races.

These past six years have been fun and very interesting. I have sincerely enjoyed bringing to you the news, events and lighthearted gossip of the entertainment business in our area. Beginning next week, there will be even more happenings covered in the entertainment section.

The Community Times and this columnist will constantly endeavor to bring you all of the latest news and reviews regarding the entertainment industry in and around Columbus. Look for us next week, in the all new Community Times.

MEANWHILE, on with this week's business, which includes Peggy Lee, John Byner, Cathy Lee Crosby and Sadie's Stage Door Lounge at the Sheraton Hotel.

Cathy Lee Crosby will star as "Wonder Woman" in ABC-TV - Warner Bros. Production to be seen this Tuesday over WTVN-TV at 8:30 p.m.

Marvelous Is Peggy Lee

GREATNESS prevails this week at the Ohio Theatre in the persons of Peggy Lee and John Byner.

Billed as, "An Evening With Miss Peggy Lee," it's an evening that you will long remember. Peggy Lee is everything you expect of her. Singing as she has for many years, Peggy's silky, smooth sounds remain a joy to hear.

It is an impecable, flawless performance by Peggy Lee. With a program that contains a beautiful blend of the old and the new, Peggy dashes right along, ending every song with a thunderous ovation. Her show includes works from Cole Porter to the Beatles. With a voice that is adaptable to most every type of song, the Peggy Lee treatment was loved by the audience.

DIPPING way back, Peggy gave the audience what they came to hear, many of her hits, such as, "Is That All There Is?," "Manana," "Big Spender," "I'm A Woman," "Fever," and much, much more. She sang them all with the same enthusiasm and classic style that has become legend with Peggy Lee.

A twenty-five piece symphonic orchestra playing extremely fine arrangements and a show that was well paced added to the greatness of Peggy Lee.

Adding humor, comedy and just enough variety to the show is another illustrious performer, John Byner. John closes the first half of the show with his wit, humor, impersonations and impressions. A machine gun type of delivery, along with impersonations of many of the famous show biz people as well as President Nixon, kept the Ohio Theatre filled with waves of laughter. Byner's impersonations are accomplished by sounding very much like the people he is impersonating, plus all of their mannerisms. Add these qualities to his own humor and wit and you end up with a very funny man. That's John Byner. Of course John is funny just performing as John Byner.

A MULTI talended performer, John does a little singing too. In the second half of the show, John sings a few songs with Peggy Lee. If you were not looking, you may have thought it was Donald Duck, Dean Martin, Elvis Prealey singing with Peggy Lee. The audience loved it, and gave John a standing ovation.

With the singing of, "The Party's Over," Peggy Lee closed her show to such loud applause, that it was difficult to hear her. Needless to say that the audience were on their feet at the close and cheering wildly. It took three curtain calls by Peggy Lee before it was all over.

My hats off to Danny Deeds for booking this blockbuster into our town. My personal thanks to Peggy Lee and John Byner for an evening this columnist will long remember. But, don't you feel left out, you still have time to hear the legendary voice of Miss Peggy Lee and to laugh at one of the funniest guys in show business today, John Byner. Today is Wednesday, which gives you today, Thursday, Friday and three performances on Saturday. Tickets are still available.

It has been a long time since I have seen so many people at the Ohio Theatre. They came. They saw. They heard, and were conquered by Peggy and John.

Sadie's Stage Door Is Loaded

WHO said that downtown Columbus is dead, better run down to Sadie's Stage Door Lounge at the Sheraton Motor Hotel. I was amazed at the crowd at Sadie's. It reminded me of the ole days in Columbus. All 130 seats were filled. The rope was across the entrance door, with a line of people waiting to get in.

The "people" waiting to get a seat, were not all hotel guests. Many people in the club and restaurant business, try to tell me that most of the patrons of downtown hotel lounges are registered at the hotel.

NOT TRUE. I saw at least 18 customers whom I knew. I could tell that many more of the patrons were Columbus residents. As one high city official stated to me, "this is just like a Vegas Club." Everyone seemed to know somebody. A lot of Columbus' adult swingers appeared to make Sadie's Stage Door their headquarters.

Personally speaking, I had a ball. It was like old home week for me. From talking with some of the customers, I got the impression it is like this most every night of the week.

The entertainment is good. Nothing unusual, just good, strong, solid entertainment that I run across nightly in my rounds Around Town.

LAST WEEK, the Fantastic Puzzle, an excellent six piece outfit, were appearing. Each member played several instruments. They sounded as if they were a full orchestra. Add first rate vocal work, both solo and harmony, plus top comedy routines, and you ended up with a darn good show group. This is the quality of entertainment booked into Sadie's Stage Door Lounge.

This week's group, and for the next two, is The New Group South. From what I have seen of their publicity, it is another dynamic show group. So, stop in at Sadie's Stage Door of the Sheraton Motor Hotel, be well entertained, and meet all of your friends.

Wonder Woman On The Way

WONDER Woman is coming to television, not as the two dimensional heroine of the comic books, but as a larger than life, adventourous and lighthearted gal who wants more than just a simple conquest over a cadre of criminals.

"Wonder Woman," will be seen this Tuesday, March 12, at 8:30 p.m. over Channel 6, WTVN-TV.

Cathy Lee Crosby is the fun-loving actress who is starring in the Warner Bros. Television's "Wonder Woman," a 90 minute high adventure romp and series pilot for ABC-TV.

"Let's fact it," Cathy said, "an Amazon who is sent out in the world to face the everyday headaches of outsmarting criminals would soon become a drudge if she couldn't have a few laughs. "Wonder Woman" is a wonder largely because she has a sense of humor that adds style to her exploits.

TAKE IT from me, the dialogue is humorous, the various scenes and bits are sure fire humor.

Cathy Lee Crosby is a relative newcomer to show business, but she has already made her mark. Her career began only 16 months ago, when she won, by audition, a guest starring role in a "Marcus Welby," episode. She's appeared in five TV series, all guest starring roles, and two movies. Both of the movies were for Fox. The first, "Call Me By My Rightful Name," starring Don Murray and Otis Young, which has been released, but not shown here yet, and the other "The Laughing Policeman," with Walter Matthau and Bruce Dern.

Mrs. Linda Harris, 3891 Eakin Road, Columbus, was a recent co-host on "The All Night Theatre" with Jerry Beck, Mrs. Harris' appearance on the program was the result of her letter to TV-4 saying why she should become a co-host. Watch "The All Night Theatre" each Saturday evening at 11:30 p.m. Pictured from left: Chicken, Beck and Mrs. Harris.

Courage Best Describes '74 Easter Seal Child

WHAT ARE little girls made of?

In the case of Shelley Guenin, the 1974 East Seal Child, it is the traditional sugar and spice and everything nice–plus! When you describe this pretty little child, you have to add some other key words such as: courage, determination and independence.

The four-year-old is the daughter of Mrs. Pamela Kurstedt and Richard Guenin.

SHE WAS chosen by the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children to be the poster child for the 1974 Easter Seal campaign which is scheduled for March 1 to April 14.

Shelley will represent 120 handicapped boys and girls who attend the Society's treatment center at 565 Children's Drive West, for therapy, pre-schooling and recreation.

THE WORDS courage, determination and independence are necessary to use when describing Shelley for they are part of her personality and her outlook on life.

Shelley was born with spina bifida (a birth defect) which causes damage to the central nervous system and results in a loss of muscle control in her legs. She must wear double long leg braces and use crutches to get around.

BUT SHE really does get around! Shelley's mother reports that her daughter engages in many physical activities. While some of them may be somewhat modified, Shelley can swim, dance, play football, basketball, and even go horseback riding.

She has also joined her family in camping and mountain climbing. "Shelley is an example of strength and determination and at the same time is flexible and affectionate," her mother says.

"She does not consider herself 'different' and we do not promote that thought. She does realize that she walks differently but that does not hinder her progress nor does it handicap her.

IT JUST means she works a little harder to get the job done. She has already overcome many aspects of her handicap at the age of 4. We are very proud of her many accomplishments."

Shelley's condition at birth made several serious operations necessary when she was still very young.

During the many weeks she was in the hospital she made quite a few friends.

"SHELLEY is always glad to see her doctors, therapists and other people who help her achieve greater goals," her mother continued.

WITH THE combined efforts of the physical therapist at the center giving Shelley strengthening exercises and gait training and her mother at home continuing the same therapy treatment, she was walking with a walker at the age of 2 and with Canadian crutches at the age of 3.

Shelley is still receiving physical therapy at the center.

SHE IS perfecting her sya-hand coordination through puzzles and cutting; is learning her numbers and colors, and is engaged in reading readiness activities.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD Shelley Guenin has been chosen to be the 1974 Easter Seal Child for the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children. She will represent all the 120 pre-school handicapped children who attend the Society's treatment center during the March 1 to April 14 fund raising campaign.

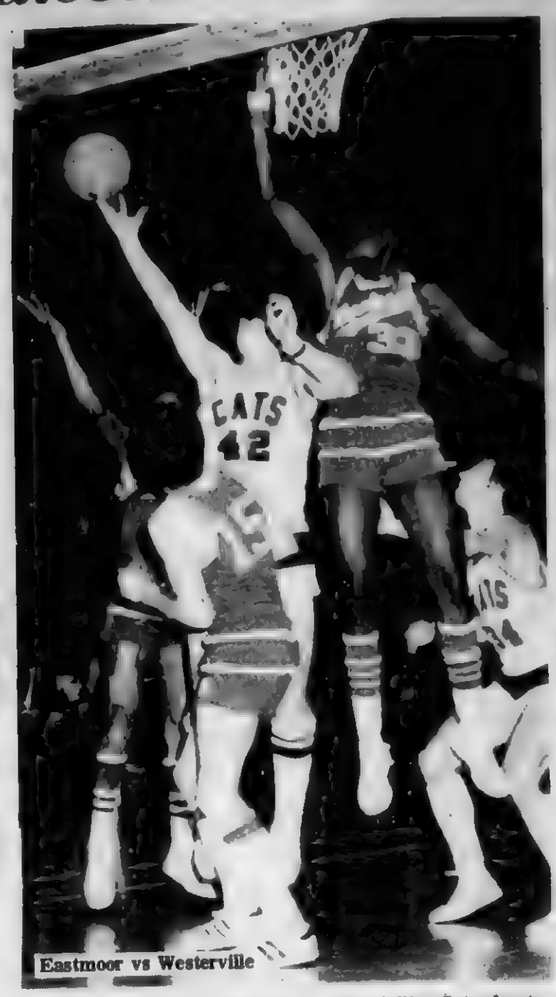
Fighting Falcons Will Test Mt. Vernon Jacket's Buzzing

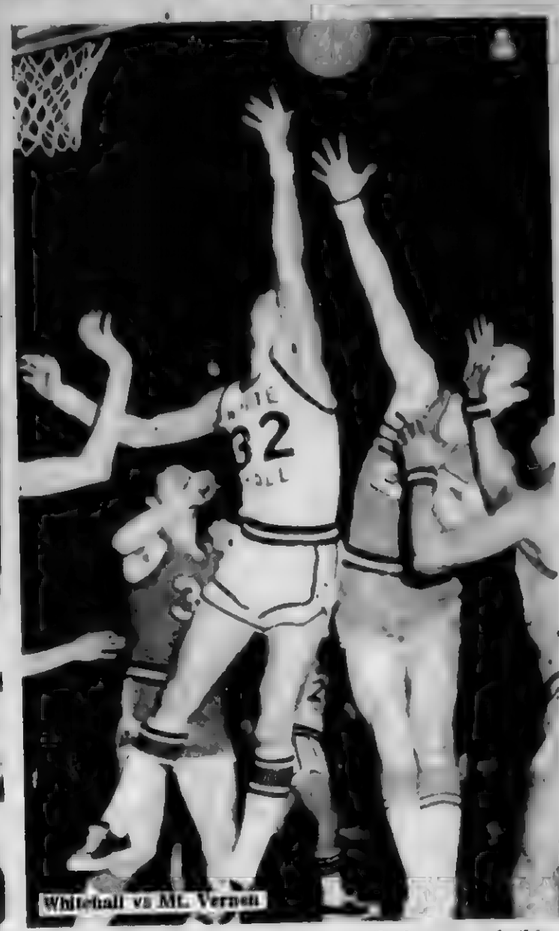
Eastmoor vs Westerville

A DESPARATE attempt by Westerville's Ed Calo (22), on the floor, wasn't enough to stop this basket by Eastmoor's Robert Pounds (33) as Eastmoor handled the Cats 89-59 in Class AAA action. Cats are Tony Staten (42) and Ken Holmes (44). (Eastmoor-Westerville photos by Ed Kiernan).



Eastmoor vs Westerville

THE WARRIORS of Eastmoor, before falling Saturday to the onslaught of Columbus city-co-champs Northland, really poured it on the Wildcats of Westerville. Here's a blocked shot that went back to a Cat. Eastmoor's Robert Pounds (33) was the tapper while Jody Hurt (15) stands by. Cats are Tony Staten (42) and Rick Lakeman (34).



Whitehall vs Mt. Vernon

Reynoldsburg vs. East

THE DAZZLING Bob Beasley (35) was almost too hot to handle for East's all-city Hilton Hale as he leaped for this two-pointer in the Raiders outstanding effort against the strong Tigers. Raiders lost by six points. (Reynoldsburg-East photo by Ed Kiernan.)

IT'LL BE David and Goliath tangling for the District AAA basketball championship Saturday at high noon at the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Mt. Vernon, first seeded in this upset branded Central District will be the favorite while its opponent, the team that is not suppose to be there will be the fighting Falcons from Falcon Heights.

A SMACK DAB in the middle finisher in the not so reputable Metro League, these wild and exciting Falcons have made believers out of most and will try to turn the trick one more time when they meet the Ohio Capital Conference co-champions Saturday.

CITY LEAGUERS Brookhaven and Northland clash at 3:30 for the other district crown. Jud Wood will try to lead first seeded Northland while Lamar Daniels and last second hero Jeff Pearcy will trigger the Bearcat charge.

NEVER A tournament victory to its credit, Franklin Heights shocked high riding Central for sectional honors and spilled Gahanna to gain this District berth.

And how does youthful Falcon boss Bruce Brown and his ball control quintet feel about this tourney shot?

"It's a great thrill but we don't just want to be a spectator. A lot of planning has gone into this season. This has been a goal of ours from the beginning of the year."

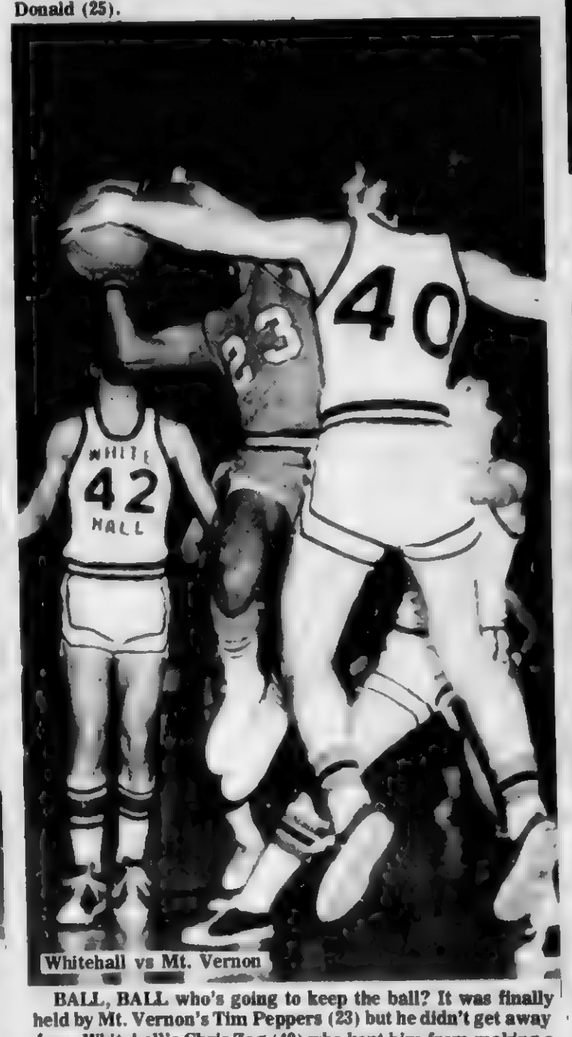
LARRY FERST has been the main cog in this now smooth functioning machine but Coach Brown is quick to credit the point work of Cameron Harmon and the inside work of Ron Lathem.

Ferst has cracked the 50 point mark in his two tourney appearances and was the main come-through man in the clutch against Central. Brown also lauded the play of Jim Wood, Gary Jordan and Mike Blount the only senior of this crew.

In A action tonight, St. Charles will face Bloom Carroll at the Fairgrounds Coliseum as St. Charles tries to extend its 12 game win skein.

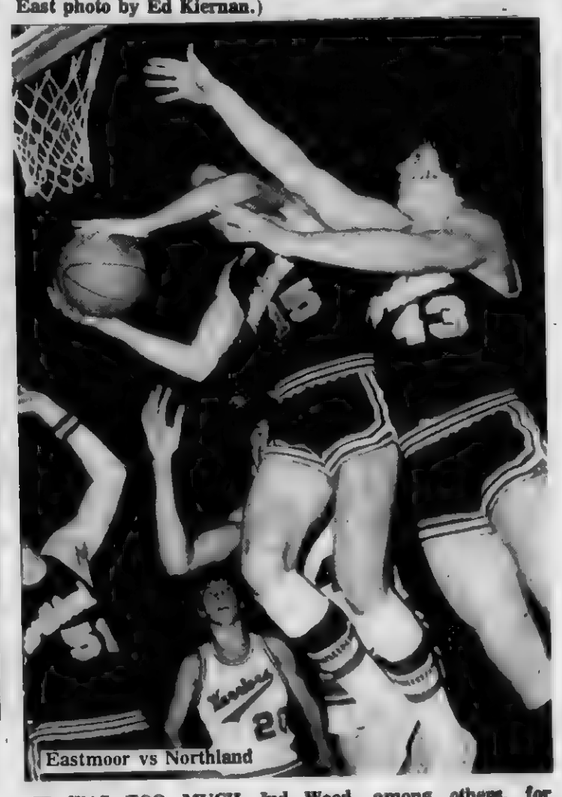
Whitehall vs Mt. Vernon

THE CO-CHAMPS of the Ohio Capital Conference replayed a game for the third time with the Yellow Jackets ousting the Rams from the Class AAA tourney after losing twice to the Rams in regular season play. Terrry Burris (42) got past two Mt. Vernon defenders to lay in this two-pointer. Other Rams in white are Bill Besalski (30) and Steve Marinello (32). Jacket defenders are Brad Coon (31) and Mike Kelly (45).



Whitehall vs Mt. Vernon

BALL, BALL who's going to keep the ball? It was finally held by Mt. Vernon's Tim Peppers (23) but he didn't get away from Whitehall's Chris Zag (40) who kept him from making a shot. That's the Rams' Terry Burris (42) in the background. (Whitehall-Mt. Vernon photos by Ed Kiernan).



Eastmoor vs Northland

IT WAS TOO MUCH Jud Wood, among others, for Eastmoor's Warriors as they fell in the Class AAA District cage tourney to Columbus city co-champs Northland. The Vikings' outstanding board play and all-around aggressiveness was Eastmoor's downfall. In this rebound under Eastmoor's basket Northland's Jud Wood (15) came up with the ball protected by Doug Smith (43) and Jim Toney (51). That's Eastmoor's Esmond Flood (28) looking on. (Photo by Dan Unkefer.)

Reynoldsburg vs East

IT WAS TIGHT SQUEEZE for Reynoldsburg's Marc Wade, left, as he tried to get away with this ball from East players Keith Harris (54), Esmond Flood (28), Hilton Hale (40), Terry Jameson (50) and Mike Hall (44). At right is the Raiders' Bob Beasley. East downed the Raiders to eliminate them from the tourney.

Mike Smith Is Capital Swimmer

Eastmoor High 1971 graduate Mike Smith is a member of the Capital University swim team this winter. A senior general studies major, Mike performs as a freestyler.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Smith, 9475 Northchester Dr., Pickerington.

BICYCLING

Bike riding is fun, but it's serious business, says Fred Vierow, acting director of the Ohio Department of Highway Safety. By law, the bicycle is regarded as a car or other motor vehicle. Bicyclists must know and observe the laws of the road.

Your contribution to the Easter Seal Society will provide important services for crippled children to help them overcome their handicaps.

COMPASSION and the desire to help others are natural human traits. And giving to worthwile causes such as Easter Seals is one way to fulfill these natural impulses.

You can take personal satisfaction inknowing that your donation is doing for handicapped persons what you, yourself, can perhaps not do–helping them to lead more nearly normal lives.

HERE ARE some of the ways your dollars will help: The Franklin County Society for Crippled Children helps close to a thousand crippled persons year at its treatment center. Services are designed to meet local needs, treating children with such disabilities as cerebral palsy, spina bifida, amputation, post accident, and other birth defects and handicaps.

In addition to direct treatment, the Society gives pre-school education, operates resident and day camps, provides equipment loans and aids, has referral services and parent and professional education and information.

SO WHEN you open your Easter Seal envelope this year – remember that handicapped child you saw and give generously. You'll feel a lot better the next time yousee a handicapped person, because you'll know your donation is helping the Easter Seal Society in its fight against crippling.

If you're male, 18 or over, I'm sure you know that there's no more draft. But here's something you may not know, you still have to register with the selective service system.

You must register when you're 18. It's required by law. Don't worry, though by law, no one is being inducted.

So register, keep your local board advised of any change of address and carry your registration card with you at all times, that's the law.

It's up to you to register. Con't forget it!

Capital Regents Approve Tuition, Board Increase

Capital University's Board of Regents has approved an increase in tuition, room and board, effective with the 1974-75 academic year.

Tuition will increase $145 to a total of $2,495 a year; room was increased $15 and board upped $ 50 to a total package of $1,160 for the year.

Capital President Thomas H. Langevin said the increases were necessary in the face of spiraling inflationary costs.

He added that the new fees reflect only a portion of the higher costs resulting from inflation and that the remainder must come fromgreater economies and controlled spending on a campus-wide basis.

In other action, the board accepted the university's plan for extended intervisitation hours in campus dormitories.

Official hours now are from noon until midnight weekdays, and from noon until 2 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays.

The regents also were informed of the administrative response to a proposed policy on coed housing which was submitted by students earlier in the school year.
